BRODHEAD LIKELY TO GET TAX BERTH

Favorite Among Twenty Candidates For the Place Andrews' Retirement Will Create.

REVILLE IS SECOND CHOICE

Elizabeth Democrats Concede Plainfield's Right to the Plum, and Will Be Solaced With Appointment to the Board Secretaryship.

While candidates for the appointment to the county tax board are exceedingly numerous throughout the county, former Assemblyman Calvin E. Brodhead seems to be leading the race. With many of those who have been actively seeking the position as well as those well informed politically, Mr. Brodhead is conceded to be the strongest candidate.

The name of the successful aspirant will be presented to the Senate for confirmation by Governor Wilson before April 1, unless the present incumbent, F. H. Andrews, is allowed to hold over for a time.

The applicants now number twenty-one, it is said, with Elizabeth and Plainfield represented to the greatest extent. The appointment will go to a Plainfield man, however, it is believed by most of those interested in the situation.

With Plainfield securing the appointment, the secretaryship will remain for Elizabeth, and it may serve as somewhat of a consolation prize for the best favored Elizabeth Democrat in the quest for the appointment as commissioner. That former Assemblyman Hugh J. McLoughlin is regarded by the Governor with probably as much favor as Brodhead, is also known, and his name has been persistently mentioned within the last few days as the likely secretary of the new board.

Councilman Patrick J. Reville has been waging a vigorous campaign for appointment to the board. Next to the former Assemblymen, he probably leads. Robert D. Gibby, of Rahway, who was a member and clerk of the tax board legislated out of existence in that city over a year ago, has admittedly abandoned hope of appointment to the county board.

The position is now worth $1,500 a year, the salary having been increased a year ago. The secretaryship pays $1,200 a year.

PLANS FOR POWER PLANT AT BONNIE BURN READY

The plans for the power house and electric light equipment for the Union County Tuberculosis Farm at New Providence, have just been completed and will be advertised for bids in a few days. The contract was let a few weeks ago for six of the buildings, comprising part of this institution and during the favorable weather in December the work was pushed rapidly with the result that the contractors, Metzger & Wells, of Philadelphia, have five of the buildings ready for roofing and the sixth building about half raised. It is the intention of the architects to have the entire institution ready for use by this summer.

When completed the institution which will be known as the Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, will have accommodations for from seventy-five to one hundred patients, and by the building of a few additional wards one hundred and fifty patients may be provided for.

The buildings under construction are four ward buildings which will be of frame construction and shingled. The fifth building is a home for the nurses, and the sixth will be the administration building. The administration building has two frame wings with a brick stuccoed main part. The roofs of the various buildings are to be red tile.

A large force of men are working on the new sanatorium and more men will be put to work in a few days.

Tidewater System Couldn't be Constructed for Less Than Million,---Moy Fears Opposition Will Force Use of Old Plant, Enlarged.

The members of the Plainfield and North Plainfield Councils, together with a number of other interested citizens of both municipalities, met in the Common Council rooms last night, to receive the report on joint trunk sewer and sewage disposal works for the city and borough, with maps, surveys and estimated cost of construction and maintenance, prepared by George W. Fuller, sanitary engineer.

Mr. Fuller read the report. It was discussed somewhat in detail, but action on it was deferred by the Council until Monday night. The Borough Council will act on the report tomorrow night at its regular meeting.

The estimated cost of construction of the trunk sewer and the sewage disposal works, exclusive of land and rights of way, based on Mr. Fuller's survey, will be $328,650, or approximately $60,000 more than estimated by Alexander Gilbert at the first sewer conference. The increased cost, Mr. Fuller explains, would be for a heavy excavation made necessary by going to the Cramer farm, the whole report being based on the use of that site.

Of the above amount, $120,658 would be for the joint trunk sewer west of Rock avenue and for the effluent pipe to below Sebring's mill; while the remaining $207,992 would be for the disposal works. Briefly the increased cost, according to Mr. Fuller, is due to the fact that the size of the plant is one-sixth larger in capacity, than previously planned; the style of settling tanks of the Imhoff type is more expensive, these two-story tanks are patented and a license fee of $2,000 is included; the depth of excavation is more than was expected; all sludge will have to be pumped, requiring two small pump houses; the price of stone was formerly taken at $1.75 per cubic yard, and Mr. Fuller says to get it at $2 would probably require the opening of a quarry on the Cramer farm or vicinity.

The report describes the Cramer farm as comprising 55 acres with a frontage of about 750 feet on Greenbrook road. The western property line measures along Greenbrook road approximately 3,000 feet from Sebring's mill. The plans call for a trunk sewer 42 inches in diameter, giving it a capacity when running full of about 16,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours. This would serve a population of about 80,000.

The disposal works shown on the Cramer farm are for a present population of about 40,000 and provision is made for increasing the plant to care for a growth in population up to 80,000. The disposal works would comprise a preliminary settling basin with a two-story Imhoff tank, the tank to be built of concrete and steel; the sprinkling filter and dosing apparatus; a final settling tank of concrete; a sludge-drying bed of an area of about 13,000 square feet.

The filtered and settled sewage, as it leaves the final settling basin, would flow through a 42 inch concrete pipe into Green brook at a point about 450 feet below Sebring's mill on the lower Warrenville road. To operate and maintain these disposal works with the joint sewers it is estimated that an annual amount of $3,800 would be required.

Provision is also made to include Fanwood and Scotch Plains, if desired, in the trunk sewer, of course, at an additional expense to be borne by those communities.

After the reading of the report, Mayor G. W. V. Moy was invited to speak concerning the recent conference at Dunellen. He explained that prior to that conference he had been informed that Dunellen would not oppose the Cramer site for the disposal works, but the conference developed a decided opposition.

A few days ago, he said, a special committee from the Common Council had a conference with representatives from Dunellen and the latter stated that they would not consent to the use of the Cramer farm under any consideration. They did favor the Zvolenck site.

Continuing, Mr. Moy said that inasmuch as Dunellen opposes the Cramer site, Bound Brook is opposed to the Zvolenck site and Mr. Fuller has said that the tidewater plan is not feasible, it would appear that the only way to solve the problem is to enlarge the present sewage beds as originally planned, unless all of the interested communities get together and secure the Zvolenck farm as a site. Rather than have Plainfield enlarge its present beds, Dunellen might finally consent to the use of the Cramer site.

Mr. Fuller explained that there would be objection to the Zvolenck farm as a site, although he admitted it has advantages over the Cramer farm. He recalled the opposition of the Watchung Water Company to the Zvolenck farm, offering possible contamination of the water supply.

COMMISSION IDEA GROWING STRONGER

Spread of Sentiment In Its Favor Indicated by Bills at Trenton.

FOUR AIM TO EXTEND PLAN

The Measure Would Enable Townships and Villages to Enjoy the New Form of Administration—Seek Hudson and Essex Reform.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

Trenton, Feb. 1.—That commission government is growing in favor in this State as a means of curing municipal shortcomings is shown by the fact that eight bills on the subject have been introduced into this session of the Legislature. Four of the measures aim to extend the commission form of government to counties through small boards of freeholders and the other four are bills for commission government in cities. One bill has already passed the Senate and another has been reported in the House.

One of the county bills is Assembly No. 37, by Assemblyman Gill, of this city. This provides a small board of freeholders for every county in the State. It is a direct act without any referendum. The bill does not apply in any way to those counties which have adopted the small boards under the Strong act of 1902.

Assemblyman Gill has another bill, House 103, regulating the election for commissioners and permitting the voter to express first, second and other choice as to candidates. This bill was reported Tuesday and is ready for second reading.

The Walsh commission government act is applied to townships and villages in an amendment proposed by Assemblyman Watson, of Passaic county. This bill is in the keeping of the Committee on Revision of Laws. Assemblyman Godfrey, of Atlantic, has in a bill amending the Walsh act by striking out the salary limit in cities of less than 500 population.

Senator Fielder's bill giving Hudson and Essex counties boards of freeholders of nine members and aimed at the abuses in the present government in Hudson county, has passed the Senate but will meet with opposition in the Assembly. The opposition will come from the friends of the present freeholders and officials of the county, who will do their best to defeat this bill.

Senator Johnson, of Bergen county, has introduced a bill to give his county a small board of freeholders. It makes the Strong act apply to Bergen county directly, by striking out the referendum as far this county is concerned. This measure is aimed at abuses in the county government. As was the case in Hudson, this county government was recently investigated and many sensational revelations were made showing the need of reform.

Assemblyman Hennessy, of Bergen, has introduced a bill to abolish the Boards of Freeholders in second class counties and given them a governing commission of five members for three years, subject to the recall. The bill also provides for the initiative and referendum as applied to county government. This bill has not yet been reported.

TROLLEY CAR HITS WAGON DRIVER SLIGHTLY HURT

A wagon belonging to John Keely, a general contractor, driven by John Francisco, of West Second street, was struck by a trolley car at East Fifth street and Franklin place, this morning. Francisco was thrown out and badly bruised.

The accident occurred at 6:30 o'clock. The car hit the wagon solidly, and Francisco struck the roadway in a heap. He seemed seriously hurt when picked up, and the ambulance was called.

At the hospital examination failed to disclose any indication of broken bones or other serious injury. The doctors finally decided that a slight shock and bruises were the extent of his hurts.

BIG MINSTREL SHOW IS TO BE ARRANGED BY ELKS

At the regular meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., last night preliminary arrangements were made for the holding of the organization's annual minstrel show. It will take place in the Plainfield theatre the latter part of March and rehearsals will be commenced next week. It is probable that Harry Wetton, of Roselle, who has handled the music in other years, will again serve in the capacity of coach.

Exalted Ruler Bellis appointed the following committee to complete all arrangements: John H. Cose, chairman; John V. Todd, Joseph C. Martin, A. C. Lohrman, Harry N. Blimm, S. P. T. Wilbur and Henry W. Weber. They held a conference last night, at which plans were discussed. While none of them have been announced as yet, it is understood that the 1912 show will eclipse all local efforts. The lodge has some splendid new material to select from and with the old and tried talent a crackerjack performance is a certainty.

MANY HISTORIC SIGHTS FOR PRESS TOURISTS

HER BRIDAL GOWN AN ANTIQUE SHAWL

CEREMONY AT THE HOUSE

Performed By Rev. Father Miller, of St. Joseph's Church—Reception Follows Service—Honeymoon Will Be Spent in Florida.

Miss Helen Ray Hooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, and Edward Power Sharretts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus S. Sharretts, of West Seventh street, were married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. William H. Miller, pastor of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, performed the ceremony. There were about one hundred guests at the ceremony and the reception, which followed.

The bride wore a gown made of an embroidered silk shawl, an heirloom, trimmed with duchess and rose point lace. The veil was also of duchess and rose point lace. The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids. Mrs. Brown Rolston, sister of the bride, who was the matron of honor, wore a green satin gown, trimmed with Irish lace and she carried brown orchids and mignonettes. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The best man was Ellery A. Man, of New York. As the bridal party proceeded from the upper floor to the large parlors, where the ceremony was performed, the wedding march was rendered by an orchestra.

Following the ceremony there was a reception during which the bride and groom received the congratulations of the guests and supper was served. Later the couple left for Florida, where the honeymoon will be spent. Upon their return they will reside with the bride's parents for a time.

The decorations by Stanley were attractive. At the corner of the drawing room, there was an arbor of palms, and from that point to the staircase there was an aisle on either side of which were Easter lilies, while the staircase was heavily banked with lilies. Pink roses and carnations were used in the drawing room, white roses in the dining-room and pink roses in the library.

The bride received a large collection of costly gifts. She is president here in the younger society set and like her sister, Mrs. Rolston, has always been fond of athletics and with her sister has appeared as spectator and exhibitor at the Plainfield and New York horse shows. She is a member of the Plainfield Country Club, the Park Golf Club and the Park Club.

Mr. Sharretts, who lived in Baltimore, prior to three years ago, when he removed to this city, is a graduate of Yale, class '05, and is now engaged in the practice of law in New York city.

The Plainfield Daily Press Eight Weeks European Tour Contest for young women, and to win one of the trips offered, it is only necessary to read over the rules as set forth in thepage adv. in this issue of the Daily Press, and determine what district you are in. You may nominate yourself, or have a friend nominate you on the nomination blank which appears elsewhere in this issue, or by telephoning or by letter, or by calling on the Tour Manager and registering your name as a candidate. Then ask the manager to explain anything that is not clear to you and receive subscription blanks, folders, etc., with which to get votes and subscriptions. There is a vote coupon published in each issue of the paper, which when neatly cut out and sent in within the time limit, will count for five votes for the candidate whose names appears thereon.

Enter your name and win one of these valuable tours. Start early. Do it today.

What person, young or old, man or woman, does not long at some time or another to visit foreign lands, visiting the scenes which became historical when this nation was in its infancy, or had not even been discovered? Who does not long for a chance to visit the Tower of London, there to see the thousands of relics of the days of the early kings and queens of England, and to have revived the stories which have been read at one time or another in the history books? The value of the exhibits in the Tower, and their worth as reminders of the years gone by, is so great that the "Beefeaters," as the guards are known, have become famous the world over.

A chance to see all of these kings and many others in London, including the Houses of Parliament, British Museum, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, National Gallery, the Parks, Thames Embankment, is before the hundreds of young women of Plainfield entirely because of the initiative of the Plainfield Daily Press. All that will be required on the part of those who wish to visit these historic sights and many others will be a little hustle for votes in the contest which this newspaper has originated to send five of the young women from Plainfield and vicinity on an eight weeks' trip abroad accompanied by a chaperone, who will be selected by the young women getting the highest number of votes of all who compete. The conditions have so thoroughly been made known during the past few days that it will not be necessary to repeat them here but they will be found in an advertisement of the contest which appears elsewhere in today's paper.

Nominations have begun to flood into the office. In every mail there are several, the largest number coming at one time having been eighteen. Prospective contestants have visited the office to ask about the plans, and a large number of friends and relatives have also called to inquire. The one thing which appeals to all of the splendid type of young women who have been nominated is that throughout the entire tour they will be under the guiding wing of the capable employes of one company, Thomas Cook and Sons, whose organization covers every place that it is possible for the tourists to stop at in their eight weeks' trip. The organization is such that should anything happen to the conductor of the party, such as sickness or death, another must still be in the same city to step into his place and continue the tour without a moments delay.

The fact that these tours will not begin until after school closes appeals especially to many local teachers, both in the city and country districts. They realize that nothing would be more delightful, and at the same time provide recreation and education, to such a great degree as an ocean voyage, followed by weeks of sight-seeing in foreign lands. It would not only be restful after the arduous and confining work of the winter, but would add greatly to one's store of knowledge, and help in future advancement.

The ballot, good for five votes, is appearing in each issue of the Daily Press. Clip it out and save it, to be voted when the ballot box is in place, which time will be announced tomorrow, and after which the voting will begin. The votes will be allowed to accumulate in the ballot box for a few days before being counted and published, in order to give all an equal chance at the start, in accordance with the guarantee of a square deal, which stands behind every move on the part of the Daily Press, past, present and future. Those desiring to enter and compete for one of these great vacation tours will do well to get an early start, for the old

CALL DR. STRONG TO THE PASTORATE

First Baptist Church Wants the Stated Supply to Fill the Pulpit Permanently.

ASSURANCE OF ACCEPTANCE

He will Succeed Dr. Chambliss, Who Retired Last Year—Trustees Considered Seventy Ministers Before Deciding on Their Choice.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, who has been the stated supply at the First Baptist church for the past two months, has been called to the pastorate of the church for a period of two years. The call was extended to him at a business meeting of the church, last night, in accordance with the recommendations of a special committee of which Charles W. McCutchen was the chairman.

It was stated last night that the committee had the assurance of Dr. Strong that he would accept. Dr. Strong is out of town today.

Announcement that a call had been extended to Dr. Strong and that he would accept was received with much satisfaction. Warm words of praise for the excellent work of Dr. Strong during his stay here were spoken by various members of the church present. It being generally understood that action was to be taken with respect to a call, there was a large attendance of members of the church and congregation. Dr. Strong was not present. He will not return to Plainfield until Saturday.

In presenting the recommendations of the committee, Mr. McCutchen said that since Dr. Chambliss resigned as pastor, a list of about seventy men eligible for the pastorate had been considered and that the committee had heard about forty ministers preach, men who were considered as possibilities. This, he said, Mr. McCutchen said, had convinced that the First Baptist church could not do better than call Dr. Strong throughout the State and elsewhere.

Recently, the committee was convinced that the members of the church had been singularly drawn to Dr. Strong and seemed to be a unit in its desire that he become the pastor of the church. In view of this strong sentiment the committee had unanimously decided to extend the call. Mr. McCutchen said that the committee had visited Kingston, N. Y., where Dr. Strong had been a pastor at the Baptist church for thirteen years.

The committee interviewed officers and members of the church, as well as prominent men of Kingston, and spoke in the highest terms of Dr. Strong. The one expression of the members of the church was that they sincerely regretted that Dr. Strong had severed his relations with the church.

Dr. Strong has an enviable reputation as a preacher, pastor and especially as a student and teacher of the Bible. He is also an author of note and possess a decided poetic talent. As a preacher he uses no notes in the pulpit, even reciting the Scripture lessons from memory. During the past two months he has aroused considerable interest among the members and others who attend the services, the Sunday night services being especially large. It is expected that Dr. Strong will continue his ministry here without interruption.

Dr. Strong was born at LeRoy, N. Y., fifty-one years ago last August. He was maried twenty-six years ago to Miss Minnie Clark, of Eaton, N. Y. Mrs. Strong died July 2 1910, at Kingston, N. Y., and at the close of that year Dr. Strong resigned his pastorate. Since that time he had an urgent call to the Fort Washington Baptist church, in New York, which he declined. His pastorates in their order follow: Bristol, Vt., Malone, N. Y., Little Falls, N. Y., Brooklyn, two years, and Kingston, N. Y., thirteen years.

Judicious Advertising

The most interesting thing to an advertiser is to know WHO READS the publication—who will see the message he prepares with such care. Are the subscribers and readers persons who will not only be interested in the message, but will be able and willing to BUY what he offers for sale? Because unless this be the case it is foolishness for an advertiser to spend time and money in sowing seed on unfertile ground.

This editorial in the current issue of Judicious Advertising is right. The advertiser does not want to talk to ALL classes. He wants to talk to the BUYING classes; that's what he pays for.

Because the circulation of the

The Paper That Has the Confidence of the People

Hospitals No Longer Used Only In Dire Cases

Public opinion with regard to hospitals and hospital service has changed radically within the last few years. Even a decade ago the average person was taken to a hospital only as a last resort after every effort of home treatment, plus the occasional call of the family physician, had failed to accomplish desired results. Today the fact is becoming more widely recognized that the modern hospital is exactly the place where the sick or injured can obtain the best possible medical and surgical attention, the most intelligent nursing and the food best suited to their individual needs.

In short, unless the home is large enough and the finances sufficient to turn an entire floor over into a hospital, with doctors and nurses constantly in attendance, anyone who is at all seriously afflicted greatly improves their chance for rapid convalescence by at once entering a modern hospital. Muhlenberg has had an enviable record through years for the successful treatment of many difficult cases. Not only are the gentlemen who compose the medical and surgical staffs of the institution practitioners of the highest standing, but the list of non-resident consulting physicians and surgeons includes the names of those who stand practically at the head of their profession throughout the country.

Not infrequently specialists of national reputation are called in consultation at Muhlenberg Hospital and the reputation of the institution as one of the best of the smaller hospitals in the East is much more far reaching than the average citizen imagines. Mrs. Frances A. Worrall, R. N., Superintendent of Nurses, has had years of successful experience in hospital work and came to Plainfield after having occupied a similar position in Camden, N. J. Both Miss Mary E. Cardwell and Miss Mary G. Atkinson, respectively day and night supervising nurses, are well equipped for their work and enjoy the confidence of the hospital staff and of their associates in the institution itself.

The advantages of a training school for nurses in connection with such a hospital as Muhlenberg are not generally appreciated. Not only are the young women of such a school invaluable to the physicians and surgeons in time of sudden public calamity, but were it not for them it would be practically impossible to do the ordinary work of the hospital without so largely increasing the necessary expense as to make the cost practically prohibitive in many instances. No hospital in a city the size of Plainfield could afford to employ graduate nurses only in its ward work and pay them the salary which their experience would entitle them to receive. It can be said for the Muhlenberg training school that those who hold its diploma for three years faithful service are very highly considered in the leading hospitals of New York and Philadelphia, where the mere fact that they are Muhlenberg nurses is sufficient to gain a cordial reception for them on any case to which they may be called.

Automatically, with the growth of the city, the demands of Muhlenberg have increased with the years. The record of services gratuitously rendered by the leading physicians and surgeons of Plainfield is indeed an enviable one. The faithful attention to their often arduous duties on the part of the nurses entitles them to the greatest respect. Without the splendid assistance of men and women who have served on governing boards and auxiliary committees the institution could not have gained its present position. But Muhlenberg today with its record of work well done stands in need of money. It is by no means overlooked that responses to former requests for hospital aid have been liberal. But a real crisis in the affairs of the institution is at hand. Either funds will be forthcoming to very materially increase the efficiency of the hospital or the steadily increasing demands made upon it by the public can be met only in part. Muhlenberg was established and is maintained for the benefit of everyone. You who read these lines do not know at what moment one of those near and dear to you may require such services as only a hospital can give. The campaign soon to be launched for greatly increasing the funds, and at the same time the opportunity for good of this splendid institution is of direct interest to you. By contributing as liberally as your means will permit, you not only aid your less fortunate neighbor, but yourself. Whatever your circumstance, give something. The campaign is city-wide. The occasion is urgent. The final result rests to no small degree upon the effort you individually put forth to make the undertaking a splendid success. In the language of one of Plainfield's best known citizens you should "give 'till it hurts." You can find no more worthy cause.

COLD-STORAGE PRODUCTS MAY CUT LIVING COSTS

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 1.—The State Board of Health has started a movement to cut down the high cost of living by adopting a resolution calling the attention of owners of foods stored in cold storage warehouses that the ten-month limit expires this month, and that they must dispose of this stuff without loss of time.

The following statement was issued:

"We are led to believe, from the results of our own investigations and from statements made to us by representatives of the cold-storage industry, that the amount of foods held in storage on January 1, in this State, is considerably less this year than for several years past, and this is particularly true with respect to eggs and poultry. While the figures for poultry are large, these figures represent principally lots which have only been in storage for a short time.

The cold-storage law does not go into full effect in this State until February 21, on which date the ten months' limit fixed by the act beyond which foods may not be stored without the permission of the State Board of Health will have elapsed. Our investigations show that while the amount of food which has been held in cold storage for longer than ten months is comparatively very small, yet some few articles have been so held.

Table showing the quantity of foods held in cold storage in the State outside of Hudson county on January 1, 1912:

MURDER VERDICT DAZES THE JUDGE

MacFarland Found Guilty by Newark Jury.

MAY GO TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

After Deliberating Twelve Hours Jury Decides Accused Man Planned to Kill Wife by "Switching" Poison to Bromide Bottle—Other Woman In Case.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 1.—The jury in the case of Allison MacFarland brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree after a deliberation of more than twelve hours.

It took Chief Justice Gummere about half an hour to reach the courthouse, and then the jury was lined up before him. MacFarland, with two court officers; Andrew MacFarland, the accused man's aged uncle; the prosecutor and MacFarland's attorney were the only ones in the room.

"Have you reached a verdict?" asked Clerk George Maher.

"We have. Murder in the first degree," replied Lawrence Hooper, foreman of the jury.

MacFarland, shackled to the court constables, was led from the room. As he passed his white haired uncle he smiled. He showed no trace of emotion. The jury filed out and Justice Gummere sat on the bench as though dazed. It was several mintes before he left his seat, and the few spectators in the courtroom were permitted to leave.

Allison MacFarland was found guilty of causing the death of his wife Evelyn, who drank cyanide of potassium on the night of Oct. 17. MacFarland admitted that he had brought the poison to the house and had placed it in a bromide bottle. The jury found that he did so with intent to cause her death. The prosecution claimed that MacFarland's infatuation for a Philadelphia woman, named in the case as Florence Bromley, furnished the motive.

After hearing the verdict he was remanded to jail to await sentence.

THINGS HAPPEN TO HAND; THEN BILLS ARE DRAWN.

Trenton, Feb. 1.—Some tough experiences Senator "Bob" Hand, of Cape May, has had have been prolific of proposed stringent legislation. Last year a daring burglar tried to rob his house, and at the next session of the Legislature the Senator tried to have the penalty for burglary increased from fifteen years in State prison to twenty-five years.

Last summer Senator Hand went off fishing in a motorboat with a party of friends. He says his pilot "got loaded" and ran the boat kersmash into a drawbridge, greatly endangering the Senator's life and limb.

So this week Senator Hand presented a bill in the Senate providing that a person guilty of running a motorboat while intoxicated be sent to State prison for not more than fifteen years and fined not more than $1,000. He also provided that the same penalties should apply to drunken drivers of automobiles, locomatives and trolley cars.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

The announcement that the famous emotional drama, "East Lynne," will be presented at the Plainfield theatre next Saturday will awaken a responsive chord in the hearts of lovers of the fine old standard plays of other years, as well as those of the present generation who have read its intensely huma nstory of a wife who, in spite of her mother love, is drawn away from her children and husband by a polished villian who dazzles her eyes with his alluring tales. The story of "East Lynne" is told in five acts, the first showing East Lynne and the coming of Lady Isabelle as a bride. Then comes the elopement and Isabelle's apartments in Paris, again East Lynne and finally the apartments of Mme. Vine and the death of the unhappy woman. The present production has profited by the years of experience which the play has enjoyed, and is presented with a strong cast of well known players and a scenic equipment hitherto unapproached.

"The Gamblers" Charles Klein's gripping play, comes to the Plainfield theatre February 5, under the management of the Authors' Producing Company, of which John Cort is president. The tactics of Wall street, intermingled with love and distrust, are the fundamentals of "The Gamblers," which was the greatest success among serious dramas produced in New York last season, having established a record of over 200 consecutive performances at Maxine Elliott's theatre. Those who delight in a play making its appeal to the heart by its realism and its convincing qualities should by all means enjoy an evening made possible by this stirring drama, the story of which deals with a young man, who has been given the running of his father's bank, and his associates who are directors in the institution.

CITIZENS TO FIGHT AWARD ON NEW BERNARDS SCHOOL.

Bernardsville, Feb. 1.—Indignant over the action of a majority of the Board of Education of Bernards Township in awarding a contract for the building of a new school to the American Concrete Steel Company of Newark, without competitive bidding, a group of taxpayers in this village are raising funds to again carry the proceedings of the board into court for review.

It was some months ago the school board gave the contract to the Newark concern, after bids had been asked for, and the court set aside the award. Collusion on the part of the architect, George E. Jones, of Newark, and the steel company was charged. It was also charged that the contractor was allowed to put in a second bid after the first bids had been opened for public inspection.

In a few hours Tuesday $500 was raised to fight the board's action and yesterday it was said nearly $1,000 has been subscribed. The citizens of the town are demanding to know why their wishes are not respected in school matters when they have to foot the bills.

A reason given by the majority members of the board for not allowing competitive bidding is that they have been advised by Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, of Newark, that the law does not require township boards to ask for bids in school work, while it does in every other form of municipal work.

CHARITY PATIENT GETS FORTUNE; AND MORE CARE.

Atlantic Highlands, Feb. 1.—From being a charity patient in the Monmouth Memorial Hospital at Long Branch to heir to an income of $45,000 a year for the rest of his life, is the god fortune that has befallen James D. Paddock, of this place.

The money will come from the estate of his brother, Simon D. Paddock, who died at his home in Syracuse last week, leaving a fortune estimated at from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Simon D. Paddock, Jr., a nephew of the dead millionaire; his brother Norman; a sister, Mrs. Bertha Marsh of Fulton, N. Y.; another sister, Mrs. Marion Stafford, of New York city, and two grandchildren of James Paddock, are also well remembered in the will. Simon junior, as has been told, it left an annual income of $30,000 a year.

This sudden acquirement of wealth is the talk of nearly everybody in this part of Monmouth county. It is expected that the estate will be settled within the next sixy days and that the wealh will begin to roll in at the end of that time.

Mean time the hospital authorites have placed the best ward in the institution at the service of Mr. Paddock and he has trained nurses at his bedside day and night. He is a paralytic and it is not believed that he will ever recover the use of his limbs.

Plainfield, N. J., February 1, 1912.

If you haven't a mononoly of something that the people must have you can't afford to let trade hunt you up, as an exchange observes. The consumer may be ignorant of your existence or he may have a very poor memory and so the trade which you should get goes to the man who advertises his wares. In this busy life the average men or women who want to buy something do not hunt around until he or she locates your store. They go straight to your competitor who advertises what he has for sale and where his wares are to be found. Even the individual, firm or corporation having a monopoly in a given line of goods sees the necessity of wisely and persistently advertising. They do not wait for trade to come to them; they get out and hustle. In other words, they advertise.

Another freak service to attract worshippers is to be attempted. Over in Hackensack, a pastor has hit upon a whistling chorus, to be composed of twenty-one boys, as a form of entertainment for Sunday night services. What will be the next stunt to be pulled off by some ill-advised and misguided minister is hard to tell, but certainly the great body of people who look upon the church as a divine institution and upon its services as a solemn and sacred mode of worshipping God are disgusted with such sacrilege. Christian people go to church to pray and to listen to sermons on religion. They do not expect to listen to a secular entertainment, to be amused or to hear one preach on some sensational topic which has nothing to do with God and the Christian religion.

Assemblyman Gill's joint resolution authorizing the Governor to appoint a commission of six members to observe the operation of New Jersey's election laws and to study the laws of other states is one that should meet with the hearty approval of the people although it is questionable what disposition will be made of it by the Legislature. It is particularly praiseworthy because it is framed as a bi-partisan commission to whose membership a legislator is not eligible. In their present form, the election laws are jumbled, inconsistent, extravagant and unsatisfactory in many respects. By all means, let Mr. Gill's resolution be approved and let the Governor lose no time in naming the commission authorized to report to the next Legislature with complete recommendations.

Conditions in Alaska are alarming according to the assistant surgeon of the Public Health and Marine Hospital at Washington who reports that nearly one-half of the population of that possession are afflicted with phythisis. Unless the ravages of the disease are checked, the physician believes that both the white people and the natives will be wiped out ultimately. The condition is one that demands the immediate and most serious attention of the Federal Government, which may be relied upon not only to stay the spread of the white plague but to rid the country of it entirely just as was the case when the Canal zone was found to be a centre for yellow fever.

After reading the tribute paid by The Outlook to the memory of Labouchere, pictured by ye god, Lyman Abbott, as one and the same thing as his publication, London Truth, it is harrowing indeed to see the so-called journalist revealed in his true light by the publication, which he was supposed to edit, under the title "The Real Labouchere." But as we do not crave membership in the "Ananias Club" we do not take issue with "The Outlook."

Paterson's police chief deserves commendation for his crusade against dance halls where the "turkey trot" is exhibited. No decent person would participate in such an orgy, neither would any self-respecting man or woman witness it. It is cheerful news to hear that Cardinal Farley will probably place the ban of the Roman Catholic Church on this disgusting spectacle. Protestant denominations should take similar action.

It will be no small measure of regret that the Monroe Avenue M. E. church congregation will say farewell to its pastor, Rev. Charles S. Kemble, when the Newark Conference meets. The First M. E. flock appears to be very fortunate for unless the bishop decides otherwise Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson will be returned to the church he has so ably served for three years.

That must have been a cheerful moment in the life of ex-Senator James Smith, Jr., when he declared at the Deal Beach conference that "he wanted nothing for himself; only to see the State redeemed."—Elizabeth Journal.

That's some comedy.

Because American explorers have given Yankee names to so many Canadian lands, Captain Bernier, a Canadian explorer, wants his Government to change the names. Do what they may, they can never alter the fact that Old Glory first waved at the North Pole.

Trenton, Feb. 1.—Offers of the Ocean Grove Association to permit the residents of the Grove to elect twenty-six of their number to act in joint conference with twenty-six members of the Association for the government of the Grove will not be accepted, according to the belief of Assemblyman Taylor, of Monmouth county.

Mr. Taylor was the author of the bill to incorporate Ocean Grove into a borough last year, and succeeded in getting it through the House. The Senate, however, killed the measure. The House was Democratic then and how the Republican House will act on the proposition remains to be seen.

Mr. Taylor is not counting too strongly on favorable action by the Senate even this year but thinks the demand will be met ultimately. The compromise of the association, he holds, will have no weight with the Grove inhabitants.

Rev. Dr. A. E. Ballard, president of the Ocean Grove Association, declared in conversation at the State House this week that two thirds of the lessees of the Grove had protested against the plan to incorporate. He asserts that the stand of the Association will meet all the demands and that the lessees will be satisfied with the representation offered.

DEATH OF A HEROINE WHO SAVED 200 LIVES.

Kate Skelly, to whose courage and self possession 200 train passengers owed their lives twenty years ago, died recently at Boone, Ia.

When Miss Skelly was sixteen years old her father was a section foreman employed by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. Heavy rains on the evening of July 6, 1891, caused the Des Moines river to rise, and the rush of the water was so terrific that eleven out of twenty-one of the railroad bridges and trestles were swept away.

Miss Skelly was arguing with her mother for permission to go out in search of her father when they heard a crash. Looking out, they saw that a helper engine had fallen through a trestle close to their home and was buried in the bayou beneath.

Grasping a lantern, the girl ran to the scene of the accident. Two of the crew of four men on the engine had been drowned. The others were badly hurt.

The girl made her way up a bluff and started for Moingona, four miles away. She knew a passenger train was due. The wind extinguished her lantern before she reached the trestle, half a mile long, over which in the darkness she was compelled to creep.

Reaching the station at Moingona just as the passenger train arrived there, she gave the warning, then collapsed. When she recovered she led a band of rescuers back over the perilous route she had just traversed, saved the two injured trainmen and was carried home to her mother.

Subsequently the legislature voted her a fund of $5,000.

PENSIONS FOR SERVICE.

General Torrance Insists That Rewards Should Be Based on That Alone.

General Eli Torrance of Minneapolis, chairman of the legislative committee of the G. A. R., told the pension committee of the senate that the Grand Army favored a pension bill based on both age and service, carrying about $30,000,000 annually. Representative Isaac Sherwood of Ohio, author of the service pension bill bearing his name that recently passed the house, said that he was not wedded to any particular bill, but he insisted that service alone should be the test of reward.

The plan advocated by General Torrance for the Grand Army is covered by a proposition originally suggested by Senator McCumber, chairman of the senate committee on pensions. It proposes that pensions for veterans sixty-two years of age shall vary from $12 a month for ninety days' service to $21 a month for three years' service; that sixty-six-year-old veterans shall have $15 a month for ninety days and $24 a month for three years' service; that seventy-year-old veterans shall receive $18 for ninety days' service and $27 for three years' service; that veterans seventy-five years old shall receive $21 a month for ninety days' service and $30 for three years' service. It is estimated that under this scheme there would be 387,957 pensioners, receiving in the aggregate $30,984,420.

EMBASSY BUILDINGS ABROAD

Mr. Knox Says They Cannot Be Built For $150,000, the Limit Fixed.

Secretary of State Knox reported to congress that it would be impossible for the United States to purchase or build embassies and legations in the principal capitals of the old world within the limit of $150,000 for each structure, which is fixed by the bill passed at the last session of the Sixty-first congress. This measure authorizes the expenditure of $500,000 a year, but declares that no building shall cost more than $150,000.

Secretary Knox recommends the purchase or construction of buildings for the embassies at Mexico City and Tokyo to cost $150,000 each, the construction of a legation building at Berne, Switzerland, at a cost of $140,000 and the expenditure of $60,000 for a building for the consul general at Hankow, China. The United States already owns a piece of ground at Tokyo upon which it is proposed to construct the embassy headquarters.

Secretary Knox says his conclusion that the United States will not be able to acquire suitable buildings within the $150,000 limit at foreign capitals is based on a general inquiry made under his direction.

SOLDIERS MAY GO TO JAPAN.

But In Baseball Uniforms to Play With a Tokyo Team.

The war department has under consideration a request from Major General Bell, commanding the division of the Philippines, that he be allowed to send an army baseball team to Tokyo to play a series of games there with a Japanese team.

The Japanese team has already arranged to go to Manila to play the American soldiers, and General Bell desires to establish reciprocity in athletic relations.

Blind Senator to Have an Extra Clerk.

Because of the affliction which deprives him of his sight Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma is to have an additional clerk. The committee on control of the contingent expenses of the senate voted unanimously to report a resolution which by name gives the senator from Oklahoma an extra clerk at a salary of $1,200 a year.

The Junior Mission Band of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. J. L. Manning will have charge of the exercises.

CHANCE FOR WOMEN TO LAND STATE BERTHS HERE

Trenton, Feb. 1.—New Jersey suffragettes who desire a State office may obtain one next Tuesday provided they can get their names before the Legislature and can get the lawmakers to vote for them. The office in question is that of Commissioner of Deeds, a State berth which women have been permitter to fill for several years.

There are more than 2,000 Commissioners of Deeds in the State, and of these 124 are women, scattered among the counties as follows: Atlantic, 5; Bergen, 8; Burlington, 4; Camden, 5; Cape May, 0; Cumberland, 3; Essex, 17; Gloucester, 2; Hudson, 21; Hunterdon, 2; Mercer, 4; Middlesex, 3; Monmouth, 11; Morris, 6; Ocean, 4; Passaic, 11; Salem, 1; Somerset, 1; Sussex, 3; Union, 10, and Warren, 2.

Only a few of the terms of these feminine Commissioners expire this year, but the terms of scores of the male commissioners expires and women could be elected to succeed any of these men, if the Legislature chose to select them.

The election will take place at a joint meeting of the two Houses of the Legislature next Tuesday at noon, with President Prince, of the Senate, presiding. The Legislators will nominate the candidates for commissioner from their respective counties, and the election will follow.

QUICK ACTION ON REPEALER, NOT BILL ITSELF, OPPOSED

Assemblyman W. deLa R. Anderson, in speaking of the new state relating to school boards, which he introduced in the Assembly on Tuesday, said today that it did not meet with general disapproval as reported from Trenton yesterday, and furthermore did not fail, as it was not voted upon.

Mr. Anderson said: "A repealer was drawn and rushed to the Senate by a vote of 20 to 1 on Tuesday morning. Senate bill No. 60 was then sent to me in the House with a written explanation and request from Commissioner of Education Kendall, urging immediate passage.

"The Commissioner's request to railroad the bill through, as shown in my motion to suspend the rules and place the repealer on second reading without reference to the committee, was the feature objected to and which failed by a vote of 7 to 52 and not the repealer itself, which is now being considered by the committee on education in the House and will probably be reported in the near future."

FLAMES ALMOST TOTALLY DESTROYS WESTFIELD HOUSE

The Westfield department made a quick run to the scene, despite the long distance and poor condition of the roads. In less than twenty minutes the flames were under control but the roof and second floor were in ruins.

Alexander, who owns the house was severely burned while trying to save some of his furniture. It became necessary for him to seek medical attention. He estimates the loss on the house at $2,000 and the furniture $500, partially covered by insurance.

The game was fast, with many fouls called.

The second half was marked by fine team work on the part of the Westfield team and but for the lead which N. P. H. S. got in the first half they might have won out. The Westfield players had the ball most of the time but missed many opportunities to score. Dunning put up a fine game, scoring eight points. Townley and Burner also put up a fine game for N. P. H. S. at guard. The lineup:

JUDGE BUFFINGTON.

Now Being Considered For Supreme Court Vacancy.

MAY NAME BUFFINGTON.

Taft Considers Him For Harlan's Place.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Judge Joseph Buffington of the Third federal circuit, comprising Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, is under consideration by President Taft for nomination to the vacancy in the supreme court created by the death of Associate Justice John M. Harlan. Judge Buffington, who is a Pennsylvania man, is indorsed by the congress delegation from that state. John G. Johnson of Philadelphia and D. T. Watson of Pittsburgh have written letters to the president urging the appointment of Judge Buffington. A committee of the Pennsylvania Bar association will visit Washington in behalf of Judge Buffington early next week.

FARLEY RAPS SOCIALISM.

New Cardinal Also Puts Ban on Turkey Trot and Bunny Hug.

Philadelphia, Feb. 1.—Socialism was attacked and the turkey trot condemned by Cardinal Farley at the dinner and reception given Archbishop Prendergast at the Bellevue Stratford.

"It devolves upon the Catholic church to oppose Socialism in every way, to prevent its spread," the cardinal said. "Otherwise Socialism may some day bring us a bitter hour.

"I have been back in America such a short time," he said when asked for an interview, "and I've been so busy that I have hardly seen a newspaper."

"Did you hear of Father Vaughn's condemnation of the turkey trot and other dances now the subject of much comment in the United States?" was a question put to his eminence.

"No. What is the turkey trot?" he asked in return.

One of the questioners then described the turkey trot, the bunny hug and others of the much described dances.

"Are they really like that?" the cardinal asked. "Well, if they are they must be horrible and shouldn't be indulged in." He paused an instant and then added, "That is if they are really like the description."

TAFT ON WAY TO CAPITAL.

The president concluded his visit to Columbus with a speech to the members of the Ohio constitutional convention, now in session in the state capitol here for the purpose of revising the state constitution. Mr. Taft gave to the delegates his views as to the form of their state constitution, which he said should be brief and explicit.

Ohio politicians are in a happy frame of mind over the president's optimistic speech at the McKinley banquet of the Columbus Glee club when he expressed the belief that the Republican party will be victorious in the coming campaign.

DISCOVERS A WAY TO PREVENT HAIL.

French Physician's Device a Great Benefit to Farmers.

The Comte de Beauchamp, a distinguished Paris physician, is hailed as one of the greatest benefactors of agriculture that France has ever known owing to his discovery of an efficacious hail destroyer.

Some time ago the count discovered that hail cannot form when there is no electricity in the air. In the course of a long series of experiments, in which he was assisted by General De Negrier, he has perfected an instrument like a lightning conductor which drains the atmosphere of any electricity with which it is charged.

For some time past this hail destroyer has been working with success in rural districts formerly particularly subject to hailstorms, which, it is estimated, cost the farmers and fruit growers of the country not less than $40,000,000 a year.

Convinced by these results, the Paris municipal council has decided to install in the capital a system of hail destroyers.

They will be placed at three of the highest points of the city—namely, at the summits of the Eiffel tower, the Sacre Coeur and the Pantheon—forming a vast protective triangle.

The provinces are following the example of the capital, and before long, it is expected, the entire country will be provided with the count's invention, which has the enthusiastic support of the Academy of Sciences.

NEW BILL AGAINST TRUSTS.

Williams' Measure to Regulate Corporations in Interstate Commerce.

A bill to prescribe the conditions under which corporations may engage in interstate commerce has been introduced in the senate by Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi.

It is provided in the bill that no corporation shall engage in interstate commerce unless it is organized under laws that provide it shall do nothing to restrain trade and that it shall do nothing outside the state of its incorporation that it is not permitted to do therein.

The bill provides that no corporation, association or partnership shall have any vote or voice in the affairs of another corporation. A section of the measure provides that the capital stock of a corporation engaging in interstate commerce shall be fully paid and payable, and it places a limitation upon its surplus at any time to 50 per cent of the outstanding capital stock and its indebtedness to not more than the outstanding stock and surplus.

The forfeiture of the right to engage in interstate commerce and a fine equal to 10 per cent of the capital stock of the offending corporation is fixed as the penalty for violation of provisions of the bill.

A PAPER ALL FOR WOMEN.

Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont Behind the Project.

Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont is planning to start a daily newspaper to be managed by women and devoted entirely to their interests. She declared that women did not have a fair representation in the news of the day and thought the time was ripe for women to come to the front editorially.

Mrs. Belmont's plans have not taken definite shape, but she said she was serious in the matter. Her ideal, she announced, "would be a paper which is not bound by any financial, political or social obligation to suppress one bit of news or to alter its tone."

FEDERAL AUTOMOBILE LAW.

Measure Providing a License Good All Over For $10.

A federal automobile law is proposed in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Volstead of Minnesota. It provides that for the payment of $10 a year the good roads bureau shall issue a federal automobile license to any person applying in good faith.

A provision in the bill makes the federal license good all over the United States, subjects the automobile owners to those fees only and similarly restrictive charges which prevail in the state in which the owner lives.

New President of Georgetown.

The Rev. Alphonsus S. Donlon has been appointed president of Georgetown university, to succeed the Rev. Joseph J. Himmell, who retired on account of ill health. The new president is a native of Albany, N. Y., and a graduate of Georgetown. For the past three years he has been assistant to the provincial of the Jesuit order.

The Miser.

Some gets pleasure
And some gets pain,
Some gets sunshine,
And some gets rain,
Some gets heaven,
And some gets hash,
And some gets trouble,
But I gets cash!

Some keeps horses,
And some keeps dogs,
Some keeps chickens,
And some keeps hogs,
Some keeps servants
To make a flash,
And some keeps moving,
But I keeps cash!

Some loves women,
And some loves wine,
Some loves jewels
That glint and shine,
Some loves babies,
But that's all trash,
For I loves nothing
But cash, cash, cash!

—Puck.

"I want a nice book for an invalid."

"Something religious, madam?"

"Er—no—he's convalescent."—Boston Transcript.

REV. FATHER M'GEAN.

He Is Chaplain of the New York Fire Department.

As dangerous as firemen's work and more irregular than the life of the most self sacrificing physician are the days—and nights—of the fire chaplain. At every fire in New York necessitating two alarms or more there is to be seen a burly six foot man with a big open countenance and a mass of curly hair under a fire helmet. He goes right along with the men and risks his life pretty frequently. He is Father Vincent McGean, fire chaplain.

Father McGean ranks as battalion chief and acts under the same rules. When the alarm for the recent Equitable fire reached Father McGean he was thirty seconds in getting into the seat with his driver. At once there was need of him. Three men were seen on the northwest corner of the building, the smoke and flame swirling round them. A rope was thrown from an adjoining skyscraper. Two of the men tied themselves about the middle and swung clear. Tongues of flame leaped out and snapped the rope. The men were plunged to the street below, and the third man, who had refused from risking his life to the strands with his two companions, recled and plunged after them.

But before the men were dashed to their death Father McGean absolved them from their sins.

A few months later President William Giblin and Watchman Sheehan were seen through the barred window of the Mercantile Safe Deposit company. Father McGean again ventured out in the hail. He heard the confession of Mr. Giblin and of Sheehan and anointed them through the grating.

Such is one phase of the chaplain's work. What it is is such is of his services to duty present in testing.

HON. JAMES W. GERARD.

New York Supreme Court Justice Who Held Court in His Home.

Supreme Court Justice James W. Gerard of New York recently held a regular trial session of a divorce in his Fifth avenue home. The unique proceeding was in the nature of a protest against the unsanitary conditions of the county court house tenement.

Justice Gerard's home is the old Marquis Daly mansion. From a recess of frames on the walls of the dining room the Earl of Halifax looks down upon a mor, Empress Maude of Russia, in a low cut evening dress edged with ermine and the cultured Mlle. de la Jabliere looked down upon fifteen hundred gentlemen foregathering in high backed red plush chairs about a many leaved table of Oriental walnut.

Below the circle of old oil portraits stood three long walnut buffets, cold and deserted. There was a great fireplace opposite the windowed side, but no cheery blaze within. Cardinal Richelieu, striding in to meet his colleagues, would have found the deep red velvet rug and the crimson hangings of the wall to match with his robes.

JUSTICE GERARD.

"I hear she married beneath her."

"No?"

"Fact. Her husband plays a miserable game of bridge."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SAY LEADERS' ARREST BREAKS MILL STRIKE

Lawrence Operators Suffering and Ready to Yield.

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 1.—That the arrest of Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo M. Giovannitti, both of New York, leaders of the 25,000 woolen workers who have been on strike here, has broken the backbone of the strike is believed here.

The strikers generally are convinced that they will be beaten eventually, and many openly declare that if a settlement is not made by the leaders before the end of the week they will return to work and accept the terms of the mill owners.

Women and children are suffering from cold and hunger in the tenement districts, and they are urging their husbands and fathers to return to work. Those ready to yield declare the Socialists among the strikers are fighting to prolong the strike.

Ettor, who, with Giovannitti, is accused of having been responsible for the death of Annie Lopizzo, shot during a clash between police and strikers Monday, told a friend who saw him in the jail that the time is not far off when the strikers will have to settle. Ettor and Giovannitti were held without bail until Feb. 9.

Ettor and Miss Pearl Magill urge the strikers to stand firm and carry on the strike to successful conclusion.

The movement for an investigation by the legislature at Boston of the strike situation took a definite step when the house sent to the senate an order calling for an inquiry to begin next Saturday. This action was taken after the house had refused to accept the report of the committee on rules recommending that the investigation be postponed. The order will come up in the senate today.

INQUIRE INTO EGG POOL.

Government Takes Action to Learn Cause of High Prices.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—The government has started a national inquiry into the alleged egg pool which exists in every large city, according to federal investigators.

The investigation is being made by the department of justice as a result of the increased price of eggs.

The initial proceedings begun in Chicago by the federal authorities against the Chicago butter and egg board is believed to have started the national investigation.

CHILE AND PERU NEAR BREAK

Armed Clash Imminent, France Learns In Dispatch.

Paris, Feb. 1.—A private dispatch from Lima, Peru, says the relations between that country and Chile are strained, and it is feared there will be an armed clash shortly.

Chile has been sending troops to the frontier for some time, and the government is being urged to force Peru to make a settlement of the dispute over Tacna and Arica.

A Father's Last Question.

A New York business man suddenly said to his daughter, "Helen, have I been a good father to you?" "Certainly you have. Why do you ask such a question?" she answered. There was no reply, and the girl, turning, saw that her father's head had fallen forward on his breast. She went to him and found that he was dead. It was only a case of heart failure, with nothing supernatural about it. Yet sometimes it seems as if Death sent a secret messenger ahead to warn the spirit of his coming, and the soul thus warned rises and awaits the Presence standing. No one could ask to die with a kindlier thought in mind than that which this man had, nor can every daughter cherish so sweet a memory.—Youth's Companion.

Megaphones In Oil.

Robert Henri, the well known painter, was discussing in New York a very mediocre "old master" for which a Chicago promoter had paid an exorbitant sum.

"The man is content with his bargain," said Mr. Henri. "I'm sure of that. To a millionaire of that type, you know, an 'old master' is merely a megaphone for his money to talk through."—Exchange.

Posted on Architecture.

A woman listened with intense interest to a lecture on Cologne cathedral and at the end shook the lecturer's hand and said:

"Oh, thank you, sir, for your illuminating remarks. I often wondered where our colonial architecture came from. Now, of course, I see that it comes from Cologne."—Exchange.

Transferred.

"I hope you liked the pie, Henry," ventured a young wife, casting an anxious glance at her husband, soon after dinner. "I bestowed great pains on the crust."

"I thought you did, my dear," he said, "for I've got the pains now."

Strong Talk.

Eric—I say, father, can whisky speak?

Papa—No, my boy. Why?

Eric—Oh, I heard mother say the drink was beginning to tell on you.

A Bad Employer.

Scott—They say that Satan finds employment for idle hands. Mott—That may be, but when a man is out of a job he shouldn't go to the devil.—Boston Transcript.

PASS BORAH BILL TO AID CHILDREN

Senate Votes to Establish New Bureau.

CURBS OBSCENE REPORTS.

Measure Provides For Investigation of All Matters Pertaining to the Welfare of Children and Child Life, Especially Their Employment at Early Ages. Ends Debate of Three Days.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The bill introduced by Senator Borah of Idaho providing for the establishment of a children's bureau in the department of commerce and labor passed the senate by the vote of 54 to 20. An amendment by Culberson of Texas providing that the agents of the bureau shall not enter any house "used exclusively as a residence" over the protest of the head of the family was the only important change in the bill.

Bailey, Bryan, Chilton, Culberson, O'Gorman, Overman, Paynter, Smith of Maryland, Stone, Thornton, Tillman and Watson.

Eight Republicans were recorded against the measure:

Burnham, Clark of Wyoming, Gallinger, Heyburn, Nixon, Oliver, Wetmore and Works.

Senators Clark of Arkansas, Chamberlain of Oregon and Martine of New Jersey were the only Democrats who voted against the Culberson amendment restricting the authority of the bureau's agents.

The bill provides for the appointment by the president, subject to the senate's confirmation, of a chief who shall be in charge of the children's bureau at a salary of $5,000 per year. Provision is also made for an assistant chief and such clerks as may be necessary to carry on the work. The total appropriation amounts to a little more than $25,000 per year.

The bureau "shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life and shall especially investigate the question of infant mortality, the birth rate, juvenile courts, desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents and diseases of children, employment and legislation affecting children in the several states and territories."

The bill as originally proposed provided that the bureau might from time to time publish the results of its investigations. The senate adopted an amendment by Senator Pomerene of Ohio providing that details of the investigation shall not be published in these reports.

The passage of the bill marked the conclusion of a spirited debate extending over three days. Senators Gallinger of New Hampshire and Heyburn of Idaho, Republicans, and Bailey of Texas led in the attack on the bill. Senator Overman of North Carolina also protested against the passage of the bill, and Senator Stone of Missouri joined the opposition to the measure. The opposition was based chiefly on constitutional grounds.

Senators Borah of Idaho, Dixon of Montana, Owen of Oklahoma, Hitchcock of Nebraska and Hoke Smith of Georgia championed the measure in speeches. Senator Root argued the constitutionality of the measure.

The Culberson amendment to the bill was not accepted until after two similar amendments had been defeated.

UPRISING AT JUAREZ.

Former Maderista Soldiers Revolt and Fight Loyalists.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 1.—A part of the garrison of former Maderista soldiers in Juarez revolted and liberated the prisoners of the city jail. Some of the troops remained loyal and attempted to capture those in rebellion, and a battle followed in the street.

Those rebelling are shouting Viva Zapata. Juarez residents have commenced to flee to El Paso, and all business houses there have been closed. A battle is raging in front of the custom house. Probably 500 shots have been fired besides one cannon shot.

Juarez refugees are being permitted to come to El Paso, but nobody is allowed to go from El Paso to Juarez.

FULLER'S PLAN FOR SEWER

Mr. Fuller said that he did not believe it would be possible for the city and borough to get the Zvolenck farm for disposal works, speaking from his experience as a member of the State Board of Health in 1890-1895.

Speaking of the tidewater proposition, Mr. Fuller said that such a plan would cost at least $1,000,000 and that the cost of maintenance would be from $24,000 at present to $37,000 a year, eventually. This would seem to make the proposition almost prohibitive. This appeared to put a quietus on the tidewater plan.

E. F. Feickert, who lives about a mile from the Cramer farm, and who is one of the opposition to the use of that site for disposal works, remarked that in all the discussion no one had mentioned the opposition of North Plainfield township to the use of the Cramer farm. He said that the township had given the borough permission to locate on the Zvolenck farm, and stated further that should the Cramer farm be selected the property-owners in that section would fight the proposition.

Mr. Feickert mentioned the names of Mrs. Brown, who owns 200 acres in the vicinity, valued at $40,000; Stephen Palmer, of the New Jersey Zinc Company, and Brokaw Brothers New York clothiers, who also own property there, and said they would employ counsel to defeat the project. He further quoted the Watchung Water Company as also being opposed.

Former Councilman George P. Mellick said that the city and borough would find opposition wherever they decide to locate, but if the present proposition appeared to be favorable and it is possible to get the Cramer farm, he believed that the citizens of both municipalities should support such action. Mr. Mellick said that like other citizens of Plainfield he was proud of the Common Council and hoped for a favorable outcome. He said that if the present proposition seemed reasonable and fair it should be adopted, but if not then it should be so stated, but he hoped that the present proceedings would continue.

Being invited to express his opinion, Councilman W. J. Buttfield, of the borough, briefly reviewed what the borough has already done in trying to get a sewer system, showing how it had tried every conceivable way to locate disposal works, but had failed. He then read a letter from Frank Bergen, of the Watchung Water Company, in which the latter assured him that the company would not opposite the location of a sewage plant on the Cramer farm, provided an outfall sewer is built 400 or 500 feet below the pumping station.

Mr. Buttfield regretted that the estimate showed increased cost, but added that it is something that must be met. He said that the borough had presented two definite propositions, the first being that the two municipalities authorize the preliminary survey with estimate of cost in going to the Cramer farm, and now he urged that the two municipalities present Mr. Fuller's plans to the State Board of Health for approval or rejection, it being understood that this action would not obligate either municipality to make a contract to build the sewer, if it was found to be inadvisable.

Mr. Buttfield read a letter from the law firm of Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, of Newark, in which he was assured that such action as he suggested would not obligate the municipalities beyond paying the cost of preliminary work. The mater rested there and will be taken up at the respective meetings of the two Councils.

In response to a question by Councilman F. L. Holt, Mr. Herring said that it would probably cost an additional $70,000 if the municipalities were obliged to substitute the underground system for the sprinkling method.

Those present at the conference last night included Mayor G. W. V. Moy, Councilmen G. S. Clay, F. L. Holt, F. E. Mygatt, D. W. Taylor, W. L. Cloak, R. I. Tolles, Fred Endress, P. J. Reville, W. W. Wilson and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, of the city; Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., Alexander Milne, W. J. Buttfield, E. S. Boyer, C. M. Dolliver, J. J. Stahl L. B. Woolston, Dr. J. H. Cooley, William C. Smith, J. O. Osgood, Edmund Rushmore, S. St. John McCutchen, of the borough, and E. F. Feickert, representing North Plainfield township.

REPORTER KEEPS SECRET: FACES CONTEMPT CHARGE.

Hackensack, Feb. 1.—Refusing to disclose to the grand jury the source of information on which he based a newspaper article hinting at fraud or mis-management in Ridgefield Park, Julius Grunowfi ,a reporter, has been cited to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt of court. The rule is returnable Saturday before Justice Charles W. Parker.

Grunow is employed by a Jersey City newspaper. The grand jury is investigating rumors of graft in Ridgefield Park. Grunow's paper contained a statement that at a meeting of the village trustees the charge was made that the village had paid wice for certain grading work. Summoned before the grand jury, Grunow admitted writing the article, but would not tell where he secured his information.

Mrs. Warren Squier and son, Monroe Squier, who have been living in New York during the winter, returned to their home on Astor place.

HAHNE & CO.

THIS IS A STORE IN WHICH PEOPLE FEEL AT HOME

Doubtless you have often heard folks remark that they shopped here most frequently because they felt most at home here.

That is a mighty fine compliment for anyone to pay a store. To feel at home in a great big mercantile establishment is not a commonplace thing. There must be something out of the commonplace about a store when one can feel so much a part of it that they feel easy, comfortable and at home in it.

There must be the right atmosphere in such a store and that atmosphere can only exist in a store in which people are fairly treated and in which the right sort of goods are handled and where fair prices are asked.

Surely you couldn't feel at home in a store that you hadn't full confidence in—in a store that you were suspicious of.

No more could you feel at home in a store in which you mistrusted the merchandise, or when you felt that things were priced unfairly.

Nor could you feel at home in any store in which the men who manage the floors were top-lofty in their manner or needlessly blunt in their replies to your questions, nor where salespeople were indifferent or impertinent—you could not feel at home in such a store.

Therefore when we hear anyone say they feel at home here we are pretty sure that we are doing things pretty nearly as they should be done, keeping shop in a way that pleases people, serving the community as it wants to be served.

We invite everybody to trade with us who likes a store in which they can feel at home.

HORRORS OF CHINA'S FAMINE

Victims Drop In the Streets and Die There.

3,000,000 PEOPLE AFFECTED

Red Cross Agent Tells of the Urgent Need of Relief—Funds Will Be Used to Build Dikes and Prevent Future Flood and Famine.

"They have no seed to plant and no animals to do their plowing with, and this condition of affairs has gone on for so long that they have lost all desire for work. They simply want to lie down in the mud and die.

"There were people working on either side of the roadway, coming and going. These were all beggars and all starving. A few years ago the majority of them had been successful farmers, but now they have absolutely nothing. There was not a day that I did not pass two or three bodies of men, women and children lying on the road. When the people got tired and gave up they simply dropped down where they were and died. They did not go even to the raised track on the side, but dropped in the road, where they lay unburied.

"I came across the emaciated body of a young boy five or six years old. His throat had been cut from ear to ear, and a piece of paper was pinned on him which stated that his father and mother had nothing to give him to eat, and the children of the village were standing around looking at the corpse."

Applies to 3,000,000.

These were some of the observations of C. D. Jameson, the Red Cross engineer sent to inspect the famine district in China and to report on the possibility of flood prevention in the Hwai valley. The horror of the thing is that it applies to nearly 3,000,000 people, and unless outside relief is instantly forthcoming, he says, untold thousands of these must die before the scanty new crops that were planted after the flood of last year can be ripened and gathered.

Consul General Wilder, at Shanghai, has seconded Mr. Jameson's appeal in a letter directed to Miss Boardman of the Red Cross, in which he declares that bad as was the situation last year new elements have entered into it to make it worse and to justify another appeal to the Red Cross and through it to charitable Americans.

Can Mitigate Flood Damage.

Mr. Jameson has reported that the prevention of damage by ordinary floods is possible and that the building of proper dikes and the deepening of water courses would reclaim enormous quantities of land and provide work for famine sufferers. The building of roads would also furnish employment, and every dollar would be well spent.

Three dollars in gold will provide work for one family and save it from starvation for a month. Fifteen dollars will carry a family through until the barley harvest. Notwithstanding the rebellion, police and military protection is assured for sufficient area to work in at present regardless of the faction in control. For over two months in Nanking from 400 to 800 men have been employed on useful work by the relief committee even during the bombardment of the city.

A reassuring feature, according to Mr. Wilder, is that in the future the Chinese government itself will be in better condition to take care of its own. "The revolution in part," he says, "traces to the inability of the old government to grapple with famine conditions. Whatever form the new government may take, the mitigation of famine will be a distinct feature of the program.

Made Worse by Rebellion.

"The present famine conditions are inextricably entwined with the rebellion. Industry is generally interrupted, shops closed more or less everywhere. There is anarchy to a great degree and much looting and insecurity of possessions. It is inevitable that within a few weeks the conditions will be very dreadful. I can only say that one can hardly conceive our people not participating in the relief, presumably through the familiar Red Cross channel and by an appeal to the country," concludes the consul general's appeal for help.

The Red Cross acted immediately and sent out an urgent appeal for contributions.

EARL GREY HONORED.

Third of Family to Receive Freedom of City of London.

Earl Grey, former governor general of Canada, was recently presented with the freedom of the city of London.

This is the first instance in which the third member of a family has received the honor of the freedom of the city of London. The first Earl Grey, who was a distinguished general, was awarded the freedom after he had conducted a successful West Indian campaign, while the present earl's grandfather received the distinction for his efforts as premier on behalf of the great reform bill enfranchising the majority of the people of Great Britain and Ireland.

Mr. Hitchcock's declaration for government ownership of telegraphs no doubt will set Mr. Bryan talking some more about stolen clothing.—Denver Republican.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 4, 1912.

Topic.—Christian Endeavor ideals.—John xv, 1-8. (Christian Endeavor day.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The thirty-first anniversary of the Christian Endeavor movement may well be kept by the consideration of Christian Endeavor ideals. For nearly a third of a century Christian Endeavor has existed, and the one prominent characteristic of the ideals of the organization is their permanency. It is not too much to say that the spirit of Christian Endeavor is exactly the same today as it was upon that night thirty-one years ago when it first came into being under the guiding and inspiring of its still great and honored leader, the Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark. There have been many varieties of expression of Christian Endeavor activity in the years that have seen its world-wide and wonderful growth. Without such variety in forms of expression stagnation and death would have resulted. Yet amid all the changing scenes of the years the underlying principles and the youth inspiring ideals have ever remained the same, and they still exist and still inspire to deep devotion and consecrated Christian service.

The glorification and exaltation of Christ have ever been a Christian Endeavor ideal. This is vital and fundamental and absolutely necessary to the permanency of any Christian organization. To bring the young into vital union with Christ and through this vital union to Him to service in the Church of Christ was the supreme purpose of the first Christian Endeavor society, and no society today is worthy of the name unless it has the very same purposes in view. To accomplish this dual purpose Christ had to be exalted, and He was. Pledged service was conditioned upon personal trust in Christ. Supreme importance was attached to complete obedience to Christ. Church loyalty was emphasized upon its only true basis—the relation of the church to Christ. Moreover, this supreme ideal was summed up in the society's motto, "For Christ and the church." Little wonder that such an ideal intelligently and attractively presented has fired the zeal of millions of young people the world over.

The supreme exaltation of Christ and His church could not but develop another Christian Endeavor ideal—namely, worldwide Christian fellowship, leading to unity in spirit and co-operation in service. In Christ there is neither nationality nor denomination. Each branch is in vital connection with the vine, and by this union with the vine each branch is in vital connection with every other branch. Christ being the vine and each Christian a branch bound to Him all must be bound together. Out of this ideal there necessarily grew international and interdenominational fellowship and co-operation in Christian service, two of the most outstanding of all Christian Endeavor characteristics.

Around these ideals of an exalted Christ and a real worldwide Christian unity in Christ all Christian Endeavor activities and achievements have been centered. Such an exaltation of Christ could not but lead to the desire to win souls for Christ, to increased loyalty to the church of Christ and to manifold activities to make the world better and happier for Christ's sake and in the name of Christ. All these Christian Endeavor has done, and the verdict of the passing year can only be that it has been well done. But there should be no satisfaction with past accomplishment. However glorious the past, the future may be even more glorious, and each record of another year's achievement should only be an inspiration to increased attainment. "Thanking God" for the past let us "take courage" and face the future with renewed devotion and increased consecration.

Young Egypt.

In the American mission, Cairo, Egypt, there is a young men's Christian Endeavor society which added twenty-five new names to its roll last year. A membership contest proved that it is possible to win young men. Why should not the young men in our American societies have contests for more young men? It can be done in many places.

These Egyptian Endeavors have a library of 265 books, besides magazines, which they keep in constant and useful circulation. Many of them give away their own papers to acquaintances.

The audiences are at times cosmopolitan. The average attendance during the year is about fifty, including Protestants, Copts, Mohammedans, Jews, Egyptians, Englishmen and Americans.

Christian Endeavor's Influence.

I believe in Christian Endeavor because I have seen it train children into Christian life in a sawmill village that was without any other services until when a pastor came eleven were ready for church membership and five took their parents also to the altar. It changed the lifeless prayer meeting in a prison into a lively band of Christian workers. It brought to those men comfort and strength to bear their condition. I have seen it sustain for years regular services in a rough community without a pastor.—S. M. Sloan.

SENATOR CHAMBERLAIN.

Mentioned For the Democratic Nomination For Vice President.

BOOM FOR CHAMBERLAIN.

Oregon Senator's Friends Favor Him For Vice President.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon will be brought forward for the Democratic nomination for vice president by friends of his own state and other states of the Pacific coast and the northwest. It is planned to put his name on the primary ballot in Oregon and have him indorsed for the nomination.

The Oregon senator is an avowed supporter of Woodrow Wilson for president, and if his own state stands strongly back of him, as well as some of the neighboring states, it will tend to help the Wilson movement in that part of the country.

DENIES HE WAS SET TO IMPLICATE DARROW

McNamara Detective Indignant at "Double Cross" Story.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—Admissions made by Joseph Ford, deputy district attorney, indicate more startling disclosures in connection with the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times and the attempts at bribery of jurors when J. B. McNamara was put on trial. His statements were made in connection with reports that Bert Franklin, accused of attempted bribery, had confessed implicating Clarence Darrow, who is also under indictment.

Clarence Darrow's attorney Earl Rogers, intimated that Darrow's defense may be in part that Franklin was "planted" in the office of the McNamara defense to set a trap. Franklin vehemently denies this accusation.

"I may be guilty of bribing a juror," he said, "but you can make it strong that I never 'double crossed' anybody in my life."

While denying having made a confession, Franklin admitted making certain statements to Ford regarding his work as confidential agent of the McNamara defense.

OPPOSE FINANCIAL PROBE.

Democratic Caucus Believed to Be Against Henry Resolution.

Washington, Feb. 1.—A canvass of the Democratic members of the house just completed discloses that a large majority are opposed to an inquiry into the affairs of the money trust as proposed by Representative Henry of Texas, a Democrat, and Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, Republican insurgent.

This statement was made by a Democratic leader under whose direction the canvass was conducted. This leader said further that the special inquiry as authorized in the Henry and Lindbergh resolutions will be defeated at the caucus to be held on Feb. 7 by a vote of probably 2 to 1 if the pledges that have been made are kept.

TO GET JAPANESE LOAN.

Chinese Republic Negotiates For Funds In Roundabout Manner.

Shanghai, Feb. 1.—The republican provisional government is arranging a loan in a roundabout way. The republican forces still hold Hanyang, near Hankow, and on this account are enabled to practically dictate the terms of a contract for the Hanyang ironworks. They have done this in such a way that the company will let in Japanese capital, and the reconstructed company will lend the republicans 5,000,000 taels, or about $3,000,000.

The negotiations in regard to this arrangement are processing through the Yokohama specie bank. It is declared the Chinese interests in the company will be safeguarded.

No Clemency For Negro.

Albany, Feb. 1.—Governor Dix has declined to extend executive clemency to Charles Swanson, a negro, sentenced to be electrocuted next week for killing Isaac Lee in New York on Nov. 3, 1910.

Colonel Roosevelt, not being an avowed candidate, is not compelled to intimate to any gentleman that his support may not be desirable.—Washington Star.

M. KOKOVTSOFF ON ABROGATION

Russian Premier Denies United States Had Ground.

ANSWERS LIST OF QUESTIONS

Declares His Government Is Not Making Reprisals—Economic Reasons For Discrimination Against Jews Which Is Admitted.

Vladimir Kokovtsoff, the premier of Russia, has made a written response to a list of five questions submitted to him by Collier's Magazine on the abrogated treaty with Russia.

The questions and the answers:

No Ground For Abrogation.

Has not Russia afforded the United States ground for abrogating the treaty of 1832 by her violation in excluding United States citizens, especially of Jewish faith?

No, Russia has not afforded the United States any ground for abrogating the treaty. The treaty of 1832 was made exclusively for commercial purposes, and a clause in the very first article stipulated that American citizens arriving in Russia and Russian subjects arriving in the United States should be subject to the internal laws and regulations of the respective countries. The entry of American citizens of Jewish faith into Russia is not absolutely prohibited. With respect to them as to other American citizens and in strict accordance with the stipulations of the treaty, our country enforces certain rules. These rules were established by Russian internal legislation which permits the entry into Russia of foreign Jews only in definite cases. The rules have been in force ever since the treaty was concluded, and there never has been any cause to doubt the legality, and there could not be any, because the enforcement, as before pointed out, was stipulated in the treaty itself.

Treatment of the Jews.

Has Russia treated American citizens of Jewish descent different in respect of their privileges under the treaty from the way it has treated other American citizens not Hebrews?

Yes; Russia has treated American Jews differently from the very beginning. It has treated them exactly on the same levels as all other foreign Jews without exception. Nevertheless not a single civilized country ever disputed the right of another country to define for itself classes of undesirables, because under the principles of international law this right is the absolutely incontestable prerogative of every soverign power. Guided thereby, the United States established exactly in the same way in immigration acts classes of undesirable aliens, determined by qualifications of an economic, sanitary, moral, social and even religious character. American legislation, for instance, prohibited the entry into the United States of persons belonging to religious bodies tolerating polygamy, whereas Russian legislation does not see any cause for such restriction. Still, as I said, such classes of undesirable aliens are defined for itself by each country, wherefore neither the Russian nor American government saw any violation of the treaty of 1832 in the passage and enforcement of the aforesaid American immigration acts. This ought to be clear to every statesman.

Exclusion For Economic Reasons.

If so, has Russia special reasons for such discrimination?

For economic and social reasons Russian legislation established a whole range of restrictions upon its Jewish subjects. To allow free entry of foreign Jews into Russia is obviously impossible under the circumstances. They would then enjoy greater rights in Russia than Russia's own Jewish subjects. Therein lies the special reason for the discrimination which Russia practices toward foreign Jews wishing to enter Russia. I must add that existing restrictions are considered a measure of defense for the Russian masses against alien domination. Concern for such measures of protection must be understood by the United States, which for similar reasons prohibited the entry of Asiatics.

No Threat of Reprisals.

If Russia in administrating the treaty has given the United States ground for denouncing the treaty, why does she seek to penalize the United States by proposals to increase duties 100 per cent on American goods?

Russia, or, to be more precise, the Russian government, has not yet expressed any intention of applying reprisals toward goods of American origin. The proposals for reprisals originated in various quarters, but the government has not yet indicated in any manner its attitude thereon. The future course of the whole affair must depend upon the negotiations which will follow between the governments regarding the basis of the new agreement. Proposals to this purpose must come from the American government as the side which declared abrogation.

Leaves Answer to United States.

In view of traditional friendship, if Russia has not given grounds for abrogating the treaty, to what does she attribute the proposal of the United States for abrogation?

Only the United States can answer this question. I noted that in a recent speech President Taft declared that he considered the treaty obsolete, wherefore he notified us of its abrogation.

EAST ORANGE BOY AND GIRL ELOPE

PARENTS ASK POLICE AID.

Ella Edelhoff, Thirteen, and John Fitzpatrick, Sixteen, Pack Grips as For Long Trip While Girl's Mother Is In City Shopping—Neighbors See Couple Leave.

East Orange, N. J., Feb. 1.—Anxious parents are endeavoring to find Ella Edelhoff, thirteen years old, who went to school in East Orange regularly, and John Fitzpatrick, sixteen years old, who stopped going to school in Orange two months ago. The children were seen together late yesterday afternoon, when, loaded with suit cases and traveling bags that seemed more than ordinarily heavy, they purchased tickets for New York at the Highland avenue station of the Lackawanna railroad. Since then trace of them has been lost.

The girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edelhoff and lives at 296 Sanford street. Her mother told her yesterday morning that she intended to go to New York to spend the day. The girl left her home, ostensibly to go to school. Shortly afterward Mrs. Edelhoff left the house. She had been gone but a short time when her daughter returned.

In a short time, the girl's parents were told by neighbors, the girl was followed into the house by young Fitzpatrick. At noon the girl took her sister Anna, twelve years old, and two younger children to the home of a neighbor and requested that they be kept there until evening, when her mother would call for them. She said she must go to school. Two hours later, neighbors said, they saw the girl leave home carrying a traveling bag. When her parents searched their home they found all of her clothing and several of the girl's photographs had disappeared.

The police learned of the disappearance and soon traced the boy and girl to the railroad station. They had been seen in each other's company frequently during the last few months, but their parents thought it was a childish friendship.

YOUNG WIFE GETS DIVORCE.

Girl Bride at Paterson Gets Decree From Aged Husband.

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 1. Divorce was the climax of the elopement of eighteen-year-old Mary Jane Lacey and sixty-seven-year-old Joseph Lacy. The decree was signed.

Mrs. Lacey is the daughter of George V. O'Brien, a wealthy contractor of Totowa borough. Lacey is a retired farmer and is said to be wealthy. The couple first met at Westmeath, Ont., where Lacey had a farm. Although Lacey was three times older than the girl, she fell in love with him. Fearing objections from the girl's parents, they eloped to Beachburth.

Both are well known in society here. Mr. Lacey served in the civil war and is prominent in G. A. R. circles.

IMMUNITY FROM GRIP IN MONTCLAIR VACCINE

Montclair, Feb. 1.—Dr. Martin J. Synnott, of 34 South Fullerton avenue, is using a vaccine for the prevention of the grip.

The anti-grip vaccine is injected into the blood, and it is said that there are no unpleasant after effects. Dr. Synott says that the vaccine produces absolute immunity from the disease, but it has not been in use long enough to determine how long the immunity lasts. He advises his patients here, of whom he has had a considerable number, to submit to inoculation once a month during the season of the prevalence of grip until more is known as to the length of the period during which one inoculation gives immunity.

The doctor's experience with vaccines extends back to the summer of 1909, which he spent working in the laboratories of Sir Almroth E. Wright, of London, who made the discovery a few years ago that immunity from typhoid fever could be secured by inoculation.

Dr. Synnott is pediatrist to St. Vincent's Nursery and Babies Hospital, Montclair; visiting surgeon to St. Mary's Hospital, Orange; secretary of the New Jersey Pediatric Society and ex-president of the board of managers of the Essex County Isolation Hospital. He is a member of the Essex County Milk Commission, the American Medical Association, the New York Academy of Medicine and the Orange Mountain Medical Society.

TO STIMULATE INTEREST IN HOUSEWIVES' LEAGUE.

The committee recently appointed to stimulate interest in the Summit Housewives' League has arranged for an open meeting to be held by the Town Improvement Association in the Highland Club, Tuesday, February 13, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

It is the hope of the committee, of which Mrs. Lemuel Skidmore is chairman, to secure at least 100 additional members within a short time. At the meeting this month there will be discussion of the high cost of living, the causes and the remedies for the same.

The league's committee has issued the following statement:

"The Housewives' League committee hopes that local tradesmen will not feel that there is any antagonism in such an organization. If the housekeepers have combined to protect the interests of the home it is the result of the continued advance in the prices of commodities beyond the bounds of reason, and is a consequence which the sellers of home commodities have brought upon themselves.

NOT HIS FORCEPS THAT WERE SEWED IN PATIENT.

Mays Landing, Feb. 1.—Dr. Emery Marvel was awarded the verdict yesterday by the jury in the $25,000 damage suit brought against him by Mrs. John Folsom, wife of a Baptist clergyman. She alleged the surgeon left a pair of forceps in her body after an operation at his sanitarium in Atlantic City.

The suit lasted five days and was replete with startling estimony, prominent surgeons testifying that it was "not customary but quite usual" for instruments to be left in the body after an operation.

Dr. Marvel's real defense, however was that he never used the kind of forceps found in Mrs. Folsom and that they were in common use at the Cooper Hospital, where she underwent two previous operations and where the forceps were removed by Dr. J. S. Baer in a fourth operation.

JUMP OF $82,000 IN THE MIDDLESEX CO. BUDGET.

The county budget adopted by the Middlesex Board of Freeholders is $82,000 higher than that of last year. The largest increase is in the item for roads, which is over $47,000 higher than last year. There is an increase of $21,000 in the election expenses, the amount in 1912 being set at $35,267.45. Twenty-five thousand dollars is put in to cover a deficiency, the appropriation being specified as "debts and interest, special deficiency." There is also $3,140.91 to cover a deficiency in the sheriff's account.

The total amount of the current budget for 1912 is $374,686.93. Against this are several credits amounting to $12,686.03, leaving the net amount of the budget $362,000. Last year it was $280,000.

EDUCATION BOARD'S PRESIDENT RESIGNS

Leander Lovell, a Member For Nineteen Years, Quits Because of Ill Health.

J. H. CASE HIS SUCCESSOR

To Fill Unexpired Term—Lovell Had Been Head of Board Since 1908—Severs Connection Also With the Board of School Estimate.

Leander N. Lovell, who has been a member of the Board of Education for the past nineteen years and its president since the death of Dr. J. B. Probasco in 1908, has resigned because of ill health. Mr. Lovell was appointed to fill the vacancy in the board due to the death of George H. Babcock in 1893, and he held the office of vice-president until he was elected president in 1908 following the death of Dr. Probasco. He has also served on the Board of School Estimate since 1900 when the board was created. The board has accepted the resignation with much regret.

Mr. Lovell was an indefatigible worker for the erection of the present high school. The board has appointed J. Herbert Case to fill the vacancy by the resignation of Mr. Lovell and he will serve until the next municipal election.

Mr. Lovell's letter to the board follows:

"The citizens of Plainfield have highly honored me by repeated elections to the office of school trustee and I am greatly obliged. I had hoped to complete the present term of office, but find myself unable to do so owing to ill-health and therefore beg to resign the position into your hands. It seems to me proper to say that the harmony and good will existing in the corps of teachers seem to be unquestioned and I thank them for their universal kindness to me. To you, gentlemen of the board, I desire to express my sense of the unbroken courtesy and consideration and my earnest desire that you will have the support of the citizens of Plainfield in your great undertaking in relation to the schools."

A request for the use of the auditorium in February for a musical recital from Henry vonHofe, of the New York German Conservatory, has been referred for further consideration.

FRIENDS BOOMING NEAL FOR BUILDING INSPECTOR

Frank Neal, of West Front street, is a candidate for the position of building inspector of the city, it is reported, there being a rumor that the Common Council purposes to relieve Chief T. O. Doane of the duties of that office, allowing him to devote his whole time to fire matters.

Mr. Neal recently made an inspection of all the public schools of the city, and his friends, it is said, are urging his appointment as building inspector. It is said that the matter may be considered at the February meeting of the Common Council.

Several months ago Chief Doane said that owing to the increased number of buildings being erected, it was impossible for him to give the attention to the work that it required. This was taken into consideration by the fire and building committee, and it is said that a recommendation will be made Monday night.

MANY FRIENDS ATTEND VAN VALKENBERG FUNERAL.

The funeral of the late Willaim Van Valkenberg, who died at his home Tuesday morning, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home. Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Baptist church, was in charge of the obsequies.

The home was filled with old friends and neighbors, who came to pay their last respects to the one who had been their neighbor and friend in the full meaning of the words, for many years. Mr. Mathiews spoke of the man as a Christian, and as he knew him in his Christian life, and church work.

The floral offerings were many and included several handsome set pieces. Interment was made in the family plot in the cemetery at Scotch Plains.

Funeral of D. W. Baird.

The funeral of Duer Wood Baird was held at the late home, 70 Linden avenue, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Chick, pastor of the Old School Baptist church at Hopewell, N. J., officiated. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. V. Conkling, Richard Conkling, Duer Conkling, Crowlely, Johnson and Squires. The remains were placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery and in the spring will be interred in the family plot at Greenville, N. Y.

SUSPECTED THIEF CAUGHT AFTER CHASE ON FRONT St.

Colored Fugitive Collapses as Pursuers Draw Close to His Heels--Charged With Snatching Hand Bag From Women's Grasp.

Run off his feet by a dozen pursuers, Robert James Burton, a slender colored man, was captured yesterday afternoon on West Front street after snatching a handbag, it is alleged, from Miss Pauline French, of 112 Plainfield avenue.

Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court today, held Burton without bail for a hearing tomorrow morning. The police are convinced that the prisoner, who is about twenty-four years old, is the same colored man who snatched a silver mesh bag from the hand of Miss Sadie Coyle of Waynewood place, on West Front street Saturday night. He answers the description furnished by Miss Coyle of the man who got her bag.

Miss French was walking on West Second street, near Plainfield avenue, on her way downtown at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Burton approached from the other direction. When opposite Miss French he reached out, it is charged, snatched the bag, which hung loosely in her grasp, and ran. He turned up Plainfield avenue in the direction of Front street.

Miss French screamed, "Stop him" a half a dozen times, and her cries started several men after the fleeing suspect. He turned toward Grant avnue at Front street, and more men joined the chase. A dozen of them, and a string of small boys, were in his wake.

Edward Swenson, a two-fisted milkman, of Stirling, led the pursuit. He was close behind the slim fugitive when the latter, a few feet from Grant avenue, collapsed breathless. Swenson had him fast when the rest of the pursuers came up. One of them had the bag, which the colored man is said to have thrown away in the course of his flight.

Swenson took his prisoner to the office of George O. Stevens, near where the chase ended, and telephoned to police headquarters. Chief Kiely came after the prisoner.

When he fell Burton cut his head on the sidewalk. It was bandaged at police headquarters. The bag he is alleged to have snatched contained a handkerchief, a pair of spectacles and a dollar in cash.

MR. AND MRS. MORRIS TWENTY-FIVE YEARS WED

Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Morris, of West Front street, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding last night. There were nearly one hundred relatives and friends present. The house was attractively decorated, the colors being green and white. The couple was married in Piscataway township, February 1, 1887, by the late Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of this city.

Mrs. Morris was formerly Miss Mary Wooden, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wooden. Her father died several years ago, but her mother is still living. The couple has resided in the same house for twenty-four years. There are two daughters, the Misses Ethel and Ruth Morris. The couple received a large collection of gifts. During the evening a photograph of the couple and then the company was taken.

ROBERT LOWRIE BURIED IN BOUND BROOK TODAY

Burial was made in the Lowrie plot in the Bound Brook cemetery. The body was borne to the graveside by six grandsons, Robert Giddis, Dr. E. A. Giddis, and Clarkson Lowrie, of this city; Elston Lowrie and Robert Lowrie, of Dunellen, and Eden Hunt, of Stockton.

HE WOULD REFORM THE ELECTION LAWS

INTERESTING TO M'MURRAY

City Clerk's Fees and Election Bills Play a Prominent Part in the Argument of the Reformer—Takes a "Dig" at Mayor Moy Also.

Roger F. Murray wants the county Board of Elections abolished. He uses thinly veiled charges of official jugglery against City Clerk J. T. MacMurray and Mayor Moy as the chief arguments for "simplifying the execution" and reducing expenses under the Geran law. The communication in full is as follows:

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press.

I have been giving considerable thought to the present election law with a view of simplifying its execution and reducing the cost of operation without impairing its efficiency.

While investigating the expenses of carrying out the provisions of the present law in connection with the last primary election I found that the county spent about $42,000 for election purposes and of this amount the city of Plainfield pays between $7,000 and $8,000. In order to find out how much of this expense could be saved I made an examination, as far as possible, of the various items, making up this expense.

The figures I give herewith were taken from the records of the Board of Freeholders; the city treasurer and from estimates made by myself and others, therefore, I can not vouch for the absolute accuracy of all the figures, there are undoubtedly other expenses that I have overlooked:

With these figures before us I would like to call your attention to several of the items in detail. The bill of the Daily Press dated November 1, 1911, to the city reads as follows:

"Printing sample ballots and official ballots for primary election, September, 1911, $423.24; approved George W. V. Moy, Mayor; Approved J. T. MacMurray."

The city treasurer allowed me to see the original bill; from the face of the bill you could not tell how many ballots were printed or what price was charged per thousand. Certainly this is not a business-like way of approving a bill. I doubt whether the Mayor or the committee of the Council when they approved this bill knew how many ballots were being charged for. If the Mayor knew I can't see how he could approve this bill. He is familiar enough with the election law to know that you would not need 41,400 ballots (sample and official) for one primary election with a probability of less than 7,000 names on the registry lists. He should have investigated the reason for printing such an unusual number of ballots.

The Daily Press informed me that this bill was for the following: 14,400 primary tickets, 12,600 primary tickets, 14,400 primary tickets. These tickets were the sample and official primary tickets used at the September primary.

The duplication of the item for 14,400 tickets attracted my attention and I asked the reason for the second lot of 14,400 ballots. I was informed that the city clerk made a mistake in his copy and ordered the tickets reprinted, the cost of reprinting these 14,400 tickets being $129.60. This was included in the bill of $423.24. Thus the city was paying $129.60 to correct an error of the city clerk. My next step was to try and find out what this error was that cost the taxpayers $129.60 These ballots were ordered by the city clerk from the Daily Press; the county clerk furnished the city clerk with a list of all candidates nominated for National, State, and county officers to be voted for by the voters in this city. I am informed by the county clerk that a true and correct copy was sent to Mr. MacMurray

PRESIDENT STRONG FOR CONSERVATION

IN HIS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Favors International Commission on High Cost of Living and Commission to Investigate Industrial Disputes.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2—Striking features of a message of President Taft read in the House and Senate today include a recommendation for government ownership of railroads in Alaska and the leasing of coal lands in that territory. He also urges Federal control of water power sites and comes out strongly for an international commission on the high cost of living. He proposes a commission to investigate industrial disputes and kindred matters affecting labor. A bureau of national parks is another suggestion.

The message follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

There is no branch of the federal jurisdiction which calls more imperatively for immediate legislation than that which concerns the public domain and especially the part of that domain which is in Alaska. The report of the secretary of the interior, which is transmitted herewith, and the report to him of the governor of Alaska set out the public need in this regard with great force and in satisfactory detail.

The progress under the reclamation act has made clear the defects of its limitations which should be remedied. The rules governing the acquisition of homesteads of land that is not arid or semiarid are not well adapted to the perfecting of title to land made arable by government reclamation work.

I concur with the secretary of the interior in his recommendation that, after entry is made upon land being reclaimed, actual occupation as a homestead of the same be not required until two years after entry, but that cultivation of the same shall be required and that the present provision under which the land is to be paid for in ten annual installments shall be so modified as to allow a patent to issue for the land at the end of five years' cultivation and three years' occupation, with a reservation of a government lien for the amount of the unpaid purchase money. This leniency to the reclamation homesteader will relieve him from occupation at a time when the condition of the land makes it most burdensome and difficult and at the end of five years will furnish him with a title upon which he can borrow money and continue the improvement of his holding.

I also concur in the recommendation of the secretary of the interior that all of our public domain should be classified and that each class should be disposed of or administered in the manner most appropriate to that particular class.

The chief change, however, which ought to be made and which I have already recommended in previous messages and communications to congress is that by which government coal land and phosphate and other mineral lands containing nonmetalliferous minerals shall be leased by the government, with restrictions as to size and time, resembling those which now obtain throughout the country between the owners in fee and the lessees who work the mines and in leases like those which have been most successful in Australia, New Zealand and Nova Scotia. The showing made by investigations into the successful working of the leasing system leaves no doubt as to its wisdom and practical utility. Requirements as to the working of the mine during the term may be so framed as to prevent any holding of large mining properties merely for speculation, while the royalties may be made sufficiently low not unduly to increase the cost of the coal mined and at the same time sufficient to furnish a reasonable income for the use of the public in the community where the mining goes on. In Alaska there is no reason why a substantial income should not thus be raised for such public works as may be deemed necessary or useful.

There is no difference between the reasons which call for the application of the leasing system to the coal lands still retained by the government in the United States proper and those which exist in Alaska.

There are now in Alaska only two well known high grade coal fields of large extent, the Bering river coal field and the Matanuska coal field. The Bering river coal field, while it has varying qualities of coal from the bituminous to the anthracite, is very much lessened in value and usefulness by the grinding effect to which in geological ages past the coal measures have been subjected, so that the coal does not lie or cannot be mined in large

Those who go abroad will visit every place described at the start, and if arrangements can be made satisfactorily the tour will be extended. The itinerary will include England, Holland, Belgium, The Rhine, Germany and France.

The tourists will sail from Philadelphia on June 29, on an American line steamer, the arrival being made at Liverpool, from which point the trip to London will be made by a special train, run especially for those on the Cook tour.

Will Ask for Less Amount.

The city poor work is progressing satisfactorily under the direction of Henry L. DeForest, the new overseer-of-the-poor. At a meeting of the alms committee this week it was practically agreed to ask for less money for the coming year than last year, it being the belief of the committee and Mr. DeForest that a less amount will be required. There are eighteen inmates of the poor house at present.

BILL SCHORB MEETS A COUSIN HE'D NEVER SEEN

William Schorb, of East Front street, was given a surprise yesterday, when his cousin, Joseph Ubbink, of Port Washington, Wisconsin, called to see him. It was the first time the two had met, although Mr. Schorb knew that his cousin was living in Port Washington, and the latter knew that Mr. Schorb was in Plainfield.

Mr. Ubbink, who is president and treasurer of the Ubbink Steel Form Company, of Port Washington, was attending the cement show in New York, and decided to avail himself of the chance to visit his cousin in this city.

Mr. Ubbink's father and his sister, who was the mother of Mr. Schorb, came to this country together from Holland sixty years ago. Mr. Ubbink went to Port Washington, where he settled and where his son was born. A sister of Mr. Ubbink, Sr., and Mrs. Schorb went west about the same time as the former, but she has never been heard from and it is not known whether she is dead or alive. Mr. Ubbink returned to New York last night after a pleasant visit.

ALEXANDER GILBERT TO PROBASCO BIBLE CLASS

The members of the Dr. Norman H. Probasco Bible Class listened to an address by Alexander Gilbert, at the Y. M. C. A., last night. His subject was "Young Men: Your Opportunities." There were about sixty present.

Mr. Gilbert said in part:

"How to increase your calibre, is the one question which is of the utmost importance to each one of you. Be above the average man's viewpoint.

"Each of you have the time and opportunity to develop yourselves. Pick out the career you would choose. Make your life work the one thing you feel that you could be successful at. Forget that you want pleasures. Concentrate upon that one thing to make your life a success. It will only take three, or perhaps four years for any one of you to develop the very best that is in you, and once you have developed your capabilities no man can foretell to what height you will rise."

Fare to Philly Jumps.

The New Jersey Central, Philadelphia and Reading Railroad companies have made several changes in rates, effective February 1. The single fare from here to Newark has been raised on cent, bing 43 instead of 42 cents, the round trip being the same. The single rate between this city and Philadlphia is $1.70, and the round trip $3.40, with a ten instead of six days' limit. Nothing is saved by buying a round trip. No changes are made between Plainfield and New York.

DINNER IN HONOR OF ALEX. AYERS

Friends Sound Praises of Former Poormaster at Feast at the Waldorf.

PRESENT A SET OF DISHES

F. H. Smith, Ralph I. Tolles, Newton B. Smalley and Others Pay Tributes to the Guest of Honor—Wm. Newcorn the Toastmaster.

Friends of Alexander D. Ayers, the former overseer-of-the-poor, gave him a testimonial dinner at the Waldorf Hotel, last night. In the speeches, which followed the excellent dinner served by Henry Windham, everyone sounded the praises of the guest of honor. At the close of the affair Mr. Ayers was presented with a handsome set of dishes.

Judge William Newcorn was the toastmaster, and the speakers included former Mayor James F. Buckle, R. I. Tolles, President of the Common Council; Winfield S. Angleman, former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield; County Republican Chairman Frank H. Smith, former Mayor James F. Buckle, Sheriff William H. Wright, of Rahway; Harry Barch, overseer-of-the-poor of Hoboken; George J. Tobin, J. J. Connolly and "Chief" McDuff, of this city. They acclaimed Mr. Ayers as a faithful and efficient official, and as a loyal associate.

"I always was a little fussy about loyalty," said former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, "and I am glad to hear that Mr. Ayers has been loyal and faithful. I, too, have had some loyal friends. We are now approaching a Presidential campaign and we are seeing a beautiful exhibition of loyalty. I am sorry to see in our own party such an exhibition. This word 'Get-together' has a significatn meaning to me. Someone must get together. The leaders should get together and pick a standard-bearer. Personally, I think Taft is good enough and I would like to see others loyal to him."

Harry Barch, of Hoboken, who is State president of the Overseer-of-the-Poors' Association, praised Mr. Ayers for his work, asserting that his eleven years' of service was exceedingly valuable to the city. In his opinion Plainfield did not realize what it was doing in putting Mr. Ayers out of office.

After the presentation of the dinner set to the guest of the evening, Mr. Ayers made a speech in jesting vein. During the serving of the dinner an orchestra discoursed popular airs. The success of the whole affair was due to Herman Adelberg, chairman of the committee.

Having given up a good many years in the industry, can and does guarantee every coat, fur sets, etc., that leaves his store. FOUR NEW WARSHIPS NEEDED BY THE NAVY.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Admiral Dewey yesterday declared himself in favor not only of two battleships, which the Democratic caucus has refused to provide this year, but four. These are needed, Admiral Dewey said, to replace four ships which will go out of the line as obsolete next year. Despite the action of the Democratic caucus Admiral Dewey is confident that the navy will get at least two battleships this year.

The authorization of two new battleships at this session of Congress is necessary to prevent a step backward," said Admiral Dewey yesterday, "but four are needed to keep the fleet up to its present standing.

"Four battleships authorized this year would take the place of the four that are soon to go out as obsolete. These antiquated vessels are the Iowa, the Indiana, the Massachusetts and the Oregon. They have neither the speed, guns nor armor of the present day requirements."

FOUR KILLED, 36 HURT BY TROLLEYS IN JANUARY.

Trenton, Feb. 2.—The accidents on trolley lines in New Jersey during the month of January as reported to the Public Utilities Commission show four persons killed and thirty-six injured. One boy was killed by coasting into the side of a car. One man was killed by being caught between two cars; one pedestrian was killed by being struck by a car, and one employe received fatal injuries when a car was derailed.

Sixteen of the thirty-six were injured in collisions with wagons. These statistics were compiled from information filed with the Public Utilities Commission by the different trolley lines in the State in compliance with a rule recently adopted by the commission.

The Junior C. E. Society of the West End Tabernacle met yesterday afternoon and enjoyed a special program. The weekly prayer-meeting last night was in charge of George Robbins.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

"East Lynne," that grand old emotional drama, that has been called peculiar and old-fashioned, but which still retains all of its appealing power and attractiveness, will be presented at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow by a strong company of leading players who have filled the characters assigned them successfully for years. The familiar story of the play teaches that the wages of sin is death, and proves its case in a thoroughly natural and convincing manner. Yet there is a strong vein of humor running through the piece that relieves the pathos and the tears and reminds us that after all life is really worth while. The present production is in the hands of a capable and experienced company, and the management has given particular attention to detail, so the present piece measures up to the best traditions of former years.

"The Gamblers" will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre February 5. This excellently constructed drama by Charles Klein recorded the longest run of any serious play produced in New York last season, remaining at Maxine Elliott's theatre for over 200 consecutive performances. The story of the play has to do with Wilbur Emerson, a young and ambitious speculator, who has been made manager of the Emerson chain of banks. He is guilty of misusing the funds in his effort for expansion and is trapped by the Federal authorities. One of the directors turns State's evidence and delivers certain incriminating notes to the Federal attorney's house. But at this point another big interest enters. Emerson's efforts by theft to regain possession of those notes, especially to shield his father, the bank's president, who has been deceived in the whole operation, involves the young man with the lawyer's wife and stirs his jealous suspicions of her.

CREDITORS CAUSE ARREST OF NEW BRUNSWICK MAN.

New Brunswick, Feb. 2—Following bankruptcy proceedings instituted by local creditors, Charles F. Hayes, former owner of the Mansion House here, was arrested at the National Democratic Club in New York city Wednesday under a warrant issued by Judge C. M. Hough.

The court has directed that Hayes furnish bonds in $10,000 to appear for immediate examination as to his property or remain in custody pending his examination. Hayes owes local merchants claims amounting to about $2,500 besides $4,000 due Jean Brivoul, from whom Hayes purchased the hotel, on unmatured notes.

Hayes sold the Mansion House January 5 to Robert M. Wallace, of Tarrytown, for several thousand dollars. Early the next day he packed up his four trunks, drew the cash he had in two local banks and left town for New York city. He went to the National Bank of New Jersey, where he secured a certified check for $2,500 and then went to the New Brunswick Trust Company, where he had another account, had the $2,500 check cashed and withdrew his account there.

PLAINFIELD'S NEIGHBORS

TELLS OF DEFENSE FUND.

Secretary Morrison of American Federation of Labor a Grand Jury Witness.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, is here from Washington, with four big trunks, which were taken at once to the federal building, and later Morrison went into the grand jury room and gave testimony as to the defense fund that was raised for John J. McNamara.

"It will not take long to examine our records concerning the defense fund, I should judge," said Morrison, "although that matter is, of course, something for the government to determine. There are more than 1000 entries showing receipts for the fund. The number of entries showing disbursements is not so large. Approximately $250,000 was raised, of which about $10,000 is now in my hands. The complete statement showing in detail just what money came in and how it was paid out will be issued within a very short time."

He said he had no comment to make on the indictments against Darrow.

MANUEL WOULD RULE AGAIN.

Ex-King and Pretender Agree to Fight For Throne of Portugal.

London, Feb. 2.—It is understood that the conference held at the Lord Warden hotel at Dover between former King Manuel of Portugal and Dom Miguel of Braganza, the pretender to the Portuguese throne and father of Prince Miguel, who married Anita Stewart of New York, Dom Miguel spontaneously offered to help to the utmost of his power to again place King Manuel on the throne of his country. An agreement to that effect was signed.

It is rumored that the arrangement includes the betrothal of King Manuel to one of the daughters of Dom Miguel.

There is already a party in Portugal that prefers Dom Miguel to either King Manuel or a republic. Current labor troubles are accentuating the situation, and reports from Paris are that royalists there do not consider the crowning of Dom Miguel and the elevation of his American wife as entirely improbable.

Candlemas Day was observed in St. John's church, this morning, by a special mass at 10 o'clock, during which the candles to be used on the altar during the coming year were blessed. MAY PROSECUTE EXPRESS TRUST

Rates Abroad Are Much Lower Than In U. S.

RAILROADS GET PROFITS.

Tendency Shows That Railroad Companies Get the Major Portion of the Total and Net Revenues—Commissioner Lane Says Companies May Be Forced to Consolidate as a Remedy.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Among other things brought out at the hearing before the interstate commerce commission in the probe of express companies are the following:

That the express companies of the country will face criminal prosecutions if the records continue to show great numbers of overcharges and undercharges.

That rates abroad are lower by far than express rates in the United States.

That rates to shippers of parcels from this country to France for the portion of the haul in the United States is in some instances 300 per cent higher than the domestic rates for the transportation for a like parcel between the same points and for the United States haul on a parcel which originates in France nearly 100 per cent higher than for a like haul of a domestic parcel.

That the Adams Express company spent for the year ending June 30, 1910, $51,885 which it designated as "gratuities," but charged to operating expenses.

It was intimated by Commissioner Lane in the course of the hearing that the consolidation of all the express companies might be a remedy for evils complained of, and this consolidation would be warranted in the same manner as the agreement by railroads to maintain the same rates subject to the control of the interstate commerce commission.

The tendency of all the testimony thus far seems to be that the express companies do not make exorbitant profits, but that the railroad companies get the major portion of the total and net revenues. In view of this the express companies may be compelled, notwithstanding the interrelationship between them and the railroads, to solve their problems by formally complaining to the interstate commerce commission against the rates charged by the railroad, which, according to the figures before the commission, amount to 55 per cent of the gross revenue.

W. A. Ryan, special examiner, placed on the record statistics showing that one company in a single day had made 4,000 undercharges and overcharges and another had made 3,000 undercharges and overcharges, there being in this total 2,988 overcharges in all. When these statistics were placed in the record from the express companies' own books Commissioner Lane, who presided at the hearing, made the following comment, addressing representatives of the express companies:

"It has been conclusively shown that your express rates are unintelligible even to your own agents, and the commission is going to prosecute you unless there is a decided change. If we would undertake to prosecute every overcharge we would bankrupt and put out of business every express company in the United States. I will warrant that if there is one letter of protest against overcharges filed with the commission there are 10,000. You have got to put in some system by which everybody can tell what the rates are. I have had three rates quoted to me by the same agent on the same package on the same day."

PRINCE ACTS FOR WILSON.

New Jersey "Sub" Governor Also a College "Prof."

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 2.—Senator John D. Prince of Passaic county, professor of languages at Columbia university, was sworn in as acting governor of New Jersey while Governor Wilson is making speeches in Virginia. The oath was administered to Senator Prince by Assistant Attorney General Nelson B. Gaskill. The only official business to come before the acting governor was the matter of four requisitions, which he took up with the attorney general's office.

DEATH WINS RACE.

Countess Defermon Learns of Father's Death at Dock.

New York, Feb. 2.—Count Cinoux Defermon, who brought his wife, who was a Miss Cochrane of Philadelphia, over from France on the American liner New York in the hope that she would be in time to see her father, George Cochrane, a banker, before he died, was visibly affected when the countess was handed a telegram at the dock telling of her father's death.

PERTH AMBOY'S ACTING MAYORALTY ROW IN COURT.

Trenton, Feb. 2. Quo warranto proceedings were begun in the Supreme Court yesterday by Ford Garretson to test the right of Lawrence C. Fallon to act as Mayor of Perth Amboy. Garretson claims to be entitled to the office, and charges that Fallon is usurping it.

Albert Hollaebweiler was elected Mayor in November, 1909, and served until his election as sheriff made him ineligible. In 1909 William D. Voorhees was elected alderman-at-large, and served until January 1 last, when his term expired. From November 15 until January 1 Voorhees, as alderman-at-large, also became acting Mayor.

Garretson was elected alderman-at-large last November, and it is his contention that when the term of Voorhees expired he (Garretson) was entitled to become acting Mayor.

At the meeting January 3, however, the Board of Aldermen elected Fallon vice-president, and provides that the vice-president should act in the absence of the president or Mayor.

Garretson declares that this action was illegal, and assigns as one reason that the resolution was adopted by an aye and nay vote, instead of by roll call.

County Engineers Meet.

Trenton, Feb. 2.—With every county in the State represented, the New Jersey Association of County Engineers began its first annual meeting here yesterday. Earle, Jr., of Bergen; "Penetration Work," William C. Cattell, of Gloucester; "Delaware River Drive," A. H. Konkle; "The New Specifications," James Owen, Essex; "Dust Layers," Frank J. Eppel, of Mercer; "The Contractor and the Engineer," John J. Albertson, of Camden. Officers will be elected late today.

AT LAST, CHATHAM'S TROLLEY DREAM IS REALIZED.

Chatham, Feb. 2. — Chatham's dream of a trolley line was realized yesterday when a car of the Morris County Traction Company, after a trip occupying nearly twenty-four hours, during which it made about two miles, stopped at Main street and Passaic avenue. There was a large crowd to see the opening of trolley communication, and as the car stopped on the corner it was greeted with cheers.

The trip from Summit was necessarily slow because the rails were covered with snow and ice and this had to be removed as the electric vehicle went along.

It is expected that the road as far as Madison will be open tonight.

ROSELLE GIRLS DECLARE STRIKE ON BOYS' QUINTET.

Roselle, Feb. 2—Girls of Roselle Park High School have declared a boycott on the Roselle High School boys' basketball squad. They say the Roselle boys are "cheap guys."

The Roselle Park High School Athletic Association leases its basketball court to the Roselle squad afternoons from 2 until 4 o'clock. At 4 o'clock the Roselle Park girls play.

The girls claim that the Roselle boys refuse to leave the building when a game is scheduled and also refuse to pay.

Newcorn, J. P.; County Fame.
(Newark News).

Cranford, Feb. 1.—On the charge that he sold "horse fat" for butter, Bernard King will be tried in Justice of the Peace Newcorn's court in Plainfield Saturday. The complaint was made by Dr. Alfred H. Miller, on information furnished by Mrs. Emma Budelman, who alleged that she bought the product from King. State inspectors from the Board of Health were here yesterday and are working with the local authorities.

Plainfield, N. J., February 2, 1912.

The bill to be introduced in the House by Assemblyman George L. Babcock providing that the Stars and Stripes shall be displayed at every polling place on Election Day appears to be a most excellent measure. There is nothing partisan about the suggestion for it appeals to that love of country which should be endearingly possessed by all citizens. Love of country has been the great sustaining force giving permanency to our institutions. The right to vote was won by the American people through struggle and sacrifice and the American flag typifies the glorious achievements of the past and holds hope and cheer for the future.

The flag at the polling places will give out a challenge to duty and patriotism. If the people fail in their civic duties, especially on primary and election days, the months following will in some way show that failure. The trouble has been not so much with our system of government as it appears to have been in a general inattention to the duties involved in the exalted title of American citizenship. If a flag at the polling places will give an inspiration to duty, let us have it there.

It is as clear as sunlight that no matter what the form of government may be unless it is continuously sustained by an alert and unselfish citizenship bad and expensive government will be the result. Let there be a flag at each polling place and also a firm, unchanging resolution to stand by those institutions and that government which have been successfully tried for over a century.

Were it not intended simply as political strategy, there might be some merit in the resolution introduced by Representative Slayden, of Texas, in the Federal House placing the House on record as opposed to a third term for a President. The resolution in question, we are told, is an exact copy of one presented in the House in December, 1875, by a Democratic representative from Illinois, the purpose of the latter being solely to prevent General Grant obtaining a third term.

It is couched in this languge:

"Resolved, That in the opinion of this house the precedent established by Washington and other presidents of the United States in retiring from the presidential office after their second term has become by universal concurrence a part of our republican system of government and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

A merry time may be expected when the resolution comes up for a hearing on Monday and not unlikely there will be a stormy scene particularly as it is a thrust at representative men in all parts of the country who are clamoring for a renomination of Roosevelt.

The rapid growth of the Boy Scout movement not only in this country but throughout the world is little short of marvellous. There are today over 2,000,000 boys active in the international "armies," a fourth of the total enlistments being right here in the United States. Great progress is being made also in Germany, where financial assistance is lent by the Government, Italy, France, Australia, Canada and chief of all in Great Britain. The interest in the movement has been somewhat quickened by the arrival yesterday in this country of its founder, Lieutenant-General Sir Baden-Powell. At the headquarters, he was greeted by Dan. C. Baird and Ernest Thompson Seton, two of the foremost American leaders.

There is nothing remarkable in the fact that Governor Wilson gave his seat in a crowded trolley car to a woman. Gentlemen are doing that every day.—Trenton State Gazette.

Then you will admit that Governor Wilson is a gentleman?

That rumbling sound at Oyster Bay, L. I., this morning, was no doubt caused by the news that the St. Louis Republican committee voted last night, twenty-five to one, in favor of Taft and the New York county committee by 582 to 17.

REFORM ELECTION LAWS

according to law. In making up the copy for the printer, Mr. MacMurray did not follow the copy received from the county clerk, but changed Mr. Pierce's platform. He not only changed the meaning but he changed the order of designation, the designation of platform that Mr. MacMurray sent to the printer, and from which the sample ballots were printed, contained seven words, which might have caused all the votes for Mr. Pierce to have been thrown out.

The law only allows six words. I have not time to go into a full explanation of the details of this change. However, it is well known that the changed platform, undiscovered, would have injured Mr. Pierce's chances of nomination. It is also well known that Mr. MacMurray favored the nomination of Mr. Thompson, who was the opponent of Mr. Pierce on the same ballot. If this was a political trick to injure Mr. Pierce (nipped in the bud), I certainly hope it was not, I feel that the Common Council should make a thorough investigation of this transaction and get all the facts; that we will be in a better position to determine who should paid this charge of $129.60 for reprinting these ballots. No one appreciates the valuable services rendered the taxpayers of our city by the members of the Common Council more than I do and this appreciation has prompted me to give considerable time and energy in doing the preliminary work of an investigation that I feel sure our Council will make now that their attention has been called to some of the facts.

The apparent ease with which this bill passed through the Mayor and Common Council would indicate to me a loose practice in allowing the city clerk to purchase and approve his own bills without furnishing the Council with specific information of the contents of each bill.

Take the bill of J. T. MacMurray rendered to the county for $513.50. The first item, $360, was for services in connection with the election. The Board of Freeholders informed me that they decided to allow each municipal clerk $30 per election district in his municipality for his services. As our city clerk only charged $20 per district I was surprised; however, upon further investigation I found that he charged the city $10 per district (see voucher No. 29,085). The next item was for carriage hire, etc., $90. I asked if it was not customary for the municipal clerks to furnish the board with itemized receipted vouchers for all money expended by them for account of the county. I was informed that it was, so I requested that I be allowed to examine the receipted vouchers filed by Mr. MacMurray with his claim for $90 for carriage hire, etc. I was informed that Mr. MacMurray did not file the customary itemized receipted vouchers for this claim this year, therefore, I am sorry to say, I can not state in detail to whom and for what purpose Mr. MacMurray paid out this $90. No receipted itemized vouchers were filed for the next item, printing and advertising, $63.50.

The bill of D. S. Dunavan for carting, recarting, erecting, taking down booths, tables, chairs, etc., etc., for $317.03 seems high to me; this bill is approved by J. H. MacMurray.

The Common Council has just re-elected James T. MacMurray city clerk for a term of three years at a salary of $1,200 per year in addition to the fees allowed by law. During the campaign of 1910 Mr. Moy made the statement on a public platform that the city clerk had informed him that he (the city clerk) believed the fees of his office should go to the city. This statement was made in the presence of the city clerk and at least two members of the present Council and I have never heard that the city clerk has denied that he ever made such a statement to Mr. Moy. I therefore assume the the statement to be true, yet, in the face of this statement, I am informed by a member of the Council that he does not know that any effort was made by the members of the Council when making the new contract with Mr. MacMurray, to have his agree to turn over to the city all the fees of his office. Instead they have made a three year contract with Mr. MacMurray practically compelling him to accept fees that he believes should go to the city. I wish I was in a position to give you a detailed statement of what these are. I understand the city clerk has furnished a statement of these fees to members of the Council; ever since I heard that such a statement had been furnished I have been trying to get from the members of the Council a copy of the same so I might investigate each item. Although promised such a copy weeks ago, I regret to say it has not come to hand up to this date.

I saw an item in the Mayor's message "fees to city clerk $386.40." I would like to ask you if I am to understand from this, that the Mayor would have me believe that the fees paid to the city clerk by or through the city was only $386.40. Surely the Mayor knows that such an impression would not be true.

In the Mayor's message he says there were issued 798 dog and 481 hunters licenses; from these two classes of licenses alone I am informed the city clerk received $271.65, and he received a fee of $180 for primary elections. These three items would amount to $451.65 without taking any note of the many other fees; perhaps the Council, under the circumstances, may later on, consider it their duty to the taxpayers of Plainfield to give out a detailed statement of the fees received by the clerk from city and county.

I find that the Common Council has paid bills for election purposes amounting to about $780.00; these bills should have been paid by the county. The election law provides that the expenses of the primary and general election shall be paid by the Board of Freeholders. I think the principal reason given by the Common Council for the re-election of the city clerk was his knowledge of the laws, his familiarity with the duties of the clerk's office. It would seem that either their judgment of the city clerk's knowledge the Council was mistaken in that the clerk failed to use his knowledge of the election law when he audited bills for some $780 for the city to pay that should have been paid by the county. I have always believed that the Mayor exercised unusual care in approving city bills; I can't understand with his knowledge of the laws, why he approved these bills that were not proper charges against the city. I believe if our Mayor and Council will take the necessary steps this money will be repaid to the city by the county.

I am informed by the city clerk clerk and comptroller of Elizabeth that the Board of Freeholders paid all the primary and election expenses of the city of Elizabeth, except the advertisement of the location of the polls.

The County Board of Election cost the county over $4000. I feel that this is absolutely unnecessary. Compare the amount paid a member of the county board, for I understand about seven full days work, with the amount paid to Mr. G. T. Dunham for his six days work and expenses.

Take the item of automobile hire, $145. These autos were hired to collect belated returns from members of the Boards of Registry and Election. Instead of hiring autos, the court should issue warrants for the delinquent members and compel them to produce the returns. This process, it strikes me, would be much cheaper.

I think it would be to the advantage of our taxpayers if our Freeholders and Common Council would follow the example of President Taft and appoint an efficiency and economy commission. I have urged the appointment of such a commission in our State for several years.

I don't want you to think for one minute that I am drifting towards insurgency or progressive Republicanism; none for mine, I have always believed and I still believe that all true organization machine Republicans believe in strict economy and efficient business methods in public office; if there are any Republicans in office who do not carry out these principles, in my judgment they are not true to their party nor just to the public.

My investigation of these expenses has prompted me to suggest to Senator Pierce an amendment to the present election law abolishing the County Boards of Election and have their duties performed by officials or employees of the county now on a salary, thus saving the county $4,000 per year. I have also suggested an amendment requiring the municipal clerks to perform all duties required of them by the election law without compensation, thus saving our county about $500 in Plainfield each year.

If any of our citizens, after studying the foregoing figures, believe that the amendments I have suggested to the election law should be adopted, I would be pleased to have them write our Senator and Assemblymen urging them to support the amendment.

Yours truly,
R. F. MURRAY.

Firehorse Dead; Stall Draped.

Morristown, Feb. 2.—Tom, who, with Jerry, made up the team of Resolute Hook and Ladder Company, died Wednesday after an illness of only a few hours. Tom's death was due to spinal meningitis, and the stall which he occupied for sixteen years is to be draped with black by the "hookies." Tom was twenty-three years old, and a better horse, the Resolute boys say, never pulled a fire apparatus. The faithful old animal will be buried on the John Denman land in Mt. Kemble avenue. If some of the Resolute firemen have their way a slab will be placed over his grave.

Besides her husband she leaves a son, Arthur Higgins, of Philadelphia. She was a member of the Methodist church and active in its work. The funeral services were held in that edifice this morning. Rev. James Jamieson, the pastor, officiated and the burial was at Whitehouse.

TAFT'S SPECIAL MEASURE

lumps. It must be taken out in almost a powdered condition. The same difficulty does not appear to the same extent in the Matanuska coal fields. The Bering river coal fields are only twenty-five miles from the coast. They are within easy distance of an existing railroad built by the Morgan-Guggenheim interests and may also be reached through Controller bay by the construction of other and competing railroads.

Controller bay is not a good harbor, but could probably be made practical with the expenditure of considerable money. The railroad of the Morgan-Guggenheim interests, running from Cordova, could be made a coal carrying road for the Bering river fields by the construction of a branch to those fields not exceeding fifty or sixty miles. It is practicable, and if the coal measures were to be opened up doubtless the branch would be built. In the present condition of things there is no motive to build the road, because there is no title or opportunity to open and mine the coal.

The Matanuska coal fields are a longer distance from the coast. They are from 150 to 200 miles from the harbor of Seward, on Resurrection bay. This is one of the finest harbors in the world, and a reservation has been made there for the use of the navy of the United States. A road constructed from Seward to the Matanuska coal fields would form part of a system reaching from the coast into the heart of Alaska and open the great interior valleys of the Yukon and the Tanana, which have agricultural as well as great mineral possibilities.

The Alaska Central road has been constructed some seventy-one miles of the distance from Seward north to the Matanuska coal fields, but the construction beyond this has been discouraged, first, by the fact that there has been no policy adopted of opening up the coal lands upon which investors could depend and, second, because there seems to be a lack of financial backing of those engaged in the enterprise. The secretary of the interior has ascertained that the bondholders, who are the real owners of the road, are willing to sell to the government, and he recommends the purchase of the existing road, such reconstruction as may be necessary, its continuance to the Matanuska coal fields and thence into the valleys of the Yukon and the Tanana. It would be a great trunk line and would be an opening up of Alaska by government capital.

I am not in favor of government ownership where the same certainty and efficiency of service can be had by private enterprise, but I think the conditions presented in Alaska are of such a character as to warrant the government, for the purpose of encouraging the development of that vast and remarkable territory, to build and own a trunk line railroad, which it can lease on terms which may be varied and changed to meet the growing prosperity and development of the territory.

There is nothing in the history of the United States which affords such just reason for criticism as the failure of the federal government to extend the benefit of its fostering care to the territory of Alaska. There was a time, of course, when Alaska was regarded as so far removed into the Arctic ocean as to make any development of it practically impossible, but for years the facts have been known to those who have been responsible for its government, and every one who has given the subject the slightest consideration has been aware of the wonderful possibilities in its growth and development if only capital were invested there and a good government put over it. I think the United States owes it, therefore, to Alaska and to the people who have gone there to take an exceptional step and to build a railroad that shall open the treasures of Alaska to the Pacific and to the people who live along that ocean on our western coast. The construction of a railroad and ownership of the fee do not necessitate government operation. Pursuant, however, to the recommendation of the secretary of the interior, I suggest to congress the wisdom of providing that the president may appoint a commission of competent persons, including two army engineers, to examine and report upon the available routes for a railroad from Seward to the Matanuska coal fields and into the Tanana and Yukon valleys, with an estimate of the value of the existing partially constructed railroad and of the cost of continuing the railroad to the proper points in the valleys named. This proposal is further justified by the need that the navy of the United States has for a secure coaling base in the north Pacific. The commission ought to make a full report also as to the character of the coal fields at Matanuska and the problem of furnishing coal from that source for mercantile purposes after reserving for government mining a sufficient quantity for the navy.

I have already recommended to congress the establishment of a form of commission government for Alaska. The territory is too extended, its needs are too varied and its distance from Washington too remote to enable congress to keep up with its necessities in the matter of legislation of a local character.

The governor of Alaska in his report, which accompanies that of the secretary of the interior, points out certain laws that ought to be adopted and emphasizes what I have said as to the immediate need for a government of much wider powers than now exists there if it can be said to have any government at all.

I do not stop to dwell upon the lack of provision for the health of the inhabitants and the absence or inadequacy of laws, the mere statement of which shows their crying need. I only press upon congress the imperative necessity for taking action not only to permit the beginning of the development of Alaska and the opening of her resources, but to provide laws which shall give to those who come under their jurisdiction decent protection.

Lower Colorado River.

There is transmitted herewith a letter from the secretary of the interior setting out the work done under joint resolution approved June 25, 1910, authorizing the expenditure of $1,000,000 or so much thereof as might be necessary, to be expended by the president for the purpose of protecting lands and property in the Imperial valley and elsewhere along the Colorado river in Arizona. The money was expended and the protective works erected, but the disturbances in Mexico so delayed the work and the floods in the Colorado river were so extensive that a part of the works have been carried away, and the need for further action and expenditure of money exists. I do not make a definite recommendation at present, for the reason that the plan to be adopted for the betterment of conditions near the mouth of the Colorado river proves to be so dependent on a free and full agreement between the government of Mexico and the government of the United States as to joint expenditure and joint use that it is unwise to move until we can obtain some agreement with that government which will enable us to submit to congress a larger plan better adapted to the exigencies presented than the one adopted. It is essential that we act promptly, and through the state department the matter is being pressed upon the attention of the Mexican government. Meantime a report of the engineer in charge, together with a subsequent report upon his work by a body of experts appointed by the secretary of the interior, together with an offer by the Southern Pacific railroad to do the work at a certain price with a guaranty for a year, and a comment upon this offer by Brigadier General Marshall, late chief of engineers, United States army, and now consulting engineer of the reclamation service, are all herewith transmitted.

Water Power Sites.

In previous communications to congress I have pointed out two methods by which the water power sites on nonnavigable streams may be controlled as between the state and the national government. It has seemed wise that the control should be concentrated in one government or the other as the active participant in supervising its use by private enterprise. In most cases where the government owns what are called water power sites along nonnavigable streams, which are really riparian lots, without which the power in the stream cannot be used, we have a situation as to ownership that may be described as follows: The federal government has land without which the power in the stream cannot be transmuted into electricity and applied at a distance, while it is claimed that the state under the law of waters as it prevails in many of our western states controls the use of the water and gives the beneficial use to the first and continuous user. In order to secure proper care by the state governments over these sources of power it has been proposed that the government shall deed the water power site to the state on condition that the site and all the plant upon it shall revert to the government unless the state parts with the site only by a lease, the terms of which it enforces and which requires a revaluation of the rental every ten years, the full term to last not more than fifty years. A failure of the state to make and enforce such leases would enable the government by an action of forfeiture to recover the power sites and all plants that might be erected thereon, and this power of penalizing those who succeed to the control would furnish a motive to compel the observance of the policy of the government.

The secretary of the interior has suggested another method by which the water power site shall be leased directly by the government to those who exercise a public franchise under provisions imposing a rental for the water power to create a fund to be expended by the general government for the improvement of the stream and the benefit of the local community where the power site is, and permitting the state to regulate the rates at which the converted power is sold. The latter method suggested by the secretary is a more direct method for federal control, and in view of the probable union and systematic organization and welding together of the power derived from water within a radius of 300 or 400 miles, I think it better that the power of control should remain in the national government than that it should be turned over to the states. Under such a system the federal government would have such direct supervision of the whole matter that any honest administration could easily prevent the abuses which a monopoly of absolute ownership in private persons or companies would make possible.

Bureau of National Parks.

I earnestly recommend the establishment of a bureau of national parks. Such legislation is essential to the proper management of those wondrous manifestations of nature, so startling and so beautiful that every one recognizes the obligations of the government to preserve them for the edification and recreation of the people. The Yellowstone park, the Yosemite, the Grand canyon of the Colorado, the Glacier National park and the Mount Rainier National park and others furnish appropriate instances. In only one case have we made anything like adequate preparation for the use of a park by the public. That case is the Yellowstone National park. Every consideration of patriotism and the love of nature and of beauty and of art requires us to expend money enough to bring all these natural wonders within easy reach of our people. The first step in that direction is the establishment of a responsible bureau which shall take upon itself the burden of supervising the parks and of making recommendations as to the best method of improving their accessibility and usefulness.

International Commission on the Cost of Living.

There has been a strong movement among economists, business men and others interested in economic investigation to secure the appointment of an international commission to look into the cause for the high prices of the necessities of life. There is no doubt but that a commission could be appointed of such unprejudiced and impartial persons, experts in investigation of economic facts, that a great deal of very valuable light could be shed upon the reasons for the high prices that have so distressed the people of the world and information given upon which action might be taken to reduce the cost of living. The very satisfactory report of the railway stock and bonds commission indicates how useful an investigation of this kind can be when undertaken by men who have had adequate experience in economic inquiries and a levelheadedness and judgment correctly to apply sound principles to the facts found.

For some years past the high and steadily increasing cost of living has been a matter of such grave public concern that I deem it of great public interest that an international conference be proposed at this time for the purpose of preparing plans, to be submitted to the various governments, for an international inquiry into the high cost of living, its extent, causes, effects and possible remedies. I therefore recommend that to enable the president to invite foreign governments to such a conference, to be held at Washington or elsewhere, the congress provide an appropriation, not to exceed $20,000, to defray the expenses of preparation and of participation by the United States.

The numerous investigations on the subject, official or other, already made in various countries (such as Austria, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, the Netherlands and the United States) have themselves strongly demonstrated the need of further study of world-wide scope. Those who have conducted these investigations have found that the phenomenon of rising prices is almost, if not quite, general throughout the world, but they are baffled in the attempt to trace the causes by the impossibility of making any accurate international comparisons. This is because, in spite of the number of investigations already made, we are still without adequate data and because as yet no two countries estimate their price levels on the same basis or by the same methods.

As already indicated, the preliminary conference itself would entail a comparatively small expense, and most of the subsequent investigations for which it would prepare the way could be carried out by existing bureaus in this and other governments as part of their regular work and would require little, if any, additional appropriations for such bureaus.

Commission on Industrial Relations.

The extraordinary growth of industry in the past two decades and its revolutionary changes have raised new and vital questions as to the relations between employers and wage earners which have become matters of pressing public concern. These questions have been somewhat obscured by the profound changes in the relations between competing producers and producers as a class and consumers—in other words, by the changes which, among other results, have given rise to what is commonly called the trust problem. The large scale production characteristic of modern industry, however, involves the one set of relations no less than the other. Any interruption to the normal and peaceful relations between employer and wage earner involves public discomfort and in many cases public disaster. Such interruptions become, therefore, quite as much a matter of public concern as restraint of trade or monopoly.

Industrial relations concern the public for a double reason. We are directly interested in the maintenance of peaceful and stable industrial conditions for the sake of our own comfort and well being, but society is equally interested in its sovereign civic capacity in seeing that our institutions are effectively maintaining justice and fair dealing between any classes of citizens whose economic interests may seem to clash. Railway strikes on such a scale as has recently been witnessed in France and in England, a strike of coal mine workers such as we have more than once witnessed in this country and such a wholesale relinquishing of a public service as that of the street cleaners recently in New York illustrate the serious danger to public well being and the inadequacy of the existing social machinery either to prevent such occurrences or to adjust them on any equitable and permanent basis after they have arisen.

In spite of the frequency with which we are exposed to these dangers and in spite of the absence of provision for dealing with them we continue to assume with easy going confidence that in each new case somehow or other the parties to the dispute will find some solution which will be agreeable to themselves and consistent with the public interest. We all see the grave objections to strikes and lockouts, however necessary they may be in extreme cases, and we are ready to criticise the more extreme phases of the industrial conflict, such as boycotts and blacklists, but we leave the situation such that industrial disputes lead inevitably to a state of industrial war in which these are the only weapons left to the two combatants. No more clumsy or expensive method of determining the rate of wages and the hours and conditions of labor could well be devised. The successful operation of the Erdman act as between interstate railroads and their employees shows how much good can be done by proper legislation.

At the moment when the discomforts and dangers incident to industrial strife are actually felt by the public there is usually an outcry for the establishment of some tribunal for the immediate settlement of the particular dispute, but what is needed is some system, devised by patient and deliberate study in advance, that will meet these constantly occurring and clearly foreseeable emergencies, not a makeshift to tide over an existing crisis. Not during the rainstorm, but in fair weather, should the leaking roof be examined and repaired.

The magnitude and complexity of modern industrial disputes have put upon some of our statutes and our present mechanism for adjusting such differences—where we can be said to have any mechanism at all—a strain they were never intended to bear and for which they are unsuited. What is urgently needed today is a re-examination of our laws bearing upon the relations of employer and employee and a careful and discriminating scrutiny of the various plans which are being tried in several of our own states and in other countries. This would seem to be the first natural step in bringing about an adjustment of these relations better suited to the newer conditions of industry.

Numerous special investigations, official and unofficial, have revealed conditions in more than one industry which have immediately been recognized on all sides as entirely out of harmony with accepted American standards. It is probable that to a great extent the remedies for these conditions, so far as the remedies involve legislation, lie in the field of state action. But such a comprehensive inquiry as is necessary to furnish a basis for intelligent action must be undertaken on national initiative and must be nation wide in its scope. In view of the results that have followed the activities of the federal government in education, in agriculture and in other fields which do not lie primarily within the field of federal legislation there can be no serious argument against the propriety or the wisdom of an inquiry by the federal government into the general conditions of labor in the United States, notwithstanding the fact that some of the remedies will lie with the separate states or even entirely outside the sphere of governmental activity in the hands of private individuals and of voluntary agencies. One legitimate object of such an official investigation and report is to enlighten and inform public opinion, which of itself will often induce or compel the reform of unjust conditions or the abatement of unreasonable demands.

The special investigations that have been made of recent industrial conditions, whether private or official, have been fragmentary, incomplete and at best only partially representative or typical. Their lessons, nevertheless, are important, and until something comprehensive and adequate is available they serve a useful purpose, and they will necessarily continue to be made. But unquestionably the time is now ripe for a searching inquiry into the subject of industrial relations which shall be official, authoritative, balanced and well rounded, such as only the federal government can successfully undertake. The present widespread interest in the subject makes this an opportune time for an investigation, which in any event cannot long be postponed. It should be nonpartisan, comprehensive, thorough, patient and courageous.

There is already available much information on certain aspects of the subject in the reports of the federal and state bureaus of labor and in other official and unofficial publications. One essential part of the proposed inquiry would naturally be to assemble, digest and interpret this information so far as it bears upon our present industrial conditions. In addition to this the commission should inquire into the general conditions of labor in our principal industries, into the existing relations between employers and employees in those industries, into the various methods which have been tried for maintaining mutually satisfactory relations between employees and employers and for avoiding or adjusting trade disputes, and into the scope, methods and resources of federal and state bureaus of labor and the methods by which they might more adequately meet the responsibilities which through the work of the commission above recommended would be more clearly brought to light and defined.

Misbranding Imported Goods.

My attention has been called to the injustice which is done in this country by the sale of articles in the trade purporting to be made in Ireland, when they are not so made, and it is suggested that the justice of the enactment of a law which, so far as the jurisdiction of the federal government can go, would prevent a continuance of this misrepresentation to the public and fraud upon those who are entitled to use the statement in the sale of their goods. I think it to be greatly in the interest of fair dealing, which ought always to be encouraged by law, for congress to enact a law making it a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment to use the mails or to put into interstate commerce any articles of merchandise which bear upon their face a statement that they have been manufactured in some particular country when the fact is otherwise.

Building For Public Archives.

I cannot close this message without inviting the attention of congress again to the necessity for the erection of a building to contain the public archives. The unsatisfactory distribution of records, the lack of any proper index or guide to their contents, is well known to those familiar with the needs of the government in this capital. The land has been purchased, and nothing remains now but the erection of a proper building. I transmit a letter written by Professor J. Franklin Jameson, director of the department of historical research of the Carnegie institution of Washington, in which he speaks upon this subject as a member of a committee appointed by the executive council of the American Historical association to bring the matter to the attention of the president and congress.

BUTTER! BUTTER!

Fancy Creamery

There has been a decided change in the Butter situation, and the sharp rise in temperature in the best creamery districts of the West has caused dairy products to take a sharp decline in price, but let us impress upon you this is only temporary, as the actual demand for Butter far exceeds the supply; this is actually the real cause of the high price of Butter. This Butter which we are selling at actual cost comes to us direct from the choicest of the Western creameries, and is scored and selected by experts. We would suggest that you take advantage of this sharp decline, as we are positive that the market will advance in the next few days and this decline is but a temporary one. HOPE'S BIBLE CLASS HOLDS ANNUAL DINNER

Forty members of the McWilliams Bible class of Hope chapel, together with a number of friends enjoyed the organization's annual dinner in the Sunday school rooms last night. The affair is given each year in honor of the teacher, H. H. McWilliams, of Hillside avenue, and has grown to be one of the most important of the congregational events.

The dinner itself was prepared and served by a committee from the class. At its conclusion, Benjamin Evans presided as toastmaster, introducing the speakers. These included John Leal, Rev. Frederick L. Greene, James Penny, Clifford Braider and Hugh Sweeney. The last named gave an interesting review of the class history from the time of its organization by former Judge William N. Runyon to the present day. Musical numbers were also contributed by Mr. Braider and George H. Beiser. During an interval Mr. Evans in behalf of the class, presented Mr. McWilliams with a handsome bronze reading lamp and Rev. Mr. Greene two volumes by standard authors. Both responded in an appropriate manner.

The members of the organization took up the subject of new bowling alleys, last night, and it was decided to begin an active campaign for the necessary funds at once. It is proposed to install two in a more commodious structure.

The committee in charge of the dinner was composed of Charles H. Vincent, Harry Keen, James Penny, George Broadbent and Benjamin Evans.

PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1912.

SOME OF THE SIGHTS PRESS TOURISTS WILL SEE THIS SUMMER.

ITINERARY OF PRESS TOURS

July 10, until Sunday evening, July 14. During that time carriages will be provided to drive about the city to the many historic points of interest, and there will also be an opportunity to visit the shops, and business section. Among other places that all will be sure to see will be the Tower of London, Houses of Parliament, British Museum, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, National Gallery, the Parks, Thames Embankment and many other places. On Sunday night the party will leave by way of Harwich for The Hague.

On Monday the party will arrive early in the morning at Harwich, from which point a short trip by rail will be taken to The Hague, which has achieved the name of "the Washington of the Netherlands." In this city, laid out on modern plans, are to be found broad and handsome streets, lofty and substantial houses and spacious squares. The famous Spanish prison, the Houses of Parliament and the Museum are but a few of the sights of interest here, the day in the city including a carriage drive to the House in the Woods and Scheveningen, which is famous as the great seaside resort for the people of Holland.

The next morning the party will leave early for Amsterdam, the chief city of the Netherlands. Situated on no less than ninety-five islands, divided by canals, the city has been termed the "Venice of the North." In the city are 600 bridges. The finest building is the Palace, a magnificent pile, 282 feet long, and 116 feet high, exclusive of the fine tower. In the museum of this building, as well as in the Fodor and Van den Hoop museums will be found many splendid pictures. Carriages will be provided to drive about the city.

Wednesday, July 17, the party will arrive in the morning at Antwerp, the chief commercial city of Belgium. Here the Cathedral, a magnificent specimen of gothic architecture, one of the most beautiful churches in the country, and containing beautiful paintings by Rubens, will be the principal attraction. Two of these paintings are "The Elevation of the Cross," and the "Descent from the Cross." The next morning will find the tourists in Brussels, where a drive about the city will be the first thing on the program. The Column of Congress, the Chamber of Deputies, the Museum of Paintings and the Wiertz Museum, the Museum of Antiquities, the Palace of Justice, the Grand Square with the Hotel de Ville, one of the finest buildings in Belgium, the Cathedral of St. Gudule and the Martyr's Monument.

Friday will be spent in Cologne, visiting the Cathedral, the Church of St. Ursula, and on Saturday morning the start will be taken on the famous trip down the Rhine, for Biebrich and Wiesbaden. With favorable weather the day on this great river is one never to be forgotten. The voyage is made through the most picturesque and beautiful regions that border this romantic river, abounding in vine clad slopes, feudal castles and crumbling towers, celebrated in legend, history and song. Sunday will be a day of rest at Wiesbaden, which is one of the greatest summer resorts in Europe.

Monday, July 22, the party will go to Heidelberg, the famous University city. Here a visit will be paid to the celebrated Castle, the most richly decorated as well as the most majestic ruin in Germany. In the immense cellars can be seen the famous great Tun, capable of holding 49,000 gallons of wine; the Small Tun, 8,000 gallons; and the Jester's Clock. A carriage drive will also be taken. Tuesday the tourists will travel via Bale to Lucerne, where Wednesday will be spent visiting Thorwaldsen's immortal work, the "Lion of Lucerne," the Glacial Garden, the old bridges, etc. During the stay a trip will be made by steamer on beautiful Lake Lucerne to Vitznau, thence by rail to the Summit of the Rigi, 5,906 feet above sea level.

Thursday morning the party will leave Lucerne for Interlaken by rail to Alpnacht, thence by railway over the Brunig Pass. The mountain railway passes through Sarnen, by the lake of that name (4½ miles long), to Lungern, situated on another lake of that name. Here the ascent of the Brunig Pass commences, and just before the Hotel Brunig the summit is reached (3,379 feet), whence the line descends to Meiringen. The village of Meiringen is most picturesquely situated on the banks of the Aare, and is surrounded by lofty snow-covered peaks, from which romantic waterfalls descend to the plain. Proceed by railway to Brienz and by steamer to Interlaken, passing the Giessbach Waterfall, arriving early in the afternoon at Interlaken. The next day an excursion will be made to Grindelwald to visit the celebrated Glaciers, returning to Interlaken for the night, leaving the next morning for Lausanne. Lausanne Cathedral (1235-1275) is picturesquely situated and commands magnificent and extensive views of the lake and Alps. Proceed in afternoon by steamer on beautiful Lake Leman to Geneva, where Sunday and Monday will be spent. Geneva is beautifully situated on the Lake of Geneva, or Lake Leman. The Cathedral, the Russian church, the Musee Rath, the Cemetery, the Pont Mont Blanc, the Monument of the Duke of Brunswick, Rousseau's Island, the English Garden, the Meeting of the Waters and other places of interest will be visited.

Tuesday July 30, will be given to travel by day express from Geneva to Paris.

From Wednesday, July 31 to Sunday, August 4, five full days will be spent in Paris. Carriages will be furnished for drives for visiting the principal places and objects in and around the city, including the Invalides, the Tomb of Napoleon I, the Palace, Gardens and Park of Versailles, Palace of the Trocadero, Palace of the Louvre, Cathedral of Notre Dame, etc. An opportunity to visit the stores will be given to all.

The party will Paris for London on Monday, August 5, traveling by daylight via Dieppe and Newhaven and reaching the English capital at night. The next morning all will leave the city by rail for Warwick and Stratford-on-Avon, where a visit will be paid to Shakespeare's home, tomb and memorial. The same evening a trip will be made to Chester, where the Cathedral, old walls, the Rows, etc., will be seen, after which the final trip by rail, to Liverpool, will be taken, leaving by American line boat for home. The party will arrive in Philadelphia on August 18, completing a tour which will be fully as long as hundreds of Americans take, and one of the finest that has ever been offered by a New Jersey newspaper. As has been told frequently, the tour will be under the direction of Thomas Cook and Sons, the only tourist agency which knows how to properly care for travelers down to the finest details.

The ballot box in the contest will be placed Monday. Literature for the contestants, including many forms and subscription blanks, is now ready, and the contest manager will be found at the office every night until 9 o'clock to answer questions. The Daily Press telephone number is 1300, and queries coming over that will receive prompt attention from the office. There is no time like the present to get busy. The nominations are coming in at a lively pace, and all are the names of active and hustling young women.

BALTUSROL GOLF CLUB GETS TAX REDUCTION

Elizabeth, Feb. 2.—The County Board for the Equalization od Taxes yesterday afternoon allowed a reduction of $22,300 in the assessment which had been levied upon the holdings of the Baltusrol Golf Club of Springfield. The members of the board made a trip to the club and inspected the grounds Monday. At the hearing yesterday the organization was represented by E. L. McKirgan, while John K. English appeared for the borough of Springfield.

The original assessment was $86,000 on twenty-four and one-half acres of land and buildings at $66,000 and $20,000 on personal holdings. The board allowed a reduction of $7,200 on the land, or $300 on each acre, reduced the assessment on the buildings to $50,000 and a reduction of $6,500 was made on the personal property.

The Baltusrol Golf Club ranks among the wealthiest organizations of its character in the State and has many Elizabethans on its membership roll.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who is now living in New York, was in town yesterday calling on friends.

DEATH DOOM IS GIVEN TO POLICE MURDERER

Freehold, Feb. 2.—A few minutes after he had been convicted of murder in the first degree Charles F. Clayton, charged with killing Policeman Charles F. Lippincott at Asbury Park on December 10 last, was sentenced to be electrocuted during the week beginning March 11.

The jury retired at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Justice Willard P. Voorhees called the jurymen before him at 9:30 o'clock yesterdaly morning, and asked if they could agree. He was told by the jurors that they believed they could agree if they were given a little more time.

The court was asked to explain the different degrees of murder. He laid weight on the fact that the defendant's counsel had practically admitted that the prisoner, when he shot Lippincott was not in his right mind.

"That is a question for the jury to decide," said the court, "but the fact should not be lost sight of that Clayton was not so drunk as to not realize what he was about. He told his wife that he had shot a horse during the day, and he also knew enough to run when he saw Lippincott and another officer coming for him on the night of the shooting."

The jury then retired again, and about half an hour later brought in its verdict.

The crime for which Clayton was convicted occurred in the western section of Asbury Park. Clayton had returned home drunk and began beating his wife. Word was sent to the police station and Lippincott and Policeman George L. Miller were sent to the Clayton house. Lippincott had just placed his hand on the man's shoulder when Clayton shot his captor in the breast. Lippincott died almost instantly.

Clayton also attempted to shoot Miller, but the trigger fell on an exploded cartridge. The slain officer was one of the best liked men on the Asbury Park police force. At the trial Clayton testified that he had been drinking heavily and had no knowledge of anything that occurred on the day of the tragedy.

TRENTON CHILD ELOPERS ARE SPANKED, BUT WED

Trenton, Feb. 2.—Having first suffered the buring indignity of being spanked by their parents, Margaret Esther Reynolds, fifteen years old, and Charles Guy Miller, sixteen, were permitted to wed, and are now enjoying their honeymoon under supervision of the same stern parents who spanked them.

Margaret and Charles were spanked for eloping. There was also the additional motive of discouraging the idea of marriage. But this idea stubornly refused to be spanked out. The child-lovers wailed and wept and wept and wailed to such purpose that their parents were worn down and at last consented to the union. The Rev. J. M. Secrist, pastor of the Broad Street Park M. E. church, tied the knot. Many of their schoolmates attended the ceremony.

The children eloped last week. They were schoolmates at the Centennial Public School. The elopement was planned in the schoolroom. Instead of going to school last Thursday morning they went by rail to New Brunswick. They had saved enough from their allowances to pay a week's board in advance in a New Brunswick boarding-house. They wanted to get married, but feared that an application for a license would disclose their hiding-place. The boy was unable to get a job.

The alarm had been sent out from Trenton and they were arrested and taken home.

Mother, Girl's Bridesmaid.

Trenton, Feb. 2.—With her mother serving as matron of honor, Miss Margaret Esther Reynolds, sixteen years old, of 1119 Anderson street, was married here to Charles Gray Mullen, eighteen years old, of 1193 William street. The couple eloped to Wilmington, Del., on Monday and were placed under arrest while alighting from a train in that city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John F. Secrist, at the parsonage of the Broad street M. E. church. Mrs. George O. Reynolds, mother of the girl, who sent her son to Wilmington to bring her daughter and young Mullen back, had forgiven her daughter for running away and was willing to be her attendant.

G. W. Gardiner and sister, Miss E. L. Gardiner, of 112 Richmond street, have returned to their home after spending ten weeks in New York city.

ELIZABETH JUDGE GETS A BLACK HAND LETTER

Elizabeth, Feb. 2.—Under the personal direction of Chief Tenney the police are making efforts to trace the writer of a Black Hand letter which was received yesterday by Owen P. Mahon, judge of the police court. The missive was written upon what was apparently a page torn from a notebook and was in a straggling hand. It said:

"Judge Mahon, keep out of my sight. If you don't release me I will have two bullets put in your head.

"BLACK HAND."

The envelope in which the letter was sent was badly mutilated. On its face was pasted a sheet of paper from the same book upon which the note was written. In the upper left corner of the envelope, in a handwriting which differs from that of the contents and enclosed in brackets are the words, "Black Hand Threat." It was placed in the office shortly before midnight Wednesday.

The slip pasted over the envelope excited the suspicions of the police, and when they removed it, they found that the address to which it had been first directed was, "Mayor Gaynor, New York city," but in a hand writing which differs from the other two specimens.

WOMAN APPOINTED TO JERSEY CITY SCHOOL BOARD

Jersey City, Feb. 2—For the first time in the history of educational boards here, a woman has been appointed as a member.

Miss Cornelia F. Bradford, a social settlement worker, formerly of Montclair, who was backed by the Jersey City Woman's Club, was among the appointees named by Mayor Wittpenn for the new Board of Education for 1912 at a meeting of the old board Wednesday night. "For Thirty Years

I have kept my securities in my safe at home, but now after observing what has happened to other people who have done the same thing I have come to the conclusion that a

Such was the comment of a gentleman who recently rented a Safe Deposit Box in our vaults.

The only SAFE place for securities and valuables is the Safe Deposit Box, where they can always be found when wanted.

COLONEL E. H. R. GREEN.

Whose Riches Attract Thirteen Leap Year Proposals.

LEAP YEAR HITS GREEN.

Son of Richest Woman Gets Thirteen Proposals of Marriage.

San Francisco, Feb. 2.—Colonel Edward H. R. Green, son of Mrs. Hetty Green, received exactly thirteen leap year proposals. Eleven came by mail and two by wire. Discussing the matter of marriage, the colonel said:

"The subject, as a general thing, is no small one, I can tell you. There is not a wealthy man in America who has not had dozens of chances to marry into families of birth and breeding but he must seek to know the girl's inmost soul and find out if her affection rings true. You cannot do it, that's all."

ISSUE IN STEEL TRUST FIGHT NEXT MONTH

Wickersham and Dickinson Await Copies of Answer.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Officials of the department of justice are awaiting copies of the answers filed by the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiaries so as to predicate the government's next step.

If the answers introduce new phases the department will file an amended bill, probably by March 1. The corporation then would have another month to make answer. If, however, the government merely makes the usual replication the case is expected to come to issue early next month.

Jacob M. Dickinson, former secretary of war and special counsel for the government in the steel suit, is here conferring with Attorney General Wickersham.

EAMES SLANDER CASE ENDS.

Lieutenant Reed Loses In Suit For $10,000 Damages.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—Judge Remster in the circuit court has sustained a demurrer to an amended complaint in the slander suit brought by Walter L. Reed, a lieutenant formerly stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison, against Mrs. Margaret B. Eames, wife of Captain Henry E. Eames of the same regiment.

It was charged in the complaint that Mrs. Eames while standing in front of the quarters of Captain Eames said Reed was living beyond his income and that he had taken $600 from the funds of the post exchange, of which he had charge. He asked $10,000 damages.

Attorneys for Mrs. Eames filed a demurrer averring that the complaint did not state facts sufficient for a cause of action, and the demurrer was sustained on this ground.

HONOR CARDINAL O'CONNELL.

Ceremonies Most Impressive Ever Held In a Boston Church.

Boston, Feb. 2.—William Cardinal O'Connell, entered the Cathedral of the Holy Cross for the first time attired in the full robes of his new office for the pontificate mass of thanksgiving, in honor of his safe return from his journey over the seas.

The handsomely decorated cathedral was thronged with visiting dignitaries of the church, priests and clergy from all sections of Greater Boston and hundreds of prominent laymen. The ceremonies were the most imposing ever witnessed in a Boston church.

WOULD REINSTATE HAINS.

Senator Rayner Wants Pardoned Officer's Rank Restored.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Senator Rayner of Maryland has introduced a bill authorizing the reappointment of Peter C. Hains, Jr., to the army and restoring his old rank of captain of artillery.

Hains resigned from the army while he was a prisoner in Sing Sing for the murder of William E. Annis of New York.

PORTUGUESE VISIT GAYNOR.

Commander of Cruiser Pays Courtesy Call at City Hall.

New York, Feb. 2.—Commander Don Luiz de Camara Lene of the Portuguese cruiser Republica paid a courtesy call on Mayor Gaynor at the city hall. The commander was accompanied by the Portuguese consul general in this city, Luiz Ferreira de Castro. He was in full uniform. He is about fifty-three years old, of medium stature and exceptionally stoop shouldered.

The visitors were received by the mayor in his private office, where they remained for a few minutes. It is expected that the mayor will return the call, visiting the commander aboard the cruiser.

The Portuguese staff also called at the navy yard to pay their respects and to inspect the plant.

M'LEANS WILL KEEP UNLUCKY DIAMOND

Wonderful Hope Gem Costs Couple a Fortune.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The McLeans are going to keep the Hope diamond. This decision has been reached by Mr. Edward McLean and his young wife, formerly Miss Evelyn Walsh and daughter of the late Thomas F. Walsh, the Colorado millionaire.

Mr. McLean, being the son and only heir of John R. McLean, is one of the wealthiest young men, prospectively, in the country. The McLeans agreed to buy the famous gem a year ago, not knowing its reputation. The original price agreed to be paid was $200,000.

After learning of the history of the diamond and its reported propensity for bringing bad luck to those who owned or wore it, the McLeans refused to complete the contract of purchase and the Chartiers, the Paris and New York jewelers, brought suit for specific performance.

It is not known what price was actually paid, but it was a fortune, and it was said that it was not very much less than the original contract price.

KILLS CHUM, TRIES SUICIDE.

New York Boy Fights to End Life Because of Grief.

New York, Feb. 2.—Arthur Schaefer, fifteen, was accidentally shot and instantly killed by his boon companion, Ralph Sauer, in the Sauer home, 911 Prospect avenue.

When he saw he had killed his friend young Sauer attempted to shoot himself and was only prevented from doing so after a struggle that continued ten minutes.

Coroner Schwannecke had Ralph Sauer and Leo Guggenheim in his office and questioned them. He said that the killing of Schaefer was purely an accident, and no arrest was made.

GOVERNOR FOSS ILL.

Attack of Pneumonia Feared by Executive's Physicians.

Boston, Feb. 2.—Because of a severe cold, which it is feared may develop into pneumonia, Governor Eugene N. Foss is confined to bed at his Jamaica Plain residence. The governor has been ailing for several days. He was advised to remain away from his office in the statehouse, but as the executive council was in session he disregarded the advice of his physicians and went to the statehouse.

MUTINEERS HOLD MEXICAN TOWN

REIGN OF TERROR IN JUAREZ

Mutinous Soldiers Cut Telegraph Lines and Railroads to Prevent Attack by Federal Troops Under Orozco—Declare Madero Has Failed to Give Promised Reforms.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 2.—With disorder everywhere the Mexican town of Juarez, across the river from here, is in the hands of 500 mutineers. They have elected their own officers, and a majority are now drunk, and the citizens who dared remain are fleeing.

The biggest general store in the place, that of Katelsen & Degetau, German subjects, carrying a stock valued at $250,000, was burned. Picard Bros., French subjects, operating the "Three B" store in Juarez, claim their loss from the looters totals $80,000. Other losses were not so heavy, but the total extent of the looting is $200,000, in addition to the destruction by fire.

The mutineers had information that federal troops had been ordered to Juarez from the City of Mexico and that Maderista soldiers, headed by Pascual Orozco, were coming from Chihuahua. This was officially confirmed to the Mexican consul in El Paso, E. C. Llorente, in dispatches both from Madero at the City of Mexico and Governor Gonzales at Chihuahua.

To meet this exigency the mutineers burned bridges and telegraph wires for several miles south of Juarez on the Mexican National and Mexican Northwestern railroads and posted guards to watch for the approach of the troops. They declare they have no fear from the troops in Chihuahua nor Torreon; that these troops will refuse to fire upon them, but will join them on arrival. The mutineers have been claiming that General Orozco would join them, but Consul Llorente declares that Orozco is loyal to the existing government.

Americans who visited Juarez claim to have counted eight dead and to have seen nine wounded men as a result of the orgies, but the mutineers claim that only three were killed.

All the residents of Juarez have fled to El Paso, and many of the poorer families are camping in the open country along the river on the American bank of the Rio Grande.

The American troops are keeping a rigid guard on the river and are not permitting Americans to cross into Juarez.

The El Paso chamber of commerce held a meeting and sent a telegram to President Taft asking that more troops be dispatched here.

Various reasons are given for the mutiny. Some say the men mutinied because some of their fellow soldiers had been ordered discharged. Some declare they rebelled because Madero has not brought about the reforms he promised. Some say that Pasqual Orozco, their former chief and still the idol of the former rebels in northern Mexico, is going to join the Zapata cause and that they are with him. None of them seem to know who they want for president, but they all insist that Madero must resign.

24 TEACHERS STRIKE.

Delay In Pay Closes Schools of Bankrupt Borough.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 2.—Twenty-four schoolteachers in the borough of Winton, near here, are on strike as the result of a delay in paying December wages, due three weeks ago. The borough is broke, and no relief is in sight until about Feb. 15, when Henry V. Lawler, tax collector, who is also county register of wills, turns over his collections.

Lawler says the borough will have to wait until the regular date for his statement, which will be about the 15th, meanwhile the schools are closed. There are four buildings having twenty-three rooms and an attendance of about 1,000 pupils. The action of the teachers was taken following a meeting of Winston branch of the State Teachers' league, an organization for the protection of the school teachers.

NO WAGE AGREEMENT.

Conference of Miners and Operators Has Adjourned.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—The joint conference of miners and operators called to consider the new scale of wages adjourned sine die without accomplishing anything, the miners and operators both adhering tenaciously to their demands.

The miners asked a ten cent per ton increase and the operators demand 10 per cent decrease. Some of the miners favor calling another joint conference, but it will not be held, if at all, until after Feb. 27, on which date the anthracite miners and operators are to confer in New York. Both sides expressed the belief that it would be better not to meet again until after the anthracite conference.

REPRESENTATIVE SLAYDEN

Texas Democrat Offers Resolution to Bar Third Term.

BILL TO BAR ROOSEVELT.

Texas Congressman Opposes Third Term as President.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The "third term" question came up in congress when Representative Slayden, a Democrat, of Texas, proposed a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the house that any departure from the custom of two terms "would be unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to free institutions."

A similar resolution was passed by the house in 1874, when General U. S. Grant was talked of for a third term.

Representative Slayden announced that he has prepared another resolution for a constitutional amendment providing that a president may serve only one term.

"Daddy."

"Dad" is the English of "papa." "Dad" and "daddy" were well known in this country in the sixteenth century. "Papa" did not come in, borrowed from abroad, until the seventeenth century was well advanced. Florio at the end of the former century defined the Italian "pappa" as "the first word that children are taught to call their father, as ours say dad, daddie or bab." "Dad" seems to be the commoner to mankind of the two. Nausican in the "Odyssey" calls her father "pappa phile" (dear papa), but Greek had "tata" also, and Welsh has "tat" and Irish "daid."—London Chronicle.

RICH MAN GOES TO JAIL FOR THEFT

Matthew Harbeson Held For Taking Loaf of Bread.

IS ACCUSED BY A GROCER.

Son of the Late Matthew W. Harbeson, Founder of Brick Trust, Sentenced to Thirty Days by Recorder of Hudson County—Says "Somebody Will Sweat For This."

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 2.—Matthew W. Harbeson, whose father was the multimillionaire founder of the brick trust, was arrested in his home in Woodcliffe for stealing bread. Recorder Medina sentenced him to thirty days in the Hudson county jail.

Harbeson, who a few years ago had an income of $20,000 a year and who says he will come into more than $1,000,000 when his father's estate is divided, owns one of the prettiest homes in Woodcliffe, where he lives with his wife and four small children.

Mother and son never visited each other.

"We were estranged because I married a Swede girl who was employed as mother's maid," Harbeson said. "But I have done very well without the Harbesons and have been perfectly happy with my wife and children. This is the first thing that has come along to cause worry. But wait till I get out of this jail. I'll make some one sweat for this, see if I don't."

G. Wood Harbeson, a brother of Matthew, married the widow of William P. Tyler and started on a wedding tour around the world. He died on the journey. The bride had inherited $6,000,000 from her first husband.

For several weeks B. C. Gordon, a Woodcliffe grocer, has been missing bread from a box in front of his store. Early every morning the baker fills this box and locks it.

Gordon and Paul Radinoff watched the bread box. Just before dawn, they allege, Harbeson sauntered down the street and took a seat on the box. Then he carefully unlocked it and took out bread, after which the lock was adjusted.

Because of Harbeson's standing in the community the grocer and Radinoff feared to accuse him then. They followed him to his home and then made for the police station, where a complaint was lodged.

Harbeson learned he had been accused and appeared in the police station and offered to surrender. He was not arrested then, but after a warrant had been sworn out he was taken from his home.

While the evidence against him was being given Harbeson was unmoved. All he would say was, "This is nobody's business."

Matthew Harbeson was educated in Heidelberg, where he engaged in several duels. In his youth he and his brother had an unlimited allowance from their father.

NEW CHARTER FOR CAMDEN.

Measure Will Be Introduced Into Legislature Tuesday.

Camden, N. J., Feb. 2.—The special committee appointed to prepare a new city charter met and with few changes adopted the same measure which was passed by the legislature a year ago, but which failed of Governor Wilson's signature.

A special meeting of councils will be held next Monday to ratify the action of the committee, and Tuesday a delegation will take the bill to Trenton for introduction in the present legislature.

The most important change is the provision for two members to councils from each of the twelve wards instead of one, as suggested a year ago. The initiative, referendum and recall are also embodied in the bill.

Paterson Electrician Loses Breach of Promise Suit.

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 2.—For breaking his promise to marry Miss Genevieve Kusant, a pupil in the commercial department of the Passaic high school, Harry Wilkie, an electrician, was ordered by a jury in the circuit court to pay the young woman $1,000 damages. She sued for $5,000.

Wilkie, after breaking off his engagement to marry Miss Kusant, wedded the young woman who was to have been her bridesmaid, Minnie Casson of Paterson.

Wilkie's defense was that it was Miss Kusant who broke the engagement.

MACFARLAND TO APPEAL.

Wife Slayer's Counsel Will Fight For New Trial.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 2.—No definite date has been set for pronouncing sentence on Allison M. MacFarlane, who was convicted of the murder of his wife, Evelyn, late last Wednesday night, but at the courthouse indications were that he would hear his fate today. MacFarland is in the county jail, occupying a cell in murderers' row.

MacFarland was visited by Frank M. McDermit, his counsel. The prisoner seemed contented, but expressed himself as having been done a great injustice. McDermit will ask for a new trial.

EAT KOOZIE AND BULGHUL AND LIVE TO WRITE OF IT

The Mission Gleaner, published by the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, Reformed church in America, has the following item of interest in the current number about Dr. Paul W. Harrison, the missionary from Trinity Reformed church, in Arabia:

"Dr. and Mrs. Worrall are to be stationed at Bahrein, and Mrs. Worrall wrote of her regret at leaving the many friends in Busrah. Dr. Harrison had returned from Constantinople where he received his Turkish diploma. When we heard that Dr. Harrison was on his way home, we decided to have a native dinner and have all the Christians present. We had it at 5 p. m., out in the mission compound under the date palms.

"You may be interested to know of the Arab dishes we had: Koozie, a lamb roasted whole, served on a great tray of rice, nuts, and raisins, and the dressing of nuts and raisins; Bulghul, cracked wheat cooked with meat, kibbe, crack wheat pounded and made into flat cakes; chicken; egg plant; a native candy; hulma, rice mixed with chopped meat and wrapped up in grape leaves, served inside of tomatoes, onions or cucumbers; Mahullabi, pounded rice cooked in milk and sweetened; dake, an Indian dish of sour milk with chopped onions and flavored with salt; pomegranates, Arab bread, and I forgot what else.

"After the meal was over, we had a speech by Dr. Cantine, and one by Dr. Harrison. Dr. Worrall presided. We had many hymns and a prayer in closing. Altogether seventy-five partook of the feast. Two days later we invited some of our friends among the Mohammedan women and had a sort of zenana party."

EDUCATIONAL WASTE IN NEW JERSEY SCHOOLS

Trenton, Feb. 3.—Declaring that a great educational waste is going on in the schools of New Jersey because of the large number of untrained teachers employed and because of the lack of constructive, helpful, inspiring supervision, Dr. Calvin N. Kendall, State Commissioner of Education, submitted to the State Board of Education, today, a report reviewing school conditions and presenting school needs.

Dr. Kendall showed that it is the duty of the State to provide a "thorough and efficient system of education," not for some of the children, but for all of them. The work of the teachers, he declared, is greatly hampered by poor attendance and the children who are in school regularly suffer by the absence of other children, to whom the teacher must devote an extra amount of energy and time in order that they may overtake their classmates. He insisted that there should be more vigorous enforcement of the compulsory education laws, and favored the bill now before the Legislature which makes the appointment of truancy officers compulsory.

Another need which he emphasized is a larger number of trained teachers. He showed that 40 per cent. of the teachers of the State are untrained. Continuing his report, Dr. Kendall said:

"It is my belief that in this question of the training of teachers the rural school should not be overlooked, and that facilities should be provided for training teachers for the one-room schools, of which there are at present more than eight hundred in the State.

"It is useless, however, to expect trained or skillful teachers to remain in such schools, unless salaries in some of them are better than at present. I ask that the Board give its earnest consideration to the question of the training of teachers, to the end that in the near future, plans may be devised which will be acceptable to the people of the State, for increasing the facilities for training teachers. Our present excellent normal schools turn out each year approximately 500 teachers. The number of new teachers needed anually in the State is about fifteen hundred."

WANT CITY TO INCREASE HOSPITAL APPROPRIATION

Former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman and Julius E. Erickson, representing the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, were given a hearing by the councilmanic finance committee, last night, at their request, when an urgent appeal was made to the councilmen to increase the city's annual appropriation for the institution.

Last year the city appropriated $1,500, but since then a new law allows cities of Plainfield's class to appropriate sums up to $10,000 for the support of hospitals.

The councilmen went over the situation carefully with the hospital governors, listening to their arguments. No decision was reached, the committee agreeing to take the matter under further consideration at an early date.

After the hearing the finance committee went over the bills for the month. The question of the annual budget will be taken up at a later meeting after all the other committees make their reports.

MRS. FABER HOSTESS AT A BRIDGE WHIST PARTY

Mrs. William R. Faber, of Park place, gave a bridge whist party at her home yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Theodore Gordon, of Boston, who is a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Norman H. Probasco, of Park avenue, affording an opportunity for her to meet a number of society people from the city and borough. There were twenty-eight guests engaged in playing whist and about forty attended the tea which followed. The winners at each table received a prize.

Mrs. Faber was assisted by Mrs. Edmund Rushmore and Mrs. Allen B. Laing, who poured and the following young womben who served: The Misses Mary A. Faber, Mildred Berry, Grace Serrell, Irene Miller, May and Kate Barlow.

Funeral of Mrs. M. L. Frech.

The funeral service of Mrs. Martha L. Frech, widow of George Frech, was held at the home of her son, Garret Frech, of Prospect avenue, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Blauvelt, of Roselle, officiated. The burial was in the family plot at Somerville.

MUSICAL BURGLAR WORKS ON TERRILL ROAD HOUSE

A burglar who evidently is of a musical turn of mind, entered the home of L. P. Henderson, at North avenue and Terrill road, just over the city line, early yesterday morning. He had things all his own way in looking about for loot, ransacking all the lower rooms, without disturbing the family. Beside confiscating a quantity of silverware, a new overcoat and about $5 in change, he took the trouble to carry off a banjo and a guitar. Marsh Logan, of the Fanwood police, said today the burglar probably grabbed the instruments in order to have something accompany him on his rounds.

The burglar effected an entrance to the house by forcing a window catch. He left by a rear door, leaving it wide open to add freezing temperature to his other nefarious work.

FULL TICKET NEXT FALL; OTHER DEMOCRATIC NOTES

The Plainfield Democratic Club will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday evening, instead of Monday the usual night. The newly elected officers will be on hand. They are President, J. O. Stevens; secretary E. T. Lynch, and treasurer, Fred Endress. The new by-laws will be adopted. Several other matters of great importance will be discussed and a full attendance of the members is desired.

It has become an assured fact that James E. Prindle is an avowed candidate for nomination as councilman from the Second ward on the Democratic ticket next fall.

Friends of Daniel J. Courain of West Foruth stret, who are suggesting him as an Assembly candidate this fall, feel satisfied with the prospect of having him consent to become a candidate. Mr. Courain was the candidate for councilman in the Third ward on the Democratic ticket last fall and made an exceptionally strong run. He has many friends both in this city and throughout the county.

It is pretty certain that the Democrats will put up a full city ticket next fall. They now have plenty of good strong available timber to select from.

LAST MONTH WAS COLD; THESE FIGURES PROVE IT

Weather Prophet John Neagle in his monthly meteorological report states that last month was the coldest with one exception in twenty-six years, and that was in January 1904, when it was 13 degrees below zero. Men's Association Social.

The Men's Association of Warren chapel held the monthly business meeting and social last night, during which the members enjoyed a series of mirroscope views presented by Mrs. Lewis. The pictures were greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Party for Her Guest.

Miss Grace LeMatty gave a party at her home on Orchard place, last night, in honor of Miss Edna Snedeker. Games and music were the features, after which refreshments were served.

Call at, write or telephone The Press Tour Department. All that is asked of the most skeptical is to take a little time and investigate. We are out for circulation. Are you with us?

The many young women who have been nominated by their friends as contestants in the popularity contest as a result of which the Daily Press will send a party of six on an eight weeks' trip abroad next summer are showing more interest with every day. The nominations continue to pour into the office in every mail, and the contest manager is busy answering questions over the 'phone, and from prospective travelers who call at the office.

The Daily Press tours have made a deep impression because of the detail with which the plans have been described to those who would go abroad next summer. There has been no delay on the part of this paper in describing what it is planned to do and the contestants have not had to wait to find out just what they were going to get for their work. The fact that Thomas Cook and Sons will have charge of the party was assurance enough for some of those who have entered, without even waiting for the itinerary, which was published last night, to appear, and they immediately started to work, as they knew that they would get the best possible if they won.

The rules have been made public every night this week. They are complete, fair and impartial, and answer any questions which might come up, as those who have read them can easily see. There will be no favorites of the paper, and those who win will win strictly on their popularity and strength as hustlers and vote getters. It matters little to the Daily Press which contestant wins in each district, but it matters greatly that those who fairly and honestly secure the most votes shall secure these prizes, and to this end is pledged the good faith of this newspaper. The reputation of the Daily Press as standing for all that is right, and doing the fair thing by every one is such that those who have entered the contest know that they will be treated on the square from the start to the finish.

There are two things which are important for those who would win the contest to remember. One is that it is necessary to familiarize yourself thoroughly with the conditions of the contest, and the second is that every time you meet a friend you want to tell them that you are in the Plainfield Daily Press contest, and if they want to help you they should pass the word along to wait until they have been seen about subscribing to the Press. The Press is printing all of the local news, and a lot of other things which are of interest to the people of Plainfield. It is absolutely independent in policy, and does not hesitate to say what it thinks, no matter who may be hit. It is first of all a newspaper, and has no axes to grind. For these reasons all you need to do is to ask your friends to take it for a few weeks, ten weeks being enough to get the votes for you. Then before the contest is over you can go around and see them again, and they will be so pleased with the things they have seen in the Press, which they have not seen in any other paper, that they will be pleased to give you a renewal for a full year, with the big increase in votes.

The Daily Press has told each day of the advantages of going on its tour, so that they are now well known. The opportunity is before the young women of Plainfield, and it is up to them. They want to go abroad with men employed by Thomas Cook and Sons as their

BIGGEST BUSINESS BLOCK IN CRANFORD WIPED OUT

Fire That Razes "Opera House" Structure Does $150,000 Damage---Help From Elizabeth and Westfield Needed to Subdue It.

Cranford, Feb. 3.—Cranford's most pretentious business centre, the Opera House block, was wiped out by flames early this morning. The total loss as estimated by Ferguson & Van Name, agents of the building, is $150,000. The value placed on the building is $70,000 and the loss by merchants at $80,000.

The losses are covered by insurance. The structure was erected in 1892 and was owned by William M. Sperry, the millionaire trading stamp man, who is spending the winter in Florida. It was one of the biggest blocks in the county.

The local firemen were unable to cope with the blaze, and appeals for assistance were sent to Elizabeth and Westfield. Engine Company No. 2 from the county seat and Westfield's automobile apparatus responded.

A strong westerly wind was blowing at the time, and according to Fire Chief Hess only the united work of the firemen prevented a disastrous conflagration.

The flames were discovered at 3 o'clock by A. O. Hopkins, who was asleep in his upholstering establishment on the second floor. Hopkins climbed out on a fire escape and slid down a flagpole to the ground in his night clothes.

He notified Policeman Griest and he latter rang in an alarm. Hopkins then aroused Louis Nash, the janitor, who was also asleep in the building.

The post office was burned out but the Government's loss was only about $200, which represents the value of a quantity of stamped envelopes and some mail bags. Among the first to arrive on the scene were Postmaster James E. Warner, Assistant Postmaster W. E. Rinehart and Clerk H. B. F. Randolph. The trio saved all of the first-class mail and the contents of the safe. A few seconds after they made their exit a section of the front walls of the building collapsed.

It is thought that the fire originated in the cloakroom of the auditorium where Cranford Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held its annual ball last night. It is the belief that one of the dancers dropped a cigarette end in a barrel that contained a quantity of waste paper and other refuse. The cloakroom was directly above the Silberg store, where the fire appeared to get its start.

The tenants of the building, all of whom sustained a total loss on their goods, were as follows: Ground floor—Meyers Brothers, butchers; A. C. Pike, hardware; H. J. Lusardi, fruits; John Marien, drug stores; E. Silberg, haberdashery; Berry & Company, dry goods; postoffice; M. L. Howard, jeweler. Second floor—Cranford Mutual Building and Loan Association; the Christian Missionary Alliance; Dr. Agnes Ussing, Frank B. Harris; A. O. Hopkins, upholsterer. On the third floor was the auditorium, which was known as "The Cranford Opera House."

Several of the adjoining buildings caught fire but the flames were extinguished before any considerable amount of damage was done. The New York Telephone Company lost all of its trunk lines, but according to District Superintendent Miller a large force of men were put at work and everything was again in working order by 9 o'clock.

WESTFIELDER IN FLORIDA KILLS 15-FOOT ALLIGATOR

Westfield, Feb. 3.—Leigh M. Pearsall, who is a member of the Westfield colony at Melrose, Florida, in a letter to his brother, C. E. Pearsall, tells of killing an alligator fifteen feet long in Sante Fe Lake. The alligator was sunning itself on a log near Mr. Pearsall's boathouse when it met its end. The record alligator killed in that vicinity is 18 feet 7 inches.

In the same letter was a photograph taken by Mr. Pearsall of a king snake swallowing a mocassin. Mr. Pearsall was enabled to snapshot the act owing to the inability of the king snake to dodge the camera because of the burden it was putting down its throat. Mr. Pearsall watched the unusual sight for thirty-five minutes.

SALARIED STREET CHIEF IN BOROUGH

BY VOTE OF FOUR TO TWO

Citizens Voice Opposition to the Change—Hudson Almost Certain to Get Appointment—Not Necessarily an 880 Job, says Mayor.

The ordinance for the appointment of a street commissioner and the designation of his duties came up for final reading and adoption at the regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council, last night. It was passed after an open discussion in which citizens participated and tagged with the disapproving votes of Councilmen Van Arsdale and Milne.

The measure will become effective as soon as the legal formalities are completed. In the meantime the man will be named. There is no doubt but what W. [illegible] will be named. It is also [illegible] will accept.

When the ordinance was called for second reading, former Councilman James K. Arnold asked and received the privilege of the floor. He stated at the outset that while a borough solon he had been chairman of the street committee for many years and was thoroughly conversant with the work. In his opinion, he said, there is no need of a straight-salaried commissioner as there are several weeks in the year when operations in this department are at a standstill. It would be a far more economical plan, he continued, to purchase a team of horses and hire an overseer for street work whenever it becomes necessary. In summer the horses could be used to good advantage on the sprinkling carts.

Mr. Arnold was followed by Henry De Mott, who spoke in a similar vein. He prefaced his remarks by the statement that he might not have as much right to speak as some of "the big guns," but he was going to have his say just the same. Mr. DeMott declared that he believed as Mr. Arnold did that the cost of street work would be considerably less if the old system was maintained, that of hiring a commissioner and horses when necessary.

Before the vote was called for, Mayor Clark said that he, too, had been a member of the Council in previous years and that he understood matters in street work. He expressed satisfaction with the new ordinance but added that the fixing of a maximum salary of $80 a month did not mean that this figure would be held to. The section does not prohibit the pay from being smaller and the committee will name the monthly sum later. The ordinance was passed by a vote of 4 to 2.

In the Council routine, Assemblyman W. de LaR. Anderson in a communication offered to supply the borough with all new laws of the present Leagislature. His offer was accepted. Permission was granted H. H. Lowrie to build an addition to a house on Linden avenue and confirmation of new lights at Harrison and Ridge avenues and on Park place was received. The report of Recorder Gano showed thirteen arrests during January and $16 in fines.

MISS JANET RICHARDS

Among the addresses on equal suffrage which those interested in the subject in this city have been privileged to hear, the one delivered by Miss Janet Richards at the residence of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Thursday night, ranks as one of the most noteworthy. It was received with close attention by a large audience of representative men and women.

In beginning her remarks Miss Richards said she had studied the results of equal suffrage in the European countries with great care, having made several extended visits to the Scandinavian countries where it is in operation. There she found many political ideals actually in practice which we in this country yet regard as theories. She said she had been forced reluctantly to conclude that the United States was not the land of greatest liberty, equality and justice, but that those great political ideals found better expression in some foreign countries.

It was true, she said, that the Scandinavian nations were confronted by no immigration problems, no negro problems, and that they had enjoyed for years the advantages of higher education for both sexes. This has resulted in a spirit of comradeship between the men and women of the land, and they clasp hands to work for the general good of the entire community.

In England, the women have enjoyed for many years full suffrage except the Parliamentary vote. The English women are eligible to serve as mayors and members of aldermanic bodies. English women have always taken an active part in politics; they are many of them trained political speakers. In their campaigns the men expect the support of the women, and a woman of higher social position may speak from a cart-tail in Hyde Park and receive the respectful and interested attention of a large crowd, without arousing any comment by her actions.

Today throughout the world there is a general feeling of unrest. People everywhere are awakening and demanding higher ideals and a more personal share in their government. Since women are people they too are demanding an opportunity to express themselves on the conditions under which they live. They bear all the burdens of government equally with men; they are equally subject to taxation, and to all other responsibilities; they are amenable to the same laws and the same penalties for the punishment of crime. But they are denied the one privilege that really counts as a protection to class consciousness; and that on the ground of sex, the only barrier which cannot be overcome. For of the other disfranchised classes, a minor may become twenty-one years of age, a convict may be restored to citizenship, an insane man may be cured, even the Indian is having votes forced upon him, provided only that he is a male creature. The enfranchisement of 3,000,000 negroes, solely on the ground of sex, was a lasting insult to womanhood.

The ballot is simply a means to an end; but it is so far the best plan devised by the genius of men to obtain and enforce the conclusions of self-government. In countries where equal suffrage obtains, it has never been the gift of the men to women. In our six suffrage States, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Colorado, Washington and California, there are 1,000,000 fully enfranchised women who must cast their votes for president at the next election. It is true that not all these women wish to vote, any more than all the men desire to vote; in actual experience it has been found that a moral question always brings them out. This has been recently shown by the victory in Los Angeles, where the woman's vote rescued the mayoralty from Socialism; as well as in Seattle and Tacoma, where the woman's vote recalled officials proved to be openly in league with the forces of organized vice. In the California campaign the enfranchisement, which was successfully terminated this last October, the liquor men of the State and the Southern Pacific interests were the most active opponents of woman suffrage, because they considered the woman's vote too moral. We usually find in every community that the broadest, best, most law-abiding, most ethical people are arrayed against the political corporations, liquor interests and grafters in the fight for woman suffrage. The women find in the ballot a means to do effective good as soon as they are given opportunity to do their civic duty. They use it with reasonableness and intelligence, and soon discover the value of team work. It is unfair to expect that they will make no mistakes, considering the record the men have made in the long years of enfranchisement.

Returning to a consideration of Finland, Miss Richards stated that there were twenty-five women members of Parliament, about one-eighth of the entire number. The first measure introduced by the women was a bill abolishing vodka, that most pernicious drink which saps the life and intelligence of so many in that land. It was passed successfully, but vetoed by the Czar, because the revenue derived therefrom constitutes Finland's financial share in the improvements of the Russian capital of St. Petersburg. The women have also abolished child labor, and instituted a system of women factory inspectors. Norway, also, owes to its enfranchised women its corps of women factory inspectors, whose discovery of neglected, immoral and unsanitary conditions resulted in reforms being put into effect by the men in power. Through ignorance of conditions, the good men had not been awakened to the needs. The women here as elsewhere aided to form the opinion for the good of the community.

Dirty politics are the fault of the electorate. Too frequently the better element of men neglect the primaries, and on election day are confronted by a choice of two evils in their candidates for election.

The care of a city consists largely in procuring for its people the blessings of convenience, comfort and sanitation. It is virtually a problem of good housekeeping on a large scale. Politics invades the home, because politics governs the purity of the milk supply. The milk goes inside the baby, and therefore politics is not only inside the home but inside the baby.

Miss Richards pointed to the city of Baltimore as an excellent illustration. Year after year it has been subjected to typhoid epidemics because the milk inspector has been bribed by the dairymen. Although for years $10,000,000 has been appropriated for an underground sewerage system, it has been stolen by the corrupt politicians, and until this week Baltimore has had gutter drainage. The Baltimore women have repeatedly sent committees to the Mayor to demand adequate milk inspection without results, and they have realized, particularly since the Woman's Suffrage Convention which was held in Baltimore in 1906, the absolute futility of the much lauded "indirect influence." The ex-president of the leading woman's club has devoted her time for the past three years to the Equal Franchise League, which now numbers 1,000 members, and has indirectly resulted in the formation of an Anti-Suffrage League, the best possible kindergarten for woman's suffrage.

Woman's suffrage affords a stimulus to a better understanding of civics and of the conditions surrounding the community in which they live. The women introduce local improvements on a circle of household conversation, and the sons and daughters grow up in that atmosphere. The women discuss the questions in their clubs and, in a sense, become missionaries of good government. The proportion of men's vote is found to increase where women are enfranchised. One of the reasons why politics have become so evil is because the men are so busy that they lack time to acquaint themselves with real conditions.

The so-called dangers from the immigrant and negro vote, Miss Richards suggested, might easily be done away with by educational or property qualifications, imposed with equal justice upon both men and women. Any one fit for the vote should be willing to earn the vote. This would develop a sense of civic pride regardless of sex. It would make the right of citizenship more vital and of general benefit to the community.

In Australia women have enjoyed full suffrage for eleven years. It has been shown that they do not run after political positions. The home still remains, and always will be, the centre of interest, but they have awakened to consider also the relation between the home and the world outside. After nine years' experience, the Australian Parliament passed resolutions unanimously which declared woman suffrage to be a success, that it had brought nothing of the evil predicted, but had realized much of the good, and that the men of Australia would under no condition deprive women of the right to vote, but would do so far as possible to aid in the further enfranchisement of women throughout the world. High dignitaries of the church endorsed the statements of Parliament, and Cardinal Moran declared that "woman suffrage was beneficial to the State, the community, and to woman herself."

When Mrs. Gifford Jones, the prominent anti-suffragist, declared in Denver, Colorado, that the women had done nothing effective or beneficial in the eighteen years of their enfranchisement, a member of the U. S. Congress from that State produced a list of thirty-six laws for the benefit of the conditions in that State which had been put through by the women. The women have made Denver a safe place for women. The polling places have been taken from the dives and located in decent drug stores, schools, etc., to the benefit of both the man and woman voter.

In closing, Miss Richards stated that it might safely be said that all corruptionists are against woman suffrage. No one knows that worth of the franchise until enabled to use it. When Mr. Gladstone sought to enlarge the English franchise, the workingmen tried to refuse it, demanding not the vote, but work and bread. As a direct result of their voting power, English wages have advanced, for the workingman is no longer a negligible quantity. The industrial status of woman in our country as well, shows the crying need for the suffrage, and it is for the 8,000,000 working women of the U. S. that the ballot is of paramount importance.

FULL OF GRIEF, CANINE TEA-BIBBER SWEARS OFF

Westfield, Feb. 3.—Woe caused by the absence of its master in California has caused "Buster," the pet water Spaniel of former Councilman A. E. Berner to swear off drinking tea. "Buster," like the proberbial old maid, has a habit of taking several nips of tea before bedtime, but since the departure of Berner for the Golden Gate the animal has steadfastly refused to partake of the refreshment.

When he left town Mr. Berner left "Buster" in charge of Henry Heffler, with instructions to give the dog a pint of cold tea every night at 10 o'clock. Mr. Heffler did as directed, and despite the fact that the dog has exhibited a fondness for the beverage, since he graduated from puppyhood, "Buster" responded by dolefully wagging his tail and venting mournful whines. Mr. Heffler has tried to induce the dog to drink the tea several times without success.

A doggist residing in the neighborhood declared that the dog's refusal to drink the tea is due to grief because of the absence of its master.

PRISONERS OF BABY IN CELLAR

Mother and Grandmother Freed by Neighbors.

CHILD OF TWO LOCKS DOOR

Mary Kathryn Haslett Creates Excitement at Caldwell When She Toddles to Door and Snaps Lock, Thereby Becoming Jailer of Parent, Who Went to "Tend" Furnace.

Caldwell, N. J., Feb. 3.—Mary Kathryn Haslett, two years old, caused much excitement when she locked her mother and grandmother in the cellar of the Haslett home, in Arlington avenue, and kept them prisoners there until neighbors came with advice, ropes and a ladder.

The child's mother, Mrs. C. Leland Haslett, and her grandmother, Mrs. Eva Haslett, went to the cellar to work on the furnace. Little Miss Haslett was left alone in the kitchen, but soon she toddled to the cellar door and snapped back a latch.

The women tried every likely means of exit, but were unsuccessful. Their shouts as they stood near the small window attracted the attention of neighbors, who went to their aid. Through the small window the women were dragged into the yard. Then they tried the lower doors, but found all were locked. The windows, too, were secured.

Finally, after the women and neighbors had conferred, a ladder was procured and the younger Mrs. Haslett gained entrance by a second story window. She admitted her mother through the front door and both hurried to the kitchen, where little Miss Haslett was cooing.

WANT RESORT "CLEAN."

Mayor Bacharach of Atlantic City May Drive Out Undesirable Persons.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 3.—Rumors have been current here that the offer has been made to Mayor Bacharach of Atlantic City that the indictment against him will be quashed if he consents to complete the cleaning up at the resort begun by the state administration and the courts.

It is said that a conference was held here by Supreme Court Justice Kalisch, Attorney General Wilson and Mayor Bacharach, but confirmation is lacking. The suggestion that the indictment be quashed was made recently by friends of Mayor Bacharach, who said that he was in a frame of mind to reorganize things at the resort and desires to aid the state administration.

SOME RECOLLECTIONS OF THE LATE DR. RICHARDS

BY

CHARLES L. LEWIS.

The recent unveiling of the bronze memorial tablet in Brick Church, New York, in memory of the late Dr. Richards, was a service of unusual impressiveness. A number of Plainfielders were present whose hearts were stirred and memories quickened by the inspiring words of Dr. Speer and the beautiful, triumphant music. It had seemed that there was no one to do justice to the subject, but after the address it was a very general conviction that the right man had adequately, tenderly and eloquently spoken of the great man whose intimacy it had been his privilege to know.

In the years of Dr. Richards' pastorate in Plainfield he impressed himself upon the moral, religious and intellectual life of the city to a larger degree than any one of his generation, and no name will live longer in the city's history. In the few years I was permitted to hear his pulpit messages and to enjoy his personal friendship, I had many opportunities of observing certain aspects of his character, which will remain in my mind as reflecting one of the very greatest personalities I have ever known. It could well be said of him as it was said of Beecher that the man was greater than the preacher.

His chief claim to greatness as a preacher must rest upon the striking originality and freshness of his thought. It was like putting old wine into new and very attractive bottles to hear him take up some worn and much discussed passage of Scripture and "make it merely being what he was."

I recall a remarkably fine sermon on the duties and privileges of neighborliness. At the close he announced a collection to be taken for the missions in Mexico. It came as a surprise, for missions or the cause of missions had not been touched upon, but its application was perfect and the usual prompt response was the result.

After the Sunday evening service it was his custom to be among the last to leave the church. I often had occasion to speak to him on subjects of interest to me along moral and religious lines and I had many questions to ask, which always found sympathetic and kindly replies.

One evening I asked him if he would preach a sermon on that beatitude that had caused me more speculation than any of the others because it made a particularly direct appeal to me: "Blessed are they that do hunger and thirst after righteousness for they shall be filled." How shall they be filled, where shall they be filled, when shall they be filled? were the questions I asked him. He said he would be glad to consider the subject in a sermon. It was not many Sunday evenings after that when my ears were made glad by hearing my beatitude announced as a text. I was somewhat startled when he began: "How shall they be filled, where shall they be filled, when shall they be filled? These questions were asked me not long ago in this house by a member of this congregation," and then he proceeded with a message of comfort and inspiration that must have cheered every hungry heart within the sound of his voice, so full was it of the immeasureableness of the Divine love.

At another time I spoke of the song "Blessed Assurance" and expressed the opinion that I did not always trust the assurance of which some people boasted and felt it a sort of "egotism turned Heavenward" and I wondered how much we were justified in claiming. With characteristic modesty he said he would scarcely dare trust himself with a subject of that kind. The first Sunday night of the year I sang a simple hymn "Eternity," which seemed to please him and he came to tell me so and said: "I wish you would sing that often." That was like him for he was an ardent lover of music of the best class and was not unmindful of the appeal of simple hymns in the religious life of the people.

It was my privilege to sing at many funeral services which he conducted and always as one who had "joined himself unto their sorrow." As I would approach him to find out the order of the service he would say "You're going to sing?" and to my nod of affirmation he would take my hand and say "I'm glad." I do not know that any two words ever said to me made my heart more deeply rejoice and they never failed to quiet me. It was only a part of that kindly consideration of everyone of which he was a master and which enshrined him in the hearts of all who knew him.

An incident that has amused me ever since it happened, was so like him that I like to repeat it. On one of the summer excursions of the Sunday-school to Asbury Park he went with the company and was one of four that had the temerity, it might well be called, to go in bathing for the water for some reason was unusually cold.

Afterwards as he was sitting on the sand in the sunlight I asked him if he enjoyed the bath. With that twinkle in his eye and the humorous curl of his thin lips so often in evidence he replied in a crisp staccato sort of way: "Yes, I enjoyed coming out with a strong accent on the out.

He had the breadth of vision and the spiritual poise of a true prophet, the aggressive, masterful grasp of a real leader and the sympathy and toleration of a very human saint. No mention of Dr. Richards would be complete without a recognition of his keen sense of humor and his wit, which was without bitterness. The man lives in my heart and my life is shadowed by his going.

I cannot bring these lines to a more fitting close than to quote from the most affecting moment of the Crescent Avenue memorial services when Dr. Herring repeated these lines of Henry Van Dyk.

"We lay upon your well earned grave the wreath of Asphodel
We speak above your peaceful fall the tender words, farewell.
And well you fare in God's good care somewhere within the blue
And know today your fondest dreams the true, and true and true."

As to that cocked hat incident, everybody will oblige Woodrow Wilson by forgetting it as soon as possible.—Chicago Tribune.

VOTES FOR WOMEN.

It is because women are not so much interested in their "rights" as they are in their "obligations" that as a rule they are not so insistent for the ballot. This is the opinion expressed by Col. Roosevelt in an article in the current issue of The Outlook. In expressing his belief in the cause, the colonel makes it plain that he has no sympathy for the noisy suffragist, referring to that element that imitates the disgusting and disorderly English champion of "votes for women," who cares not how notorious she may become if only she can be jailed and thereby pose as a martyr to the cause.

"If the women suffrage movement were to be judged only by those advocates who discredit themselves and their sex by disorderly conduct in public," writes the colonel in expressing his abhorrance of the militant leaders, "I would certainly oppose it." "But," he continues, "I pin my faith to woman suffragist of the type of the late Julia Ward Howe." Fortunately for the cause they champion, the vast majority of the women in this country striving for the right to vote are not only highly respectable but are leaders in the communities in which they reside and in which they work for the cause. We have a good illustration right here in Plainfield, where the Equal Suffrage League is composed of thinking and highly esteemed women. The same is undoubtedly the case almost everywhere in the country where there is a movement of the sort. It is unfair, therefore, to judge the whole cause by an undesirable few, as much so as it would be to condemn a basket of apples because one apple happens to be rotten.

One rather novel proposition is advanced by the colonel in his advocacy of equal suffrage. It is that the women themselves be allowed to determine by actual experiment whether they really want to vote. "I believe it would be well to let the women themselves, and only the women, vote at some special election as to whether they do or do not wish the votes as a permanent possession. In other words this is peculiarly a case for the referendum to those most directly affected—the women themselves."

Mme. DeNavarro, formerly Mary Anderson, who though she retired from the American stage years ago is still "Our Mary," has compiled a list of the twenty greatest women in the world's history. Some may disagree with her selections but as a collection they are really worth a mention for it is evident that this talented and loveable woman has made a careful study of the relative importance of the most famous of her sex before giving her list out for publication.

These are Madame DeNavarro's choices in the order named: Blessed Virgin Mary, mother of Jesus Christ; St. Monica, mother of St. Augustine; St. Teresa, the reformer of the Carmelites, canonized by Gregory XV. in 1621; Sappho, a Greek lyric poet who flourished about 600 B. C.; Florence Nightingale, founder of the Red Cross Society; Matilda, Queen of William the Conqueror; Blanche de Castile, wife of Louis VIII., of France. She acted as regent of France before her son was of age; Jeanne d'Arc; Jenny Lind, the Swedish singer; Mme. Sarah Siddons, a celebrated English tragic actress; Countess of Craven, a famous English writer; George Sand, a noted French novelist and playwright; George Eliot (Mrs. Marian Cross), a celebrated English novelist; Maria Theresa, of Austria; Mary Arden, mother of Shakespeare; Mme. Curie, the French scientist.

In a neat little pamphlet, State Superintendent of Weights and Measures Waldron gives some timely advice which is valuable if one desires to check as far as possible the high cost of living. "What Every Housewife Should Know" is the title and some of the suggestions, as an exchange briefly states them, are these:

"No kitchen is complete without a good scale and a set of accurate dry and liquid measures; learn to read a scale; keep your eye on the scale while the merchant is weighing your purchase; watch how the butcher handles a computing scale; don't leave the trimmings of your meat with butcher; don't let fancy packages fascinate you; don't buy small quantities if you can avoid it; don't misunderstand cheapness for economy; don't neglect to test the weight of packages; don't be afraid of your tradesmen; don't be ashamed or too proud to do your own purchasing; don't depend entirely upon your servants to protect you."

Those who really aim to cut down the cost of living will do well to follow the suggestions.

Some startling facts regarding us as a nation of cigarette finds are revealed by the United States Tobacco Journal, which computes that ten billions were manufactured and sold in this country last year to say nothing of possibly five billions more rolled for use by the smokers themselves. Supposing that the average length of the average cigarette is three inches, the total consumption in the United States would girdle the globe approximately twenty-five times. Equally surprising is the fact that last year alone, we smoked seven billion cigars and nearly two billion little cigars. Unfortunately no figures are available as to the total cost of this habit, but without knowing them we can imagine what almost untold good could be done if the expenditure for the smoking habit were devoted to the uplift of humanity.

Every Irishman must be interested in the Home Rule bill to be introduced in Parliament. The provisions of the measure as given out in London include full control of customs and excise for the proposed Irish Parliament but for no control over the navy, army, militia, foreign policy or coinage. It will be forbidden to establish or to contribute to any religion or to consider any religious matter whatsoever. There will be complete free trade between Ireland and England and the crown will provide for an imperial subsidy for a stated period after which Ireland will have to contribute to the imperial expenditure. The Irish Parliament itself, will consist of two houses and the Irish people will also have representation in the Imperial Parliament.

Consumption is on the decrease in New Jersey according to the report of State Register of Vital Statistics David S. South. He asserts that during January there were but 200 deaths caused by consumption of the lungs. The average for the twelve prior months was 329. This marked decrease is undoubtedly due in a measure to the propoganda of the anti-tuberculosis leagues.

The high cost of living is hitting the college student hard these days and it is likely to materially affect attendance next fall. At Yale, the average weekly expense is now $29.25, which, it is reliably reported, increases the average annual expenses $82.

"The man who gets mad at what the newspaper says about him should return thanks three times a day for what the newspaper knew about him and suppressed," says the Bucks County, Pa., Gazette, which generally says what it thinks and thinks what it says.

EDWARD M. GROUT.

Indicted Banker Wins Appeal and Stops Probe.

COURT FAVORS GROUT.

Indicted Banker Wins Appeal—New Question of Law.

New York, Feb. 3.—All investigations by the state banking department into the affairs of collapsed banks where dishonesty on the part of officers is suspected is now suspended. The reason for this was the decision rendered by the court of appeals in the case of the banking department against Edward M. Grout, formerly president of the Union bank of Brooklyn.

This decision holds that Mr. Grout was correct in his contention that he could not be forced to testify at the investigation into the affairs of the Union bank. The court says that while the department has every power to investigate the condition of a bank while the bank is doing business, it has no power to hold examinations after it has taken possession of the institution.

Mr. Grout, David A. Sullivan and four other officers and directors of the Union bank have been indicted by the grand jury of Kings county on the evidence brought out at the banking department's investigation.

District Attorney Cropsey, who was inquisitor general for the banking department in this case, said he did not believe the decision of the court of appeals would interfere with the trials of the men indicted.

DYNAMITE PROBE ENDS.

Sixty-five Indictments Expected From Indianapolis Grand Jury.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 3.—The federal grand jury which has been investigating the dynamiting conspiracy has adjourned until Tuesday, at which time it is expected that all the indictments ordered will be ready for the foreman's signature and will be returned to court. The adjournment has been taken, it is understood, to enable the district attorney to have all the indictments not yet prepared in readiness, and if he is up with the work final adjournment will follow Tuesday afternoon.

It is believed that sixty-five indictments will be returned, but whether this means that sixty five different persons will be indicted is not known, as there will be several indicted jointly for conspiracy.

Weather Forecast.

Fair today, probably followed by snow tomorrow or tomorrow night.

LAWRENCE MURDERS NOT DUE TO STRIKE

Family of Four Killed in Italian Section.

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 3.—Discovery of a quadruple murder in the foreign section of the city some time early yesterday morning indicates the crime of either a maniac or some person wreaking a terrible vengeance for some real or fancied wrong.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Savora, Mrs. Annie Dennis, who boarded with the couple, and an unidentified man. The first supposition was that the crime had to do with the textile strike, and it was rumored that the four people killed were strikers who had either returned to their work in the mills or had expressed an intention of so doing. The police made a personal request of the newspaper reporters not to send out any reports until a thorough investigation had been made to determine if the crime had any connection with the strike. When this had been completed it was announced that none of the four persons killed was a mill operative, and their murders had no bearing upon the labor trouble here.

The murder occurred in the four family tenement house at 137 Valley street, in the section where many mill hands live.

None of the victims was more than twenty-five years old.

The murderer, after killing the four, must have attacked the bodies with maniacal fury after they were dead, for each body was covered with wounds and their throats cut repeatedly.

Miss Ida Muselin, who has a room on the same floor as the Savora suit and through whose suspicions the police visited the house, was the only person who could give any information. She said she was awakened by a disturbance in the Savora flat, followed by screams and groans. Then she heard some one run downstairs and, looking from her window, saw a man in his shirt sleeves leave the building and run up to Valley street. She thought he had a long knife in one hand.

Westfield, Feb. 3.—A resident of Westfield for sixty years, Mrs. J. W. R. Bennett, mother of Mrs. George Sortor, of 412 South Elmer street, celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday Wednesday, surrounded by her children and grandchildren. Although quite feeble, Mrs. Bennett enjoyed the occasion and expressed the hope that she would live to be 100 years old.

Mrs. Bennett is well known by the old residenters of this vicinity. She is a native of Danbury, Conn., and on coming to town she enjoyed the distinction of being one of the first of local residents to ride in a passenger train, the journey being made here when the timetable consisted of one train a day in each direction. Mrs. Bennett was twice married, her second husband being Captain Bennett, who died nine years ago.

One of the features of the celebration was greetings received from a brother, Samuel Arnold, of Brooklyn, who is 93 years old. Mrs. Bennett is a member of a family noted for its longevity. Her mother died 17 years ago at 94 years and her father was 85 years old at his demise thirty years ago.

In addition to Mrs. Sortor there are three other children living; two daughters, Mrs. Estelle Bennett, of Roselle Park, and Mrs. S. Jackson, of Danbury, Conn., and a son, William E. Bennett, of Jersey City.

WESTFIELD REPUBLICANS WANT EVANS FOR MAYOR

Westfield, Feb. 3.—Councilman Harry W. Evans is being boomed by local Republicans for the mayoralty nomination in the September primaries. Mr. Evans is a New York business man and until two years ago he never figured in public affairs.

As chairman of the street and sewer committees last year he "made good" and his friends assert that he is the logical candidate. Mr. Evans is well known among horsemen and is president of the Westfield Driving and Riding Club.

Mayor J. Allison Dennis is in line to be renominated by the Democrats, although some of the party workers are quietly advocating the nomination of Councilman Robert L. DeCamp, of the Fourth ward.

The town, which is Republican by about 500 majority, turned topsy turvy in the Democratic sweep in 1910 and elected a mayor, a majority of the councilmen and town clerk. Owing to improvements the tax rate jumped from 1.87 to 2.03 last year, which created considerable dissatisfaction. The G. O. P. leaders are hopeful of getting back in power again at the November election.

Butter Is 38c Cents a Pound.

Attention is called to the price of butter quoted in the advertisement of The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, in today's Daily Press. This fancy creamery butter, guaranteed to be the finest procurable, is being sold for 38 cents a pound and not 37 cents, as stated yesterday. This is below actual cost.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Winthrop Ames is giving the New York public its first opportunity to see an example of the stagecraft of Prof. Max Reinhardt, the most commanding figure in theatrical management in the world at the Casino theatre, on the occasion of the American premiere of "Sumurun," the wordless play with music which was the artistic sensation of Berlin and London theatrical circles, and which is presented here with the entire company and production from the Deutsches theatre, Berlin. Victor Hollaender, who composed the music, conducted the orchestra, and the stage management is under the expert direction of Prof. Richard Ordynski, the personal representative and general stage director for Prof. Reinhardt. The success of "Sumurun" was immediate, and the theatre is now crowded to the doors for every performance.

The raging sand storm, which, following in the wake of the caravan scene, the street scene, the dancing-house scene, and the magnificent scene in the Count's Garden, furnishes a sort of climax to the rapid succession of brilliant scenic effects in "The Garden of Allah" at the Century theatre, is a triumph of stage mechanism. It is an effect that was only attained after months of tedious experiment. George C. Tyler, the managing director for Liebler & Co., the producers of Robert Eichens' famous play, and Hugh Ford, and Edward Morange, stage director and scenic artist respectively for that firm, spent the summer in Algiers and the desert in preparation for this big scenic production, and, incidentally saw a sand storm in full blast. They noted that the most striking feature of the storm pictorially was the sunlight that found its way through the masses of whirling sand and streaked them with brilliant bands of gold. It must be remembered that during a sand-storm there is not necessarily a cloud in the sky, and that the sun beats down as fiercely upon the desert as in times of calm. It was decided that it would be about this feature that the stage reproduction of the storm would be planned.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" with Charlotte Walker in the role of June, is the current attraction presented by Klaw & Erlanger at the New Amsterdam theatre, New York city. Eugene Walter made the dramatization of John Fox's famous novel of the same title. Mr. Walter for dramatic purposes has used only the chief characters in the book and has condensed the time of action in order to make more vivid the contrast of the leading roles. His study of a phase of life in the Cumberland Mountains, forever past, when the law of business and order first encountered the customs of the feudal clans and the primal law of the family, is vivid and entertaining. Mr. Walter's stage realism matches Mr. Fox's imagination and word painting. The thousands of readers of the book will be delighted to see a living, breathing June Tolliver, John Hale and "Devil" Judd Tolliver. Klaw & Erlanger have supplied a scenic setting of rare beauty and coloring. The stage picture of the trail at the Lone Pine, with the vista down the long valley, through which flows the Cumberland to the Gap beyond, has not been equalled this season, the critics write, as a depiction of mountain scenery.

William A. Brady's production of "Making Good" on Monday evening at the Fulton theatre will bring to Breadway a series of picturesque incidents of life in the Maine woods, where the story of Owen Davis' most recent play is placed. Mr. Davis is the author of a wide range of dramas carrying an unusually high percentage of popular success. In "Making Good," which he describes as "a play of young American manhood," Mr. Davis develops the career of an individual who starts as a spendthrift engaged in the enthusiastic dissipation of the paternal fortune. Waking up suddenly to a realization of the folly of his ways he plunges into the lumber camps to remould his methods of life, rebuild his character and establish himself as a potential influence in the industrial and producing world. Branching from this central theme are numerous incidents both humorous and dramatic which are typical of the forest in logging time, and there is a love story closely interwoven with the main purpose of the play, which is designed to show that the early sowing of wild oats does not necessarily blast the future of a young American with real "sand" in his mental, moral and physical fibre. The drama was presented experimentally in Baltimore a few weeks ago and was received with such approval that Mr. Brady immediately placed it in reserve for the early New York opening which is provided at the Fulton theatre.

Program For Recital.

H. J. Harold, organist of the First Presbyterian church, will give the second of a series of organ recitals previous to the evening service tomorrow, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The numbers will be "Intermezzo," Salome; "Allegro and Andante" from Sonate, Ritter; "Allegretto," Tours

Cards at the Park Club.

There will be an informal evening with cards at the Park Club, Monday night, the affair being in charge of the entertainment committee of the club, of which Mrs. Samuel Townsend is the chairman.

STEAMER SINKS AFTER COLLISION

Pomeran Rescues Passengers From Allegheny.

WIRELESS CALL FOR AID.

British Vessel, Survivor of Accident Off Cape Henry, Limps Into Port After Terrible Experience—Thrilling Rescues by Crew of Pomeran—Passengers Save Nothing.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 3.—Badly crippled, the British steamer Pomeran limped into port here after a collision with the steamer Allegheny of the Hamburg-American line, seventy-five miles northeast of Cape Henry. The Allegheny went down after her crew and passengers had been taken off by the Pomeran.

Details of the collision have not been obtained, but it is reported by wireless that the passengers of the Allegheny were rescued by the crew of the Pomeran and are being brought to Norfolk.

Faint calls for help were picked up by the revenue cutter Onondaga twenty-five miles east southeast of Hog island light. The Onondaga managed to make out the name Pomeran and rushed to her assistance. When the cutter reached the British ship she was struggling almost helplessly. The Onondaga took the steamer in tow.

The rescue of the passengers and crew of the Allegheny is said to have been exciting in the extreme. While no accurate information is obtainable, the Onondaga reported by wireless that crew and passengers alike tell thrilling tales of the collision and the heroism of the crew of the British ship, which stood at their posts until the last person was rescued from the Allegheny.

The Allegheny is reported to have been dealt a death blow almost amid ship and sank within a few minutes after the Pomeran pulled away from the big hole she stove in the liner's side. Her passengers and crew, most of whom are said to have been unable to save anything but the clothes they wore, rushed on deck to find the ship sinking.

MANCHESTER FEARS STRIKE.

Cotton Employees Now Demand Increase In Wages.

Manchester, Feb. 3.—A recurrence of the cotton troubles in Manchester is threatened. A short time ago the troubles over the employment of nonunionists were settled for at least six months by an agreement brought about through Sir George Ranken Askwith, the strike settler of the board of trade, which practically left the question at issue in abeyance for six months.

The operatives have now come forward with a demand for an increase of wages. The Cotton Employers' association refused to consider this matter until the nonunionist question is settled. The operatives contend that this position of the employers is untenable, and the ground they take for the refusal to grant an increase of wages is insufficient. The position has become much worse, and there are fears of more trouble.

Meanwhile Joe Riley and his wife and Margaret Bury, the three nonunionists who caused all the original troubles, have joined the local unions at Accrington and Great Harwood.

FOUR KILLED IN WISCONSIN.

Murder Mystery Discovered by Boy Returning From School.

Appleton, Wis., Feb. 3.—A murder mystery in Outagamie became known when a report of the finding of four bodies, three of which had throats cut and the fourth a bullet wound in the head, was made to District Attorney Rooney from Binghamton, fifteen miles from Appleton. The dead, all members of the same family, are Lewis Mailahn, aged sixty-six; William Mailahn, twenty-one; Dora Mailahn, sixteen, and John Mailahn, eight.

The discovery of the bodies was made by George Mailahn, aged fifteen, when he returned home from the district school, about two miles from home.

CHARLESTON RACING TO GO.

South Carolina House Passes Bill and Senate Will Approve.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 3.—By a vote of 85 to 25 the house of representatives passed the antiracing bill and sent it to the senate. Sentiment throughout the state, except in Charleston, favors the passage of the bill, and it will without doubt be adopted by the senate.

It goes into effect when signed by the governor and will probably have the effect of stopping the race meeting at Charleston, which began ten days ago.

Earthquake In Greece.

Athens, Feb. 3.—Advices received say that an earthquake caused much damage to the Ionian islands. Twenty-two persons are reported killed.

Spain Won't Intervene.

LEAP FROM LIBERTY STATUE.

Steeplejack Floats Down From Monument With Parachute.

New York, Feb. 3.—F. R. Law, a steeplejack, climbed to the torch of the statue of Liberty, poised a moment at the dizzy height to open a parachute, and then floated calmly downward, lighting unhurt and apparently unconcerned at the base of the monument.

Officers and men of the signal corps, who gathered to see the jump, were a trifle uneasy as he fluttered down, but the steeplejack explained that nothing ever happened to those of his trade and quickly boarded a boat for the city.

He had done the parachuting for a moving picture concern, which had a film machine at a convenient point.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 3.—Thomas Nelson Page, the novelist, may be the Democratic candidate for governor next year. Senators Martin and Swanson are said to favor the author as the organization candidate, and Mr. Page says he will accept the nomination.

BONILLA NOW PRESIDENT.

Honduras General Assumes Office After Many Delays.

San Salvador, Feb. 3.—General Manuel Bonilla has assumed the presidency of Honduras.

Bonilla was elected president of Honduras on Nov. 3, 1911. His election followed a successful revolution, which was attended by much fighting against the government of President Davila, who was deposed.

Peace was brought about between the revolutionaries and the government forces at a conference at which Thomas C. Dawson, representing the United States, brought the parties together.

Davila was regarded as having been put into office in the interest of Zelaya, afterward deposed from the presidency of Nicaragua.

MEXICAN CAPITAL FEARS UPRISING

Question Orozco's Loyalty In Resigning.

GONZALEZ TO CHIHUAHUA.

Emilio Vasquez Admits Identity as Man Responsible For Mutiny at Juarez and Says He Would Accept Provisional Presidency if It Were Offered to Him.

City of Mexico, Feb. 3.—The greatest uneasiness prevails in this capital with respect to the situation in the states of Chihuahua and Morelos. In addition to the gravity of the happenings in themselves, it is feared that the uprisings in Ciudad Juarez and Chihuahua city, and the fact that in both cases the authorities seem to have yielded to the demands of the malcontents, will be a signal for other outbreaks in different parts of the country.

Abraham Gonzalez, minister of the interior, who is also governor of Chihuahua, is preparing to go thither at once in an effort to settle the local difficulties.

In a telegram to the minister of the interior the acting governor of Chihuahua says he observes an apparent lukewarmness in the efforts of the government troops to quell the disturbance. This seems like a reproach on General Pascual Orozco, who is handling the military end of the situation in Chihuahua, and, coupled with Orozco's recent resignation, brings that chief's loyalty into question.

No new developments are reported from the state of Morelos, but the country all around Cuernavaca and between the City of Mexico and Cuernavaca is infested with Zapatistas.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 3.—New complications add to the seriousness of Mexican conditions. The complications come from several sources. Former Maderistas soldiers at Chihuahua revolted and attempted to liberate the prisoners in the state prison.

Emilio Vasquez Gomez practically admitted his identity as the man behind the trouble in Juarez and Chihuahua by declaring that he would accept the provisional presidency of Mexico if it is tendered him, and Governor Colquitt of Texas muddied the diplomatic waters and in no way aided the situation here by publishing a measure to President Taft declaring that he would take "drastic action" to protect El Paso if the national government does not do so.

The "drastic action" of the governor can mean but one thing, his friends declare, and that is the mobilization of Texas militia and the investiture of Juarez in case of further fighting on the border in which the lives of Americans are endangered.

The situation in Chihuahua was more serious in the matter of blood than the Juarez mutiny of Wednesday night. The majority or at least half the Maderista soldiers remained loyal in Chihuahua, and when the discontented element, many of them former soldiers, attempted to capture the prison and release several of their leaders, lately imprisoned for opposing Madero, they were met with the rifle fire of the loyal men commanded by Pascual Orozco.

Several men were killed on both sides, including Captains Silvario, Orozco and Jose Gutierrez. The mutineers were repulsed after a fight in the streets of the city, but they did not disband. They are encamped near the city and threaten to dynamite the water supply. Their ranks are being rapidly augmented.

Another band of discontented men, many of them former soldiers of Madero, have appeared west of Chihuahua along the line of the Mexico Northwestern railway, where much of the first fighting occurred during the Madero revolution. They have interfered with railroad operations.

AUTO MAKES TROUBLE IN WESTFIELD'S FIRE DEPT.

Westfield, Feb. 3.—Because the town's $8,500 automobile apparatus failed to operate properly in going to the Alexander fire Thursday the blame was placed on Andrew Kraft, the driver, with the result that he was "fired" by Chairman Hohenstein of the fire committee. The discharge of Kraft revealed dissensions in the department with the result that Fire Chief Decker gave the members a blunt warning.

"Unless you do your work all of you will be fired. There is too much pool playing going on and not enough attention to business," declared the chief.

The town firemen appear to be jealous of the "experts" who have been engaged to look after the new apparatus.

The conferences will continue tonight at the association, tomorrow morning at the Congregational church, tomorrow afternoon at the association and in the evening at the First M. E. church.

THE FORUM.

ANENT THE WATER QUESTION.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

With eager interest I have followed up the efforts that are being made by our City Fathers to solve the water question, and I find that I cannot resist the temptation to express my opinion on the subject, not only as a citizen, but also as a student of political science.

One of the peculiar features of the present agitation for a municipal water plant, is not that the water company has given unsatisfactory service or maintained unreasonable rates, but that a vague and indefinite notion has troubled the minds of some of our citizens that the water supply of the city, as a matter of principle, should be controlled by the city. The agitation seems to be due more to the widespread political unrest resulting from business depression, rather than to any real cause of dissatisfaction with the present water supply. If there has been any difficulty with the water company or its supply, it has received no public expression.

Those who are advocating municipal ownership have pointed to other cities, both in this country and abroad, that have undertaken the management of their own water supplies and appear to have been more or less successful. But these gentlemen lose sight of the fact that there have been numerous failures on the part of municipalities in conducting their own water works; and it must not be forgotten that a large majority of the cities that have succeeded were large cities—many times the size of Plainfield.

As a general rule, the operation of municipal enterprises has been characterized by poor systems of bookkeeping and accounting; and we find that in many cases there has been juggling with figures to conceal large deficits from the only too easily bagrilled taxpayer. In other instances charges that should properly have been made to the water department have been met by other departments, thus making it appear that municipal ownership has been self-supporting, whereas if the truth were known, we should find glaring discrepancies. Only where cities were favored by unusual natural advantages in obtaining their supplies, has tolerable success been possible. In many cities the large profits that were made under private management soon dwindled and became deficits when the city assumed control. Some of those cities have found it not only to their advantage, but imperative, to lease the plants they acquired, for long terms to private companies.

In 1906, a commission representing the National Civic Federation, undertook to make a thorough examination of the actual experience of cities, both in the United States and England, in managing public utilities. This commission was made up of twenty-one prominent men of practical affairs, including bankers, labor-leaders, reformers, newspaper men, merchants, college professors, and members of the bar. Among those on the commission were Melville E. Ingalls, chairman board of directors Big Four Railroad; John Mitchell, president United Mine Workers of America; Isaac N. Seligman, J. W. Seligman & Co.; George Harvey, editor of North American Review; Louis D. Brandeis, attorney at law; J. W. Jenks, Cornell University; Frank A. Vanderlip, vice-president National City Bank, New York city, and other men of prominence. The commission attempted to conduct a thorough investigation of the subject and one of their general conclusions was this:

"The committee takes no position on the question of the general expediency of either private or public ownership. The question must be solved by each municipality in the light of local conditions. What may be possible in one locality may not be in another. In some cities the companies may so serve the public as to create no dissatisfaction and nothing might be gained by experimenting with municipal ownership. Again, the government of one city may be good and capable of taking charge of these public utilities, while in another it may be the reverse. In either case the people must remember that it requires a large class of able men as city officials to look after these matters. They must also remember that municipal ownership will create a large class of employes who may have more or less political influence."

And with special reference to the water question, Walton Clark, one of the members of the commission, says in the same report: "My study of the report of the waterworks expert employed by your committee, and my personal investigations, lead me to the conclusion that the water companies have made the more intelligent efforts toward adequacy and purity of supply, and that all conditions considered, the result of their efforts has been and is a better and cheaper water supply and service than that maintained by the municipal waterworks departments."

So much for the experience of other cities. The question resolves itself to this: What are the chances of success for a municipal water plant in Plainfield? If the city will gain anything by it, just what will it gain? Has anyone attempted to show that as a matter of fact Plainfield will benefit by taking over the plant? The burden of proof always rests upon those who would change the existing order of things. And it cannot be shown with reasonable certainty that Plainfield will receive certain specific and additional benefits by going into the water business there is no justification for an enterprise, the success of which, to say the least, may be extremely doubtful.

It is my purpose here to take up and consider specifically the possible advantages that may accrue to the city if it were to supplant the water company. It is urged that there will be lower rates under city management. Let us not deceive ourselves. Perhaps it will be enough to quote from the report of James H. Fuertes, the expert engaged by the Common Council to investigate the matter for the city.

"The rates the company has received have been investigated by more than one commission always with the result that the charges have not been considered unfair compared with those received for similar service in other cities where conditions are comparable." Throughout the report the water-works expert can only assure us that in case the city undertook to own and manage the water plant, the taxpayers, the consumers will not have to pay more than they do under the present contract with the company—which is very assuring indeed.

Let us assume for the sake of argument, and I have no doubt it is true, that the present water company is making a substantial profit on its business. But that does not necessarily imply that if the city acquires and manages its own plant, that the city will realize such a profit. That is highly improbable and next to impossible. In the first place, the company works on the principle of large scale production. The company, I understand, supplies ten municipalities from one plant, while for obvious reasons the city would have to limit its field of operations to the city and perhaps North Plainfield. If each of those municipalities attempted to own its waterworks, (and co-operation between them would be impracticable for various reasons) ten different plants would be necessary, each with its large outlay of capital and each with its separate administrative system officers and employes. The Water Company with one plant and one set of officers is able to do and does the work for all. On the principle of large scale production and concentration of control, alone, the Water Company is able to effect a large saving that could not possibly accrue to the city.

Does anyone imagine that the city would be able to operate the water plant with the efficiency of the private company? The plant would necessarily have to be managed by and be subject to the control of ever-changing city officials, each administration pursuing a different policy and managing it on different principles. We cannot expect that such officials, changing year in and year out, always susceptible to party and political influences, even if these officials had the best intention in the world, to manage a plant with such economy and prudence, as can a permanent group of employees, under private control, working under a single administrative head who is thoroughly acquainted through long years of practical experience with all the "ins" and "outs" of the business. This is not a matter of theory for we have learned the lesson by more than a century of experience. Experience has shown us that political influence and personal favoritism work hand in hand in the management of municipal works to the detriment of the taxpayer and the consumer. Corruption and graft, gross inefficiency and official sleepiness, find in governmental and municipal enterprises the greatest fields for their activity. All the evils of the "spoils system," "bossism" and "rings," play in public enterprises and especially in municipal undertakings the greatest havoc with the morals of the people and the purse of the taxpayers. I do not mean to intimate that the present government of Plainfield would yield to any improper influence; but the present condition of the effort to acquire a municipal plant indicates lack of experience in such matters.

When a private company controls a business, it must depend on its own resources. The management realizes this, and uses all its efforts alertness, and promptness to prevent waste, damage and loss, and in general it works for maximum efficiency. Every employee of a private corporation from the president down to the office boy and the common laborer must give faithful and efficient service in return for his wages.

But the management of a municipal enterprise does not have to worry or be on the alert in order to produce results. If there is a deficiency at the end of the year it is met by additional taxation. No sooner are those in control elected than they begin to work for re-election instead of trying to learn the technical side of the business. There is nothing to induce the manager for the city to exert unusual care or lend his utmost efforts to produce dividends or to make both ends meet. Consequently much loss is caused by carelessness. The damages resulting from these causes in New York city could never have possibly occurred had the business been in private hands. We hear of very little fraud going on in the internal management of private companies controlling public utilities while constant and periodic "investigations" have become a permanent and characteristic feature of municipal undertakings. Then if we take into account the multiplicity of elective officers of a city government, the different departments, each practically independent of the other, the diffusion of responsibility, and the consequent decentralization all these help to make it difficult for a city to manage such an enterprise as a water supply with any degree of success. If the Water Company has been making a large profit, this will soon disappear and be wasted under city control; and the reduction of charges is something that we cannot possibly expect in our case at least.

As to the quality of the water an improvement is to be expected or desired. At most it is planned to obtain water as good as that supplied by the company at present. Some reports suggests that the water might be improved by softening for boiler purposes, but this is not necessary for ordinary consumption. It is true that the water is somewhat hard for boiler purposes and there has been no public complaint. But if it is a real necessity, surely the company can be induced to take steps towards improving the water in that respect. On the whole, we might say that as far as the purity of the water is concerned, from a sanitary point of view, it is admitted by all that we gain nothing by a change from private to public hands.

Finally we have to consider the character of service in general. As a rule the service of the company has been entirely satisfactory. To be sure, summer before last for a short time owing to a long period of drought, there was an impending danger of a shortage of water and the water company to try to cancel the privilege of using lawn sprinklers for the time being and urge the necessity of preventing the unnecessary waste of water. But we must not forget that at the worst the situation was not more threatening and we all know that many used their lawn sprinklers all through the season day and night. Furthermore, the period was one of unusual dryness and the pinch was felt everywhere. Finally we must realize that the peril hovered over a large section of the country and that New York city itself, which has its own water works, was in the same danger. The intense heat and little rainfall at the time caused an extraordinary drain on the resources of the company. Will anyone venture to say that if the city owned the plant, the citizens of Plainfield would have fared any better under the circumstances? As it was, the company was able to obtain the assistance of another water plant to increase and keep up the supply. Would the isolated system of a city plant have been in a position to obtain such assistance in the case of an emergency?

Now we come to the most important part of the problem and it is upon this, I take it, that our decision must hinge. The expert engaged by the city expresses it in his report (page 4) as follows:

"The desirability or not of making such a contract" (referring to a new contract with the Water Company) "depends largely upon whether or not the city has sufficient confidence in the water company to accept irrespective of contractual obligations, its promises and concede its ability to look ahead and provide for future needs in advance of requirements. It is a truly a matter of confidence, for the reason that no contract that could be drawn up in advance would protect Plainfield's interest in case the company was not physically able, or did not feel inclined, or could not afford, to live up to its terms. Engineering ability of a high order, executive ability and foresight on the part of the management, with ample financial resources are all necessary in order to make the interests of the company and the consumer meet."

In commenting upon this statement, I would say that the expert is only partly correct in his assumption. The city is not at all at the mercy of the company as he supposes. The water company is a monopoly impressed with public interest, and being such, the law distinctly says that it can be compelled to give adequate services to the city and charge no more than a reasonable price. Then it must be remembered that, besides regulation, municipalization and condemnation proceedings are always potential weapons with which the city can protect itself and exact from the company good behavior and satisfactory services. And as to "engineering ability of a high order, executive ability and foresight on the part of the management," who will say that these qualities are not by far more characteristic of private corporations than of municipalities?

The only remaining exigency that might arise would be when the company might be physically unable to carry out its contractual obligation with the city. The expert says that with the great drain on the Netherwood wells the supply is in danger of exhaustion if the company does not take adequate measures to forestall any such possibility. But to show that the expert himself really dissipates his own doubts as to the good faith of the company, I need but make the following quotation from his report:

"Considerable concern has been felt regarding this possibility, in view of the prospective growth of Plainfield and the other towns which the Plainfield-Union Water Company supplies from Netherwood, and although I understand that the Water Company has given verbal assurance that in case the Netherwood supply were insufficient to supply Plainfield and the other communities, the Netherwood water would be reserved for the use of Plainfield and North Plainfield. In November, 1906, in compliance with the request from Herbert Buxton, chairman public affairs committee of Plainfield, Frank Bergen president of the Plainfield-Union Water Company, drafted a proposed new contract with the water company, in which provision was made to secure to Plainfield and North Plainfield an adequate supply of water at all times from the Netherwood wells, the company reserving the right also "to supply pure and wholesome water in said city from some other source whenever the supply at Netherwood shall become insufficient for the needs of said city and borough and their inhabitants." This contract was not entered into but an assurance was received from Mr. Bergen April 4, 1908, that the company is still willing to execute the proposed contract if desired by the city." (Report page 35).

If that contract was not entered into by the city it was certainly not due to any fault on the part of the company. Perhaps it would be interesting to know whether at the present time the company still holds this offer open?

The report continues: "With reference to the Netherwood plant the improvements now under way include, so far as I am informed, the sinking of ten additional wells to the depth of 300 to 400 feet, to penetrate deeply to the underlying flat rock and secure thus an additional supply from a source independent of that from which the present wells are fed. A considerable force of men have been at work on this improvement for many months and several of the wells have been sunk. Official records of the test of the wells have not come to my notice, but informally I have been assured that the yield has been large, as high as 425,000 gallons daily per well in some cases; and that it is confidently expected that the ten wells will yield a total of 4,000,000 gallons daily." (Report page 40). Note: The present daily consumption of Plainfield according to the report is 2,000,000 gallons. It must be noted that the four million gallons from the new wells represent a new and yet undeveloped source of supply in addition to the present source.

"In addition to driving the new wells the company is constructing a concrete reservoir at this site with a capacity to hold 500,000 gallons of water, into which the water of the new deep wells will be pumped up by an air-lift system. In connection with this system a new triple expansion Worthington pump of 7,000,000 gallons capacity is to be installed, and connections will be made so that this pump, as well as the present 4,000,000 and 6,000,000 gallon pumps can take water either from the reservoir or from the old wells direct, as desired and pumped to the stand pipe."

"In order to further improve the service, the company, I am informed, has bought land on the mountains back of Plainfield on which to construct a reservoir."

Since the issuing of the above report the Company has planned still further improvements. It has, I understand, scoured the surrounding country in search for further possible sources from which to augment the supply, and has not been unsuccessful in this respect. What further precautions can our expert demand or advise? Judging from this, will the Company be physically able to meet the demands of Plainfield for an adequate water supply? Is the Company not preparing in an efficient manner to continue giving the City an ample supply of wholesome water? Is not the Company showing that it possesses "engineering ability of a high order" and "executive ability and foresight on the part of its management?"

If this is not the case, then by all means let us have a municipal water supply, for we cannot let expense or any other consideration stand in the way of providing for an adequate and satisfactory water supply for the City. But if the Company is prepared, and is willing, and can convincingly prove to us its capacity to supply our wants in a satisfactory manner, then what reason is there for involving the City of Plainfield in an enterprise that is largely speculative and wholly uncalled for? Let our citizens not be led astray by the outward plausibilities and the attractiveness of municipal ownership. Let sober second thought prevail.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

"The Gamblers," last season's most successful serious drama in New York, which recorded a remarkable run of over 200 consecutive performances at Maxine Elliott's theatre, comes to Plainfield theatre Monday, February 5, under the management of the Authors' Producing Company, of which John Cort is president. In this gripping play by Charles Klein, author of "The Music Master," "The Lion and the Mouse," "The Third Degree," "Maggie Pepper," and others of merit, the story rises out of the operations of one Wilbur Emerson, who with several others associated with him in the banking business, uses the money of their depositors in an effort to fight the several larger banks which are endeavoring to crush them.

John Drew will appear at the Plainfield theatre February 8 in Hubert Henry Davies' fine English comedy, "A Single Man." Charles Frohman is presenting Mr. Drew and as is his custom he has surrounded this distinguished actor with a company of rare merit. Mr. Drew is accompanied by Mary Boland, Thais Lawton, Louise Drew, Carroll McComas, Clara Bracy, Ivan Simpson, Thomas Kelly and others.

THE "GREATER PEDDIE" BOOM OF THE ALUMNI

The Board of Corporators of Peddie Institute, at Hightstown, is planning for a "Greater Peddie" the idea being to make it one of the best and strongest boys' schools in the country. The idea took definite shape at a banquet given at the institute Wednesday night, and it was given further boost at the annual meeting of the New York Alumni Association held at the Sherman Square Hotel, New York, last night, when more than one hundred members were present. Among them were Dr. and Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, Miss Laura J. Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. John Crokaw, of this city, and Rev. Frank M. K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains.

It is proposed to add a number of dormitory cottages, doubling the present capacity for student accommodations. The plans also include a larger athletic field, boat house, a house for the electric light plant and enlarged classrooms. The first dormitory to be erected will cost about $25,000, of which amount one-third has been raised. Among those on the board of corporators is Charles V. McCutchen, of North Plainfield.

The alumni banquet in New York last night was the most successful ever held, it bringing together a large number of the older graduates. A number of stereopticon views portraying interesting events in the institute history were shown and Dr. Swetland, the principal of the school made an address.

Y. M. H. A. Banquet.

The installation of officers and annual banquet of the Young Men's Hebrew Association will be held tomorrow night in the hall on Grove street. Judge William Newcorn is expected to be the guest of honor and toastmaster.

ALL OUT OF SORTS.

Has Any Plainfield Person Never Felt That Way?

Feel all out of sorts?
Tired, Blue, Irritable Nervous?
Back feel lame and achy?
That's the story of sick kidneys—
Bad blood circulating about;
Uric acid poisoning the body.
Just one way to feel right again.
Help the sluggish kidneys;
Do it with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Doan's have cured many Plainfield people.

Here's one case.

C. L. Treat, painter and paperhanger, 411 East Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble and for years could not find anything that would give me relief. My back ached constantly and there was a pain across my kidneys. My kidneys were in bad shape and I became all run down, in fact, was almost a physical wreck. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply and they made a different man out of me. I got this remedy at Randolph's drug store and my experience was so satisfactory that I cannot make my endorsement of it too strong. I simply would not be without a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills on hand."

MONTCLAIR HIGH FIVE POUNDED P.H.S. 50 TO 24

The basketball team of the Plainfield High School was outclassed and defeated yesterday afternoon in a lively contest with the Montclair High School five in the P. H. S. gymnasium by a score of 50 to 24. Although the visitors walked away with the local high school boys in both halves of the game, P. H. S. put up a game fight which made it interesting.

As the Montclair gymnasium is about three times as large as the local court the visitors found no trouble in shooting baskets nearly the whole length of the floor. In the first half the Montclair boys threw eleven goals with hardly an interruption.

All of the visitors threw baskets almost at will, especially Brewster, who dropped the ball through the net six times in the last half and registered three goals in the first period. The summary follows:

Is Music made by REASON Or by INSTINCT?

PLAYER pianos could be made to run like music boxes, when turned on, if people wanted them like that.

But people don't. More than half the joy of having a player piano lies in the pleasure of Personal Expression.

This pleasure can be had only in two ways: by working numerous "interpreting" devices, or by instinctive control—the Virtuolo way.

But how much more pleasure there is in expressing yourself, impulsively and instinctively, than there is in manipulating machinery!

We think that musical expression has to do with Feelings, Emotions, Passions and that these things have nothing to do with mechanical devices, but are things that [illegible] human beings Instinctively.

Instead of trying to force you to work a mechanical instrument of fixed interpretation, the Virtuolo aims to lead you to express yourself in your own instinctive way. To let your instinct for expression be started into flame.

PASTORS SPEAK ON HOSPITAL'S NEEDS

Call For Work In Muhlenberg's Interest Sounded From All Plainfield Pulpits.

FIRST BIG CAMPAIGN GUN

Ministers Strive to Make an Impression on Their People That Will Be Reflected in Liberal Contributions to the $90,000 Fund.

Carrying out one of the chief preliminary moves in the Muhlenberg Hospital $90,000 campaign, which will start next Wednesday, virtually all the ministers of Plainfield spoke from their pulpits yesterday of the importance of hospitals in general and of Muhlenberg in particular.

The pastors sought to make an impression which will later be reflected in liberal contributions during the campaign.

Dr. J. S. Zelie at the Crescent Avenue church took as his text Numbers XXI. 17, "Then sang Israel this song: spring up, Oh well, sing ye unto it. The well which the princes digged, which the nobles of the people delved with the sceptre and with their staves," and Isaiah XXXII, 8, "The noble deviseth noble things, and in oble things shall he continue."

"Nothing could better express the feelings of the community toward the hospital than this song with which the caravans and travellers greeted the well," said the pastor. "Blinded with dust, tortured with thirst weary and spent, they were restored and refreshed, and then broke into song as they recognized the nobility which had caused men before them to dig this well.

"Do not let the hospital become a common place in our city life. Do not take it for granted. It lives only by the constant affection, nobility and sacrifice of our people. Through the hospital," said Dr. Zelie in conclusion, "each one of us can make our answer to need and suffering and sickness—the call from which we do not want to turn away."

Dr. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, interestingly outlined the history of hospitals from the dawn of the Christian era. His text was Matthew XXV, 36, "I was sick and ye visited me." "Today, he said, "everyone appreciates the necessity of caring for the sick, the indigent, the aged and the decrepit. The poor should be assisted to assist themselves, but infants and those who are ill and disabled must, like the aged, receive outside aid."

Dr. Anderson referred to hospitals in New York, Brooklyn and Newark and then, speaking of Muhlenberg and its present urgent requirements earnestly recommended that all classes of people in this community should render aid to every good work but especially to "that great force for doing good—our own beloved hospital."

In his opening remarks at the First Presbyterian church, Dr. Charles E. Herring said, "One of the great blessings which the civilized world enjoys today is the hospital, and every endeavor to make such an institution more useful and effective should meet with the heartiest response. I know from personal experience the value of a good hospital and skilled surgeons, and I feel more than ever that the presence of a hospital in a community is of inestimable value. The effort is being made at this time to broaden the work of our own hospital that it may be more efficient and helpful and it is hoped that the people will be generous in responding to its claims."

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, said in part:

"We take pride in our hospital as one of unusually high excellence. It would be a hard hearted person indeed who was not moved with compassion in some degree for the sick. No one church can do all that it would like to have done for the sick and unfortunate of the city, but by combining our gifts and our efforts we can provide for far greater results than any sum of separate charities would accomplish.

"I believe Plainfield will carry this campaign through. I have only this word of warning. Let not those of us who can give but little leave it to those of larger means to raise this money. A contribution is wanted from every man, woman and child. Why not everyone be glad to do something for Christ and the children."

From Luke IX, 2, Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church, spoke of the world necessity of healing the sick.

"Health is one of the best blessings of life. The Bible everywhere recognizes the fact of disease as actually existing. The usual method of healing consists in the employment of all the God-given means, medicine, the skill of the physician, the tender care of the trained nurse, and prayer. Every Christian has an imperative duty to the sick. There must be an evidence of the practical value of religion. The work of our local hospital must warmly commend

FIRE TOTALLY DESTROYS W. J. BUTTFIELD'S HOME

Family Flee Before Flames---Damage at Least $75,000---Firemen's Vain Battle In Gripping Cold of Early Morning.

One of the most disastrous fires in the history of North Plainfield, totally destroyed the handsome and costly home of borough Councilman Wm. J. Buttfield, on Rockview avenue, early today. After the discovery of the flames the family barely had time to reach a place of safety, so swift was the onrush of the flames, fanned by a biting gale from the northwest.

Flying embers set fire to a barn filled with hay and straw in a nearby field and this, too, was burned to the ground. Snow on the roofs of neighboring residences prevented a greater spread of the flames.

The loss is variously estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000 on house and furnishings. Mr. Buttfield himself said today that it is impossible to fix the damage owing to the nature of the furnishings, which had sentimental as well as intrinsic worth and cannot be replaced.

While the origin of the flames is unknown there are certain suspicious circumstances which furnish foundation for the belief that the place was set on fire. Mr. Buttfield would not say that he felt sure of this, however, but the rapid spread of the flames to all parts of the structure at pretty nearly the same time, as reported by those early on the scene, has given rise to the suspicion of incendiarism.

The firemen suffered intensely from the gripping cold. All the residences in vicinity braved the freezing temperature, and offers of relief to Mr. Buttfield and his family were prompt and numerous. They went to the home of Charles Eddy across the street fro mthe blazing house, from where they watched the destruction of their home.

The destroyed residence was one of the finest in the borough or city, no expense being spared at the time of its erection to make it one of beauty and comfort. The surrounding grounds matched the house.

The blaze was one of the most spectacular in the history of the local departments and was seen as far away as New York where several papers called up local correspondents to learn what was burning.

The fire was discovered by Mr. Buttfield shortly after 1 o'clock when he was awakened by the smell of smoke. The house was then nearly half enveloped in flames which seem to have started in the billiard room.

Mr. Buttfield aroused his wife and children and started telephoning to fire headquarters. He had barely time to give the alarm when the the flames forced him to flee. A flames forced him to flee. A minute or so after he fled the staircase leading to the second floor where the 'phone was located fell in with a crash.

Roundsman Kellar noticed the flames at about the same time they were discovered by Mr. Buttfield and pulled a box. When the firemen reached the scene it was evident that the house was doomed, and they turned their attention to saving adjoining property.

Patrolman Flatley and Roundsman Higgins, of the city police force had smelled smoke along West Front street for an hour before the borough fire alarm bell sounded and had tried to learn the cause of it. When the flames broke through they also saw them and sent in an alarm that brought out the city department. Chief Doane and Hose Co. No. 3 continued on to the scene of the fire to offer assistance, but returned to quarters upon learning that the nearest hydrant out of use was too far away to be reached with the hose carried.

The only articles saved from the building were a few pieces of valuable silver plate carried from the dining-room and several costly imported rugs from the same room and living-room.

Among the furnishings burned are a great many more rugs and paintings that will swell the loss and and can never be replaced. Mr. Buttfield feels particularly bad over the loss of a gold cup valued at $500 which his team of roadsters, Miss Banahan and Miss Westcott won at the London horse show several years ago, in addition to a collection of cups and ribbons they captured in this country.

The prize winners were taken from the stable to a place of safety as were also several automobiles from the garage. This was done after a fire had been extinguished in the cow shed. The flames here were on the inside in a corner and this singular fact seems to substantiate the incendiary belief, as sparks from the house could not possibly have fired the cow shed on the inside.

More than 100 tons of coal were in the cellar, laid in to generate heat and power for a private lighting plant water supply and machine shop where the several automobiles of the family were kept in repair. The coal pile caught fire and is still burning.

The hardwood furnishings in the house were all of the first quality

ARMED MADMAN STANDS OFF POLICE

LAST BULLET FOR HIMSELF

Policemen Ordered Not to Shoot at Demented Man Who Set Out to Kill Everyone Engaged in Labor Disputes.

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 5.—A determination to kill all men engaged in labor disputes seized upon the mind of Edward Fortmann, a jeweler, fifty years old, as he was dining in his home, 29 Stagg street, and, springing from his place at the table, he grabbed a revolver and began firing.

His terrified wife dropped to the floor. Shouting that he heard an army of men marching overhead, Fortmann fired into the ceiling. The bullets crashed through to the second floor, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Melen and their daughter Lucille. They fled from the house.

When the reserves appeared Fortmann leaned out of a window and after warning them to go away began shooting. Lieutenant Frank Meehan knowing that Fortmann was demented ordered the police not to fire at him unless it became necessary to kill him to save their own lives.

Policemen Murphy and Patrick Walton, newly appointed members, volunteered to break into the house. They had reached a rear window and Murphy was about to smash the glass with his club when Fortmann came running from another part of the building. He fired twice. One of the bullets struck Murphy's poised club, and the other hit Walton in the shoulder.

Murphy assisted his wounded companion to cover.

The firing attracted a crowd, and a large number of the men and women urged the police to shoot Fortmann. Several men declared they would join in the fight if the police didn't take more effective measures. Lieutenant Meehan reiterated his orders to the police not to fire and with four men rushed to the front door. They began to batter the door, but were driven off by Fortmann, who shot at them through the thin partitions.

For three hours the police at intervals attacked the front and rear doors, but were unable to effect an entrance without grave danger to themselves.

Finally when it began to appear that the police would have to starve out the besieged lunatic they heard two shots in the house. The bullets did not reach the outside of the structure, and an unbroken silence fell after the echo of the shots died away.

The police broke into the building and found Fortmann on the floor with two bullet wounds in his abdomen. He had fired his last cartridge into himself. His hands and face were powder marked, and empty shells were found in all parts of the house. He had fired more than a hundred shots.

Fortmann was taken to the City hospital. He is in a critical condition.

LICENSE APPLICATIONS TO BE RECEIVED TONIGHT

The February meeting of the Common Council will be held tonight when the applications for liquor licenses will be received. It is expected that among the applicants will be Christian Glockler, who was denied a permit last year. The applications will be referred to the license committee to be reported upon at a special meeting just prior to March 1 the date upon which all such permits expire.

Another matter of importance to be considered tonight will be that of the report and plans of George W. Fuller, sanitary engineer, for the proposed joint trunk sewer to the Cramer farm. It is not known whether the city will decide to join North Plainfield in this improvement or not. The borough authorities have suggested that Plainfield join them in presenting the plans to the State Board of Health for approval and it may be decided to do that tonight. On the other hand there are some people who favor Plainfield going it alone in solving the sewer problem.

A. L. C. Marsh Engaged.

The engagement of A. L. C. Marsh, the architect, and Miss Grace E. Weeks, of New York, was announced today. No date has been set for the wedding.

MRS. C. J. FISK'S SISTER DIES AT TRENTON HOME

Miss Mary Richey daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Augustus J. Richey, of Trenton, and sister of Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, of this city, died at 6 o'clock this morning at her home, 443 West State street, Trenton, following a long illness. She was born at Asbury, Warren county, and removed with her parents to Trenton when she was a girl. She was a member of the D. A. R., and the Colonial Dames, and was greatly interested in the work of Mercer Hospital and the Prospect Street Presbyterian church, Trenton, of which she was a member.

Miss Richey was a frequent visitor to the Fisk home here and she had many friends in Plainfield. Beside Mrs. Fisk she is survived by a brother, Isaac Richey, of Trenton. The funeral will be held at her late home in Trenton, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MAKING READY FOR THE CAMPAIGNS SOCIAL SIDE

A committee of women has been formed to take charge of the service of the daily dinners to be given during the hospital campaign to the captains and leaders of the citizens' campaign committee, the young men's business committee, and all the team members who will co-operate with both these organizations.

As has been announced these dinners will be held at six-thirty p. m. at the Y. M. C. A. The committee which will take general charge of the daily dinners for men beginning Wednesday, February 7, and of the luncheons for the women's campaign committee and their co-workers which begin February 15, is composed of Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, chairman; Mrs. Howard McWilliams, Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, Mrs. W. A. Conner, Mrs. John Gray Foster and Mrs. F. H. Andrews.

While the real purpose of these daily dinners is to bring together the workers for regular reports and the interchange of helpful ideas and experiences, the good services of the women and of their assistants will go far toward making these dinners successful.

EVERYTHING IN READINESS FOR BIG HOSPITAL DINNER

Everything is in readiness for the big banquet at the Park Club tomorrow night which will officially open the whirlwind campaign to raise $90,000 for needed improvements at Muhlenberg Hospital. The dinner is set for 5:45 o'clock. The committee in charge fear that it may be necessary to put up the "standing room only" sign.

It is not often that a Plainfield audience has opportunity to listen in a single evening, to such speakers as former Governor John Franklin Fort, former Senator Everett Colby, Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, and F. W. Hills, president of Mt. Vernon Hospital. William N. Runyon will be toastmaster.

The necessary preliminary details of the hospital campaign are practically at an end, and the active work of canvassing the city through the systematic efforts of organized teams of workers is on the verge of beginning. The names and addresses of citizens of Plainfield and vicinity have been card indexed and it is proposed to call on every one in town for subscriptions. Such is the business-like manner in which the details have been carried out, however, under the general supervision of Wilbur A. Bowen and the campaign executive committee that only in cases where a subscription has not already been made will any resident be visited than once by a solicitor.

DISPUTE OVER OWNEDSHIP WILL CLOSE UP SCHOOL.

Westfield, Feb. 5—Who owns the Branch Mills School? This is a question that is now agitating Westfield and Mountainside. Until it is answered the school probably will be closed, the dispute arising over the liability for support. As far back as records show it has been allowed that the school building was in Springfield Township. Mountainside has had some surveying done and claims the school is on what was originally the Westfield side of the line, and refuses financial support until the doubt is definitely settled.

ACCEPTS PASTORATE OF FIRST BAPTIST

TESTIMONIAL FROM KINGSTON

Clerk of the Church Which Pastor-elect Leaves Writes of the Love and Esteem Felt for Him by Old Parishioners.

Rev Dr. Philip B. Strong has accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church, which was extended to him at the mid-week prayer meeting last Wednesday night. His acceptance was made known to the church members at the morning service yesterday when a letter from him was read.

Dr. Strong referred to the action of the church briefly preliminary to the sermon. He made a strong appeal for a large attendance at the Wednesday night prayer meetings, making a special request that at least seventy-five men and 125 women attend this week's meeting.

During the communion service which followed the preaching, Dr. Strong's letter of membership was received from the First Baptist church at Kingston, N. Y., and after its acceptance E. L. Bonney, the senior deacon, gave the pastor-elect the right-hand of fellowship. Dr. Strong's letter follows:

"Dear Brothers and Sisters: In accord with assurances given your pulpit committee that a hearty and unanimous call to become your pastor would be favorably considered, I now hereby with a very high sense of the honor conferred and a very deep sense of the responsibility assumed, accept such call just extended by you.

"There are many things I might write, but few that I really need to. Let me only say I shall give you my best, confident you will not withhold your utmost of loyal co-operation. You have had a noble past, may our future be no less worthy. Expecting great things from God, let us attempt great things for Him.

"Very simply, but very, very sincerely,

"Your pastor-elect,
"PHILIP B. STRONG."

In connection with the above and a letter of dismissal from the membership of the First Baptist church, of Kingston, N. Y., B. W. Healy, the church clerk, sent the following letter to the First Baptist church, which was read by Oliver B. Leonard, church clerk.

"Dear Brethren: In dismissing to your fellowship Rev. Philip B. Strong, D. D., who is to become your pastor, we wish to add to the formal letter of dismissal a further testimonial of love and esteem for the one whose thirteen years of faithful and efficient service in our midst is to be rewarded by a call to greater usefulness and influence.

"We are pleased to know of the success that has attended his ministry of the past months and congratulate you on having been led to form this relationship of pastor and people and our earnest prayer is that your labors together in extending the Master's Kingdom may be richly blest by Jehovah."

WESTFIELD AGAINST ONE JOINT SEWER ARRANGEMENT.

Westfield, Feb. 3. (Special).—Westfield will not enter into a joint sewer arrangement with Cranford, Garwood, Kenilworth and Rahway. The sewer committee has decided to make a recommendation to the town Council at its meeting Monday evening, to adopt the plans of Hazen & Whipple, engineers, which call for the enlargement of the local plant at a cost of about $15,000.

Westfield's share of the cost of the joint arrangement, should the town join the other municipalities, would be a trifle over $45,000.

Welcome to Dr. Strong.

The Sunday school of the First Baptist church will hold a welcome service next Sunday afternoon in honor of Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, the pastor-elect. Superintendent Arthur M. Harris would like to see every member of the school present. The orchestra will assist in the singing of hymns.

German Supper.

The Young People's Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church will hold a German supper on Wednesday evening, February 7, from 6 to 9 o'clock. A sociable and cake sale will follow the supper.

IMPORTANT.

Keep your eyes open for the little vote coupon that appears daily in this paper, for with the publication of the names of those already nominated in today's issue the voting starts, each one of these little trouble makers are worth five votes. If your name is on the list and you have not as yet made the all-important start, now is your time. Three coupons clipped from the Press will figure you up 1,500 votes and the addition of a few subscriptions will give you a splendid start. Figure it out. The ballot box will be in place in the business office of this paper tomorrow, Tuesday, to receive the vote coupons cut from the daily issues of the Press and also the special vote coupons issued on subscriptions. The ballots will be allowed to accumulate in the ballot box until next Saturday evening when they will be counted and the result published in Monday's paper. Now is the time to get busy. If you do not fully understand this offer, ask the contest manager about it today.

Making public the list of contestants in the European tour contest which the Daily Press is conducting, five of whom, with a chaperone, will spend eight weeks abroad next summer, this newspaper today starts underway one of the liveliest times that Plainfield has ever seen. Names have continued to flood into the office, the great inducement of an eight weeks' tour guaranteed by a newspaper of the standing in the community of the Daily Press having been the principal reason why a number of leading young women of the community and nearby have allowed their names to be used. They realize that when it is stated that every possible expense, down to the smallest details, aside from payment for gifts and souvenirs, will be borne by the Daily Press, and that the tour will be conducted by Thomas Cook and Sons, perfection is assured in every way.

For the benefit of some of the contestants outside of Plainfield, who have not been regular readers of the Daily Press, a statement of conditions is again made.

The Daily Press was taken over by a new management on January first and is being rejuvenated on a plane second to none in this city or vicinity, and the paper has inaugurated a determined circulation campaign which is strictly high class in every respect. There is nothing in any way objectionable about anything connected with the contest, and the character of the young women whose names appear in the list removes the last vestige of doubt from the minds of a few who are inclined to be diffident. Only those of the best character have been or will be permitted to enter the competition, and the entire campaign will be conducted in a perfectly fair, clean and impartial manner, which will reflect credit upon the management of the newspaper as well as of the contest. The party will be accompanied by a chaperone, who will be selected by the contestant receiving the highest vote of all the district winners, subject, of course, to the approval of the other members of the party and the publishers of the Daily Press.

Read carefully the list of contestants and see if you or your friends are in line for one of these great trips. You may nominate yourself or have your friends do it for you. Nomination blanks, good for 500 votes, will be found in each paper, three being allowed to each contestant, giving a possible 1,500 votes with which to start. Additions to the list will be made from day to day as the possibilities of this great opportunity become more fully understood by the people of Plainfield and vicinity. Nominations are being received in every mail by the contest manager, and the size and quality of the list is a source of gratification, showing the interest taken in this campaign by the people in this section. For the convenience of those who are nominated and others who are interested, the contest manager will be at the Press office every evening from 7:30 until 9 o'clock to answer questions and give any information desired concerning these tours. If unable to call, 'phone or write and a representative will call and explain any points which are not clear.

Tomorrow morning the ballot box will be in place in the business office of the Daily Press. It will be well to get an early start, for the voting then begins and the merry race is on.

Now is the time for all readers to come to the aid of their favorites by giving them their subscriptions to the Daily Press for a period of at

CHALLENGES THIEF IN HIS FRONT HALL

Noise In the Dusk Leads Mr. Frech to Surprising Sunday Discovery.

BURGLAR MAKES ESCAPE

Interrupted as He Begins Raid, Maurader Flees Without Booty——Fooled by the Appearance of the House—Jimmied a Window.

A few minutes after he had jimmied his way into the house, a thief was frightened away from the home of G. W. French, 102 Prospect avenue, early last evening. He got no booty.

Mr. and Mrs. Frech were sitting in the dusk of an upstairs room at 6:30 o'clock when the burglar made his call. The house was in darkness, and from the outside it looked as if no one was at home. Its appearance undoubtedly fooled the burglar, whom the police are convinced is the same one who has committed the several early-evening jobs on houses from which the families were away, during the past weeks, on both sides of the brook.

Mr. Frech's attention was attracted by a noise from downstairs. He stepped to the head of the stairs outside the room, and looked down into the hallway. A man stood near the front door.

Mr. Frech called out. The man fled through the front door like a flash, and when Mr. Frech reached the open doorway there was no one in sight.

Mr. Frech called police headquarters, and Detective Sergeant Flynn and Patrolman Saffron were sent to the house. They could find no trace of the thief. A jimmied side window showed how he gained entrance.

After he had investigated all through the lower floor Mr. Frech told the police that nothing was missing. It was evident that the man had just begun to reconnoitre when he betrayed his presence in the house.

Judicious Advertising

The most interesting thing to an advertiser is to know WHO READS the publication—who will see the message he prepares with such care. Are the subscribers and readers persons who will not only be interested in the message, but will be able and willing to BUY what he offers for sale? Because unless this be the case it is foolishness for an advertiser to spend time and money in sowing seed on unfertile ground.

This editorial in the current issue of Judicious Advertising is right. The advertiser does not want to talk to ALL classes. He wants to talk to the BUYING classes; that's what he pays for.

EDWIN HAWLEY WAS A GENIUS

Called "Successor of Harriman" as Railroad Chief.

NOT A STOCK MANIPULATOR.

His Method Was to Build Up Railway Properties That Had Become Run Down—Was Sixty-one Years Old and a Bachelor.

Edwin Hawley, who died recently in New York, was the dominant factor in more than a dozen railroad companies and was regarded as one of the five biggest financiers in America. He was sixty one years old and a bachelor.

Edwin Hawley followed in the footsteps of the late E. H. Harriman as a constructive railroad magnate. He did not manipulate stocks, but built roads. He bought cripples and made them whole. In this way he made his speculations dead certainties and in the doing he amassed millions. Among the railroad companies he practically controlled are the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Colorado and Southern, the Minneapolis and St. Louis, the Iowa Central, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, the Hocking Valley, the Iowa Central and the St. Louis and Western.

His career was just another American romance of the poor boy who worked his way up to the pinnacle of success by unflagging energy.

A Railroad Builder.

He was born in Chatham, N. Y., in 1850, the son of a poor farmer. When he was sixteen years old he crowded his personal effects into a carpetbag and went to New York to hunt a job. He got one on the day he landed and began his career as a messenger for the Erie railroad at a salary of $4 a week. He remained with the Erie until he got a chance to work for the Ohio and Mississippi railroad for $9 a week. His next shift was to the eastern offices of the Rock Island road as bill of lading clerk at $14 a week. Soon afterward the California East Freight line needed a contracting agent and Hawley got the job.

Here he first came in contact with Collis P. Huntington, then the big man in the western railroad world. Huntington liked Hawley because, as he said, "He could keep his mouth shut." He soon became assistant traffic manager of the Southern Pacific.

Following the death of Huntington E. H. Harriman picked out Hawley as the man who could help him get control of the Southern Pacific railroad. Hawley "turned the trick" for him, but Harriman turned him down when he sought to be made a director of the Chicago and Alton railroad. Harriman gave James Stillman the job, but he did not succeed in keeping Hawley out. Hawley bought all the Alton stock he could get through an alliance with the Rock Island and then took the railroad away from Harriman. This was the only big defeat scored against Harriman throughout his railroad career.

Held Forty Directorships.

Hawley continued to develop as a railroad magnate until he finally controlled the Minneapolis and St. Louis, the Iowa Central, the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Chicago and Alton and the Toledo, St. Louis and Western, with a total mileage of 4,870. But these roads merely formed the nucleus for his dominions. He was a director in more than forty corporations when he died.

At the time of his death he was devoting all his energies to the wresting together of a chain of railroads from Windsor to the gulf. The consummation of this scheme would have placed him in the same rank as J. J. Hill as a railroad builder.

FIRST LEAP YEAR BRIDE.

Mrs. Carr Proposed, Bought the Ring and Paid the Minister.

Mrs. Frederick Carr of Germantown, Pa., claims to be the first leap year bride. Not only did she propose to the young man, but she insisted upon paying the car fare to Wilmington, Del., where they were married, buying the ring and giving the Rev. George L. Wolf the customary fee.

Prior to the marriage Mrs. Carr was Miss Margaret E. Molenkopf. Mr. Carr, with whom she had been acquainted about a year, was calling upon her one evening recently.

"Fred," she said, according to her own statement, "I am tired living alone. Let's go and get married." The bride explained that she knew Fred loved her so she was not a bit afraid of a refusal.

Mr. Carr said "Yes."

TO FIND ROSETTA STONE.

Dr. Edgar L. Hewitt Going to Guatemala on an Odd Errand.

In the hope of discovering an American "Rosetta stone," by which students of ancient central American ruins would be able to decipher the hieroglyphics on the temples and monuments left by the Maya civilization, Dr. Edgar L. Hewitt, director of the School of American Archæology, is being sent to Guatemala by the Archæological Institute of America.

At Quirigua excavation work already begun has brought to light the fact that the civilization of the Mayas apparently was largely religious, as many massive temples, palaces, pyramids and monuments exist.

Dorothy Hobble, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hobble, of Elmwood place, is detained at home by illness.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

G. H. A. Leap Year Dance.

About twenty-five couples enjoyed a leap year dance given in the Plainfield High School auditorium Saturday night under the direction of the Girls' Athletic Association. The affair was particularly unique inasmuch as the girls gave all the invitations to the dance, made out the dance programs and arranged for all details. The music for the eighteen dances was furnished by Miss Elsie Knowlton. Much of the success of the affair was due to the following girls, who arranged for the details of the dance: Misses Jessie Stewart, Ruth Douglas, Alice Michl, Esther Phillips and Madeline Moy.

Spelling Test in P. H. S.

Principal Lindsey Best, of the Plainfield High School, "sprang" a spelling examination of one hundred words on all of the pupils of the school this morning. The words were selected from a list of three hundred spelling words given as an examination to the Montclair Normal School with very poor results. It is hoped that the results will be better in the local school.

To Choose Senior Play.

The senior class of the Plainfield High School will have a class meeting tomorrow afternoon to choose between two plays selected by the committee. The class will have a choice between "Nephew As Uncle" with "LeBourgeois Gentilhomme" as a curtain raiser or the "Merchant of Venice." The committee in charge of selecting the two plays for a class vote follows: Malois St. John, Mildred Brownlee, Mabel Foster, Gertrude Prior and Dixon Phillips.

The Oracle, the Plainfield High School paper, was issued today. A feature of this number is a cut of the football team and a review of the season, written by Allen T. Daggett, who so successfully coached the team last season. The next number will be the last one published by the present Oracle board and will be a special alumni number.

LOVE BRINGS TROUBLE.

Charles Smith of Rutherford Was Main Support to Family.

East Rutherford, N. J., Feb. 5.—A boy and a girl romance in the Carlton bleachery here brought grave trouble to the mother of the youngster and his four-year-old sister. He was their only support.

Some months ago Charles Smith, seventeen years old, who earned $8.50 a week in the bleachery, met Marie De Smith, fifteen, who also worked there and who earned $5 a week.

But when the boy fell in love—his first love affair it was—he lost the sense of responsibility.

Evidently an elopement had been planned for the night of Jan. 25. On Jan. 24 both the girl and the boy left their positions in the factory, and Foreman Charles Miller, who inquired the cause of other employees, learned their friends knew of the plan.

The girl's mother learned of it in time also and kept Marie in safety, but the boy disappeared.

LEHIGH HAS ANOTHER WRECK

Two Are Believed Dead—Never Had Precedent In Railroad History.

Flagtown, N. J., Feb. 5.—Two men are believed to be dead and another is known to be gravely injured as the result of a wreck on the Lehigh Valley which has never had a precedent in railroad history.

When the boiler burst in a locomotive that was tugging a heavy freight train through here the explosion hurled the engine from the westbound to the eastbound track. Just at that moment a detached locomotive running at high speed crashed into it.

George Achors of Easton, Pa., was in charge of the freight engine. Frank Siebert, also of Easton, was the engineer of the other locomotive. One engineer was reported to be lying dangerously hurt in the home of P. H. Hoagland in Flagtown. A fireman and a brakeman are said to be the men pinned under the wreckage. Their names could not be learned.

Civil Service In Anam.

A novel method of identifying the work of candidates is employed in civil service examinations in Anam. The examination itself somewhat resembles similar examinations in China. Each student squats in his little hut while he works at the tests provided to show his literary taste and intelligence. The subject during the last examinations was the teachings of Confucius, and the candidates prepared moral essays or commentaries. The examination lasts fifty hours. At the end of the day's work each candidate, when preparing his papers for handing in, tears and retains a little piece from the first sheet. When the best compositions have been selected the candidates having the pieces that fit the torn places are declared winners in the competition.—Chicago Record-Herald.

BATHTUB TRUST GOES ON TRIAL TOMORROW

Fifteen Firms Face Criminal Prosecution at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 5.—The government's criminal case against alleged members of the so called bathtub trust begins here tomorrow. Fifteen firms and thirty-one individuals will appear as defendants unless other defendants should follow the example of A. G. Ward of Warren, O., who changed his own plea and that of the Day-Ward company from not guilty to nolo contendere.

The defendants are charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade under the Sherman anti-trust law, indictments having been returned Dec. 6, 1910.

In the list of defendants are the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company of New Jersey, which has factories in Allegheny and New Brighton, Pa.; Colwell Lead company of New York, which has factories at Elizabeth, N. J.; Kerner Manufacturing company, Zelienople, Pa.; J. L. Mott Iron works, Trenton, N. J.; McVay & Walker, Braddock, Pa.; McCrum-Howell company of Connecticut, with factories at Uniontown, Pa., and Norwich, Conn., and the United States Sanitary Manufacturing company, Monaca, Pa.

DUNCAN'S ARMY ON BORDER.

By Tonight 5,000 American Troops Will Be on Duty.

Washington, Feb. 5.—By tonight 5,000 American troops will be deployed along the Mexican border to prevent any breach of the neutrality laws. Strict orders have been given that under no conditions are the American soldiers to invade Mexico. The troops who will guard the Texas frontier include the entire command of Brigadier General J. W. Duncan. If the rebels who have started the revolution against the Madero government make life intolerable to the American citizens living in Mexico, President Taft is prepared to have a rush message sent to congress asking for permission to begin intervention.

While little information could be learned, the report has been verified that G. P. Robinson, the American manager of the Surlana Mining company, was captured by bandits near Cuernavaca and his family told that he was to be killed. Federal troops are now being rushed to the cities captured by the insurrectos from Mexico City. The revolutionary movement is spreading hourly.

CREMATE LYNCHED NEGRO.

Georgia Mob Not Satisfied With First Vengeance.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 5.—The body of Charles Powell, the negro who was lynched for criminal assault on a white girl, was burned by the mob here. The body of the negro was taken from an undertaking establishment, where it had been placed on exhibition, and was carried to a field in South Macon, in the midst of a populous negro settlement, and cremated.

The body was placed in a delivery wagon, which was followed through the streets for over a mile by a crowd of over 500 men and boys, who shouted, "Save the county money!"

THOUSANDS SEE 3 DIE AT NIAGARA

Woman and Two Men Are Drowned In Rapids.

ICE BRIDGE COLLAPSES.

Crowds Follow Victims, Who Drift Downstream on Ice—Attempts at Rescue Fail—One Man When Near Safety Drops From Rope and Disappears.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Three persons—a woman and two men—were drowned in the whirlpool rapids, two miles below the falls, when the ice bridge on which they had ventured to cross Niagara river broke. Thousands of people saw them drift downstream, but were helpless to attempt a rescue. One of the men is believed to have been Burrell Hacock of Cleveland, O.

Two of the three persons lost on the ice bridge are believed to be Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge Stanton of Toronto.

A great mass of ice broke away and was swept by the current toward the rapids and pool. When it broke there were at least eight persons on the ice, but five of these are believed to have gained the shore in safety, some of them a mile below the falls and midway to the rapids. Two men and a woman did not escape. One of the men floated on a cake of ice ahead of the other man and the woman.

When the jam started out the fact was phoned to the lower steel arch bridge and to the cantilever bridge, this latter being about 300 feet above the lower arch. Both stand directly over the entrance to the rapids. Men with long ropes had rushed out from the Canadian ends of the bridges and dropped the ropes down to the river and then moved along the deck of the bridge until right over the persons on the moving ice. The first man grasped the rope and held it fast. The men on the bridge started to pull him up but when he had been drawn up forty feet he let go and dropped into the river and was lost.

The other man and the woman never reached the rope as the current swept them on. The man caught the rope and seemed to attempt to tie it about the woman, but the current hurried them along and their chance for rescue was lost. They drifted beneath both bridges into the rapids in full view of the crowds on the ice.

They sank to their knees, and the waves washed over them, and then they disappeared in the seething, grinding mass of ice and water.

Persons who were near the falls when the jam broke say they are certain other lives have been lost. One man reports having seen a woman leap from the ice into the water near the upper arch bridge.

TO SAVE GIRL'S NAME.

Mrs. Thaw to Protect Coe Family In Murder Trial.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 5.—The fair name of Elsie Coe, the former Central high school secretary, who died a month ago as the result of a criminal operation alleged to have been performed by the Rev. Dr. William McFarland, former principal of the school, will not be ruthlessly besmirched during the latter's trial if money can prevent. Mrs. William Thaw, mother of Harry, killer of Stanford White, has tendered financial aid to the loyal friends of the Coe family. Lillian Coe, the dead girl's sister, was for a number of years employed by Mrs. Thaw as her private secretary.

Mrs. Thaw's kindly intervention has resulted in the securing of an additional attorney, who is under instructions to use his utmost efforts to prevent or repulse any unjust or slanderous assault upon Elsie Coe's reputation.

How the Name "Turncoat" Started.

The opprobrious epithet, turncoat, took its rise from one of the first dukes of Savoy, whose dominions lying open to the incursions of the two contending houses of Spain and France he was obliged to temporize and fall in with that power that was most likely to distress him, according to the success of their arms, one against the other. So, being frequently obliged to change sides, he humorously got a coat made that was blue on one side and white on the other and might be indifferently worn either side out. While in the Spanish interest he wore the blue side out, and the white side was the badge of the French; hence he was called Amadeus, surnamed the Turncoat, by way of distinguishing him from other princes of the same name of that house.—C. C. Bombaugh, "Gleanings for the Curious."

WILL OF 99 YEARS AGO FIGURES IN LAND SUIT

Ambiguity in a clause in a will, made ninety-nine years ago, devising a parcel of wild land in West Orange Township, was the basis of a suit to quiet title that came on for final hearing before Vice-Chancellor Stevens today.

An ordinary sixty-year search would not reveal the above. Our guaranty, however, insures title defects of any age or nature.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

(From noon today to noon tomorrow.) Sun sets 5:22, rises 7:04; moon rises 6:47 p. m.

Plainfield, N. J., February 5, 1912.

The statement made in a local paper last Saturday that former Governor John Franklin Fort, who is a stockholder in the Daily Press, had written to several prominent men in the country for views regarding the presidential candidacy, and had stated "that the Daily Press will come out strong for Roosevelt early next week," is absolutely and unqualifiedly false, so far as this newspaper is concerned. Former Governor Fort, in an interview, said this morning that he had never written anything of the kind, and that he challenged anyone to produce a letter in which reference was made to the Daily Press.

The Daily Press announced its political policy in the first issue under the present management. It is a newspaper, and is not the political organ of any individual, clique or party, and will not become such. Attempts to create any other impression will be futile, as the future will show. The publishers will stand for what in their opinion is right. As for former Governor Fort's personal position, the Daily Press is in no way responsible. He has absolutely nothing to do with the policy of the newspaper, and will not interfere with or direct it in any way.

When the East End fire house, No. 4, was about to be equipped, this paper suggested to the Councilmanic fire committee the advantages of automobile apparatus. That committee, however, arrived at the conclusion that the time was not ripe for a change, some of the members taking the view that the auto style of apparatus had not been gotten in such a shape of perfection as to be acceptable.

Now, it seems, some of the committee at least are giving serious consideration to a proposition to have the present fire apparatus motor, instead of horse, driven. Sooner or later the city will have to come to this method and the sooner the better.

Three hundred and one cities and towns in the United States at the present time are provided with auto fire fighting apparatus, the total pieces of motor driven apparatus being 594. The aggregate value, we are told, of the apparatus now in use is over $3,000,000.

"All the developments of the last few years are in favor of the motor-driven fire apparatus," says an exchange. "Improved methods of intercommunication, notably the electric trolley and interurban lines, the telephone, and the increasing radius of the delivery service (by motor wagons) of the great city department stores, have induced people to move out from the congested areas in the cities to the suburbs. The density of city population is increasing enormously. Outlying districts are being built up and the people in them are isolated from fire protection facilities.

"The horse-driven fire apparatus is thus automatically rendered absolete, for it simply cannot cover the distance in a reasonably short time. The only alternative is motor apparatus. The people themselves realize this, for in numerous cases have fire motors been purchased by popular subscription, and in several cases even on the installment plan. Public opinion is thus in favor of the motor, and what the public wants it gets, sooner or later.

"The economic advantages of the motor fire apparatus are almost illimitable. It has been calculated that the $3,000,000 already invested in fire motors is paying dividends of hundreds of per cent. every year to the American people. Naturally, the total saving is impossible to estimate, but a direct idea of the value to the public of motor fire apparatus is conveyed by the action of the insurance companies, which in numerous cases have voluntarily reduced their rates for fire insurance when motors have been installed. In several cases this reduction has amounted to over 50 per cent."

Some exceedingly interesting figures are furnished by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor as to this country's exports during 1911. The one startling and at the same time most pleasing announcement is that more than a billion dollars worth of manufactured goods were shipped to foreign countries. And this is more than double that of ten years ago.

The total increase is thus divisible: To Asia, 36 per cent.; to Africa, 64 per cent.; to Europe, 79 per cent.; to North America, 158 per cent., and to South America, 248 per cent. The actual gains are as follows: To Africa in 1902, $11,000,000; in 1911, $18,000,000, an increase of $7,000,000; to Asia, in 1902, $44,000,000; in 1911, $60,000,000, an increase of $28,000,000; to South America, in 1902, $27,000,000; in 1911, $94,000,000, an increase of $67,000,000; to Europe, in 1902, $234,000,000; in 1911, $397,000,000, an increase of $163,000,000, and to North America, in 1902, $109,000,000; in 1911, $281,000,000, an increase of $172,000,000.

All Souls' Unitarian church has suffered a heavy loss by the resignation of Rev. A. C. Nickerson. For nineteen years he has ministered to that flock with marked success and has endeared himself not only to his parish but to the community in which he has been a valuable member. We sincerely hope that he will have a speedy recovery to health and that he will continue to make Plainfield his abode for many, many years to come.

It was interesting to see an advertisement of a "men and religion" meeting, which was held in a Newark theatre yesterday, placed under the head of "amusements" in the making up of a paper. Rather tough to have anything so serious and important thus classified.

THE FORUM.

Elections' Expense.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

The letter of Roger F. Murray, published in your issue of the second inst., is most interesting, and I am inclined to think a large part of his criticism of our election expenses is quite justified. There are, however, a few points to which I should like to call attention.

I fully endorse Mr. Murray's criticism of the city clerk's action in altering the form of primary ballot sent him by the county clerk in regard to Mr. Pierce's platform, but I cannot refrain from remarking that I do not remember having seen at the time any adverse criticism by Mr. Murray or any other member of the "regular" fold, although Mr. Pierce made public the facts. In this connection it should be remembered that Mr. Thompson was the recognized "machine" candidate for the Senatorial nomination, and that Mr. Pierce's nomination was a distinct victory for the independent vote.

As to Mr. Murray's contention that the city has been made to bear certain election expenses which should have been borne by the county, I do not think he is wholly right. On the contrary, it would appear that the county has paid some expenses which should properly have been paid by the city.

Section 179 of the election law, (edition of 1911) provides that for the services imposed on them by that act municipal clerks shall be paid out of the funds of their respective municipalities a reasonable compensation to be determined by the governing bodies of their respective municipalities. It would, therefore, seem that in assuming to fix an allowance to each municipal clerk, as stated by Mr. Murray, the Board of Freeholders exceeded its jurisdiction, and that any payments allowed to municipal clerks by the Board of Freeholders out of county funds for their services under the election law were unlawfully allowed.

As to some other payments by the city Mr. Murray may be right, and if so, I should be as glad as any one to see the city reimbursed, but it does not seem to me fair that for any such improper payments the Mayor and city clerk should be held solely responsible. Let the finance committee of the Common Council bear their share of the responsibility.

Your readers will remember with what promptness the Common Council last year, on the recommendation of this committee, used to approve bills presented, notwithstanding the Mayor's disapproval.

Let us hope that this year's finance committee will not in this respect follow in its footsteps.

As to Mr. Murray's proposed amendments to the election law, I am not now prepared to express a definite opinion. I am inclined to think that the County Board of Elections has some duties to perform, such, for instance, as revising the registry lists which could not be as satisfactorily performed by other officials, and it does not seem to me that the charge of $32 for the services of four men for seven days, compares unfavorably with Mr. G. T. Dunham's charge of $18 for six days' services. The "other help" charged for by the county board, according to Mr. Murray's tabulation, might be equally needed by other officials if they were required to perform the duties of the county board. Moreover, is it not the duty of the Board of Freeholders to decline to audit any improper or unjustified bills or expenses incurred by the County Board of Elections?

As to the compensation of municipal clerks for services required by the election law, its amount is determined, as I have shown above, by the Common Council, and the work necessary in connection with elections might, it would seem, properly be taken into account in fixing the amount of the clerk's salary.

I note with interest Mr. Murray's disclaimer of any tendency on his part toward progressive Republicanism. However, the name he gives himself will not worry the progressive Republicans so long as he endorses their principles, and that he should advance the ideas set forth in his letter gives ground for the hope of even better things to come.

A Correction.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

May I claim a few lines to correct errors that crept into my article on Dr. Richards in your issue of the third inst., changing the meaning somewhat. The first quotation should read "make it newly bring what he was." The last word of the third line of the verse at the close should read "face." A sentence toward the end of the article should read: I do not know that any two words ever said to me made my heart more deeply to rejoice and they never failed to greet me.

OPENING OF THE JUNIORS' ANNUAL 7-DAYS' BAZAAR

Under the auspices of Franklin, Somerset, Plainfield and Benevolent Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., the annual fair was opened in Sebring's Auditorium, Saturday night and will be continued for one week. The patronage on the opening night was gratifying, the large hall being thronged with members and friends of the organization.

There are several booths in charge of the wives and sisters of the Juniors, where fancy articles were sold. All of these articles are handmade and attractive. Refreshments including ice cream, cake, sandwiches, coffee and soft drinks are also an attraction. There will be dancing every night up to and including Saturday.

Isaac N. Wyckoff is chairman of the general committee, A. H. Peck, treasurer, and W. H. I. Cubberley, secretary. The other members of the committee are L. D. Hall, C. S. Wilson, Harry Knolte, Harry Winn, Arthur Hoffman, of Franklin Council; Fred Welsh, D. B. Martin, Frank Staad, Joseph Y. Martin, Fred Coller, of Somerset Council; Clarkson Lowrie, E. R. Honeyman, Christopher Bernman, together with the chairman and secretary, of Benevolent Council; Harvey VanPelt, Frank Downs, Joel Pennington, Robert Craisley and the treasurer, of Plainfield Council.

STATE PUBLICATION ON SOUTH JERSEY'S PLANTS

Trenton, Feb. 5.—Presenting "The Plants of Southern New Jersey," the annual report of the New Jersey State Museum has just been issued and adds another volume to the valuable collection published by the Museum Commission, which has included descriptions of the fish, birds, mammals, reptiles and insects of the State. The new volume is handsomely illustrated with 129 plates depicting the plant life of the southern section of the State. Special reference is made to the flora of the pine barrens. The book was issued under the direction of Silas R. Morse, curator of the Museum, and the description of the plants is by Witmer Stone, curator of the Academy of Natural Sciences, of Philadelphia.

The introduction to the volume has a general reference to the plant life of the section of the State lying south of the northern boundaries of Burlington and Monmouth counties, together with an outline of its distribution within this area and some account of the characteristics, habitat and history of the more important specials. This is followed by a systematic catalogue of the flowering plants and ferns, with a detailed account of their distribution and time of flowering and fruiting.

The book will supply to teachers and students a local botany, to be used in conjunction with the general botanical manual, showing exactly which of the plants described in the more general work are to be found in southern New Jersey, and in what sections they should be looked for. It will present to botanists of the State and elsewhere a study in geographical distribution, and will place on permanent record the present condition of what Professor Stone says is one of the most interesting botanical areas in the United States. The volume contains more than 800 pages, besides the plates, and is bound in green cloth with gold titl

NO STORES FOR BURNED-OUT MERCHANTS IN CRANFORD

Cranford, Feb. 5. James W. Ferguson of Ferguson & Van Nameno, of the burned out Opera House block, says that he has every reason to believe that cigarettes thrown upon the stage by a dancer at the Junior Mechanics' hall Friday night caused the disaster. It was in the stage portion of the building that the dancers made their first appearance. Mr. Ferguson said that there was nothing else there to cause a fire.

William M. Sperry, owner of the Opera House block, is in Jupiter, Fla. When notified of the fire, he telegraphed ex-Mayor D. C. W. Randolph, agent of the Sperry building, on North avenue, to reserve the only vacant store in that building for the postoffice. Postmaster James E. Warner and his assistants had already taken possession of the store and the office opened up this morning. Business was transacted as if nothing had happened. Mr. Warner borrowed supplies from the Elizabeth postoffice and notified the postal authorities at Washington of the location of the office. An inspector is expected here today. The large safe containing the postoffice supplies still lies buried in the ruins.

The lack of vacant stores has practically put the nine merchants of the building out of business, with the exception of Arthur C. Pike, hardware dealer, who has leased the old Ferguson homestead adjoining the telephone building and will start business in the house on Monday. At present there is not a vacant store for the men to open up their business.

Janitor Louis Nahf, of the Opera House, lost in the fire $2.00, which he had hidden in the cellar. He made a vigorous fight to get into the cellar to recover his money, but he firemen prevented him from so rash an act.

MUST RUN CARS, THOUGH IT CAUSES LOSS DAILY

Morristown, Feb. 5.—The officials of the Morris County Traction Company say that it was allowed to discontinue the "short line" between the depot and Cutler street, has been denied by the Board of Aldermen. It was stated that unless the car was put back on the route, the franchise might be invalidated. The company's representative stated that the company was losing $4 a day, and further, that it was unable to continue its line down Morris street because of the delay in track elevation.

A few weeks ago the company withdrew the "short line" car. Last Monday night the Board of Aldermen adopted a resolution calling upon the line to restore the service.

DUBS THAT CARTRIDGE FACTORY VIOLATED NO LAW.

Boston, Feb. 5.—Davis Lawson, power clerk in the Dubs cartridge factory, has filed a claim for damages against the city of Boston, on the ground that the city violated no law in granting a license for the plant, which was located in a district in which explosives were manufactured, and that the city knew of the danger when it granted the license. Lawson, who is 40 years old, was injured in a terrific explosion at the plant of the United States Cartridge Company at Montreal. The injured man was made one of two trustees appointed by the court to receive contributions for widows, designed to care for as many as possible, a repetition of the accident.

It appears evident that the injured man was selected as the victim of an accident which could not have been foreseen readily.

THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE
MARKET & HALSEY STS.

THE NEW STORE

To watch the rearing of the beautiful new Bamberger store for a few moments brings home to the observer the remarkable change of methods in the building industries.

Formerly the four walls were the support of all the rest of the structure. The strength of the building depended upon their thickness and durability. Now the exterior is very little more than an ornamental curtain hung to the steel structure within. Each and every steel column sustains its share of the whole, and each one of these reaches down, thirty-five, forty-five and fifty-five feet into the subsoil to a solid, enduring foundation.

And so has the department store been evolutionized out of a specialty shop to a collection of self-supporting departments, each standing up for itself and holding up its share of the entire fame and good name of the establishment.

Particularly true is this of the Bamberger business. We are continually striving to make every section of our store the leader in its line. We have succeeded fairly well already, but we have only begun.

An American Missionary Tells How Nanking Fell

NEARLY all the missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal church who were shut off by the revolution in west China are now out of the danger zone is the news cabled to the board of foreign missions in New York by Bishop Bashford from Shanghai. Twenty-four of those sent out by the board and sixteen of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society have reached Shanghai from Chungking and Chengtu. The Rev. and Mrs. Spencer Lewis, Dr. J. H. McCartney and the Rev. W. E. Manly remain behind to look after the native Christians. The others are now attending the west China conference in Shanghai. The Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Curnow, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Freeman, the Rev. and Mrs. Elrick Williams and the family of Dr. McCartney are leaving shortly for America.

The revolutionists were under the impression that the imperialists at the South Gate fort would join them, so one night they made an attack on the fort. The imperialists hoisted a white flag to mislead their enemy and when they advanced opened fire upon them. Lack of ammunition forced them to retreat, but they returned to the attack on the next night. The next day the German and American consulates moved to the warships at the river port, the gates of the city were closed and the real siege began. There was much excitement, Dr. Blackstone writes, but the fourteen foreigners were confident they would come to no harm. Order was maintained at the point of the sword, and all who looted or disturbed were beheaded without trial.

Dr. Blackstone saw one case of "justice" delivered on the spot. Three soldiers purchased 25 cents' worth in a store, but paid only 10 cents. A row ensued, and an officer riding by dismounted and had the three soldiers beheaded. Three Manchu soldiers robbed a missionary of $5.00. They were soon captured, beheaded and their heads carried on poles while a warning was shouted to all. Then followed wholesale beheading, for when the outbreak came it was suspected that many revolutionists were in the city. A student passing the mission house was beheaded and his heart cut out. His rickisha man suffered the same fate. The announcement that all queueless Chinamen would be beheaded was followed by a search of the city for such, and the missionaries helped many to get away.

Revolutionists Take Fort.

"It was on a Thursday that we saw the hardest fighting," Dr. Blackstone writes, "and it marked the time of victory. Early in the evening the booming of the cannon at the South Gate fort began and was soon followed by a continuous roar of musketry. We listened to this battle with intense interest, knowing that the revolutionists would make a desperate effort to capture the fort this time, as it was their fourth attack. The big guns shot forth red flames, which flashed against the smoke and clouds, adding to the weirdness of the tragedy. At one time we could hear spent bullets dropping near us, which were from the revolutionists firing from the farther side of the fort toward the city. Finally, after about three hours, a big charge was made, the great guns were worked at a rapid rate and the roar of the musketry doubled. Then a perfect fusillade of explosions, heavier than the musketry, followed, and immediately all was silent, and we knew the fort had been taken.

"Later in the night very heavy firing started up at the northeast gate, outside of which there is a high mountain, within a half mile of the wall. There had been continuous light firing going on there for eighteen hours, and after midnight the firing increased to a regular bombardment. The day previous we had seen the imperial tents at the first peak of this mountain, where 250 imperial soldiers were stationed with rapid fire and mountain guns. Above them on a higher peak we had seen the revolutionists take a stand with mountain artillery. The fort just inside this northeast gate had two 6-inch, two 4.7 inch and two 3-inch guns, these being manned by Tartar soldiers, probably because this fort is near to and overlooks the Tartar City. On the north side of the city are the Tiger and Lion Hill forts, both of which were in action in this battle. With the three forts in action and the two mountain artilleries also, we had by far the fiercest cannonading of the whole siege. Just before daylight a fierce rush was made, and the victory was won. Eighty of the 'dare to die' band had charged the height and, with hand bombs, drove the imperialists in a wild flight down the mountain."

Mere Boys as Soldiers.

Dr. Blackstone declares the work of the young soldiers, mere boys, was characterized by the highest bravery and that, with proper training they will make the greatest fighters the world can produce.

Negotiations for the surrender were conducted by Vice Consul Gilbert, the Rev. A. J. Bowen and a Mr. Tsee.

When word came that General Jane Hsuin had fled through the north gate and escaped across the river the soldiers began to loot. The havoc they wrought, writes Dr. Blackstone, was awful. The local police went out after the looters. As fast as they were caught they were beheaded in a brutal fashion. Two were caught at the doctor's gate. One was beheaded, and he interfered and saved the other man's life. The looting was not directed against the foreigners. The mutilated bodies of soldiers were strewn about the streets.

Dr. Blackstone heard that the gunners in charge of the imperial fort at Nanking were revolutionists and worked the guns with the others standing over them with drawn swords. They shot to miss.

The missionaries witnessed the burning of the Manchu city, a step deemed necessary because there were eighteen mines secreted there. The Manchus were well treated by the victors, none being killed except those who resisted or who had arms hidden. The population were delighted with the change, for they felt they were in the hands of their friends.

LEADERS PLAN BIG STRIKE.

To Tie Up All New England Mills Being Considered.

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 5.—There are gathered here in secret conference the greatest aggregation of labor agitators that ever came to New England.

They are headed by William D. Haywood, John Powers and James H. Reeve, the last two men who in 1902 successfully ran the nine months' strike against the American Woolen mills. With them are associated leading Socialist leaders, the heads of the I. W. W., William Trautmann and James Thompson of Chicago.

The purpose of the secret conference is to lay plans for the campaign which will be started early this week for a strike in all the industrial centers of New England, such a strike as New England has not experienced for years.

The fact that the American Federation of Labor has stepped in and is going to do all it can to help the strikers is not taken very seriously here. Of all the 35,000 employees of the mills here less than 600 are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and the majority of the employees, being members of the I. W. W., do not take kindly to the proposition of the A. F. of L. to handle the strike.

EMPRESS OF CHINA DECREES A REPUBLIC

Peking, Feb. 5. The empress dowager issued an edict instructing Premier Yuan Shih Kai to establish a republic in co-operation with the southern republicans. The edict has not been published, and it is expected that it will be kept more or less secret, so far as the public is concerned, until arrangements in the south have been completed.

It is doubted here if the republicans in Nanking will consent to this course. It is believed that the only solution possible is the creation of two provisional governments and the continuance of temporary control. Yuan Shih Kai is opposed to the transfer of the capital to Nanking, but there appears to be a close understanding between the imperial premier and the republicans, who have again offered him the presidency.

The fact that the abdication of the throne has been decided upon is not known to the general public in Peking. Many of the imperial princes are leaving Peking.

WARM WEATHER COMING.

Cold Wave Today and Tomorrow and Then Sunshine Again.

"Unseasonably cold weather the first two days of the week in the eastern and southern states will be followed by a reaction to higher temperature by the middle of the week. Over the middle west, the Rocky mountain region and the Pacific slopes temperatures during the week will average near or above the normal. There are no indications at the present time that another cold wave will cross the country during this week.

"The weather during the week will be generally fair except for a short period of snows and rains attending a disturbance that will appear in the far west on Tuesday or Wednesday, cross the middle west about Thursday and the eastern states Friday or Saturday.

"Stormy weather is likely to continue all week over the North Atlantic steamship routes and Europe."

Kaiser Is Laid Up.

Berlin, Feb. 5. Emperor William is ill, but assurances are given that the ailment is not serious. He celebrated his fifty-third birthday only the other day. He has reigned over the German empire twenty-four years, the date of his succession being June 15, 1888.

END ELOPEMENT IN SUICIDE PACT

Wife Gave Up Riches For Youth of Nineteen.

LOVED MAN SHE DESERTED

Mrs. Suydam-Noble, Unhappy In Second Marriage With Boy Husband of Less Than a Month, Ends New York's Most Sensational Record of Misplaced Love—Suydam Sees Bodies.

New York, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Louise Lawrence White Noble, until a month ago the wife of Walter L. Suydam, a young millionaire, and Frederick Noble, her husband, ended one of the most sensational elopements in the history of New York by suicide. Their bodies were found on the floor in their apartment at 82 West Twelfth street. All of the burners in the gas range were open.

The double suicide came about five months after the elopement of Mrs. Suydam and Frederick Noble, and twenty-five days after their marriage. The two had had little happiness together since the early days of their elopement. Mrs. Suydam had confessed frankly to friends that she did not love Noble, her husband, and that she never would love any one but Mr. Suydam, whom she had forced by her elopement to divorce her. Others in the apartment house say that Noble tried to kill himself last Friday night after a prolonged and violent quarrel.

The apartment in which the Nobles had been living and in which they died was the same building and just one floor above the apartment they occupied together before Mr. Suydam got his divorce and which became known as "Affinity Flat."

There was no letter to explain the reason for the suicides. Friends of the young man and woman say none was necessary. Physicians gave the opinion that the two had been dead for four or five hours.

Mrs. White, mother of Mrs. Noble, notified Walter L. Suydam. He drove down immediately from his townhouse at 5 East Seventy-sixth street. He said there was little he could say.

"You know she is not mine any more," he said. "I came just as a friend to do what I could for them."

H. M. Noble of Brooklyn, father of Frederick Noble, got to the Regina a few minutes later. He was badly broken as he entered the apartment and did not go into the kitchen. Mr. Suydam opened the kitchen door, stood in the open doorway for a few moments and turned away, his hand before his eyes. Seeing Mr. Noble, he asked the coroner who the other man was. On learning that it was the father of Frederick Noble he took the older man's hand in his, pressed it for a moment and turned away. They did not look at each other and did not speak.

Mrs. Noble's body was taken to the White mausoleum at Woodlawn. Noble's body will be taken to Patchogue for burial. Mrs. Noble will be buried in Philadelphia.

Louise Lawrence White was the daughter of John Jay White, a retired broker, now a resident of Washington. She was married to Walter Leonard Suydam on June 10, 1903. She was seventeen and her husband nineteen at the time. On Sept. 4 last she left her husband's country home at Bluepoint, N. Y., after telling Mr. Suydam that she was in love with Frederick Noble, twenty-one years old, the son of a plumbing contractor. She and Noble were found soon after living together at the Regina. Mr. Suydam sued for divorce and obtained his decree on Jan. 9. Noble and Mrs. Suydam were married the following day in Jersey City by Edward A. Ransom, a justice of the peace. Just before her marriage to Noble Mrs. Suydam stated to a close friend, "I've never loved any other man but Walter Suydam and shall never love any other."

VISITING "NEPHEW WILL."

Miss Delia Torrey, Mr. Taft's Aunt, at the White House.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Miss Delia Torrey, President Taft's aunt, has arrived in Washington for a stay of several weeks. She will be a guest at the White House. Every winter "Aunt Delia," as she is affectionately known here, comes to Washington for a short visit. She expects to remain here until President Taft goes to Boston next month, when he will accompany her back to her home in Millbury, Mass.

"Certainly I am hopeful of President Taft's renomination and re-election," she said in reply to interviewers. "I am enthusiastic about the political outlook. It is excellent."

British Royal Yacht Arrives at Portsmouth From Delhi.

London, Feb. 5.—King George and Queen Mary arrived at Portsmouth fourteen hours ahead of schedule on their return from the trip from Delhi, where his majesty was crowned as emperor of India. The steamer yacht Medina, with the royal party on board, arrived at Spithead in a blinding snowstorm.

Queen mother, Alexandra, and other members of the royal family were at Portsmouth to meet the king and queen. Their majesties landed this morning.

AIRSHIP TO KILL WHALES.

Coast Veteran Will Use New Method In Old Time Industry.

Hunting whales with hydroplanes, from which air whalers will shoot their gaffs, promises to revolutionize the ancient, honorable and romantic blubber business.

That is the opinion of Captain C. D. Loop, a Pacific coast whaling veteran, who is at the head of a company which will include in its first arctic expedition an aviator and a hydroplane invented by Loop. He believes the new method of hunting the big mammal of the seas will soon relegate old time systems to oblivion.

Captain Loop, who has been experimenting with an aeroplane in southern California, proposes to do his own hunting by flying his own machine.

$100 BILLS FOR HIS GUESTS.

Wrapped Around the Cigars at Atlantic City Man's Dinner.

The fourteen guests who were invited to a dinner to commemorate the seventy-eighth anniversary of the birth of Robert Meyerhoff of Atlantic City, N. J., received pleasant surprises in the form of $100 bills from Meyerhoff at the conclusion of the dinner.

The old man gave no indication of the surprise he had in store for his guests. The cigars they received at the end of the dinner were tied with something yellow, and as each of the guests was handed the cigar he was told to be careful of the wrapper. The wrapper turned out to be a crisp $100 bill.

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO REST?

University of Wisconsin Establishes Class For "Fidgety" Students.

How to rest is the newest thing to be taught in the modern university. Classes in "rest" have just been added to the gymnastic curriculum of the University of Wisconsin.

In reporting to the United States bureau of education George Wehler, director of physical education at the Wisconsin institution, says:

"We do not go on the theory that the gymnasium is good for every one and that therefore every one must take gymnastics. The purpose of these classes in rest is to teach girls who are restless and fidgety and who grow weary from the performance of tasks that ought not to produce fatigue how to acquire control over their own nervous systems."

The library was one of the most complete of any private residence in this section, containing all the latest as well as some rare old volumes of standard works.

Chief McCullough, of the North Plainfield department, remained at the fire until 12:30 o'clock today, before sounding the recall. Like the rest of the men he was incased in ice. It is reported that there has been a break between Colonel Harvey and [illegible] not have saved the building even if they had had more water. There is a two-connection hydrant directly opposite the main entrance to the house and a good stream was supplied to both lines laid in. The nearest other hydrant is more than 1,000 feet distant and if a connection had been made to that the force of the water would have been reduced, and no benefit would have accrued by reason of more streams.

The house was finished in 1898 and a number of improvements have been added, increasing the actual cost. Insurance was carried on the property, but nowhere near covers the loss.

PERSONAL.

Robert Cuzen, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, spent Sunday in Plainfield with friends.

Mrs. John Felker, of Nyack-on-the-Hudson, has returned to her home after spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. William Tier, of East Front street.

H. R. Phillips, of Rockview avenue, who has been seriously ill, is improving slowly. Dr. Delafield, of New York, a specialist, and a trained nurse are attending Mr. Phillips.

Miss Katherine Crane, of Washington, the announcement of whose engagement to Harold Brown, of Madison avenue, was recently made, has been the guest of friends in this city. Several social functions have been given in her honor during her visit.

LITERARY FREAKS.

Curious Styles of Composition That Amused Old Time Writers.

With many writers, especially in olden times, various curious styles of composition were much in favor. One author, for example, would compose verses with some particular letter omitted from every stanza. Others would write in such a way that the line read the same backward and forward, and still others made anagrams. It was fashionable at one time to write verses in fantastic shapes.

The form of a bottle, a glass or a fan was imitated, and this was done by lengthening or shortening the lines as required, though with sad detriment to the verse. Where the design was a bottle a number of short lines would go to form the neck; gradually lengthening, the shoulder would be formed and then body.

There were also verses arranged in the form of a pair of gloves, a pair of spectacles, etc. Specimens of this kind of literary frivolity are to be found in French, Spanish and English books of the sixteenth century.

Both in China and Japan such literary feats are held in great esteem even at the present day. In the latter country the poet not infrequently arranges his verses in the shape of a man's head, thus perhaps giving a facial outline of the subject of his verse, and though the Chinese may not make so nice a choice, choosing perhaps a cow or other animal for the design, they display greater ingenuity.

Among the most curious of all literary freaks are the lipogrammatic works composed by the old Greeks, works in which one letter of the alphabet is omitted. The "Odyssey" of Tryphiodorus is composed in this way. He had no alpha in his first book, no beta in his second, and so on with the subsequent letters one after another.

This "Odyssey" was an imitation of the lipogrammatic "Iliad" of Nestor. There was an ode by Pindar wherein he had purposely omitted the letter sigma. This ingenuity became a literary fad, encouraged even by those who, it might be thought, would be

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best material that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

The Scrap Book

Saving His Son.

Winslow Homer's relations with his father were always ideal and became more devoted as the father's life drew toward its end. But the father was a strong temperance man. He did not approve of Winslow's habit of taking what the New England folks call an "11 o'clocker." When he was at Prout's Neck, Winslow tried to induce his father to take a little something for his stomach's sake. At 11 o'clock he would bring him a cocktail, and the two regularly went through with the following dialogue:

"Now, father, don't you think you'd better take this? It will do you good."

"Is there any alcoholic liquor in that, Winslow?"

"Yes, father."

"Well, I won't touch it, then."

"Father, if you don't take it I'll drink it myself."

"Well, Winslow, rather than have you destroy the tissues of your stomach by drinking this alcoholic beverage I'll drink it."

Attainment.

We sigh for things we scarce hope to gain
And which, if all our own, would give no peace.
We vainly toil and struggle to release
To knowledge nature's secrets. We complain
That 'tis not given us to break some chain,
To scale some peak, to win some golden fleece,
To do some mighty deed whose light shall cease
Only when moons no longer wax and wane.
'Tis thus we empty all the springs of life
To lose the blessing at our very hand
For faith and love, with glory as of fire,
Illume the path of peace through every strife.
No work is futile that is noble planned.
No deed is little if but nobly done.
—Edward Robeson Taylor.

It Couldn't Get Away.

In the state of Georgia lives a banker who is known behind his back as the human safety church. He has been accused of being nearly everything except a spendthrift.

He lives a mile from town on a plantation. One Sunday he remembered that he had left some important papers on his desk, and he gave an aged negro servitor on the place his keys and sent him for the documents.

It was a hot day, and the road was dusty, but in an hour the old darky returned with the papers intact. The owner felt in all his pockets.

"That's too bad, Uncle Jim," he said finally. "I thought I had a nickel here I was going to give you."

"Marse Henry," said Uncle Jim, "yer look again. Ef ever you had a nickel you got it yit."—Saturday Evening Post.

A Man to Encourage.

Wendell Phillips used to tell this story on Emerson with considerable glee:

"Once while I was lecturing in the west a young fellow came up to me as I was leaving the platform. He introduced himself, explained that a lecture course was being talked of in his town for the next season and wanted to know if I would be kind enough to suggest some good lecturers. I replied that I would be glad to do so and named Henry Ward Beecher, George William Curtis, Bayard Taylor and Emerson.

"'Emerson? Emerson?' said the young fellow, looking perplexed. 'Who is Emerson?'

"I informed him that Emerson was the leading philosopher of the country, one of its great original thinkers. The young fellow reflected a moment and then observed:

"'Well, Mr. Phillips, we'll put Emerson on our course if you say so. I suppose a man of that sort ought to be encouraged.'"

The Canvas Was Good.

When Whistler was living in the Latin quarter in Paris in his youth a friend took him to task one day for his idleness.

"Why don't you pitch in and paint something?" said the friend. "Pretty soon your money will be all gone, and those three rolls of canvas will still be standing empty there behind the door, just as they've been standing for the last six weeks!"

Whistler, as he lay on the bed smoking his pipe, answered lazily:

"But, you see, as long as there's nothing on the canvas I can sell it."

Disappointed.

When preaching the Bishop had a peculiar habit of breathing in air like an organ bellows, and sometimes the whistling of his air pipes could be heard by occupants of the pews near the pulpit. A little girl in Old Trinity church, becoming restless during the preaching, asked her mother to let her go home. The mother refused, because she supposed that the bishop was approaching the end of his discourse. After the third refusal from her mother, who whispered that the bishop would not like to see a little girl go out of church while he was preaching and that he was almost done now, the child answered in a high falsetto:

"No, mother, he is not going to stop. I thought so now for three times, but he has gone and blowed himself up again."

"Do you think your sister favors my suit?" "Well, it's all right if you come through, but if you don't she favors a suit for breach of promise."—Boston Record.

KNOCKED HIM COLD.

A Retort Wholly Unexpected and Right to the Point.

Old John D. Conlon has been roasted to a brown juiciness in every big fire New York has experienced in the last quarter of a century, says a New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. He has fallen off ladders, floors have crashed down beneath him, he has been bitten by the dreaded back draft and crushed under toppling walls. It would seem that he has almost exhausted human emotion. Nothing short of the day of final resurrection, one would think, would make any real impression on him. But say "Chinaman" or "prince" and John D. Conlon, retired as battalion chief of the fire department, will turn red and wriggle uneasily.

"It was when Prince Cheng, father of the present emperor of China, visited New York several years ago," says Conlon when he can be lodgeted into telling the story. "The prince wanted to see an American fire department in action, and he was sent down to hooks 24, of which I was in command. He came in dye mind, a big chink in silk stikes, and about thirty more chinks trots solemnly along behind him. There was a chap that spoke Chinese along to interpret. I bows to the prince and the prince he bows to me, and then all those thirty chinks in silk stikes they bowed to both. And the prince took out a gold cigarette box all glittenin' with jewels and offered me a cigarette.

"I WUD," SAID THE PRINCE.

"'Thanks, prince,' I says. But he didn't say anything at all, at all, and I thought to meself the old geezer didn't speak English. So he pulls out a gold case all set with diamonds and takes a match out of it. He pulls up his pedal and strikes the match on the sole of his shoe.

"'It's a wundher, now,' I says to this interpreter, 'that the old chink wouldn't strike that match on the bed of his pants.'

"'I wud,' says the prince, turning on me on me that was as cowld and solemn as an owl's, 'I wud—if I was an Irishman.'

"'Man,' says Battalion Chief Conlon, rubbing his forehead and speaking with great feeling, 'ye cud have had me head for a pin cushion. I felthud there, wishin' that I might die."

Made Them Rhyme.

Moore, the Irish poet, was once at a dinner, and opposite to him sat a Mr. Rogers, whose name Moore had seen in print but had never heard pronounced. The poet addressed him as follows:

"'My name is Rogers, sir!' said Mr. Rogers indignantly.

"'Indeed!' replied Moore. 'Well, Mr. Rogers, will you kindly pass me a peas?'"

Told Him Twice.

The English tourist in Scotland, if he has not gone through a previous course of instruction in northern parts, is apt to find himself handicapped when entering into conversation, as shown by an amusing anecdote in a Glasgow paper.

An English tourist going along the Trongate encountered a crowd of the street accident type. Obeying the universal impulse, he joined it and put the usual question, "What's the matter here?"

A carter took his pipe out of his mouth for greater clearness of speech and said, "Flaflaflarry."

"I beg your pardon."

"Flaflaflarry."

"I'm very sorry," the Englishman said meekly, "but I don't understand what has happened."

The carter's neighbor turned angrily toward the inquirer. "Man, yer a thick heid. A'm shair he's telt ye twice that a fella fell aff a lorry."

Taking a Mean Advantage.

A Burr Oak man woke up the other night to find his wife going through his pants pocket, where he kept his money. When he asked her what she was after she stammered and said she was sewing on a button that had appeared to be missing. And what did the mean old son of Adam do but get right out of bed and find two buttons on his coat, three on his vest and three on his underclothes that were just about ready to drop off and sit there and make the woman sew 'em on, remarking all the time upon the thoughtfulness of such a loving little woman who would crawl out of bed just to see that her husband's clothes were in good repair.—Kansas City Journal.

"Do you work by theoretical calculations?"

"No, ma'am; I work by the day."—Exchange.

MRS. AVA WILLING ASTOR.

Reported to Be Engaged to Foreign Diplomatist.

MRS. AVA ASTOR TO MARRY?

Reports Current In London Link Her Name With Diplomatist.

London, Feb. 5.—Reports are current here that Mrs. Ava Willing Astor is engaged to be married to a distinguished foreign diplomatist. She is said to be worth $18,000,000 in addition to her London residence.

At present Mrs. Astor, who is one of the most popular American hostesses here, is at the Ritz hotel.

Mrs. Ava Astor, who obtained a decree of divorce from Colonel John Jacob Astor on Nov. 8, 1909, long has been a favorite in English society. In London her name has been coupled with at least two men who, it appears, it could be easily were not displeasing to her, one of them was William L. A. Bartlett-Barbier Contrera.

NO CLEW IN COMB CASE.

New York Police Are Looking For Victim's Fiancé-Husband.

New York, Feb. 5.—Though Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty argues that Grace M. Hall, the young store cashier who is under arrest on suspicion that she killed Grace Walker with a comb on Saturday, had a rival for her affections and that pipe parted with diamonds to the woman and "touch" her some money generously, yet he admits the right man had not yet been found. The policemen who are actively working at the puzzle say there would have to be found out before Dougherty could seriously be accused of bribery.

"The man the police ought to look for and question is Taylor," said the manager, "who lived with Grace Walker as the woman's husband namely, after she died. He said Walker supported him. Who he is, where he lives, what he does, or whether he was telling the truth when he said he was a jeweler, I know not. I know only that Taylor has been seen spending money freely in the Astor and Long Branch of late, and that he is a frequent visitor at Pittsburg, N. Y., where he had met the records of Mrs. Walker at the auto factory.

"The police are looking for Taylor, who is tall, dark, clean cut, and of dark complexion, and he is the one who will say what has been done by the police, and not Grace Taylor, and there is a lot of mystery concerning the man."

DIES IN PET INVENTION.

Paris Tailor's Parachute Fails to Open In Eiffel Tower Jump.

Paris, Feb. 5.—Frederic Reichelt, thirty-three years old, a tailor, died of wounds received when a parachute which he had invented failed to work as he jumped from a stage off the Eiffel tower, nearly 200 feet from the ground.

Reichelt had been working two years on his invention, which he intended for use by aviators when aeroplanes began to tumble because of accidents. It was his idea that the affair, which was on the order of a parachute, should be a sort of life-belt for an airman whose machine was wrecked. The parachute was made of silk and was attached to the back like a soldier's knapsack. It weighed less than twenty pounds. Reichelt had frequently tested the affair by attaching it to a dummy.

Monday Is Washday In School.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Washing clothes is to become as important a part of the curriculum at the Lucy Flower high school as Latin and ancient history. The superintendent and principal have agreed that laundry work, sewing and cooking are as important as any other subject. Hereafter every Monday will be washday.

Brothers Reunited After 48 Years.

Kendalville, Ind., Feb. 5.—After forty-eight years, during which each thought the other had been killed in the civil war, Louis Nidey of this city and Reason Nidey of Antwerp, O., were reunited here, having lived fifty miles from each other.

TRAIN KILLS MISS LITTLE; MISS WILDEY WITH HER.

Pinehurst, N. C., Feb. 5.—Miss Elsie Little, the noted New York tennis player, was struck and instantly killed by a train at the station here. She had walked to the station with a party of friends in advance of the regular bus and was examining her baggage, which was piled up near the track awaiting the arrival of the train. Apparently for some reason unknown she started to cross the track just ahead of an engine and two cars which were backing in. Apparently Miss Little was unconscious of its approach and was struck by the engine and thrown under the wheels and instantly killed.

The body, accompanied by Raymond Little and a party of friends, was taken north today.

Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, also a player, accompanied Miss Little on the trip to Pinehurst. She was probably with the party at the station.

When she went to Pinehurst a week ago, Miss Little was suffering from a cold which had affected her hearing, and as a precautionary measure had placed cotton in her ears, and that, it is believed, prevented her from hearing the approaching train. Miss Little as a tennis player was in the front rank of amateurs, and was recognized as a most promising young player. She was a member of the West Side Tennis Club, New York.

"Don't you feel sort of lost when your wife is away, Bobby?" asked Billikins. "Yes, I do," said Bobby, "but I don't worry about it. Maria is a pretty successful detective."—Harper's Weekly.

Not All the Waters of Niagara Could Wash the Colors From Unfadable A. P. C. Fabrics, Equal to the Wonderful Printed Goods of Manchester, England

HIGHEST GRADES ONLY IN THIS SALE

The A. P. C. Co. make two qualities of cotton cloths—a 12 quality and a 6½c quality. It is well to know that this sale embraces only the higher grade fabrics—the highest cost fabrics, the most exclusive patterns.

When the merits of the A. P. C. Fabrics we sell become universally known there will be practically no sale at all for the sleazy, poor washing, calico like fabrics, which are only slightly less in price, that sometimes are used in competition with our "tried and true A. P. C." goods. Remember that a dress pattern of the A. P. C. goods costs only 40c to 50c for a full pattern. What economy can there be in buying the inferior for the sake of saving a few cents on a dress?

Phillipsburg, Feb. 5.—Three children were burned to death, five men were seriously hurt and a dozen sustained minor injuries in a fire at Alpha, three miles from here, early yesterday morning that destroyed six houses and a barn.

The dead children are James, Joseph and Amelia Ciccorelli, 14, 11 and 5 years old respectively.

SPEAK ON HOSPITAL'S NEEDS

itself to us. It should have the moral and financial support of every person. Each citizen of Plainfield should render some financial support to the hospital, be it small or large, as God has prospered him."

Rev. Father B. M. Bozan, of St. Mary's church, spoke upon the duty that is the public's to enter generously upon the plan to help the hospital.

Rev. Father William H. Miller, of St. Joseph's church, exhorted his congregation to contribute toward the fund, and spoke of the benefits of such an institution as Muhlenberg to all the people in the community.

"Blessed are the Merciful, for they shall obtain mercy," was the text of Rev. William S. McCoy's sermon at Holy Cross church.

"From this beautiful," said the pastor, "flow those deeds of goodness which make the world happy and good. Jesus pronounced a blessing upon those who showed mercy. A good, properly managed hospital is one of the very best assets of any community, and I could stand in this pulpit until the shadows gather and give you good reasons for its proper maintenance."

In closing Mr. McCoy said, "If you, men and women of Plainfield, with this splendid opportunity for Christian service before you, enter upon this campaign the present week in the Christian spirit, the needs of the hospital will be fully met and an important step in civic progress will be made."

From the pulpits of their respective churches Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace Episcopal church; Rev. G. R. Maguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist church; Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace M. E. church; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel; Rev. R. A. Stout, of Netherwood Reformed church; Rev. C. H. Mallery, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest; Rev. Warner M. Ward, at St. Stephen's Episcopal church; Rev. F. L. Green, of Hope chapel; Rev. P. B. Strong at the First Baptist church; Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church; Rev. E. C. Conover, of the Temple Baptist church; Rev. Conrad Blenk, of St. Peter's Lutheran church; Rev. C. H. Schaeegas, of the German Reformed church, and Rev. Godfried Seabolm, of the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church, spoke earnestly of many phases of hospital work and of the benefits derived by the public of Plainfield and vicinity from such an institution as Muhlenberg Hospital, exhorting their hearers to contribute to the support of the cause as liberally as their means permit. To the Swedish Lutheran congregation, Eldard J. Holmstrong spoke of the hospital and Captain S. A. Hewitt, of the Salvation Army, took the same theme.

STREET FOREMAN'S WIFE DIES OF HEART FAILURE.

ONLY ONE WAY TO CHECK IT

Owners Must Watch Their Dogs and Muzzle Them When They Go Out, Says Dr. Voorhees—Not a "Dog Days" Disease.

Commenting on the recent mad dog scares in Somerville and Bound Brook, Dr. E. R. Voorhees, the official veterinarian of the Plainfield Kennel Club, and who has a practice which extends throughout Central New Jersey, asserts that there has been a notable increase of rabies in all towns along the line of the Central railroad of New Jersey during the past two years.

It is the belief of Dr. Voorhees that the rapid sperad of the malady, which comes always through inoculation, can best be checked by the elimination of all stray dogs, the strict supervision of animals in the possession of their owners and the abolition of the practice of allowing dogs to run about the streets or through the country unmuzzled.

In support of this theory Dr. Voorhees cites the fact that rabies has virtually been eliminated from England, through drastic measures by the authorities, and at the present time no dog is allowed to enter that nation from other countries until it is first held six months for observation by the authorities.

The common belief that dogs go mad as the result of some atmospheric influence during the most heated period of the summer months known as "dog days," Dr. Voorhees says, is a great fallacy. The veterinarian has killed many rabid dogs, and during his long experience he has had under his observation hundreds of animals, including dogs, cows, and horses, which have been afflicted with rabies, and as a result of this wide experience he emphatically states that baries is prevalent at all seasons of the year and that it is a physical impossibility for either animals or humans to contract the disease unless bitten or inoculated in some manner.

COUNCIL TO TRY ACCUSED POLICEMAN FRIDAY NIGHT

Patrolman Nicholas Myers, who is now under suspension for an infraction of police rules, charged with misconduct, the use of indecent language and a disobedience of police rules on January 12 last, will be given a hearing at a meeting of the Common Council Friday night. Announcement of this was made at the February meeting last night, by Councilman F. L. Holt, a member of the police board, who referred to a resolution adopted at a recent meeting of the board.

Myers is alleged to have been intoxicated on his post. The resolution provides that a full hearing be given him and that he be permitted to be represented by counsel.

Myers has been off duty since January 12. He has retained City Judge W. J. DeMeza to represent him.

Mr. Holt explained last night that the adoption of a resolution at the police board meeting referred the case of the patrolman to the Council and that there was no other alternative but to grant him a hearing.

SUSPECTS SEEN RUNNING FROM BUTTFIELD FIRE

Callman's Statement Strengthens the Report That Borough Councilman's Residence Was Destroyed by Firebugs.

Statements made today by several callmen of the North Plainfield fire department lend color to the suspicion that the fire which destroyed the home of Councilman William J. Buttfield on Rockview avenue early yesterday morning was incendiary.

It was asserted by Callman Albert DeCamp, that as he was turning over the hay in the old barn that was destroyed, to let the flames lick up the dangerous waste to keep it from becoming scattered by the wind, he overheard two men talking. Engineer James Walker was with him at the time. DeCamp said that they could hear the men's voices distinctly enough but could not hear what they were saying.

Looking out they saw the owners of the voices running along the frozen brook away from the scene of the blaze. The thought that the runners might be suspicious characters did not occur to them in the excitement of the moment and they did not think of the incident again, until stories of incendiarism began to be circulated yesterday after the excitement had quieted down.

The fact that a mass of data pertaining to the proposed North Plainfield sewage disposal plant was lost in the flames, will not materially effect the realization of the proposition, according to a statement made by Mr. Buttfield as the papers burned up were either duplicates, or can easily be duplicated. Other important papers bearing on the plan are safe in a safe deposit vault in one of the local banks.

Mr. Buttfield's plans for rebuilding have not as yet been formulated and just what he will do depends on several important matters he has under consideration. The injury he received to his head by falling on the ice when fleeing with his family from the burning residence is still causing him considerable pain. In addition he and his family still feel the effects of the shock over the loss of their home.

Miss Hamilton's gift to her maid of honor, Miss Katherine Chambers, of Brooklyn, was a topaz ring. TWELVE ASK FOR LIQUOR LICENSES

Christian Gloekler, Whose Renewal Application Was Rejected Last Year, Among Them.

NO REALLY NEW APPLICANTS

Action by Council at Special Meeting February 26, When Protests, Especially Against Gloekler, Are Expected—Those Who Apply.

Twelve applications for liquor licenses were presented at the February meeting of the Common Council, last night, two for wholesale places, six for saloons and four for hotels. All were renewals, except that of Christian Gloekler.

Mr. Gloekler was denied a license a year ago following charges made through affidavits of boys that they had purchased liquor in his saloon at West Front and Somerset streets. It was recently forecasted in the Plainfield Press that Mr. Gloekler would apply for a license last night and no one was surprised.

All the applications were referred to the license committee of which W. W. Wilson is chairman, and action will be taken on them at a special meeting to be held Monday night, February 26, just prior to March 1, when all licenses expire. There was no protest last night against any of the license applications, but it is expected that there will be at the proper time, especially against Mr. Gloekler's. The following applied last night:

Eastern Bottling Company, Frank Linke, wholesale; John H. Kitchen, Hotel Kensington; Peter Floersch, Queen City Hotel; Henry Windham, Hotel Waldorf; Jacob Bliml, Blimm's Hotel; Godfrey J. Weinman, A. D. Findlay, Ellsworth Westcott, Clark Brothers and Michael Watson.

President R. I. Tolles named Councilmen F. L. Holt, W. L. Gloak and Fred Endress as the committee to represent the city. At this conference a tidewater sewer proposition will be discussed.

JUDGE HOOK APPOINTED ON U. S. SUPREME COURT

Washington, Feb. 6.—In spite of numerous protests from executives of Western States, and others, President Taft, it is said, will send the name of Judge William C. Hook, of Kansas, to the Senate today for membership on the Supreme Court of the United States, to succeed the late Justice Harlan.

The opposition to Judge Hook came because he is said to have already expressed his opinion on the question of the legality of the states to fix rates on the railroads within their boundaries, and this subject is to come up before the Supreme Court for argument soon. It was claimed that by making the appointment the President would put a man on the bench who had already expressed his opposition to the right of the States.

At the meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Health last night steps were ordered taken to strengthen the precautions to prevent the spread of the disease. Only routine matter were transacted in addition.

75 SANATORIUM BONDS ARE SOLD AT PREMUIM

Bids for the seventy-five extra bonds issued to defray the cost of erecting the Bonnie Burn Sanatorium at Scotch Plains were opened yesterday in the office of County Collector Nathan R. Leavitt, and the securities were sold to L. Van Hoffman & Company, of New York city, for $79,351.40, a premium of $4,351.40 over par value. The next highest bidder was the firm of Harris, Forbes & Company, which agreed to pay $79,276.75 for the bonds.

The bid of the Hoffman concern is taken as an indication of the standing of Union county. Only once before in the history of the county has such a high premium been paid on a bond issue. In 1900, when the bonds to defray the cost of the Courthouse were disposed of, a slightly higher price was secured but at that time the condition of the bond market was better. The purchasers of the sanatorium bonds are an old-established firm, but only recently entered into the municipal bond field. Their office is located at 59 Wall street, New York.

CURRIE CONFIRMED BY DIVIDED VOTE

OPPOSITION NOT PERSONAL

Trio Who Cast Negative Ballots Believe Dr. Lufburrow Was Entitled to Reappointment, and Vote to Register Disapproval of Change.

Dr. Norman W. Currie was confirmed as city physician succeeding Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, at the February meeting of the Common Council last night, but not by unanimous vote. Councilmen Clay, Mygatt and Tolles voted against confirmation. The councilmen whose votes made the mayor's appointment effective were Endress, Gloak, Reville, Holt, Taylor and Wilson.

The opposition to Dr. Currie was not based on criticism of him, but on the opposing councilmen's belief that Dr. Lufburrow was entitled to reappointment. Mayor G. W. V. Moy appointed Dr. Currie to the office early in January, giving as his reasons at the time that he believed in rotation in office. He said that he held Dr. Lufburrow in the highest regard, but after several years' service thought that someone else should be given the appointment.

Councilman Fred Endress, chairman of the alms committee, made the motion to confirm. His resolution taking the appointment from the table resulted in a short but lively discussion on the part of the members who favor Dr. Lufburrow.

President Tolles said that he regretted that Dr. Lufburrow was not re-appointed, as he considered him an efficient official.

Councilman Clay said that while he did not known either Dr. Lufburrow or Dr. Currie, he had always understood that the former was an excellent official. If the mayor was appointing a new man simply to make a change he did not favor the appointment.

This led Councilman Patrick J. Reville to remark that when the Mayor sent in an appointment the Council should confirm it unless there was some question as to the character or fitness of the appointee. That stirred Mr. Clay, who said crisply that he reserved the right to vote for whom he pleased and for the best interest of the city.

WHY IS IT

that the PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS is being favorably talked about whenever three or four people are gathered together in this town. The answer, perhaps, should come from some one other than the publishers of the paper. Here it is:

One of the best known men in Plainfield, a man who is a leader in every big movement in the city, called us up on the 'phone. He said, "I want to congratulate the 'new' Daily Press,

It Is the First REAL NEWSPAPER Plainfield Has Ever Had."

This is only one of the hundreds of expressions of commendation that have been received since the rejuvenated Daily Press put in appearance. The statement is no vivid imagining of an adv. writer's brain. It is an actual quotation, which can be proven to be true for the benefit of any skeptical person.

CRIMINALS IN FRANCE.

Curious Devices Used to Land Them Safely In Jail.

Scarcely a day passes without a picture appearing in the French press of a prisoner being led off to the station by a policeman and the description, "the Apache being taken away handcuffed by the agents." As a matter of fact, handcuffs are altogether out of date in France and are never used.

Instead of the bracelets every policeman carries a "cabriolet," which is a very rough and massively made article resembling a huge watch chain some ten inches long with a stout wooden crossbar at either end. An expert can slip this over the wrist of an offender in a twinkling and with both the crossbars in his hand has only to give it a twist to inflict the most excruciating pain and compel instant and lamblike submission.

Another common method of preventing escape is to make the prisoner place both his hands in his side trouser pockets and then pass a string around his wrists and around his waist and bid him march. He can walk at a very smart pace, but any attempt to run out of a shambling trot immediately brings him down, nose to the pavement.

If no string is handy all the brace buttons of the trousers are cut off and the culprit is made again to put his hands in his pockets. As in the former case, he can only walk, since so soon as he frees his hands his nether garments fall about his legs and he is "entrave."

Few of these devices are apparent to the casual passerby, who often wonders at the passive docility with which some villainous looking individual under arrest follows his captor to the station. Sometimes on a country road one may meet a couple of gendarmes on foot or on horseback, leading a prisoner between them.

This is in obedience to a quaint regulation whereby prisoners are never sent by train from place to place, as there are no funds set apart for railway fares. Consequently four or five times as much is spent in food, drink and lodging for the escort as would be for the ticket, but the regulations are observed. In such cases the police often use the "poucettes," though strictly speaking this instrument is not legal.

It is a sort of loose thumbscrew, which is fixed so as to keep the two thumbs comfortably together so long as the man does not struggle, but a twist of the string held by one of the police is enough to destroy any wish to escape.—London Standard.

Chinese Chorus Girls.

In some Chinese theaters the stage manager has an economical custom of employing dummy figures cut out of cardboard and the like to swell the ranks of the chorus without at the same time swelling the salary list.

LA FOLLETTE ILL, AND GIVES UP FIGHT

To Center Efforts For Progressive Platform.

IS STILL A CANDIDATE.

Manager of Wisconsin Senator's Boom For Presidency Issues Statement Urging Supporters to Turn Campaign Toward Principles of Insurgent Leader—Roosevelt Men Active.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Although it is conceded by his chief supporters that his cause is hopeless, Senator La Follette has decided to permit his name to go before the Chicago convention. The senator's announcement is made through his manager, W. L. Houser.

The decision of Senator La Follette to allow his name to remain on the list of presidential candidates notwithstanding his poor health was reached after it had been practically decided that he would withdraw. Men closely connected with the La Follette movement acknowledged that a conference of the senator's friends had been held and that as the result of this gathering a statement would probably be given out announcing Mr. La Follette's retirement. Senator Bristow of Kansas and several other active La Follette supporters, however, opposed this plan, and at another meeting they apparently were able to impress their view of the situation on the men behind the La Follette movement.

While La Follette's statement indicates his name will go before the convention, it is acknowledged by his own supporters that his boom has collapsed and that the campaign in his behalf from now on will be only nominal. La Follette's manager urges states which cannot send delegates to the convention for the Wisconsin senator to instruct their delegates for the progressive planks in the platform. This indicates that the La Follette forces from now on will center their efforts upon obtaining a progressive platform. The statement in part issued by W. L. Houser, La Follette's manager, follows:

"Senator La Follette finds it necessary to take a few weeks' rest. This may prevent his making speeches in the states which are to hold early primaries, and his friends in those states will make such campaign for him as in their judgment will best serve the progressive principle which his candidacy represents.

"In any state where his friends find it impossible because of his present inability to fill speaking engagements to secure the election of delegates for him they will best serve the progressive cause by instructing delegates where they find it possible to do so for the thoroughgoing and definite principles which he has advocated and aided in embodying in progressive statutes proposed in constructive measures which he has introduced in the United States senate and in the addresses which he has already made in this campaign.

"Whatever time Senator La Follette can devote to the campaign after taking a needed rest for a few weeks will be given subject to such demands as his official duties make upon him."

The Roosevelt supporters in congress are busy conferring over the situation confronting them as the result of the collapse of the La Follette boom. They realize that something will have to be done by them without delay if the advance that President Taft is steadily making is to be checked. It is expected that steps will be taken within the next week to appoint a manager for the Roosevelt boom, the initiative coming from the colonel's friends, but being acquiesced in by him.

TO LET CHURCHILL TALK.

Irish Unionists Won't Oppose Home Rule Meeting.

Belfast, Feb. 6.—A council of the Unionist party here passed a resolution authorizing the issuance of a manifesto appealing to the Irish Unionists not to interfere with the home rule meeting which is to be held at Celtic park on Thursday and at which Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, will speak. It was also decided to ask the members of the party to carefully refrain from doing anything that would react to the injury of the Unionist cause in Ireland.

PROTECT PUPILS FROM MAD DOG

Paterson Teachers Form Barrier Around Charges.

ANIMAL ATTACKS THREE.

Janitor Unable to Stop Beast That Darts Into School Basement at Recess Time—Boys Bitten Who Rush to Aid of Little Girl.

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 6.—When the boys and girls of public school No. 24, in Nineteenth avenue, were at play in the basement at recess a bull terrier, snapping its jaws, ran into the building. William Kerr, the janitor, was standing in the hall. The dog leaped for him, but Kerr warded it off with a shovel.

The animal darted for the stairs leading to the basement, whom which came the shouts of the children. Kerr tried to overtake it, but the dog dashed down the stairs to the playroom.

The appearance of the animal brought instant panic. Screaming children cowered in corners or took refuge behind teachers. As twelve-year-old Nellie Lucker of 397 East Twenty-first street was fleeing across the room the dog bit her on the leg. Frank Munzo of 32 Twenty-second avenue went to the girl's aid and was bitten on the hand, as was Marvin Millington of the same address.

Miss Jeannette Masterson and several other teachers marshaled the youngsters in a group and, forming themselves in a barrier, fought off the mad brute. Several times the dog assailed the teachers, but they pluckily held their ground. Their only weapons of defense were their feet, which they used to good purpose. Finally the dog turned and fled. Too late, Kerr appeared with a revolver.

The Lucker girl and Munzo were taken to the General hospital. Young Millington was treated at home.

PHOTOGRAPH PLANT BURNS.

Girl Employees of Passaic Laboratory Flee, Leaving Pay Behind.

Passaic, N. J., Feb. 6.—Two dozen employees of the Stemmerman Photo Craft laboratories, most of them girls, fled from the laboratories when fire was discovered in the film room. The girls had scarcely time to get out, for the flames, aided by chemicals, spread rapidly. They left behind their wraps and their pay, just received.

The laboratories were the largest and best equipped in the world for handling amateur photography. Thousands of films were received daily at the plant from all parts of the globe for developing and printing.

The damage will amount to about $20,000, of which only a small percentage is covered by insurance. The fire threatened the entire block. A general alarm was sounded, but the building was destroyed.

VICTIM GOES TO JAIL.

Hackensack Man Was Shot, Cured and Arrested For Refusal of Complaint.

Hackensack, N. J., Feb. 6.—Frank J. Deegan, who three weeks ago was shot through the hand and in the abdomen by a fellow workman, Frederick Schneider, and who was rescued from under an Erie train after the shooting, is now in the Hackensack jail. Since the shooting he has been in the Paterson General hospital, but upon his discharge as cured he was met by Bergen county detectives and placed under arrest because he refuses to make a complaint against the man who shot him.

Deegan is twenty-three and has served three years in the Philippines. Since the shooting Deegan was married on what was thought to be his deathbed to a young woman of Brooklyn, who learned of his whereabouts in the newspaper accounts of the shooting.

M'MAHON ON TRIAL.

Sale of Schoolhouse Site to North Bergen Involves Fraud Charges.

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 6.—John J. McMahon, registrar of deeds of Hudson county, and John Daly, a process server of the sheriff's office, were placed on trial in Jersey City, before Supreme Court Justice Swayze, Common Pleas Justice Blair and a struck jury, on a charge of conspiring to cheat and defraud a municipality.

Thomas Evans, a friend of McMahon, and James Donnelly, a searcher of records, were named as conspirators in the case. The complaint hinges upon the sale of a schoolhouse site to North Bergen. The amount involved is about $10,000, which the state alleges was misappropriated.

MAYOR BEFORE GRAND JURY.

Robert Lincoln of Gloucester Asked About Liquor Shops.

Camden, N. J., Feb. 6.—Mayor Robert Lincoln of Gloucester was summoned before the grand jury in Camden as the result, it is said, of the recent arrests of Gloucester saloon keepers.

William Boyle, the new prosecutor, ordered a stop put to the selling of liquor on Sundays. He ordered Mayor Lincoln to close up every shop in town.

"Nobody loves me," wailed Boss Cox. He seems to have forgotten those few kind words in his behalf uttered by President Taft.—Cleveland Leader.

Plainfield, N. J., February 6, 1912.

"I care little for the young man with a classical college or university education. He is not fitted to begin at the bottom in a mercantile career. I have more faith in the boy who has a good common school education and who begins early in life to work in the business he wants to learn." Frank W. Woolworth.

Not being possessed of a college education, naturally Mr. Woolworth does not appreciate the true value of one. And yet, Mr. Woolworth must realize his limitations when in the company of those who have been fortunate in that respect. In fact, he amply demonstrates his shortcoming in the way of mental development when he foolishly says that a college bred man is not fitted to begin at the bottom of the ladder—where all who succeed in life must begin—and when he believes in robbing a boy of an education by launching him in life's struggle before his mental and physical powers are developed. The misguided merchant evidently is possessed of an hallucination that the aim of a college education is solely to make money. Advanced education is chiefly designed to broaden the mind, develop the reasoning powers and to place one in a position more fully to appreciate the goods things in this life, and by that balanced development make the individual a worker equipped not only to improve buttons, steel rails or dividends, but to help the world forge ahead ethically and artistically.

As the climax to the campaign being waged by the National Men and Religious Forward Movement, a congress will be held in New York city on April 19 to 24. The 3,000 delegates will be apportioned among the cities where the campaign is being waged at present. Announcement is made that this will be the most representative gathering of Christian laymen ever held on the continent. Among the speakers will be William H. Taft, President of the United States; James Bryce, British Ambassador to this country; Governor Nothern, of Georgia; Dr. Booker T. Washington, president of Tuskagee University; Bishop Greer of New York; Archdeacon Madden, of Liverpool; Rev. Dr. J. H. Jowett, of New York city; Dr. C. R. Gray, of Liverpool, and Miss Jane Addams, of Chicago. The convention, it is stated, will be known as the Conservation Congress and its purpose is to summarize the results of the Nation-wide movement. As a Protestant campaign mass meeting to awaken the interest of men in religious work, the congress is bound to attract international attention.

Those who disagree very decidedly with the radical type of legislation for which he stands sponsor share with his warmest followers sincere sympathy for Senator LaFollette, who has been withdrawn from the Republican Presidential nomination race because of ill health. The Wisconsin statesman's mental breakdown was first brought to the realization of his supporters when he made a most vicious and next to insane attack on the press of the land at a gathering of the periodical publishers of the country a few nights ago in Philadelphia. LaFollette is a most remarkable man; clean, straightforward, aggressive and brilliant. He had thrown his whole strength in the campaign for the nomination and the strain was one too heavy for him to bear. A long rest, it is hoped, will be the means of restoring him to health again and to continued activity in National politics.

Through the generosity of Moses Taylor Pyne, of Princeton, at a meeting of the Cleveland Monument Fund Association in Newark yesterday, the necessary sum, $125,000, has been fully subscribed, he having contributed a needed balance of approximately $12,000. The foundation walls for the memorial tower on the university grounds have been completed to the ground level and all the contracts have been let. Matters are in such shape now as to permit the trustees to assure the subscribers that the monument will be finished by next fall. Plainfield's residents naturally take much interest in this tribute to one of our Nation's greatest President, especially since many of the late Chief Magistrate's admirers here contributed a goodly sum to what was known as the Daily Press Cleveland Monument Fund.

The old Fulton Market, in New York, whose beginning dates back ninety years, it is reported, is soon to be abandoned. Dwindling business, which makes the famed market place but a shadow of its real self, is given as the reason. Men, famous not only in Gotham but in America, in former years were among its big army of patrons. Among them might be mentioned Horace Greely and Robert G. Ingersoll. The site is now valued by its owner, the City of New York, at half a million dollars, and better use, so we are told, can be made of it by its business-like proprietor.

Go to the Muhlenberg hospital $90,000 campaign fund dinner tonight at the Park Club, where you will hear short speeches by such distinguished Jerseymen as Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University; John Franklin Fort, former Governor of New Jersey; Everett Colby, former State Senator and leader of the "New Idea" in New Jersey politics, and Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church in New York and "one of our own."

Plainfield extends a hearty welcome to Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, who has accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist church. May he abide long with us and may his parish prosper under his ministrations.

BIBLE INSTRUCTORS SHOULD BE TRAINED

TO S. S. SUPERINTENDENTS

First Get-Together Dinner of the Sabbath-school Heads a Great Success—300 Guests Enjoy the Feast and the Addresses.

The first "Get-Together Banquet" of the Superintendents' Association of the Sunday-schools of Plainfield, given in Vincent chapel, of the First M. E. church, last night, proved a success both as to numbers and interest aroused. There were about 300 guests, including the Convention Choir, which was present in a body upon the invitation of Arthur M. Harris, superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday-school.

One of the pleasing features was the presentation by the choir of a large bunch of carnations to Mr. Harris. Another feature was the singing of Sunday-school hymns by the choir while the dinner was being served.

Before the dinner, Mr. Harris, the toastmaster, introduced Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, as the pastor-elect of the First Baptist church, explaining that he thought it a fine opportunity for the Sunday-schools workers to meet the new pastor. Dr. Strong offered the invocation and thanks.

The first speaker was Hugh R. Monro, of Montclair, whose subject was "Bible Schools of the First and Twentieth Centuries." He said that the clergy would not attempt to bridge such a great lapse of time, but he was not a clergyman, but one of the "undiscourageable" laity. The speaker said that ideals for Christian service in the Twentieth Century are not from ages back or mediaeval times, but in the underlying principles of the business world.

Bible schools are not an institution of learning, the speaker said, but a school for dessemination of truth and of Bible teaching. The conclusion drawn by the speaker was that the Bible school teacher is placed in relation to his class as pastor toward his congregation. Placing the clergy far above the laity was, he held, wrong and belonged to the age of mediaeval superstition.

"Teacher Traning—Luxury or Necessity," was the subject of a talk by Rev. William Tatlock, of Montclair. He said in part:

"We must today take up the phase of the individual work of teaching. We should take the children of the cradle roll and keep them in the Sunday-school until men and women. The teacher to do this must be trained in every phase of the work, as the teacher of the public school is trained to do his work. Unless the Bible school teacher is trained he is not capable of meeting the needs and requirements of the child of the present day.

"The untrained teacher lacks the adequate knowledge of material to be taught and of material to work on. I would urge every Sunday-school to have a teacher-training class and have the work of that class embrace Bible truths and church history."

At the conclusion of the last address, Mr. Harris made a plea to each member of the choir, if not a teacher, to pray to become one and fit themselves for the work of teaching the Bible to children. Frank J. Hubbard, president of the association, on behalf of the choir, thanked Mr. Harris for the good things, temporal and spiritual, enjoyed, and expressed the hope that the superintendents would be able to meet often to plan and pray for the advancement of the Kingdom of Christ in the Sunday-schools.

The dinner committee comprised J. W. Gavett, of Warren chapel, and F. E. Smith, of Trinity Reformed church.

COUNCIL DISPOSES OF MUCH BUSINESS

H. C. RUNYON CITY COUNSEL

Acting As Adviser to the Corporation During William M. Stillman's Vacation In the South—A. V. Heely's Petition For Tax Refund Denied.

In addition to several matters of more importance there was a great deal of business of a routine nature disposed of by the Common Council at its February meeting last night.

Copies of the resolutions pertaining to the joint trunk sewer proposition, which were adopted by the Borough Council last week, were presented and referred to the sewer committee. Patterson, Teale & Dennis, expert accountants, who audited the city's accounts for the year, presented their report and it was filed.

Miles Roberts petitioned for two lights on Lake street, J. J. Praed asked for additional lights at West Seventh street and Monroe avenue, Patrick J. Boylan, of West Sixth street, petitioned for sidewalks on that street between Clinton and Monroe avenues; G. B. Merkel requested that George street be macadamized, Harry Lude asked for lights on DeKalb avenue; James W. Hallard and others asked that a new street be opened between West Front street and South Second street, and that West Third and South Second streets be macadamized from Clinton avenue to the city line. All of these matters were referred to the proper committees.

F. J. Skinner petitioned for an employment agency license. His application was granted. Howard C. Tracy, Harry B. MacDonald and Edward A. Laing, who were appointed commissioners of assessment in the matter of street improvements, presented their oath of office. It was referred to the corporation corporation counsel, with the provision that if found correct it be filed.

George W. Fuller, the sanitary engineer, who prepared plans and estimates for the proposed city and borough sanitary sewer, sent a supplementary report to the city, stating that the estimate of cost of connecting the city system from Rock avenue to Myrtle avenue in the borough with all appurtenances, is $21,000. This was filed.

Mayor G. W. V. Mor[illegible] appointed Robert McCormick a special policeman and the same was confirmed.

Overseer-of-the-Poor Henry L. DeForest presented his report for January, giving a brief resume of the work since he took office the first of the year, and informing the Council of the disposition of certain cases. Comparing the month with the corresponding one of last year he stated that the expenses had been about $2[illegible] more, eliminating some of the December bills which had been carried over. He expressed his appreciation for help rendered by the Council and other citizens.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that seventeen permits were granted last month. Horace [illegible] Adams, clerk of the district court, reported receipts for January to the [illegible] $178.05, with a balance of $12[illegible] which had been sent to the city treasurer.

Corporation Counsel William M. Stillman, through Councilman F. P. Mygatt, informed the Council that he had gone South on a pleasure trip and during his absence he had arranged with Harry C. Runyon to serve in his official capacity.

Regarding a tax matter which Tax Collector W. R. Townsend had brought to the attention of the Council, Corporation Counsel W. M. Stillman advised that the sum of $[illegible] could not be returned to A. V. Heely which he claimed was in excess of what he should have paid on property on West Eighth street owned by him. Mr. Stillman said that Mr. Heely after appealing from the assessment should have waited for a decision instead of paying the assessment in accordance with the corporation counsel's advice. Mr. Heely's petition was denied.

Resolutions offered by Councilman F. P. Mygatt awarded the contract to Stewart, Warren & Co., of New York, for furnishing certain private books to the city, for the sum of $[illegible] to the Courier-News Publishing Company the contract for printing the city reports for $1[illegible]; also authorized the tax collector to cancel Nos. [illegible] than Blume the Meigs property on West Third street for $17.[illegible], under the provisions of the Martin Act, and authorized an appropriation of $[illegible] with which to purchase bound volumes of the statutes of 1911-1912, by vote of [illegible] in all.

Other resolutions offered by Mr. Mygatt, which was adopted, authorized the borrowing of $1,000 on account of sewer extension work, and authorized the New York Telephone Company to remove telephone No. 671-J, from the home of former Overseer-of-the-Poor A. D. Ayers. Additional resolutions by Mr. Mygatt authorized the finance committee to purchase license books for the city clerk and chief of police. A resolution by Councilman D. W. Taylor, which was adopted, authorized the fire and building committee to purchase 1,000 feet of hose not [illegible] at $1,100.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Public taste, a quarter of a century ago, raised John Drew to the position of the chief American exponent of polite comedy. Today that position is unassailable. The sceptre shall not depart from him "till Shiloh come." In "A Single Man," by Hubert Henry Davies, the English playwright noted for this "The Mollusc" and "Cousin Kate," which Mr. Drew will present at the Plainfield theatre February 8, he is quite up to the usual standard of his specialty, the middle-aged bachelor, always practical, always the acme of gentility, the recognized manners, conduct and dress of the most conventional society. And again, as is his custom, he is supported by one of those unique and perfect casts which delight his admirers.

How many homes in this city are gradually being wrecked through the husband not appreciating the genuine and sincere love of a good wife? How many husbands in this city are imbued with the spirit of them while their wives, women of serious conviction regarding faith in the things of life unseen, sacrifice the unequalled love of true, honest and sincere creatures? These are some of the questions that are forcibly brought to the attention of all who witness a performance of "The Rosary," which is coming to the Plainfield theatre February 10. The play treats a great and powerful subject graphically and in such a way as to grip the attention every minute.

Marriage by Capture.

"Marriage among Wa Unga of northeast Rhodesia is much less of a formality than among the neighboring tribes, betrothal being unnecessary, and very often the parents know nothing of the marriage," says a writer in the Geographical Journal. "In the old days, before they came under the government, marriage by capture was common, the abduction being done in canoes. In fact, the lake tribes seemed to be continually raiding each other, and among fellow tribesmen, too, capturing sheep, goats and women. Often raids would be made on Wa Wisa villages on the banks of the rivers. The raiders, waiting till the men of the village were out, would approach in their canoes and catch all the women they could. As the rule of Europeans, with European law, gets a firmer hold this marriage by capture will presumably give way entirely to the common method of marriage by barter. The local value of a woman is one sheep (market value about 75 cents). In the case of a 'nafuno,' who was killed, compensation was fixed at one canoe, one sheep and a string of beads."

With and Without.

First Suffragette—Are you goin' to marry that gentleman that comes here every day?

Second Ditto—Nope. I'd rather have a job without a husband than a husband without a job.—Life.

Reasons Obvious.

"We will sing 'Awake, Ye Saints,' immediately before the sermon tomorrow," announced the minister at choir practice on Saturday afternoon.

"Don't you think," inquired the observant tenor, "that it would be more appropriate to sing it immediately after the sermon?"

Wasn't at Home Much.

Mrs. Hoyle—How much did her husband leave her when he died? Mrs. Doyle—One more evening a week than when he was alive.—Judge.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

WHAT THE SPORTS EDITOR HAS TO SAY

King Winter still reigns.

Getting to be some reigner, too!

The reverse English is being put on "United We Stand, Divided We Fall" every hour these days by Young America as he takes a running start down the snow clad inclines and drags the toes out of his shoes.

Crap shooting as a side attraction to coasting can hardly be popular with thirteen certain young men after their experience in the North Plainfield court yesterday morning.

A young woman from Flemington who had spent the week in Plainfield returned to her home Sunday and was met at the station by the hired man with a carriage instead of a sleigh. She was very angry. Can't say that she was to be blamed for wanting to have something on returning local sojourners.

Johnny Campbell still sticks to third place in the Elks League standing with an average of 190.23 for 27 games. His high score, 248, also looks good, as does those of Blatz Kiely, Nash and Stout, the other members of the "Big Five," by comparison with the numerals opposite the names of other pinners in the tournament.

Rahway surprised the bowling fans by taking two from the almost equally humble Queensboro quintet Saturday night. Looks as though the boast to put it all over the other teams like an awning was not an idle jest at that. Come on Rahway! Cellars are cold now!

Efforts are being made to organize a picked five to represent Plainfield in the National Bowling Association tournament in Paterson next month. With the talent all in fine fettle, as it unquestionably is at present, the difficulty should be in keeping the selections within the limit instead of being able to reach it. At a meeting in Newark Sunday afternoon men enough for fifty-five teams signified their willingness to enter.

Chicago breaks into the sporting news with this:

"President Charles W. Murphy, of the Chicago Cubs, brought back from the Panama Canal Zone an idea which, if carried out, may revolutionize the manufacture of baseballs.

"While there recently he discovered what is known as an "ivory nut," a substance used for making buttons.

On close examination, Murphy found it to be porous and slightly resilient. He immediately conceived the idea of using them in place of the cork centres for baseballs.

Murphy said he would experiment with the view of making an "ivory nut" baseball.

When the whiff of yen hoc reached Joe Norton's desk in the Newark News he sent one of his bright young men to guest here and there among the honest burghers in the button trade for info. Hearken to the B. Y. M.:

"Button factories in this city import large quantities of the ivory nut. The ivory nut has about as much resiliency as a chunk of brick."

WILLIE KEELER MAY BE LEW SLOCUM'S BOSS

"Lew" Slocum, the local pitcher under contract with Connie Mack's Athletics, who has been farmed out to the Scranton, N. Y. State League League Club, may have Willie Keeler for his manager next season.

The question as to who will manage the Scranton team next season has been complicated by a report sent out from Harrisburg that "Buck" Freeman, recently selected to lead the "Minners," had not obtained his release from the Pennsylvania capitol team and would have difficulty in getting it unless Scranton owners pay over the purchase price demanded. It is said that they have submitted an offer to Keeler to manage the nine.

Slocum is taking daily practice at the Y. M. C. A. gym and is in fine trim. He has for his training partner his former Scotch Plains catcher, Hand, who he declares, is big league calibre. "Lew" says he proposes to put the scouts after Hand when the season opens.

New Choir Team to Play.

The Hope chapel basketball team will try conclusions with the newly organized team representing the choir of the Church of the Holy Cross on the latter's court tomorrow night. The game promises to be a fast one as the Hope five have a long string of victories to their credit and are anxious to add another. The game is the first for the choir team and they are just as anxious to start off with a win.

15 SPEED BOYS TO MAKE SKATING TRIP

Canadian, Western, Middle West, New England and Eastern Districts to be Visited.

A CHAMPIONSHIP SCHEDULE

EDMUND LAMY, WORLD'S CHAMPION PROFESSIONAL ICE SKATER.

(Edmund Lamy is now the world's professional ice skater. He recently defeated Morris Wood for the title at Saranac Lake, N. Y. Lamy says he will tour the United States and Canada to meet all the cracks who are anxious to match their speed against his.)

A squad of fifteen of the fastest amateur speed skaters in the United States and Canada is being organized by the International Skating union to make a tour of the Canadian, Western, Middle States, New England and Eastern Skating association districts and compete in the various championship events scheduled by the union. This new arrangement was decided on at a meeting of the International Skating union held in New York recently. The New England association, which has been under the ban of the union, was placed in good standing again.

The union elected the following officers for the present season: President, Allen I. Blanchard of Chicago; first vice president, Cornelius Fellowes of New York; second vice president, James A. Taylor of Montreal; third vice president, Peter B. Olson of Chicago; secretary and treasurer, Louis Rubenstein of Montreal, and chairman of board of control, A. W. Norfolk of Boston.

The squad of skaters who are to make the championship tour will be chosen after the usual qualifying races, and the contestants will have to win their right to membership to the team. The skaters will compete at the championship meetings in the various districts. This scheme insures the appearance at all the rinks under the union's jurisdiction of all the best skaters of this country and Canada and will obviate the difficulty of the managers of the different rinks dealing individually with the skaters, as in the past. The arrangement was prompted by the case of Edmund Lamy, who last season was suspended because he accepted money in excess of his actual traveling and hotel expenses. Managers of rinks under this plan will not be subjected to any unreasonable claims from skaters for expenses and guarantees. The various rinks will share the expenses of the team.

About fifteen of the fastest speed experts in Canada and the various centers of skating activity in the United States will report in Boston, where the tour will begin with the international championship meeting on Feb. 15 and 16. On Feb. 17 the American indoor championship meeting will be held in New York.

An outdoor meeting will be held at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on Feb. 19 if the ice is in a favorable condition. Syracuse will be the next stop on Feb. 20 and 21, where the eastern championships will be held. The circuit will end at Cleveland, O., on Feb. 22 and 23, where the middle western championships are scheduled. Montreal, Chicago and Saranac lake will not this year be included in the championship circuit, although it is likely that informal meetings will be held if the skaters evince a disposition to attend and compete.

To some young men life is a comedy show and others are the comics.

HOW FOOTBALL RULES HAVE BEEN CHANGED

1. The playing field, now 110 yards in length, will be shortened to an even 100 yards. This change in itself is not vital, but it is made in order to make possible on small grounds an extension of territory in which the forward pass may be used.

2. A zone of ten yards' width beyond the goal lines is established. A purpose of this is to provide ample space for execution of the forward pass, and scoring on a pass made across the goal line into this zone is permitted.

3. The number of "downs" to gain ten yards is increased by one.

4. The on-side kick is eliminated.

5. The value of a touchdown is increased from five points to six points, the goal from touchdown and other scores standing as at present.

6. The 20-yard zone, in which the present rules now provide restrictions to interference with the forward pass, is eliminated, so that the restrictions will apply now to any part of the field.

7. After a touchback the ball will be put in play from the 20-yard line, instead of the 25-yard line.

8. On a kick-off the ball, instead of being put in play in the centre of the field, will be put in play from the 40-yard line of the team kicking off. Taking into consideration the shortening of the field and this change in the rules, the kick-off distance is lengthened by five yards.

9. The field judge is eliminated. The head linesman hereafter will keep time and be judge of off-side plays in the line of scrimmage.

10. The number of men allowed on the side lines, now three, will be reduced to one for each team.

11. Provision will be made that a bounding ball cannot score a legitimate goal.

12. The interval between the first and second and the third and fourth periods is reduced from two minutes to one minute.

"Jimmy" Doyle Buried.

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Hundreds of men attended the funeral yesterday of "Jimmy" Doyle, the Cubs' third baseman, who died after an operation for appendicitis. The honorary bearers were C. G. Williams, treasurer of the Chicago Baseball Club, Johnny Evers, the Cubs' second baseman, and Billy Dineen, the American League umpire.

CALLAHAN TELLS OF A REMARKABLE PLAY.

There have been a lot of stories written about the freak plays of Ty Cobb and other stars, but nothing they ever did in that line compares with the feat of Frank McNichols, according to Jimmy Callahan. Callahan told of it recently.

Cal was one day playing short for the Logan Squares, with McNichols on first. Owens was umpiring in the center of the diamond and had unwittingly dropped a ball. Chick Fraser, who was pitching, sent a fast one to the batter. He hit it. The ball jumped by Fraser on the ground and hit the lost ball behind the box. The hit ball jumped to Callahan at short, and the other ball went to third, where the player there corralled it. Both fielders tossed fiercely to first base, where Frank McNichols was stationed. Callahan's throw was wide and to the right of the first baseman. The third baseman's throw was low and to the left of the playing line. McNichols got them both.

ONE BILLIARD SHOT COST DE ORO $2,450.

Billiards becomes more expensive than joy riding when one shot costs $2,450.

Yea, verily, friends, it's a gentleman's game at that price.

Alfredo De Oro, the veteran Cuban billiard and pool player, is telling his friends how he made the most expensive shot ever recorded on the green cloth.

In his recent match with John Daly in New York, a match that did not involve the title, De Oro was playing for a side bet of $1,000, with a purse of $500 added by the house. The expenses were deducted from this, leaving exactly $2,450 for the winner.

THIS SHOT COST DE ORO $2,450.

In the third and last block of the match De Oro needed two points when Daly needed only one to win. It was De Oro's turn to shoot. The position of the ivories is shown in the diagram.

De Oro had what promised to prove an easy shot, a force follow to the cushion with enough English to get the corner cushions and complete the billiard. Without a second's hesitation he clicked off the point—rather he thought he did.

Referee Tom Gallagher then put in his oar and declared that De Oro didn't make the shot. There was an explosion with the Cuban as the storm center. De Oro wailed and whooped, but old Tom Gallagher declared that the shot had not been made.

"Gallagher was the only man in the house who didn't see the shot," declared De Oro recently. "I was so sore at his decision that I blew up entirely, and, although Daly missed his next try, I couldn't get going, and I lost the match, 150 to 148. I should have won. Had Gallagher allowed that point I had perfect position for the final shot. Gallagher's oversight cost exactly $2,450."

TWO GOOD MARATHON MEN.

Kolehmainen and Bouin Likely to Cross Americans In Olympics.

William Kolehmainen, winner of the Edinburgh Powderhall Marathon run, had no great success during his visit to America a year ago. His brothers Hannes and Tatu are amateurs, while William is a professional. Hannes Kolehmainen is one of the greatest distance runners developed in years. With Jean Bouin of France, Hannes is likely to make some of the United States runners hustle at Stockholm.

Hannes won a four mile championship at Stamford Bridge, England, last July in 20 minutes 3 3-5 seconds. He holds all the Finnish records from 800 meters to 5,000 meters. At the last Finnish track and field championships Hannes won both the 5,000 and 10,000 meter events, his brother Tatu finishing second in both races. Tatu is the oldest of the brothers.

LOCALS AND CHAMPS WILL NOT CLASH TONIGHT.

The series scheduled for tonight between the leading local pinners in the Elks' League and the championship five of the New Brunswick lodge at that place, has been indefinitely postponed on account of the banquet to be given tonight in the Park Club, in the whirlwind fund raising campaign for Muhlenberg Hospital.

The tailenders will roll the New York quintet at that place, as scheduled.

Other games scheduled for this week in the tournament are Newark at Rutherford Wednesday; Jersey City at Elizabeth and Paterson at Hoboken, Thursday.

BOARDS DISCUSS HIGH SCHOOL UNION

Committee From North Plainfield Lays the Subject Before City Commissioners.

BUT NO ACTION IS TAKEN

City Tells Borough It Will Take Care of Transbrook Children But Expects to Be Paid For It on a Profitable Basis.

Advance negotiations leading to the abolishment of the North Plainfield High School department and the sending of the pupils to the Plainfield school, were formally opened last night, when a committee from the borough Board of Education conferred with the city board at the latter's regular monthly meeting. The proposition was discussed for upwards of an hour but while no agreements were entered into the North Plainfielders received assurance that when a request was made in proper form satisfactory terms could be agreed upon. The plan must first be submitted to the people.

The borough board was represented by a committee composed of Hiram A. Woodruff, chairman; Charles I. Nash and Allen B. Lane. They stated that North Plainfield faces a situation that impels the trustees to do something and at once. The school appropriation is already high in comparison with other places, yet still more will be needed if the demand for increased room or needed department improvements are to be met. It is the belief of the authorities that the "farming out" plan will give satisfaction to parents and pupils and at the same time be of financial benefit to the two municipalities. At the present time, it was stated, the high school in North Plainfield has 100 pupils and the number will gradually increase, whether the change is made or not.

The committee was informed that Plainfield could accommodate the borough influx, but it would have to be done at a fair profit. The probable consideration was not touched upon at any time. The deleration stated that further conferences would be held with its own board and that all details would be gone into later before the vote of the people is called for.

In the regular order of business, the heating and ventilating plans for the new high school addition as designed by George Knight, of Newark, were accepted. They have already been passed by the State Board of Education and bids for the construction bids will be asked for beginning February 9. They will be opened on March 4. Resolutions of regret were passed on the resignation of Leander H. Lovell as president of the board and the Runyon Bible class of the Park Avenue Baptist church asked for the use of the High School auditorium for a play. The matter was referred for action.

LOSS OF HOME DRIVES AGED WOMAN INSANE.

Westfield, Feb. 6.—Driven insane by the loss of her home, which was destroyed by fire several weeks ago, Mrs. Annie Daly, seventy-five years old, has been removed to the State Hospital for the Insane at Morris Plains by Overseer of the Poor A. C. Fitch.

Mrs. Daly owned a small building in that part of the town known as the "Big Woods." It was nothing but a shanty, but it had been her home for several years. Her mind began to fail and a few days ago the overseer of the poor, who had assisted her since the fire, saw that it would be necessary to place her in confinement. She has been a resident of Westfield for nearly fifty years. Her husband died twenty years ago.

TWO MURDERERS IN THE DEATH HOUSE AT TRENTON

Trenton, Feb. 6.—Two condemned murderers are now confined in the death house at the State prison, and both have been sentenced to be electrocuted during the week of March 11. One is Mariano Bellini, who shot and killed two fellow countrymen in Perth Amboy. The other is Charles Clayton, who shot an Asbury Park policeman when the latter was sent to quell a disturbance at his home. Bellini's defense was that he committed the double murder while insane. He was convicted and sentenced to death, but made an application for a new trial, and was granted a stay. The application was denied, however, and he was resentenced during the past week.

REBELS DEFEAT TWO CHINESE ROYAL ARMIES

Reports to Peking Tell of Heavy Imperial Losses.

Peking, Feb. 6.—Reports of two battles between the imperial forces and the revolutionary armies have been received here, and in both conflicts the republicans were victorious.

The first report states that the imperial troops commanded by General Chang Hsun were attacked and driven back by the rebels, who sustained a loss of but a hundred killed and wounded. It is added that a thousand of the imperial soldiers deserted to the enemy.

Another dispatch received here comes from Mukden and says that the royal forces sent to attack the revolutionaries who were recently landed at the mouth of the Yalu river have met with a sharp repulse, in which they lost eighty killed, while the republicans had but twenty killed.

MUST SETTLE OWN DISPUTES.

Pittsburgh District Miners Get No Relief From International Board.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 6.—The international board of the United Mine Workers has decided to refer to the district convention of the Pittsburgh district the factional troubles involving Robert Gibbons, Abe Kephart and Andrew Puscar. The international convention referred these troubles to the international executive board, but the members of the latter board believed that they should be disposed of by the district convention before receiving consideration at the hands of the higher tribunal.

President White was instructed by the board to appoint a committee of three international board members to attend the district convention at Pittsburgh and endeavor to help straighten out the internal differences from which that district organization has suffered for so long. The three members have not yet been appointed.

TRANSMITTER SAVES TWO.

Placed In Cell, Officers Soon Learn Guilty Man of Three.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 6.—One of the transmitters used at the Atlanta Baptist tabernacle to carry sermons to the ears of the sick at the Tabernacle hospital has been the means of convicting a negro of murder. The transmitter was borrowed from the church and sent to Gastonia, N. C. There it was put in the cell of three negroes, Will, John and Hack Ross, who were charged with murder.

Not knowing that an ear was strained for every word they spoke, the three discussed the crime, and the transmitter took to officers the story that John Ross was the murderer. But for the use of the transmitter all three negroes would have been hanged.

MOSLEM-HOLY WARS.

Once Ordered They Are Waged Till Either Side Is Wiped Out.

When a jihad or holy war is proclaimed by the Mohammedans it means that every male Moslem from eight years old to eighty must take up arms and fight to the death, if need be, in defense of his faith.

When a holy war is proclaimed the sacred green banner of the prophet, kept furled at all other times, is loosed to the breeze, and the Moslem who does not follow it is held to be forever accursed. Anybody may kill him with impunity. His wives, his children and his property cease any longer to belong to him. He is cut off from all communion with the faithful.

The man who engages in a holy war, on the other hand, is called "shehid," which means "martyr" or "glorious one." His sole aim and object henceforth is to kill as many infidels as possible. If he himself is killed in his turn it does not matter in the least. His religion teaches him that he goes straight to paradise, where bright eyed houris are watching to clasp him in their arms and acclaim him as "bravest of the brave."

It was because of a holy war, proclaimed against England by Gaylan, sultan of Fez, that England gave up Tangiers. For twenty-one years this particular holy war was waged, and during that time no quarter was asked or given by either side. To England it was one long series of disasters. The worst was that which befell the West Surrey regiment. Ambushed and surrounded, this corps was practically annihilated, only nine men out of more than 700 escaping with their lives.

In 1842 again a holy war was proclaimed against England by Akbar Khan, the favorite son of Dost Mohammed, emir of Afghanistan, whom England had deposed. The savage hill tribes rose to a man at his bidding, and the entire British army of occupation—about 16,000 men, including camp followers—was wiped out of existence.

The worst of a holy war is that, once begun, it can only be ended by one side or the other being exterminated, so that it is liable to drag on almost indefinitely.—London Answers.

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

GOVERNOR O. B. COLQUITT.

Texas Executive Asks Aid to Protect the Mexican Frontier.

ENTIRE ARMY READY TO GO.

President Prepares For Emergency on Texas Border.

Washington, Feb. 6.—President Taft, as commander in chief of the army, directed that orders be sent to the entire mobile army of the United States, representing an armed force of 34,000, to hold itself in readiness for an expedition to the Mexican border. The order sent out by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, emphasizes the precautionary measures which the United States stands ready to take to protect American life and property in Mexico. The orders follow closely a request by Governor Colquitt of Texas for federal aid.

In addition to the regular troops, a supplementary force of 20,000 militiamen may be called upon to be in readiness.

AWAIT ARREST WITH BONDSMEN READY

Labor Leaders In Many Cities Expect Indictment.

Indianapolis, Feb. 6.—Though some additional information bearing on the dynamiting conspiracy has come to the district attorney since the grand jury adjourned last week, there is little probability that the investigation will be continued soon. The indictments are ordered, and some the grand jury must yet pass upon have been prepared and are awaiting final action. Information has reached the federal building that labor leaders in several cities—New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Omaha, San Francisco and Los Angeles—are expecting indictments and are preparing to give bail, several already having secured bondsmen.

As there are more than a hundred indictments, it is not expected that any arrests will be made today, yet it is possible that some warrants may be issued on them. It is said that it is the purpose of the district attorney to have all arrests made at the same time if possible, or at least within a few hours of each other. When that is done the indictments will be open to public inspection, but not before.

It is said that the records of the American Federation of Labor brought here by Secretary Frank Morrison and relating to the McNamara defense fund will be taken to California to be used in the trial of Clarence Darrow.

LOSES PLACE FOR AIDING LORIMER

Stenographer Said Detective "Faked" Notes.

BLUMENBERG A WITNESS.

Investigating Committee Thrown In a Flurry by Charges That Burns Operative "Faked" Stenographic Notes of Alleged Perjury Confession of Young Canadian—Others to Test Report.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The sessions of the Lorimer committee are devoted to sifting suspicion arising from the outburst on Saturday night of Milton W. Blumenberg, official stenographer of the senate and of the committee. In a sensational manner he charged then that the stenographic notes of J. E. Sheridan, stenographer of the Burns detective agency, on which the attempt is being made to build up a case impeaching the pro-Lorimer testimony of Charles McGowan, a young Canadian, had been "faked." McGowan's alleged admissions that he received $1,500 to perjure himself by testifying that he never had heard of a $100,000 fund being raised by Edward Hines to help elect Lorimer involve C. F. Wiehe, a brother-in-law of Hines.

Mr. Blumenberg appeared before the committee to answer the charge of contempt made against him because of his conduct in the presence of the committee Saturday night. The committee held an executive session and then announced by unanimous vote that they had dispensed with the services of Blumenberg as official reporter and had subpoenaed him as a witness.

J. E. Sheridan, the Burns stenographer whose testimony Saturday had led to the sensational scene in the committee, explained the method by which he had taken his notes. He declared that the notes were absolutely accurate, produced the dictaphone before the committee and explained its workings, and in answer to a question from Chairman Dillingham signified his willingness to submit to any test that the committee might prescribe to determine the accuracy of his report and of his capacity to hear and record a conversation under the circumstances. Sheridan had surrounded his report made at Toronto of the alleged conversation between A. C. Bailey, Harry Kerr and Charles McGowan, in which McGowan, a Lorimer witness, is alleged to have made damaging admissions.

There was a flurry in the committee after Sheridan left the witness chair. The attorneys for Lorimer insisted that Plunkett be called as a witness at once before the Lorimer witnesses took the stand.

The sensation created by the startling charges made by Blumenberg Saturday night and his action, which broke up the hearing, is one of the most remarkable that ever occurred in the history of congress. The committee will undoubtedly report the matter to the senate and ask for instructions as to what course shall be taken in dealing with Blumenberg for contempt. He has not only been dismissed as official reporter of the committee, but has been temporarily suspended as an official reporter of senate debates and proceedings.

HAWLEY WILL NOT MISSING.

Nephew of Late Railroad Man Denies Rumor.

New York, Feb. 6.—William Hawley, nephew of the late Edwin Hawley, the railroad man, says there is no truth in a published report that his uncle's will was missing.

"There has been no search for the will," said Mr. Hawley. "So far nothing whatever has been done about the will."

It was supposed that Edwin Hawley made a will in 1903 and that his partner, Frank H. Davis, was made executor and trustee. William Hawley would not say anything about that. Mr. Davis made no statement and could not be seen because of pressing conferences. Walter S. Crocker, another nephew of Edwin Hawley, was at these conferences.

William Watson of "Serpent's Tongue" Fame Reaches New York.

New York, Feb. 6.—William Watson, author of "The Woman With the Serpent's Tongue," was a passenger on the Cameronia, just arrived from Glasgow. He said that he did not care to repeat a discussion of his poem that had brought into great prominence the wife of Lecturer Agnes, a book which created such bitter feeling in England.

He came, he said, to read at Carnegie hall tomorrow a few lines which he had written for the centennial of Charles Dickens. He is accompanied by Mrs. Watson.

FIRE MADERO RANCH HOUSES?

Reports State That Fighting Is In Progress at San Andreas.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 6.—It is reported that a full battalion of federal troops, with a machine gun platoon, will be sent to Jiménez to entrench in and around that town and between there and Chihuahua in the suppression of the rebel bands now working independently in that section.

Casas Grandes is reported to be in the hands of Vasquistas. Pearson, Chihuahua, was also reported taken by a band of government men, who claimed one of Dorotea of Emilio Vasquez Gomez.

At San Andreas, which is on the Mexico Northwestern, west of Chihuahua, fighting is reported to have occurred. A report received in Juarez says that a big fire had been seen to the east of San Antonio, which is on the main line of the Pearson line. It is believed that the fire was the Madero ranch houses, as they are located there.

Fighting is also reported to have occurred at Santa Ysabel, on the Northwestern, below Madera. No trains are running south of Madera.

Going like hot cakes on a zero day!—and no wonder, when you see what beautiful colorings and superb patterns are shown in this gigantic collection of printed fabrics produced in America—

A. P. C. Wash Fabrics

When you look at the wonderfully intricate designs and the superb colorings of these low-cost fabrics it will be hard to believe that the colors are absolutely unfadable, no matter how often the goods may go thru the wash tub. Every color, from the most delicate to the strong, dark blues, is unfadable. This is due to the fact that in the making of the A. P. C. Fabrics only the most expensive indigo and aniline dyes are used.

Certainly it is a great satisfaction to all wearers of washable dresses to be able to count on the colors in the goods they are using, and to feel positive that the colors are sure to stay—that they are UNFADABLE.

HIGHEST GRADES ONLY IN THIS SALE

The A. P. C. Co. makes two qualities of cotton cloths—a 4c quality and a 6½c quality. It is well to know that this sale embraces only the higher grade fabrics—the highest cost fabrics, the most exclusive patterns.

When the merits of the A. P. C. Fabrics we sell become universally known there will be practically no sale at all for the sleazy, poor washing, calico like fabrics, which are only slightly less in price, that sometimes are used in competition with our "tried and true A. P. C." goods. Remember that a dress pattern of the A. P. C. goods costs only 40c to 50c for a full pattern. What economy can there be in buying the inferior for the sake of saving a few cents on a dress?

ONE REASON WHY

Our annual SHOE SALES are a success is because we do as we advertise; we have never bought any shoes for the occasion, do not claim to put our whole stock in the sale, simply advertise each season all odds and ends and discontinued lines and SOME regular goods at prices way below their value.

I really don't know what I can add to this statement of fact—you know our reputation for style—you know the service we render—it's all yours at the cut price in the same full measure you have learned to expect at regular prices.

Just a word of warning—come at once if you would not be disappointed.

Remember, also, that every contestant has an equal chance, as she is competing only with those in her own district although votes may be secured in any of the five districts. There are no restrictions on the field of operations. The ballot box is now in place, and a good showing of votes is assured when the first count of the ballots is published next Monday evening.

The list of nominations is by no means complete, as new ones are being received in every mail. A few names have been withdrawn owing to lack of time or other good and sufficient reasons on the part of a few candidates, but the majority are enthusiastic over the prospect of a two months' trip to Europe and have announced their intention of making the effort to win one of these valuable prizes.

What could be more desirable than a midsummer vacation trip to Europe? Five days in London, visiting all the principal points of interest, in the company of a guide who knows best how to show you the greatest number of interesting places in the best possible way. From London to Holland, Belgium, Brussels and Germany, visiting all the most beautiful cities and scenes of world-wide reputation; a wonderful trip down The Rhine; a tour through that most beautiful country in the world, Switzerland; five days in Paris, always a wonderful place to visit, then back to London and thence to Warwick and Stratford-on-Avon, the home of Shakespeare. These are only a very few of the many places which the Press party will visit, but they are assured of two full months of unalloyed pleasure among scenes which will not only be a rare treat at the time, but will be enjoyed in after years as the trip is lived over again from memory. The Daily Press party will be conducted by Thomas Cook & Sons, a company whose reputation for excellence is unapproached by any concern of the kind. Their prices are higher than any other, but the management of the Daily Press wants the very best for the party and is willing to pay for it.

The manager of the tour department, R. E. McDonagh, and the assistant manager, Read Clarke, will be at the Press office every evening from 7:30 until 9 to answer any questions and give any information that may be desired.

UNUSUAL OPERATION AT THE HOSPITAL

MEDICAL STAFF LOOKS ON

All the Hospital Doctors View Specialist's Work With Much Interest—Pressure On Spine of Another Patient Removed By Dr. Albee.

An unusual operation, and so far as known the first one of the kind on record in Plainfield, was performed at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday afternoon by Dr. F. H. Albee, of New York, who is consulting orthopedic surgeon at the hospital. The operation, which was performed on William McCready, an employe of the Eastern Bottling Company, consisted of taking a small bone from the right leg and grafting it on the left leg for the purpose of assisting a broken bone to knit.

The operation was a success so far as the specialist was able to determine. The fact that Dr. Albee was to operate attracted considerable attention and the entire medical staff of the hospital was present to witness it. While at the hospital Dr. Albee also performed a delicate operation on Louis Enstein, who recently fractured his spine by falling off a scaffold. The specialist relieved the pressure on the spine, which it is thought may eventually give the patient the use of his limbs.

McCready was kicked in the leg by a horse early in December. The broken bone was set and the usual treatment followed. As time went on the bones did not knit properly and it was then decided to have Dr. Albee operate.

PLANS FOR PATROL WAGON IN BOROUGH

Mayor Clark Working Out an Idea Designed to Help Two Departments.

WOULD BUY MORE HORSES

To Be Used on Streets in the Day Time and by the Cops, When Necessary, at Night—Could be Housed at Fire Headquarters.

Mayor Clark, of North Plainfield, is gathering data on the cost of keeping a team with the idea of securing a pair of horses, or several of them to be used in connection with the borough street and police departments. As soon as the new ordinance governing the appointment of a street commissioner becomes operative, he will submit his plan to the Council.

If the plan is put into operation the police department will have a conveyance whenever one is necessary.

When an arrest is made now, the only means of taking the offender to the station-house is by walking. In addition to consuming a lot of unnecessary time and taking the policeman off his post, the prisoner is often either unruly and fights all the way, or else is in no condition to walk.

The horses could be housed at fire headquarters and could relieve the regular fire team on the water wagon. At night, when the police would be most likely to need them, they would be within easy reach and add greatly to the efficiency of the department. In the summer when road work is brisk they could be used on the streets and reduce the expense of the street department.

College Club Entertained.

The College Club of Plainfield was entertained at the home of Miss Harman, on West Eighth street, yesterday afternoon. After the business meeting, a musical program was enjoyed. There were vocal selections by Miss Mary Hubbell, a former member of the club, and Mrs. H. R. Moyer; whistling solos by Mrs. C. A. Rice and plantation songs by the club chorus. Tea and coffee were served in the dining room at the close of the program.

BISHOP OF UTAH SPEAKS KINDLY OF THE MORMONS

Polygamy Practised Only as Religious Duty, Rt. Rev. F. S. Spalding Tells Episcopalian Women Supporters of Missions.

"There are two attitudes in reference to the Mormons of Utah," said Bishop F. S. Spalding, of Utah, in addressing the mid-winter meeting of the Upper Division of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions of the Episcopal church, at Grace church, this morning. "There are those who busy themselves in telling the Eastern people all the bad things about Mormonism, and those who are trying to find the helpful things.

"The Mormon," continued the Bishop, "believes that he is the best Christian on earth; that Joseph Smith was a special commissioner from God deputized to correct all the faults in other churches. The Mormon believes thoroughly in the principles of his faith. He glorifies polygamy and practices it as a religious duty and not with the idea of lust.

"While the laws of the State are against the practice of polygamy it must be borne in mind that ninety per cent. of the people in certain sections of the State are Mormons, and while they are pledged to support the laws of the State and land, it can readily be seen that the law against polygamy may not be as strictly enforced as it might otherwise be under different conditions."

Bishop Spalding said there were many good people among the Mormons, many of whom he counts as among his best friends. Referring again to polygamy, he said there were not a few of the younger people, who have one husband and one wife, who feel constrained to follow the example of their mothers and fathers, that there have been instances where a wife had suggested to her husband that perhaps it would be best for him to take other wives.

Another interesting speaker of the morning was Rev. S. H. Bishop, secretary of the American Institute for Negroes. He presented strong arguments in favor of increased support of the work of education for the colored people of the south.

Mrs. A. S. Phelps, of Bound Brook, presided at the morning session which was attended by about 200 delegates. The meeting adjourned about 1 o'clock for lunch which was served in the parish house. This afternoon there will be a business session with the presentation of reports.

GRIEF HASTENS END OF SEPTUAGENARIAN

Christian Kellar, Heartbroken Over Wife's Death, Succumbs 12 Days Afterward.

OLDEST MEMBER OF VEREIN

Vain Effort to Check Decline that Followed the Burial of His Helpmeet—Funeral Will Be Held Next Sunday Afternoon.

Illness brought on by grief over the death of his wife caused the death of Christian Kellar at his home on Harrison avenue last night. He was in his seventy-ninth year.

After the death of Mrs. Kellar on Friday, January 26, the heartbroken husband would not be comforted, and several days ago took to his bed. He was then too ill to take nourishment or obtain rest.

It was realized that the shock over the loss of his life partner might result seriously and every means was taken to check his decline, but without avail.

Mr. Kellar was a native of Germany and came to America when a young man. He came to Plainfield fifty-eight years ago with Christian Schepflin and remained in his employ as a cutter while the latter continued business. He has resided in the same house in the borough for more than forty-five years.

By his death the Gesang and Turn Verein loses its oldest charter member and Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, one of its oldest members, both in point of years as well as membership. Of late years Mr. Kellar had lived a retired life.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Herman Klinsman and Mrs. Herman Kreutzfeldt, both of North Plainfield, and a number of grandchildren.

The funeral will be held from his late residence Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and will be attended by the Gesang and Turn Verein Society and a delegation from Perseverance lodge. Burial will be made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

LECTURE RANGED FROM ARCTIC ZONE TO TROPICS

"Interesting Views From Many Lands" was the subject of an illustrated lecture given by Dr. Henry M. Maxson at the Irving School, last night, under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Irving and Jefferson Schools. It was the first time that the school lantern, purchased with money raised by the children, has been worked.

The views shown by Dr. Maxson included scenes in Japan, China, Asia, Manchuria, Philippines, Iceland, Greenland and the South Sea Islands. Piano selections were played by Miss Elsie Knowlton, and Charles L. Lewis sang. A social hour followed the program. Mrs. George O. Stevens, as president of the association, was in charge.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE AT HIS GRANDSON'S HOME.

A surprise party was given to Edward L. Smith at the home of his grandson, Edward T. Schmeyer, 1224 Cameron avenue, last night, in honor of his seventieth birthday anniversary. Mr. Smith received many gifts. Those present were Alfred Schmeyer and Miss Elsie Thomason, of Rahway; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Smith, of Vailsburg, Durwood Smith and Miss Miranda Smith, of Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Knutter and son Clarence, of Dunellen; Henry Vermeule and Miss Kate Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey L. Schmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Schmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Schmeyer, Miss Sadie Leigh, Horace, John and Ralph Schmeyer and Miss Mabel Schmeyer, of this city.

IMMIGRANT TOLD HE IS AN UNDESIRABLE CITIZEN.

Dominick Chero, arrested for disorderly conduct in a saloon, was arraigned before City Judge William G. DeMeza today.

"Chero," said the magistrate, "we don't want your kind of people in this country. I could have you sent back to Italy, and I am half-inclined to do it, but this time I'll let you off with a fine of $10 or 40 days in jail."

The fine was paid.

CONTESTANTS BUSY IN SEEKING VOTES

Some "Tips" For Young Women Entered in European Tour Competition.

BALLOTING IS NOW SPIRITED

The Giving of "Double Votes" and "Bonus Votes" Will Not Be Tolerated Because Unfair to Those Who Started Early.

Interest continues to increase each day in the Daily Press European Tour Contest, and many people have already fallen in line to give their favorites a good start when the votes now accumulating in the ballot box are counted next Saturday evening. This is not in the least surprising, as this circulation campaign is a strictly high-class proposition in every respect, and affords a wonderful opportunity for six women of Plainfield and vicinity to spend two months in Europe for a little outlay of energy during their spare time. The educational value of these tours of Europe should not be overlooked, as they form a large portion of the benefits to be derived from such a trip. The chance to see all the principal points of Europe amid such refined surroundings as those under which the Press party will travel is one that will never occur so easily again.

During the past few days a number of inquiries have been made as to whether or not there will be any changes in the vote schedule during the contest, and in reply to these we wish to state that the schedule as published will remain absolutely intact throughout the entire period. The giving of "double votes" and "bonus votes" of any kind is manifestly unfair, as it gives contestants who do not begin to work until late in the race an opportunity to secure as large a vote as the ones who have been in from the beginning, with from one-third to one-half less work. The Daily Press contest will be run at all times in a manner that will give each contestant an equal chance with every other candidate, and fair play and a square deal to all will be the keynote from start to finish.

Every candidate should start early to do all in her power to secure votes, as they come very easily after once having entered the race, and the fact that you are intent on winning one of these trips becomes known to your friends. The best methods of securing votes is as follows:

First. If those nearest you do not subscribe regularly to the Daily Press, ask them to do so. This will give you a good start.

Second. If they are already subscribers to the Press, ask them to renew their subscriptions for any period from ten weeks to three years, and have them save the coupons found in the Press every evening (good for five votes each), for by so doing you will get the benefit of both the votes allowed on the renewal and the votes from the coupons. Tie the coupons securely together in bunches of not more than fifty each, mark the number on top and deposit them in the ballot box. Be sure that your name is on the slip with the number, but it is not necessary to have it on each coupon if they are securely tied together.

Third. Tell your other relations and friends what you are trying for, and ask them to subscribe and save their coupons for you. They will be only too glad to help you, and you will then have several subscriptions and several people saving their coupons for you.

The Daily Press is even better value than the price asked for it; an up-to-date, newsy paper which is

FATHER BANISHED SO HIS SON CAN GO TO SCHOOL

George Suydam, of Plainfield avenue, was arraigned in the city court today to explain why he failed to send his son to school.

"I could support the family and get the boy to school if my husband wasn't around," said Mrs. Suydam to Judge William G. DeMeza.

The magistrate ordered Suydam to stay away from the house.

MRS. SOPHIA JORDAN DIES AFTER A SHORT ILLNESS.

Mrs. Sophia Jordan, wife of Leon H. Jordan, died at her home on North avenue, last night, following a short illness. She had been subject to heart trouble for several years, frequently suffering severe attacks. Her demise was the result of one which could not be overcome.

Mrs. Jordan was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. McIntyre, of North avenue, and was thirty-one years old. She was born in this city and had hosts of local friends who will be shocked by the news of her death. Mrs. Jordan had recently been living in Charlotte, N. C., where her husband was connected with the Western Union. They returned to Plainfield less than three months ago.

Beside her husband and parents, Mrs. Jordan is survived by one son, three sisters and two brothers. These are Mrs. William Chamberlain, of Perth Amboy; Mrs. Claire F. Bickel, Miss Madeline McIntyre, Frank and John McIntyre, of this city. The funeral will be held in St. Mary's church Friday morning at 9 o'clock and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

HOSPITAL $90,000. FUND STARTED; $32,100. GIVEN AT CITIZENS' DINNER

Ex-Governor John Franklin Fort.

John Grier Hibben.
President Princeton University.

Former Senator Everett Colby.

Gathered at the Park club last night, two hundred and fifty representative men of Plainfield and North Plainfield, joined with the governors, managers and heads of committees in giving a "siss boom ah!" send off in formally launching the Muhlenberg Hospital Twelve Day Campaign for $90,000. It was the beginning of the greatest civic movement ever attempted here and as a climax to the dinner, for that was the form of the meeting, announcement was made that already $32,100 had been subscribed.

Distinguished sons of New Jersey, including former Governor John Franklin Fort, Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, and former State Senator Everett Colby, had come to lend their aid in arousing enthusiasm and in cheering the workers. Isador Sobel had traveled from Erie, Pa., to give the diners the benefit of his experiences in "passing the hat" for charity, while Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, registered on the room card as of "North Plainfield and New York," and Percy H. Stewart, one of the hospital governors, added interest to the affair by their timely remarks. Frank W. Hills, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., was also a speaker.

Letters From Notables.

After the dinner, which was an excellent one, George P. Mellick made a few brief remarks, introducing as the toastmaster former Judge William N. Runyon. "This is not the feast of the triumphant, the triumph comes later," asserted Mr. Runyon. The feast would come on Washington's birthday and for the first time that holiday would be Thanksgiving day in Plainfield. He read letters from President William H. Taft, Governor Woodrow Wilson and William Jennings Bryan expressing their regret at not being able to be present. Bishop McFaul had also sent his regrets.

Governor Wilson wrote this letter: "Thank you for your letter of January sixth. I wish most sincerely that it were possible for me to accept the invitation for February sixth, but I have already bound myself by so many engagements that I really dare not. I can only express my sincere interest in the work of the Muhlenberg Hospital, and the hope that its managers will meet with every encouragement."

This was from Mr. Bryan: "I am very sorry I could not, owing to other engagements, make at date to lecture for the benefit of the Muhlenberg Hospital. It is a worthy institution and deserving of assistance. Hoping that I may be free to accept an invitation at some future time, I am, etc."

Pres. Mt. Vernon (N. Y.) Hospital.

Greetings From Taft.

President Taft sent this letter: "I thank you for your courtesy in inviting me to attend the dinner which is to be held in the interest of Muhlenberg Hospital. While I regret my inability to be present, I am glad to take this opportunity to testify to my great interest in work of the nature which I understand this institution is doing in your community. I am sure that Plainfield has no lack of public spirited citizens to provide for the desired enlargement of the hospital and for the continuance of its good work."

When Percy H. Stewart was called upon, he gave a plain statement of the situation at Muhlenberg and of its present needs as well as the real objects of the $90,000 campaign. Carnivals, kirmesses and fairs, all tried in the past, had cost too much and netted too little, he asserted. The returns from such enterprises had been totally insufficient and now the governors had carefully considered the new scheme and had enthusiastically endorsed it. That it is not a building campaign, but a plain business proposition to reduce the running expenses and to increase the net revenue was what he wished thoroughly understood.

The Plan Explained.

"The present hospital building," said Mr. Stewart, "was erected through the generosity of the citizens of Plainfield in 1903, and since that time over 7,000 patients have been treated in the wards and private rooms, and over 4,700 in the dispensary.

"Over fifty per cent. of all the work done at Muhlenberg during the past two years has been absolutely free. It would be easy for Muhlenberg to keep out of debt and always pay its own way if it could be run like an ordinary business concern. But by the nature of the case, the hospital's income necessarily falls short of its yearly expenditures. The hospital is freely open to all who are unable to pay anything; and although the cost per day to each patient in the wards is nearly $2.50, only $1.00 a day is charged in order that poor patients in the wards, who are willing to pay for their treatment, may not be taxed beyond their ability. The hospital has a present floating indebtedness of about $18,000, which is entirely due to this charitable work carried on during the past five years. It need not have incurred this debt if it had turned away the poor and needy who were unable to pay for care and treatment at the time of their illness and distress.

$90,000 Is Needed.

It has been estimated that $90,000 will be sufficient (1) to pay off the floating indebtedness and (2) to pay for the extensions and improvements, which are imperative, in order that the hospital may be adequately equipped to meet the present demand for service.

"The following statement will show the purposes for which it is proposed to raise this fund of $90,000. These figures, of course, are approximate, and although the estimates have been carefully made, it may be necessary to vary somewhat from the plan as herein set forth:

"To pay off floating debt, $18,000; (1), A new building, containing a children's ward, and from twelve to fifteen modern and well-equipped private pay rooms; (2), Alterations required to safeguard the wards and buildings against fire. (3), Installation of electric light plant. (4), Ex-

that the PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS is being favorably talked about whenever three or four people are gathered together in this town. The answer, perhaps, should come from some one other than the publishers of the paper. Here it is:

One of the best known men in Plainfield, a man who is a leader in every big movement in the city, called us up on the 'phone. He said, "I want to congratulate the 'new' Daily Press,

This is only one of the hundreds of expressions of commendation that have been received since the rejuvenated Daily Press put in appearance. The statement is no vivid imagining of an adv. writer's brain. It is an actual quotation, which can be proven to be true for the benefit of any skeptical person.

JUST THINK IT OVER MR. ADVERTISER

Realize what it means to get in on the ground floor, and if you are not represented in the columns of the Daily Press, ring up Plainfield 1300 and learn how easy it is to be one of the rapidly growing family of successful merchants who have found that

Dunellen & Vicinity.

The Dunellen Board of Education, at its monthly meeting, last night, discussed at considerable length the need of more class room in the borough. A new school is the favored plan but an addition to one of the present structures was talked of. No definite action was taken but the matter will be brought up again in the near future. While the need of more room is not absolutely necessary at this time, the growth in attendance indicates in a very short time something will have to be done. A resolution was passed at the meeting to aid the Muhlenberg hospital campaign by distributing hospital buttons among the pupils and sanctioning the work of securing contributions. A. J. Hamley was the only member absent from the meeting.

At its regular monthly meeting, Monday night, the Borough Council appointed A. J. Hamley, C. S. Starker and Dr. T. J. Hogan as a committee to represent Dunellen at the joint sewer conference to be held in Plainfield, Thursday night, February 15. Most of the business at the session was of purely routine nature.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Emily Clum, daughter of William Clum, of the borough, and William Piddington, of New Market. No date has been set for the wedding.

The W. C. T. U. will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Miss Lizzie Dunham. The members will sew for missionaries at the close of the business session.

J. Y. Wilson, of New Market road, has returned from a two weeks' visit at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Cortez Clawson, of Alfred, N. Y.

Westfield.

The immigration problem was discussed at a meeting of the Woman's Association held at the home of Mrs. William J. Alpers on Elm street Monday afternoon. Interesting papers were read by the Misses Marjorie Dohrman, Mildred Gomes, Dorothy Ames and Marjory Johnson. The program was in charge of Miss Emily Cornell and the meeting was presided over by Mrs. George Mosher.

Chairman Hohenstein, of the police committee, has been empowered by Council to engage the service of two additional policemen. The resignation of Special Officer William Hensel has been accepted.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Louise Scheerer and Fred Gisbel. The nuptials will be celebrated at the home of the bride's parents on the afternoon of February 12.

The Men's Club of the Methodist church will hold its annual banquet tomorrow night. The chief speaker will be the Hon. Frank Moss, former assistant attorney of New York.

J. Winter Davis has returned from an extended trip in the South. Mrs. Davis is spending a time with relatives in West Virginia.

'Plains & Fanwood.

George W. Hinckley, supervisor of the "Good Will Home For Boys," at Hinckley, Maine, gave an interesting illustrated talk last night at the Baptist church upon his work and the results obtained. The meeting was well attended and Mr. Hinckley's address was enjoyed by all.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Co held its regular monthly meeting last night in the company's rooms. After the regular monthly business was transacted the members enjoyed a social hour over their cigars.

Lockwood & Co., who recently purchased the Central N. J. Land Improvement Co. property in Fanwood, intend to erect fifteen new houses in the spring.

Miss Anna Wahl is around again after a severe attack of grip, which confined her to her home for a week.

Rev. George Hollingshead, a former pastor of the Methodist church, has been visiting friends in town.

Henry Dean, who has been visiting his father, Daniel Dean, has returned to his home at Morristown.

Mrs. Henry Demarest, of "Eventide," has been entertaining friends from out of town.

Miss Anna Littell has returned from a visit with relatives at New Haven, Conn.

GOVERNMENT'S EXPERTS FIND BEE DISEASE HERE

The United States Department of Agriculture has sent out notice to the effect that European foul brood, a honey bee disease, has been found to exist in Union county. The department has no means of knowing how long the disease has existed in the region, but desires to notify bee keepers of the trouble and to suggest that, if not already informed concerning the disease, they inform themselves at once.

Very frequently, the notice says, colonies of bees are destroyed by disease and the loss is attributed by the bee keeper to some other cause. Farmers' Bulletin No. 442, The Treatment of Bee Diseases, gives a description of the brood diseases and methods of treatment. It will be sent free on request to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Attention is also called by the department to the fact that the brood diseases do not at all injure honey for human consumption, so that there need be no fear on the part of purchasers of honey.

THE OLD TIME RELIGION IS GOOD ENOUGH FOR ME

REV. DR. CHARLES E. HERRING

"Is The Old Time Religion Good Enough For the Modern Man?" was the theme of the sermon in the First Presbyterian church last Sunday evening. Rev. Dr. Herring based his sermon on the hymn frequently sung in evangelistic services, "The Old Time Religion, the Old Time Religion, Is Good Enough For Me." "The hymn," the pastor said, "has a rapturous swing to it, and seems just full of piety and consecration, but personally I do not like phrasing religious life in that way. What is this old time religion? A canvasser called at my home a few days ago with this motto on his helmet, 'Pillar of Fire.' I had never been brought into contact with this particular phase of religion, but I soon became convinced that this religionist believed that he had the old time religion and he was positive that I did not have the real truth unless I subscribed to the magazine of his church. He did not know what magazine I had but he was sure that what he had was the real thing, for the Holy Spirit told him so, and he was equally sure that I did not have the real thing possibly because I did not have on my religious regimentals.

"The modern man wants no such religion as that. If the old time religion refers to old time methods of presenting the truth without regard to present day problems then the hymn should have no place in our thoughts and religious services.

"If the Old Time Religion, however, means the religion that centres in Jesus Christ and His Gospel then it is not only good enough for all men but it is the one religion for all men. We have all been reading the opinions of various writers as to the twenty men who have left the greatest impression on the world's civilization. In two of these accounts, the name of Jesus has been placed first. Yes, Jesus was a man, but in His influence and power on the world He was a man apart. Other men are pigmies by the side of the man Jesus. We think of Him as did Peter of old when he cried out, "Lord, to whom shall we go, Thou only hast the words of eternal life." To no other human being can we address such words. Napoleon said this of Jesus. "Comparison is impossible between Him and any other being in the world. He is truly a Being by Himself—Near as I may approach, closely as I may examine, all remains great with a greatness that crushes me." But Jesus came not that he might crush man but that He might unlock the door of man's personality and uplift him to a nobler manhood. In the fairy tale, we read of the chimney sweep who came down the wrong chimney and saw the snow white child, under the snow white coverlet, and on the snow white pillow. Then he saw himself in all his blackness before the mirror in the room. The sight of the whiteness of another simply intensified his own blackness. Then he burst into tears and wanted to sneak up the chimney and hide.

"I believe that study of the manhood of Jesus will act in the same way upon any man's life. Ponder this wonderful life of Jesus Christ. Let his light play upon your character that you may see just what it is, that you may see its blackness, its sinfulness, its selfishness, its greed, its uncleanness, but more than that let Him make you over until your fellows will say, "This man belongs to Jesus Christ and is trying to shape his life so that Jesus Christ will approve it." Jesus and His Gospel is not only good enough for the modern man. He alone can give to man the satisfactory answer to his moral and religious problems."

RESIGNS OFFICE AFTER SERVING TOWN 52 YEARS

Westfield, Feb. 7 (Special).—J. M. C. Marsh, after serving the town in public office continuously since 1860, has resigned his position as assessor. Lloyd Thompson has been named as his successor to serve until December 31, 1912.

"Johnny" Marsh, as he is known, has been a familiar figure in courthouse circles for half a century or more. Serving the town for an unbroken period of fifty-two years he enjoys a unique record. Last December Mr. Marsh, while at work in the town hall, was stricken ill, and although he is "on the mend" he resigned his position on the advice of friends.

Mr. Marsh is seventy-three years old and is a native of Westfield. He is a Democrat of the Jacksonian type, and although the town is Republican by a large majority, he was never defeated for office. At the age of twenty-one he was elected constable, in which capacity he served until 1900; in 1878 he was elected assessor, which position he relinquished by his resignation. Mr. Marsh has also served as court constable and for a time he was a railroad detective in the employ of the Jersey Central. He was an auctioneer for years.

WESTFIELD'S OFFICIALS WILL ALL GO TO CHURCH.

Westfield, Feb. 7 (Special).—The Town Council has received and accepted a unique invitation from the Rev. Dr. A. W. Hayes, pastor of the Methodist church. The latter requested the Mayor, members of the Council and all the town officials to attend a municipal patriotic service on Sunday evening, February 18.

The Mayor and Council and every other official will attend in a body along with the local firemen and a delegation from the police department. The service will be conducted under the auspices of the Men's League of the church.

The night following the service, Monday, February 19, Dr. Hayes and the Men's League will appear at the Council meeting to protest against the granting of liquor licenses.

Miss Nora Nugent, of West Third street, is improving after two weeks' illness with pleurisy.

Messrs. Varley and Fass are well-known merchants and are experts in their respective lines; men who will cater conscientiously to the wants of the public, by whom they have no doubt but that the new venture will be appreciated. The new store will be open for business about the middle of March.

THREE SLEDS IN A SNARL; ONE SHOULDER DISLOCATED

A number of coasters had an exciting time on the hill at the Park Golf Club grounds last night. One of them, Clarence Baker, is laid up today with a dislocated shoulder and George Simon is mourning the loss of his bob, which was demolished. All the other riders were more or less shaken up and are suffering from bruises and contusions.

The Simon sled, with Baker steering, crashed into the wreck of a sled owned by John English which broke under the weight put upon it, while sliding down the grade.

While the two sled parties were untangling themselves another sled owned by William Murphy and carrying half a dozen passengers bumped into the mass. The compact sent all hands rolling and smashed the rear runners on Simon's sled. The front runners had been broken in the first collision. Murphy's sled was also badly damaged.

Could This Happen to You?

WILL OF 99 YEARS AGO FIGURES IN LAND SUIT

Ambiguity in a clause in a will made ninety-nine years ago, devising a parcel of wild land in West Orange Township, was the basis of a suit to quiet title that came on for final hearing before Vice-Chancellor Stevens today.

An ordinary sixty-year seach would not reveal the above. Our guaranty, however, insures title defects of any age or nature.

Honesty

John Irving Romer, who has probably as intimate a knowledge of advertisers and advertising as any man in the country and who, by the way, is fighting a good fight for sane, sensible, HONEST publicity, says:

"Some advertisers are like some people you know; they invite Honesty to call, but do not set a date."

Right to the point, isn't it?

You haven't much faith in the friend (?) who greets you with a vigorous handshake and urges you to visit him or her, as the case may be, and then blandly walks away without making a definite appointment. You cannot help feeling that you have been made a fool of.

It's the same with advertising. Some advertisers carry on a desperate flirtation with Honesty, but never set a time for Honesty to call. They mean some day to reform; they do not ALWAYS intend to misrepresent, but somehow or other they put off their meeting with Truth and Honesty. They are literally afraid of themselves.

Away back in 1893—when we first started in business—we sent an urgent invitation to Honesty and we were here when she called. We might add that we have been "at home" to her ever since.

DO IT FOR PLAINFIELD.

No person who attended the dinner given last night to inaugurate the campaign to raise $90,000 for Muhlenberg Hospital doubted, when he left the hall, that the money, and probably more, would be raised. While there were plenty of skeptical men among the diners when the evening started, the enthusiasm later displayed showed that Plainfield, through the representative gathering there present, had awakened to the needs of the institution, and as a municipality intended to provide every cent asked for, and more besides. There is not the slightest doubt now that the campaign will be a decided success. Everyone will be rushing to get in at the start, and we would not be surprised to see the entire sum subscribed long before the ten days are over. With over $30,000 announced already, more than one-third of the amount asked for, the work is well started, and tonight's gathering of the workers will show a substantial addition to the fund.

Plainfield will give every cent asked for in this campaign. As was emphasized by one of the speakers last night, who told of a similar experience in his home town, no city can afford to say that it tried to do something of the kind and failed. We have never heard of a similar movement which was not a success. In Newark last year an effort was made to raise $250,000 by this method for the Young Women's Christian Association, and when the last reports were turned in the amount had passed the $300,000 mark. Here it is a hospital, an institution doing an even more important work than the Y. W. C. A. Everyone realizes the great need in the community of such an institution. Muhlenberg's work has been of the greatest importance here. It has taken in rich and poor, and its doors have never been closed to anyone at any time. It has been largely maintained by a group of wealthy men who should not be asked to continue their support indefinitely. Everyone should take a part in this support, and they are given the chance by the campaign started last night. If one of those soliciting funds comes around to see you, don't say that you cannot do anything for the cause, because you feel that you can only give a dollar, when your neighbor might be giving five dollars. Do as one speaker suggested last night—give more than you feel you can afford, gauge your contribution not by how much you give, but by how much you have left. Remember that the money does not have to be paid at once, but in four equal instalments, extending over a period which brings the final payment on October first, 1913.

The eyes of the State are on Plainfield. This campaign has been heralded far and wide. Do the citizens want to have it said, when Washington's Birthday rolls around, "Oh, yes, I've heard of Plainfield, that's the place where they could not raise $90,000 for their hospital," or do they want the outsider to read about and hear of the city which raised several thousand dollars more than was asked for, in a twelve day period. It is up to the people as a whole. We believe that it will hardly be necessary to scratch the surface before every cent asked for is subscribed.

This day marks the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of one of the English-speaking race's greatest and most beloved fiction writers. Next to those of Shakespeare possibly his works are more familiar to those of the English tongue than that of any author living or dead, not excepting Scott or Thackery. As to his real position in literature the erudite ones may differ but the consensus of opinion these long years after his death is that while he had his faults in some respects yet he measures up as one of the greatest novelists the world has produced.

tensions and improvements to pathological laboratory and operating pavilion, including X-ray machine. (5). Additional machinery for laundry, miscellaneous repairs, alterations and improvements. (6). Expenses of campaign and allowance for contingencies. Totals of above six items, $72,000; grand total, $90,000.

Plan of Campaign.

"The plan," Mr. Stewart said, "is presented to the people of Plainfield by the Hospital Governors and by the Campaign Executive Committee in full appreciation not only of the desirability, but the absolute necessity of putting Muhlenberg Hospital as far as possible on a pay basis. As stated above, a charitable institution cannot, of course, be put absolutely on such a basis. The aim, however, is to work constantly in the direction of a supporting income. Careful consideration was given to the suggestion that this entire campaign be devoted to subscriptions for a large endowment fund and nothing else, in order that the generous people of Plainfield might be relieved as far as possible from the necessity for giving carnivals, kirmesses and other entertainments for subscriptions to meet the annual deficit caused by the free charitable work done at the hospital. If the $90,000 were invested as an endowment fund, the yearly income from such a fund would amount only to about $4,500. It has been estimated that the proposed new building containing the children's ward and new private rooms will produce from the private rooms alone a net income of $4,500 yearly after providing for all necessary maintenance. The installation of the electric lighting plant and machinery for the laundry and other new improvements contemplated are expected to reduce the expenses of the hospital materially. The paying off of the floating debt also means a saving of a yearly interest charge of nearly $1,000.

"In short, this plan means that Muhlenberg will have approximately $6,000 a year more than it has at present, after allowing for all additional expenses, and with a thoroughly modernized, enlarged and improved plant, whereas if the entire $90,000 were set apart in an endowment fund, the income would be only $4,500, and the hospital no better equipped than it is today."

Senator Colby's Plan.

Senator Colby was greeted with rounds of applause as he arose in response to the toastmaster's introduction. The popular young statesman got his hearers in a merry mood by dryly mentioning that his task was a most delightful one for he had come to tell others how to spend their money. He devoted his time to a serious and what might be termed a most beautiful plea for a child's ward. "We get beyond charity and rise to real intelligent effort when we deal with the child problem he stated. A hospital represents a concrete civic understanding that the child must be kept in good health." Conservation of childhood, he declared, is a social, spiritual and economic duty. He likened the intent of one of Robert Louis Stevenson's poems to the undertaking to save child life in a way that held his hearers spell-bound and won for him loud applause as he concluded his eloquent plea.

Frank W. Hills, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., had come to tell Plainfield people what wonders had been worked in his home town through a similar campaign. He had seen the scheme tried at Salt Lake City, Utah, and persuaded his people at Mount Vernon to follow it. Co-operation, team play, he said, is essential and he declared that to make the venture a success three things were necessary—co-operation, organization and inspiration. It requires concentrated, co-operated inspiration he added.

Governor Fort's Argument.

Former Governor Fort delivered an eloquent speech in which he told of the great work being accomplished by American medical missionaries in the Orient, who are able to spread the Christian religion by winning the hearts of the people because they are able to cure their ills. He was frequently interrupted by applause.

Harry W. Marshall.
Chairman Banquet Committee.

Among other things, former Governor Fort said:

"The name of Plainfield has always been synonymous with progress. Knowing the State of New Jersey as I think I do, that knowledge leads me to believe that this city stands preeminent among the cities of the State for its intelligence, its high class of citizenship and its right directed public spirit. Everything good, therefore, should be expected to come out of Plainfield. We are living in a time when great contributions are being made for universities, colleges, free public libraries and cathedral and church construction. It has always seemed a wonder to me why the very wealthy men of the country, who give so much in the direction I have indicated should not have given more for hospital erection and endowment. There would seem to be no gift or bequest that a man could make that should give him greater satisfaction or that would be of greater blessing to the community than a gift or bequest to a hospital. For those who are unable to pay the cost of needed surgical operation or of skilled trained nursing a hospital is the greatest boon imaginable, and it is equally as great a blessing to the man or woman of means. And this statement is true whether a patient is cared for in the hospital or out of it. The indirect advantage to a community derived from a good hospital service with an efficient corp of surgeons and physicians is beyond estimation. There is no school equal to the school of experience, and there is no lesson that so impresses itself upon the human mind as an object lesson. Every doctor, therefore, who attends a hospital clinic, or assists in a hospital operation or consults at the bedside of a hospital patient, is made just so much better for his work in the home in the community where the hospital is. Every dollar, therefore, that you give for hospital work is money well expended, for it will return to you through the greater efficiency of your physician, when you shall find it necessary, as we all must some time, to employ him.

Hospitals in Orient.

"A little time ago it was my privilege to travel in sections of the world which we call, from our religious standpoint, heathen, and yet I think those who have traveled there will hardly come away in the belief that the dictionary definition of heathen will apply to those people as we see them. They are seekers after light; they are striving to attain to Western civilization, and particularly to that exemplified in the United States. Of course, they have the religions of their ancestors and we cannot blame them for following them. The most difficult thing in all is placed in these countries is Christian light. For every Christian influence and the ultimate establishment of the Christian faith the American medical missionary is doing a great work that is most potential in overcoming the superstitions of the religions or beliefs of the Oriental people. It is opening the door for the entrance of the religious teacher and making a highway in the heart and thought of those great people which ultimately caused Christianity to become the basis of all their governmental policy and the religion of their homes.

Ernest R. Ackerman.
Chairman Speakers' Committee.

"The world is getting better. The influences for good are eliminating our meanness and lack of interest in others. Selfishness no longer controls us and we are coming to realize that he who gives to others gets better results out of life than in any other way. The things which abide are the things which go out from us not those which we keep. For every dollar to help this splendid cause the givers will reap manifold blessings to others as well as to themselves."

Princeton Head's Talk.

The Princeton song, "Here's to Jack Hibben," greeted Dr. John Grier Hibben, after Judge Runyon had said that the Widow Princeton had vainly sued and begged and pleaded to "Jack Hibben" by whom she was promptly accepted. Of course he told the group of Old Nassau graduates assembled directly in front of the speakers that he was delighted to see Princeton represented on such an occasion and would have been disappointed to learn otherwise. He recounted the campaign engagements to raise $1 million funds the hardest and most disagreeable part of the work. Quoting his old friend, Job Hedges of New York, he asserted that a man's generosity should not be measured by what he gives but what he has left in his pocket. Spirit in the campaign is just as essential as in college life, he explained, and he predicted that a spirited campaign for Muhlenberg would weld the people of Plainfield together.

Dr. Hibben asserted that he had come to Plainfield to pay a debt. Point conceded to the father of Dr. Wm. H. Murray, who with Dr. Elliot McClure and Job Hedges had loaned him an education. Twenty years ago, Dr. Murray's father, himself a distinguished physician, had raised the funds to found the Isabella McCosh Infirmary at Princeton, he explained and he was here to show Princeton's appreciation through the son. The best investment a business man can make, the college president claimed, is he find that does not pay any dividends to the investor personally, but pays big dividends to the community. This undertaking he asserted, was the non-dividend kind that he recommended.

Mr. Sobel's Experiences.

Mr. Sobel, of Erie, made a clever speech which kept the crowd in laughter. He told of how he had started a similar movement in his home city and had followed it up by others raising thousands and thousands of dollars for charity, sums beyond his expectations. The people of Plainfield, like the people of Erie, only wanted a chance to give and he predicted that $125,000 would be raised for Muhlenberg.

The last speaker was Rev. S. Dalton who made one of his characteristic and highly entertaining speeches. His remarks were interspersed with some good stories.

During the supper the Elks' quartette composed of W. E. Smith, bass; H. N. Blimm, baritone; E.D. Cutting, first tenor; J. V. Todd, second tenor, with Felix Arndt, accompanist, sang topical songs. Fred and Will VanEpps entertained with banjo selections.

To Institute Mr. Bowers.

Friends in Plainfield have received invitations to the service for the institution of the Rev. Elroy George Bowers into the rectorship of St. James' Episcopal church, Goshen, N. Y., at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, February 14. Mr. Bowers was formerly rector of St. Stephen's church, this city.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

Plainfield People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or atended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease, or dropsy. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

Miss Lena Wahl, 335 East Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I can endorse Doan's Kidney Pills highly. They did me so much good when I was suffering from pains in my back caused by disordered kidneys that I think there is nothing like them. The promptness with which Doan's Kidney Pills disposed of my trouble was surprising and gratifying. They not only removed the pain and lameness but strengthened my kidneys."

HELD UP REPORTS TO BOOST LAND?

Secretary Wilson Involved In New Investigation.

"MILLIONS" IN EVERGLADES

Florida and Ohio Representatives Make Charges That Secretary of Agriculture Suppressed Reports That Warned Investors of Real Conditions In "Drained" Territory.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Charges involving Secretary Wilson and Solicitor McCabe have precipitated an investigation of the department of agriculture that rivals in sensationalism the case brought against Dr. Wiley last summer. Representative Clark of Florida and Representative Bathrick of Ohio laid the charge before the house committee on expenditures in the department.

For some months criticism in regard to the alleged friendly attitude of the department toward various companies which have been exploiting under water land in the Florida Everglades has been heard in Washington. These companies, which are now under investigation by the federal authorities, have advertised extensively throughout the United States and, it is contended, have collected millions of dollars for lands obtained at 50 cents an acre and sold as high as $60 an acre which are now covered with from ten to twenty feet of water, which will not be drained for many years, if ever, and the ultimate value of which is doubtful.

The situation came to a head when Representatives Clark and Bathrick appeared before the house committee. They charged that on the recommendation of Solicitor McCabe Secretary Wilson dismissed two high officials of the department and suspended a third on technical charges nearly three years old, which were recently brought to the attention of the department by J. O. Wright, formerly an agricultural department engineer, but now chief engineer of the Everglades drainage project. The two representatives added that a circular letter of warning intended as a response to many inquiries received at the department as to the reliability of the Everglades lands for investment and an elaborate report prepared at an expense to the government of $11,000 had been suppressed by order of Secretary Wilson. The report, it was said, was not favorable to the sale of submerged lands.

The officials dismissed—and their dismissal occurred last Saturday, immediately after the matter was first brought to the attention of the Moss committee—were C. G. Elliott, chief of drainage investigations, and A. D. Morehouse, office engineer. F. E. Singleton, an accountant in the office, is the man suspended.

Representative Clark's testimony before the committee was sensational. He explained to the committee, first, that he was not at all opposed to the drainage of the Everglades lands, but that he did object to discredit being brought upon the state of Florida through the exploitation of the Everglades by land companies which charged high prices for lands that would be under water for an indefinite number of years to come. Then he told of a report prepared by J. O. Wright in 1909, when he was an engineer in the department of agriculture. According to Representative Clark, it was so favorable to the Everglades proposition that it had to be entirely changed before being sent to the printer by Chief Engineer Elliott. It was this revision which it is charged Secretary Wilson refused to make public.

"HANDS OFF" IN CHINA.

Policy of United States and Germany Gains Favor With Russia.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The state department hopes soon to announce that all the powers largely interested in China have agreed to adhere to a policy of nonintervention and absolute neutrality in the civil war raging in that country.

This agreement is expected as the final development of discussions which have been going on between the United States and Germany for some time. It is understood that Germany and the United States, who have from the first stood firmly for a "hands off" policy in China, are submitting the result of their deliberations to the other powers interested. These include Russia, France, Great Britain, Japan and Italy.

It is understood that the agreement now being submitted will declare that the lending of money to either Manchus or republicans will be an absolute violation of neutrality.

MADERO'S HOME STATE READY FOR REBELLION

Gomez Is "New Moses" of Mexican People.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 7.—Northern Mexico is on the verge of revolt from the central government.

The state of Chihuahua is threatening to withdraw from the union of states, and the republic of Mexico, it is believed, is facing the most critical point in its later history. General Pasqual Orozco was elected governor of Chihuahua.

Chihuahua, the birthplace of the Madero revolution, threatens to be the breeding ground of a second, a more widespread and more important than any military movement since Diaz seized the throne at the head of his Indian army. All railroad bridges around the city are burned.

Emilio Vasquez Gomez, the "new Moses" of the Mexican people, is being mentioned for the presidency of the republic if the republic maintains its identity. If not, he will head the revolting republic which may be formed from the tier of the northern states, with Chihuahua as the capital.

Pasqual Orozco, dominant figure of the Madero revolution, is being mentioned as a possible presidential possibility. His popularity, it is claimed, would sweep everything before it in his native state, and he would overshadow Gomez, Madero, Gonzales or any other figure should he decide to run.

DICKENS CENTENARY.

In New York 350 Attend Dinner at Delmonico's.

New York, Feb. 7.—New York's formal recognition of the Dickens centenary began with a dinner at Delmonico's. The dinner was given by the Manhattan branch of the Dickens fellowship, in co-operation with the Dickens centenary committee. Some 350 men and women attended the dinner. Seth Low was the toastmaster. Those whom he introduced were Miss Agnes Repplier, William Bayard Hale, Kate Douglas Wiggin, Miss Edith Wynne Matthison, who read a poem by Edwin Markham; Charles Rann Kennedy, F. Hopkinson Smith and Sydney Valentine.

The speaking was preceded by a toast proposed by Mr. Low "To the immortal memory of Charles Dickens." Mr. Low said that Alfred Tennyson Dickens, who died while on a lecture tour of this country recently, had expected to take part in the dinner, and Mr. Low added:

"As we commemorate the father, let us express our sympathy for those who mourn the son."

OPPOSES THIRD TERM.

Representative McCall Aims at Roosevelt In House Speech.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Representative Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts delivered a notable speech in the house against the third term. The speech was, of course, aimed directly at Colonel Roosevelt's activities. Mr. McCall's speech was received with interest. Mr. McCall reviewed the attitude of the presidents of the United States to a third term and pictured the dangers that lurked in the giving up of this precedent.

Always something doing on the Olympia Alleys these days when the weather stops outside work. Keen competition has sprung up among these winter vacationists and as a result they are at the door in the morning waiting for Frank or Bill to open up. Some mighty good scores have been returned, too.

Frank is rather glad that there are enough of them so that he does not have to take a hand as he is suffering with a pair of bad feet, caused by the same elements that put the men off the job.

A meeting of local pinners will be called in a few days by the Olympia alleys' manager to land a team to represent the drives in the National Bowling Tournament in Paterson next month. He says he will have a five alright.

Jim Stewart is working hard for his match with Carl Morris, which takes place at the Carlyle Athletic Club of Ridgewood in two weeks. Stewart is still imbued with the idea that he is the real and only "white hope," and by beating Morris he hopes to obtain a match with the best in the ring among the white men. Stewart would be pleased to meet Jim Flynn, he says. Jim was always a game man.

When Owen Moran, the clever little Briton, meets Joe Bedell, of Brooklyn, at the Carlyle Club next week a pretty battle is sure to result. Bedell is boxing better now than at any time in his career, and his two bouts with Tommy Murphy have stamped him as one of the best in the country at his weight.

Tom Kennedy and "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien are likely to box ten rounds at the Fairmont Athletic Club within the next few weeks.

Although Clarke Griffith has the reputation of being an artist on the coaching lines in serving up conversation to rattle the opposing pitchers, he is going to have a worthy rival next season in Manager Harry Wolverton of the Yankees. Advices from the Pacific Coast say that Wolverton, as leader of the Oakland Club last season, was the terror of all the pitchers on that circuit.

In McConnell, who pitched Plainfield to victory over Somerville in the deciding game last fall, Roy Caldwell and John Priest, the Yankees have the greatest trio of heavy hitting pitchers in the business. Last year at Rochester McConnell hit at a pace of .288. When Priest left the Yankees after an unsuccessful trial last season he played with the Richmond Club. Priest found his batting eye after he left the Hilltop and in the South hit the ball at a clip of .328, an accomplishment which has prompted the Yankees to give him another trial this Spring. Caldwell won fourteen games last season and lost fourteen. It was his first year and he displayed much ability and a capacity for hard work. He can hit better than most pitchers, and last season had a batting average of .272

FOUR BASKETBALL GAMES AT Y.M.C.A. TOMORROW

Lots of action at the Y. M. C. A. gym tomorrow afternoon when the college teams will have their weekly meeting, which till yet have never been weekly. The Yale quintet will try conclusions with the Columbia five and will be followed by Brown trying to humble Harvard. Rutgers will take on the other Jersey college bunch, Princeton, and the leading Pennsylvania five will have at Cornell.

As the season advances the youngsters are showing an enthusiasm in working for their teams that would credit regular students and alumni. Pennsylvania leads in the standing with 11 games won and 2 lost. Brown is in the cellar with 3 to their credit against 10 losses. Rutgers and Yale are tied for second and the others are feeling by no means safe with their margins.

May Blacklist Marquard.

It was reported at Giant headquarters yesterday that Rube Marquard, of the Nationals, who is holding out for more salary, may be placed on the ineligible list by Manager McGraw. McGraw and Marquard were to have met on Saturday and talk over terms. Rube failed to show up and McGraw grew angry and left. The loss of Marquard would be a severe blow to the Giants' pennant hopes for 1912.

Motor Boat Show Plans.

Advance preparations indicate that the National Motorboat Show at Madison Square Garden, beginning February 17, will be the largest ever held in America. A feature will be a bureau of information where trained men will explain every detail of a motorboat.

HOCKEY GROWING IN POPULAR FAVOR

YALE HAS NEW $12,000 RINK

New Haven Arena is One of the Largest in Country—Princeton May Erect One—Game Seems to Fill Long Felt Want with Collegians.

The tendencies at big universities and colleges throughout the country is to boom hockey. Time was when only a few varsity sevens were seen on the ice, but nowadays most every institution, whether large or small, goes in for the Canadian game. This is one evidence of the game's progress. Another is the fact that many colleges are now building rinks of their own, thus discarding the old practice of playing games on nearby ponds or other waterways. College hockey in a few years is expected to reach the stage where satisfactory incomes may be derived along with the profits of other profitable collegiate sports.

Since Yale has built a new $12,000 rink, which is one of the largest arenas of its kind in this country, it is very evident that the New Haven men see a great future for the game. In this arena Yale hopes not only to further interest in the sport, but to make it a paying proposition as well.

Yale appears to have gone about the project in the right way, as the arena is a most up to date one in every detail. The inclosure has a seating capacity of 2,000 persons. Electric illumination will provide the light for night games.

When the artificial plant is installed it will then be possible for Yale to increase her playing dates, the result being that Yale men will be able to see more games at home than has been the case in the past.

Princeton needs a rink badly, as the team, like Yale in the past, must derive most of its early training at the local rink. The Tigers cannot depend on Carnegie lake, as the weather in this section is too uncertain. Profit derived from the big games, it is thought, would warrant the building of an up to date rink at Princeton. When Yale and Princeton played in New York last year there were many out of towners who went to see the game. Championship games in Princeton, it is believed, would draw the college men just as much as games in New York.

Harvard, it is thought, eventually will build an indoor rink, although it has a first class outdoor rink in the stadium. Hockey is well thought of at Harvard, and it would not be a big surprise if the alumni some time in the future made the Crimson a gift of a rink.

At Dartmouth hockey is in trouble because the Green team has no suitable place for practice. The students have appealed to the alumni. If the sport is to be retained it is most certain that better provisions will have to be made for hockey.

LESS CHANGE FOR LIGHT TEAMS UNDER NEW RULES

The changing of the football rules by the committee last Saturday brought forth all sorts of comment, adverse and otherwise, from recognized experts on the sport yesterday. The universal opinion seems to be that the alterations will take the game back to the old time line plunging, meaning the return of additional risk to players and less chance for weaker teams.

Contests will be won by large scores, they say, and the forward pass and onside kick, so helpful to light teams during the past season, will fall into disuse. Clever goal kickers will be at a disadvantage against stronger opponents by the change in the value of touchdowns.

Yale ideas are said to have dominated the meeting and influenced the changes. Walter Camp gave it as his opinion that the rules were the best ever while William Roper, the Princeton coach, said that the rules indicate a regime of "Yale Football." "The new game will be a good one to watch, I will say that for it," he said, and concluded by saying that the poor defence is going to get a pounding this fall.

Captain Mercer, of the Pennsylvania team, expressed himself as believing that they will necessitate the development of an exceptionally strong defence and that rule which allows but one representative of each team along the side lines will place more responsibility on the captain.

Coach John R. Richards, of the University of Wisconsin, believes that the new rules will work to the disadvantage of smaller colleges. Walter Sandford, of Yale, said, "just watch the Yale and Harvard backs pry open the lines of their smaller foemen next fall."

A little reflection will recall that most of them are Teddy's office-holders.—New York American.

CHAMPION HURDLER OUT FOR 1912 OLYMPIC TEAM

Forrest Smithson, the famous California athlete, who has been in retirement at Los Angeles for over a year, is now preparing for the Olympic games to be held in Sweden next June. Once or twice a week Smithson takes a turn over the hurdles just to keep a proper measurement of his strides, so that by springtime when he begins work in real earnest he will only have to race over the sticks daily.

Smithson won the high hurdles at London in the world record time of 15 seconds, and by the old world experts it was regarded as the greatest performance of the whole Olympic games. He was then twenty-three years of age, so that he will not be too old to duplicate the feat this year.

Bradley as Good as Ever.

Manager Charley Carr of the Kansas City club says it will always be a mystery to him as to how the major clubs passed up Bill Bradley. Carr says Brad played by far the best game at third for Toronto of any man in the International league last season.

Heston Now Prosecuting Attorney.

Willie Heston, the most famous of Michigan university's football stars, has been made assistant prosecuting attorney in Detroit.

MODIFICATION OF FOUL STRIKE RULE LIKELY

Although baseball men consider that the playing rules have been perfected to a point where changes will be few and far between, it is known that a modification of the foul strike rule will be one of the things considered by the joint committee of the National and American Leagues when it meets in New York next week. John Ward is strongly in favor of modifying this rule, if not for its abolishment altogether.

Ward's idea is to count the first foul only as a strike. He is also in favor of lowering the pitcher's box, but it is figured that to make a change at this stage would work a hardship on the twirlers with no certainty that the proposed change would bring about the conditions hoped for, freer batting.

Manager John McGraw, of the Giants, is in favor of changing the rule regarding the pitcher's box and has made several suggestions to Chairman Ward for consideration by the committee. McGraw wants the pitchers to be prevented from violating the rule that requires one foot to be in contact with the rubber when delivering the ball.

NEWARK INDIANS START ON TRIP ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

In a few days less than six weeks, the Newark Indians will start training at Petersburg, Va. While the fans here are waiting for something to fall and and break the back of winter, the Braves will be disporting themselves to get into shape for the season's campaign.

The Redskins who report at Newark headquarters before going South, will leave with Manager Joe McGinnity, St. Patrick's Day. About twenty-two diamond athletes will be on the list during the training trip.

Would Pay $20,000 for Konetchy.

Frank Chance, of the Chicago Cubs, says he stands ready to pay $20,000 to the St. Louis Cardinals for the release of First Baseman Konetchy. Roger Bresnahan, when asked if he would consider this offer, replied: "Chance couldn't buy Konetchy for twice that sum. Why, if we sold the big fellow we'd have to shut up shop. St. Louis fans wouldn't stand for such a deal and we'd soon be playing to empty benches. It would be just as fair to ask Chance to sell us either Schulte or Joe Tinker."

Grant's Tennis Title.

New York Feb. 7.—Wylie C. Grant, the former national indoor tennis champion, won the open tournament on the courts of the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, defeating L. Hillens Burt, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4. All of the players of the top flight, who were present at the match, were preparing to begin practice on the courts of the Seventh Regiment Armory for the national indoor championship tournament, which begins Saturday.

ELKS AND MOOSE MUST RE-ROLL PROTESTED SERIES

The arbitration committee of the Fraternal Bowling League has decided that the series rolled last Friday night on the Olympia alleys by the Elks and Moose must be rolled over again on account of an error in the score which would have given one of the games to the Moose.

The error was made by that lodge's scorer and was not discovered until after the games had been shot. A protest was then made and the matter put up to the committee which is composed of William Walters, president; Charles Hallowell, Red Men; Clinton Shannon, K. of C.; John Cose, Elks, and James McCarthy, Moose. The series will be rolled Tuesday, February 20. The error made a difference of three pins in one game against the Moose when in reality they were the winners.

NEW YORK ELK BOWLERS HUMBLE JERSEY BROTHERS.

The New York Elks' quintet smeared five Jersey brethren from Rahway last night in the scheduled meeting between them on the metropolitan drives. The Rahwegians were not in the hunt at all. Two games rolled by the victors went well over the 900 mark. The result does not jar Plainfield loose from first position. The scores:

LEFT HANDERS TRIMMED EAST END QUINTET AGAIN.

A left handed five trimmed the East End pinners on the Olympia alleys last night in the second meeting between them. The third session will be rolled early next week. Kuehn, for the southside shooters, was the star of the session and Jimmy Montross got the wreath for the high score. The scores follow:

BREADLINE FORMED FOR STARVING GAME

Bayshore, N. Y., Feb. 7.—An unusual relief enterprise is being conducted along Great South Bay, a famous partridge, duck and rabbit hunting locality, in order to save the game from starvation. Every day since the present cold snap began, a party of residents has crossed the bay in an iceboat, the deck of which was loaded with food for birds and other game. This has been necessary, it is said, because of a coating of ice underneath the snow, through which the birds have been unable to dig for food.

Mike Murphy Better.

Philadelphia, Feb. 7.—Mike Murphy, the veteran track coach of the University of Pennsylvania, has practically recovered from his serious illness, which has confined him to his home, at 4331 Chestnut street, for the past six weeks. He is expected to be out before the end of the week, and after taking a complete rest for the next month, will be ready to take up his track duties at Penn at the start of the outdoor season.

Butchers and Ponies Clash Tonight.

Picked teams representing the Butchers and the Olympia Ponies will roll a match game on the Olympia alleys tonight. Considerable interest is centered in this match as the cutters are hitting the pins in great shape and the Ponies are coming on like a house afire.

Brown Through with Baseball.

Mordecai Brown will not play ball during 1912, according to Mrs. Mordecai. At Terre Haute the wife of the great Chicago pitcher declared he was not dickering for salary and was through with the game.

Crandall in the Fold.

Another Giant joined the fold Monday. Otis Crandall, the life-saving pitcher of the New York staff, sent in his autographed contract from Wadena, Ind.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

John Drew, the ever popular stage aristocrat, will be seen at the Plainfield theatre, February 8, in "A Single Man," the latest piece of comedy by Hubert Henry Davies, the English playwright so well remembered for his "Cousin Kate" and "The Mollose." And those there be who claim that in this new comedy Mr. Davies has attained even a higher degree of merit than in either of the author's former offerings.

No adverse criticism has been made of Edward E. Rose's character of a Catholic priest in "The Rosary," which is coming to the Plainfield theatre, February 10. The character is one of the greatest of its kind ever seen on the stage. Rev. Frances Varelmann, pastor of St. Elizabeth's church in Cincinnati, O., says for the first time, after witnessing a performance of "The Rosary," that the character of a Catholic priest on the stage isn't made to appear as a whining preacher or the caricature of a hideous monk. Mr. Rose, the author of "The Rosary," has received hundreds of such compliments from high dignitaries in the Catholic church.

"He comes from a good family." "He seems to have come a long way." —Birmingham Age-Herald.

MISS GULBERG BRIDE OF HERMAN P. KLINSMAN, JR.

Miss Eleanor Gulberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gulberg, of South avenue, and Herman P. Klinsman, Jr., of Harrison avenue, were quietly married last Thursday at the "Little Church Around the Corner" in New York by the rector, Rev. Dr. Houghton. The only witnesses were the aunt and uncle of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Frazee. Immediately after the service the young couple left for Washington on a short wedding tour and are now residing on Harrison avenue, North Plainfield.

The wedding was a quiet one on account of the recent death of the groom's grandmother.

CITY HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS NOT STRONG IN SPELLING.

The results of the spelling test of one hundred words which was sprung on all of the pupils of the Plainfield High School Monday morning were on the whole not very encouraging, but many good records were made.

The list was taken from a spelling examination given at the Montclair Normal School including three hundred words. Principal Lindsey Best selected a hundred of the words most often misspelled. A number of the local pupils made very poor records, some missing as many as fifty words out of the possible one hundred.

Miss Louise Bird, a post graduate at P. H. S. made the best record, missing only two words. The other good records follow: John Denny, 3; Anna Lee, 5; Alice Mehl, 5; Junior pupils: Dorothy Cameron, 2; Natalie Selby, 3; Marion Wean, 5; Esty Foster, 5; Philip Moskivitz, 5; Sophomore: Mildren Bookstaver, 6; Helen Swackhamer, 6; Carter Goodrich, 6; Freshmen: Leslie Allen, 8; George Block, 8.

Mrs. Houtman was born in Holland and she with her husband and ten children came to this country forty years ago. Mr. Houtman died about fourteen years ago and since that time Mrs. Houtman made her home with Mrs. Powell.

THE TALK OF THE TOWN is the contest which the PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS is running, to send six women from Plainfield and vicinity on an eight weeks'

FREE TRIP TO EUROPE

next summer. For nearly two weeks the one topic of discussion has been the splendid tour which this newspaper has announced, to be run under the auspices of Thomas Cook and Sons, the only company with a world-wide reputation for thoroughness and excellence. Five young women, and a chaperone, the latter to be selected by the one of the five getting the highest number of votes in the contest, will spend eight weeks traveling in ENGLAND, HOLLAND, BELGIUM, DOWN THE RHINE, GERMANY, SWITZERLAND AND FRANCE, absolutely without cost to themselves.

The party will be provided with every comfort and convenience, and experienced guides will accompany them everywhere.

VOTE COUPON AND NOMINATION BLANK WILL BE FOUND ELSEWHERE IN TODAY'S PAPER, and copies of the rules and other information can be secured in the eight page prospectus which is now ready at the Daily Press office.

How Territory is Divided

MRS. MAXWELL PERKINS' PLAY PRESENTED IN LONDON

From across the sea comes word of the successful production of "The Woodland Princess," a children's fairy play from the pen of Mrs. Maxwell Perkins, daughter of William L. Saunders, of Noth Plainfield. This play has been given in this city and elsewhere with great success and the more recent performance in London on January 24, is especially gratifying to the author.

The London Telegraph, in speaking of the presentation of the play in the British metropolis, says:

"Princess Christian was patron of the amateur performance of a children's fairy play, which is to be repeated today, in the Court theatre to aid the West-end Hospital for Nervous Diseases of Children and Adults, 73 Welbeck street, of which Queen Alexandra is patron. 'The Woodland Princes,' as the piece is entitled, was written by Miss Louise Saunders (Mrs. Perkins), and produced by the Hon. Ethel Cadogan assisted by Miss Lila Field.

"Charming English children to the number of 50 were easily turned into flowers by appropriate dresses, many of which were designed by Miss Cadogan. There were violets, snowdrops, poppies, wild roses, dandelions; while a chorus of angels and the spirits of the brook, clothed as water-lilies, added effect to a delightful picture. Nine dances were performed, specially arranged by Mrs. Wordsworth (notably the fairy ballet), Miss Lila Field, M. d'Aubin, and other experts, and executed to the strains of alluring music.

"Several dainty little songs are also introduced into the composition of the play. A large audience testified to the success of the entertainment, and thereby contributed to the hospital funds on behalf of which the effort was made."

BORO SCHOOL PUPILS DO WELL IN SPELLING TEST

The result of a spelling test given 231 pupils of the North Plainfield High School recently, shows that there has been a marked improvement in this branch of study. Some time ago a State-wide agitation in favor of more attention to spelling in high and grammar schools was started, and since then tests have been given in nearly all city schools.

The list of words submitted to the borough pupils contained a hundred words selected from those that had been given in regular classes during the month and were chosen on account of their frequent use and irregular spelling. Such words as believe, receive, muscles, syllable, utensil, dairy, stationery, shepherd, garage, chauffeur were among them.

The lower sixth grade made the best average showing, 99.2 per cent, for the class. 8B was second with 96.645 and 8A third with 96.636. For the 231 pupils representing eight classes the average was 94.8. In a class of 23 pupils 14 perfect papers were returned. Thirteen from a class of 22 and 16 from 28.

Master Paul Peck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Peck, of Park place, is detained at home with the measles.

HIGHEST GRADES ONLY IN THIS SALE

The A. P. C. Co. makes two qualities of cotton cloths. It is well to know that this sale embraces only the higher grade fabrics—the highest cost fabrics, the most exclusive patterns.

When the merits of the A. P. C. Fabrics we sell become universally known there will be practically no sale at all for the sleazy, poor washing, calico like fabrics, which are only slightly less in price, that sometimes are used in competition with our "tried and true A. P. C." goods. Remember that a dress pattern of the A. P. C. goods costs only 52c to 65c for a full pattern. What economy can there be in buying the inferior for the sake of saving a few cents on a dress?

CLOSE TO THOUSAND AT BORO WEDDING

BRILLIANT FLORAL DISPLAY

First Marriage Solemnized In New St. Joseph's Church — Reception to 200 Guests at Home of Bride's Parents—Honeymoon in California

Miss Mabel Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Hamilton, of Verdon street, North Plainfield, and Edward R. Kerwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Kerwin, of Elizabeth, were married at 6 o'clock last night in St. Joseph's church, the borough. Rev. William H. Miller, pastor of the church, assisted by Father Baldwin, of Mt. St. Mary College, performed the ceremony.

It was the first wedding in the new church and close to 1,000 friends and relatives from this city, Elizabeth, New York and Brooklyn, attended it.

The bride was gowned in white satin with a bodice of bridal rose point applique and a long court train. Her veil was of tulle fastened with pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Katherine Chambers, of Brooklyn, wore a gown of white satin trimmed with silver lace and rhine stones. Her headdress was of aigrettes and rhine stones and her bouquet was a shower of lilies-of-the-valley. The bridesmaids were Miss Lucille Kerwin, sister of the groom; Miss Grace Merritt, of New York, and the Misses Florence Smith, May Hanlon and Helen Rafferty, of this city. Their gowns were of white crepe meteor covered with white chiffon trimmed with rosese and lace. Their headdress was wreaths of roses, and they carried arm bouquets of roses.

The bride's mother wore a black lace robe over Nile satin with a headdress of rhine stones and paradis aigrettes. The groom's mother wore black crepe meteor with jet.

The best man was Stanley Kerwin, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Walter F. Hamilton, Jr., Robin Hamilton and Lester Hamilton, brothers of the bride; Harry Blimm and Harry DeMeza, of this city.

Mrs. Harry DeMeza was at the organ, and as the bridal party entered the church, she played the Mendelssohn wedding march, and when the party reached the centre of the edifice, Miss Justina Smith, soprano soloist of the church choir, sang "I Promise Me." After the ceremony as the party was leaving the church Mrs. DeMeza played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

The church was elaborately decorated with roses, ferns, white tulips white orchids about the altar, and a pretty arrangement of lilies and white ribbon in the aisles.

The reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents on Verdon street, was attended by about 200 relatives and friends. Supper was served by DeMolli. The bride and bridegroom fooled those who had planned to give them a traditional farewell, by taking a taxi-cab to Westfield, where they took a train for New York. They are on their way to California, to be away about a month. Upon their return they will reside in Elizabeth.

HARRY DARBY ARRESTED AFTER AUTO KILLS MAN

Fanwood Resident's Car Skids and Fatally Injures Westfield Commuter--Brother Aaron Also Arrested--Held Under Bail.

Struck by an automobile while walking to his home, George Wolff, a plumber, residing in Grove street, Westfield, last night received injuries that caused his death less than an hour later. Harry Darby, the owner, drove the car that killed him. He was accompanied by his brother Aaron. They, too, were homeward bound. They live in the southern part of Fanwood township not far from the city line.

Both occupants of the car were arrested after they took the victim to Dr. Robert R. Sinclair's office. They were arraigned before Judge E. S. Atwater this morning in Elizabeth, and held under bail to await the action of the Union County Grand Jury.

The accident occurred in Westfield avenue, not far from the Westfield station. The dead man was walking in the roadway presumably on account of the icy condition of the sidewalk. The autoists traveling in the same direction, did not see him until a short distance away. Mr. Darby tried to turn out, causing the car to skid. The heavy vehicle swung around, hitting Wolff with crushing force.

When lifted into the machine, Wolff was unconscious and no time was lost driving him to the office of Dr. Sinclair, in Elm street. Dr. Sinclair notified the Westfield police and Chief O'Neill placed both Darbys under arrest.

Preparations were made to remove Wolff to his home and the grocery wagon of P. J. Windfeldt was transformed into a temporary ambulance. While he was being carried to his home, Wolff lapsed into unconsciousness and died. Concussion of the brain caused death, although he was badly cut and bruised and sustained a fracture of his left leg.

Wolff was employed in New York city, and had just returned to Westfield when he was struck.

Those who poured in the dining-room were Mrs. Wm. A. Conner, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. William G. Besler and Mrs. Julius E. Erickson. Mrs. William Taliaferro and Mrs. William R. M'MURRAY ACTIVE IN TARIFF PROTEST

He Opposes the Placing of Machine Tools on the Free List.

ARRANGING FOR A HEARING

Senate Finance Committee to Consider the Protest Next Tuesday—D. E. Titsworth in Washington, too, to Further Tariff Kick.

Washington, Feb. 8—James T. MacMurray, general manager of the Niles-Bement machine tool factory at Plainfield, which is one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country, is in Washington arranging for a hearing before the Senate finance committee on the machine tool paragraph in the Metal Schedule Bill, which has already been passed by the House.

Chairman Penrose assured Mr. MacMurray yesterday that the finance committee would hear the machine tool men next Tuesday. The latter are putting up a determined fight against the placing of machine tools on the free list.

They claim that by taking off the tariff of 30 per cent. as proposed by the Underwood bill, it will open up the American field to German manufacturers, with disastrous results to the factories and their employees in this country. Mr. MacMurray has arranged conferences with Senators Martine and Briggs.

David E. Titsworth, general manager of the Potter Printing Press Company, of Plainfield, is also here and expects to head a delegation which will appear before the Senate finance committee Friday morning to make an argument for the retention of the 30 per cent. tariff on printing machinery, as against the opposition to put it on the free list as provided for by the bill passed by the House.

David E. Titsworth was in Washington two weeks ago to see Congressman Tuttle and Senator Martine regarding the press tariff. He was assured by both of them at that time that they would give the protest of the press manufacturers against the removal of the duty on their product careful consideration.

The Niles-Bement Company has two other works besides the one in this city, and the corporation represents a big part of the machine tool trade in this country. There is a big plant in Philadelphia and another in Hamilton, O. The Plainfield shop is the smallest of the three, but it turns out the biggest of the machine tools the company makes. It executes the orders for the giant lathes and planers.

MRS. STEADMAN, A FORMER RESIDENT, BURIED HERE

Mrs. Caroline E. Steadman, aged 56 years, wife of George Steadman and sister of the late Marvin M. Dunham, was buried in Hillside cemetery at noon today. She died Sunday night at her home, 912 Trinity avenue, New York city. Mrs. Steadman formerly lived here and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Augustus M. Dunham. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George K. Clarke, of Montana, and Mrs. Edward B. Hoagland, of Somerville; a brother, Edwin T. Dunham, and a sister, Mrs. E. M. Berckman, of Brooklyn.

FAMED RHINE TRIP BIG INDUCEMENT

Press European Tour Contestants All Want to Take That Great Sail.

ONE OF MANY FINE FEATURES

Some of the Sights to Be Seen in One Never-to-be-Forgotten Day While Traveling in Europe Next Summer.

One of the things which the young women who are entered in the tour of Europe contest which the Daily Press is now conducting, are looking forward to, is the trip down the Rhine, which will be a feature of the entire tour. This trip is one which is taken annually by thousands of Americans, and no person who has heard it described has failed to be enthused by a desire to make the same trip. The Rhine has always been distinguished for the beauty of its scenery. For a large part of its course it has hills on both sides, at less or greater distances. Pleasant villages and towns, characteristic of the countries through which it passes lie nestled at the foot of these hills, and above them rise rocky steeps and slopes clothed at one time with vines, at others with natural woods, and every now and then the ruins of castles and fastnesses of feudal times are seen frowning from precipices apparently inaccessible. The finest part of this scenery is between Cologne and Biebrich, where the Press tourists will spend a full day.

It is the thought of such sights that maintains the interest of the people of Plainfield in the European Tour contest now being conducted by the Plainfield Daily Press. As each day passes, candidates announce their intention of working for one of these wonderful trips, for who can think of a more enjoyable way in which to spend the summer vacation than a two months' tour of Europe? The very best is none too good for the Press party, and the fact that they will be under the auspices of Thomas Cook and Sons, a company which stands head and shoulders above any other concern of its kind, is ample evidence that the party will be taken care of in a manner that will leave nothing to be desired. Too strong an emphasis cannot be placed upon the statement that all necessary expenses will be paid by the Daily Press. From the time the party leaves Plainfield until they return, two months later every cent of necessary expense will be paid by this paper. All the railroad fares, all the steamship fares, berths and meals, all hotel bills, all the expense of transferring baggage, cab hire, everything down to the smallest detail, will be paid. Even the tips are provided for. And a guide will be present from the time the party reach Liverpool until they sail for home, in addition to the extra guides in different cities.

A trip to Europe is almost invariably the dream of every person, but often its only a shadowy idea which they hope will bear fruit in later years. Now that the opportunity is within the grasp of Plainfield young women, they are not hesitating to reach out and make the best of it. Think what it means! An education in itself; an experience by which you will benefit during the remainder of your life; an opportunity which seldom comes to any but the rich. Places of which you have read, many things of world-wide interest you will see and be able to discuss from your own personal observation.

You will spend five days in London, the largest city in the world; you will spend five days in Paris, the fashion center of the globe; you will visit The Hague in Holland, the scene of the peace conference of the nations; you will sail down The Rhine, a trip in itself which is worth more than the effort required to make the entire trip. You will

HOSPITAL FUND GROWS; TEAM CAPTAINS NAMED

Henry A. McGee Chairman and Jos. W. Gavett Vice Chairman of Citizens' Committee--Contributions Soar to $33,200.

The real work of raising the needed $90,000 was started at the first Muhlenberg Hospital Fund Campaign dinner last night in the Y. M. C. A. The large attendance and interest manifested in the plan so delighted Wilbor A. Bowen, the campaign manager, that he waxed enthusiastic in his expressions and imbued his hearers with some of the same spirit.

Henry A. McGee.

As a result, the topic of most general conversation this morning on all the commuter trains and on the streets all day has been the scheme unfolded in detail to the army of workers who now understand their duties and are spiritedly vieing with each other in gathering subscriptions.

Incidentally George P. Mellick announced that in his mail yesterday a check for $1,000 had been received. At the regular meeting of Plainfield lodge of Elks $100 was appropriated to the fund. It is known too, that other donations have been obtained. These will all be announced tonight.

The workers are divided into two committees, the citizens and business men. These committees are subdivided, for the sake of efficiency, into teams of ten each and are designated, the citizens by letters of the alphabet and the business men by

Joseph W. Gavett.

JERSEY CENTRAL STOCK UP TO 380

The High Water Mark Reached Yesterday When 120 Shares Were Sold.

CAUSE FOR THE BIG ADVANCE

Proposed Segregation of Its Coal Mine Holdings Said to Be one Reason—Another is "Melon" for Reading Which Controls Central.

Central Railroad of New Jersey stock sold up to 380 yesterday on the New York Stock Exchange a new high record and a net advance for the day of 40 points. Sale of 120 shares were made at 380.

The range of price last month was between 305, on January 9, and 340, on January 18. In 1911 the low point was 260 and high 320; in 1910 the stock sold at 312 in January and 250 in September, and in 1909 the range was between 215 in February and 323½ in September.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey of which W. G. Besler, of this city, is vice-president and general manager, has outstanding $27,436,800 stock, of which the Reading Company owns $14,504,000, or a full majority. It has paid regular dividends of 8 per cent each year since 1902, inclusive, and each six months beginning with December, 1909, has declared a special dividend of 2 per cent. from the proceeds of dividends declared by the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company, the entire outstanding $8,491,150 stock of which it owns, and by the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, the various railway properties controlled by which are leased by the Central of New Jersey.

In 1911 the total transactions in Central Railroad of New Jersey stock on the New York Stock Exchange were 6,975 shares, while the sales for the single month of January, 1912, were 3,979 shares. The increasing activity and advance in price have been commonly attributed to the probability that the Central Railroad of New Jersey is planning the segregation of its anthracite coal properties, following the example of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and more recently the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company. In the "melon" which would be divided among the shareholders the Reading, owning more than 50 per cent. of the stock, would benefit largely.

WOULD HAVE WOMEN ON THE SCHOOL BOARD

Trenton, Feb. 8.—Another step for "woman's rights" is contained in a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Assemblyman Martin that provides that hereafter appointive boards of education shall at all times contain at least one or more women. Mr. Lowy, of Essex, had a measure that provides for the commitment of wayward females to charitable institutions for the reformation of wayward females and Mr. White, of Burlington, would make the governing body of municipality approve charts of land before they are recorded in the county clerk's office.

Mr. Richards has a bill to appropriate $50,000 through the Inland Waterway Department and to permit Atlantic City and Atlantic county to appropriate other such sums as may be necessary to deepen the channel of Absscon Inlet by the construction of a jetty or other structure, so as to give a channel sixteen feet in depth.

The German supper held last night by the Young People's Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church for the benefit of the church, was a most successful affair.

J. V. BEEKMAN IS SEVENTY; CELEBRATES WITH A PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. John V. Beekman, of West Eighth street, entertained a company of about forty friends at their home Tuesday night, the affair being arranged in honor of the seventieth birthday anniversary of Mr. Beekman. There were many pleasing features, including a large birthday cake lighted with candles, which Mr. Beekman cut during the evening.

The employes of the Ledgewood Manufacturing Company, of Newark, of which firm Mr. Beekman is a member, presented him with 140 cut flowers, as a token of esteem.

The greater part of the evening was devoted to playing bridge whist. Mrs. Roland Rice and Mrs. D. Foster Updike were the winners of the first and second prizes for the women, while D. Foster Updike and Roland Rice won the first and second prizes for the men.

School Examinations.

Trenton, Feb. 8.—Two delegations of Trenton school children called upon Assemblyman Gill, of Mercer, at the State House yesterday and urged the passage of the bill to abolish uniform and minimum examinations in the schools. Out of seventy-six parents who sent expressions of their views, 75 favored the repeal of the law as it is now and one urged its retention. The New Jersey Congress of Mothers is also opposed to last year's bill.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church, is detained at home with a severe cold.

CONVICT THREATENS ASST. PROSECUTOR

Newark Crook, Unmasked by Walter Hetfield, Jr., in a Vicious Rage.

"I'LL GET YOU" HE HISSES

Sentenced For Robbing a Friend, After Prosecuting Officer Informed Court of Past Bad Record, Which Prisoner Sought to Conceal.

Enraged over an indeterminate sentence passed on him by Judge Atwater in Elizabeth yesterday as a result of information conveyed to the court by Assistant County Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, of this city, Joseph Botto, a Newark youth, made threats against the prosecuting official as he was being led away to his cell.

"I'll get you," he said as he passed Mr. Hetfield on his way from the court room. "I'll get you if it takes ten years."

Botto was convicted of the theft of $85 from a man in Elizabeth, at whose house he visited in the guise of a friend. At his trial Mr. Hetfield asked him if he had ever been convicted of a crime. He said, "No."

The assistant prosecutor didn't believe him, and after the trial he made it a point to look up Botto's record. He found that the youth had been convicted, several times and had been committed to the Rahway Reformatory.

When Botto was arraigned for sentence in the Court of Quarter Sessions for sentence yesterday, Mr. Hetfield referred to the prisoner's record, and asked for a severe sentence. Judge Atwater made the sentence from one to seven years, at hard labor.

Botto's eyes glinted and his jaw tightened when the pronouncement was made. He seemed consumed with rage. He glared at Mr. Hetfield, and as two court attendants took him away he turned to the assistant prosecutor in passing, and hissed his threat.

Mr. Hetfield caught the low tones, but was unable to make out what the prisoner said, though he knew it was nothing pleasant from the look that Botto gave him. The court officers with the prisoner told Mr. Hetfield what it was Botto said.

Mr. Hetfield said today that while he did not regard the youth's threat any too lightly, he wasn't worrying. He has been Threatened by convicted criminals before, and expects to be again.

FIRE DEPT. DRIVER BEFORE COMMITTEE

TEMPTATION TO BE REMOVED

Committee Will Send Him to Another House—Considering Plan to Change Chemical Engine Into a Gasoline-Driven Machine.

William Jaeger, a driver at No. 1 fire house on West Second street, and Captain George Feiring, who is in charge of that house, appeared before the Councilmanic fire committee, the former to answer to charges preferred by the latter, last night.

The charge filed by Captain Feiring against Jaeger was for a violation of department rules. The two men engaged in an argument on January 17 last, and before it was ended, it is alleged that the driver threatened to punch the head of his superior, and used strong language.

Jaeger told his side of the story to the committee, and then Captain Feiring was admitted to the room to give his version of the affair. While the committee was of the opinion that perhaps some penalty should be imposed to maintain discipline, nothing was decided upon last night. It is likely that Jaeger will be transferred to another fire house.

The rest of the evening was devoted to discussing automobile fire apparatus. Robert H. Woodhouse, an automobile engine expert, attended the meeting, and acting upon his suggestion, the committee decided to get estimates on changing the chemical engine at headquarters into an automobile appartus.

It is the belief of the committee, that this can be done at a saving of about $2,000 to the city, assuming that an automabile appartus would cost $5,500. The committee will get figures on a new automobile for Chief Doane, and report later the result of their investigation.

that the PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS is being favorably talked about whenever three or four people are gathered together in this town. The answer, perhaps, should come from some one other than the publishers of the paper. Here it is:

One of the best known men in Plainfield, a man who is a leader in every big movement in the city, called us up on the 'phone. He said, "I want to congratulate the 'new' Daily Press,

This is only one of the hundreds of expressions of commendation that have been received since the rejuvenated Daily Press put in appearance. The statement is no vivid imagining of an adv. writer's brain. It is an actual quotation, which can be proven to be true for the benefit of any skeptical person.

S. P. C. A. WORK IN 1911

OF THE AGENT,
MRS. S. G. VAN HOESEN

I respectfully submit the following report for the year 1911. The past year over other years in the Society's history has been a decided improvement in several ways. People are taking more real interest in the efforts of the society to help the poor dumb creatures given into our care. The number of horses improperly cared for is decreasing. A better class of horses are being used for heavy work and teams are assisted by each other more often than in the past.

There has been a great deal of new road building as well as house building, which has needed constant watching to guard against overloading of teams and overdriving in digging cellars. Twenty-eight whips have been taken from drivers who did not know the proper use of them. Two hundred and twelve animals have been destroyed during the year. Homes have been found for thirty-two animals and one hundred have been relieved in one way or another.

Prizes amounting to seventeen dollars have been given out in the name of the society. Five dollars being for the best essay on the S. P. C. A. The prize was won by Miss Margaret Bonnell, of the Plainfield High School, and was printed in the Daily Press. Twelve dollars was given to the hackmen for horses that showed the greatest amount of care having been given them.

The city fountains, consisting of four have been opened by permission of the Board of Health, and I have endeavored to keep them in as clean a condition as possible.

The fire department assisted greatly during the heated spell in relieving the suffering of overheated horses by the use of the hose and spray. The police department has been very kind and helpful in assisting whenever needed.

One of the greatest troubles I have encountered has been the cruelty committed by small boys. I would suggest that a junior department of S. P. C. A. be formed as soon as possible.

The court cases have been very few compared with other years. I have been pursuing the plan of an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of prosecution," and I have found that it works splendidly. Perhaps not to the enlargement of our treasury, but the accomplishment of the work for which we stand. The name of the Plainfield branch is not only known in Plainfield, but all over the State, and even on the country roads our name is law.

I hope and feel that the year 1912 will show greater work and good accomplished, and that we may be able in some degree more than in the past, to help those who are given into our keeping, but who cannot speak for themselves.

I wish to thank the officers and members of this society for their encouragement and words of praise, and I might add, the encouragement has been greatly needed at times, for without it I would have often given up in despair.

John Drew will be seen at the Plainfield theatre tonight in his charming drawingroom comedy, "A Single Man," the new piece by Hubert Henry Davies. The English playwright has created a strictly modern play, full of human interest, and his characters are live men and women who say and do things that are natural and usual.

Mr. Drew has surrounded himself with a very exceptional cast of artists, including Mary Boland, Thais Lawton, Louise Drew, Carroll McComas, Clara Bracy, Ivan Simpson, Thomas Kelly and others.

Every woman thinks she knows how to keep alive the love of her husband. Wonder if the girls in this city know this art? Sometimes it is said they don't. At any rate they will know after they witness a performance of "The Rosary" which is coming to the Plainfield theatre February 10.

ASBURY PARK BABY PARADE IS PLANNED FOR AUGUST 14.

Asbury Park, Feb. 8.—The carnival has tentatively selected Wednesday, August 14, as the date for this year's baby parade. Heretofore the parade has been held the last week in August, but stormy weather has so frequently upset the plans of the association and resulted so disastrously to financial expectations, that it has been thought advisable by Mayor Bennett and his appointees to have the pageant at a time when clear weather is more certain. The association is now at work on its program and proposes to have a continuous entertainment from Decoration Day to Labor Day, or even later. Several new features will be introduced.

THROWS ACID IN DUEL OVER YOUNG WOMAN.

Hoboken, Feb. 8.—Because Lida Woods, of Hoboken, would not decide whether she preferred Andrew Anderson, of 605 Jefferson street, or Charles Paul Letuor, of 329 Hudson street, the two men decided to fight it out. In the course of the duel, which took place Monday, Anderson threw acid into the face of Letuor disfiguring him for life.

Miss Woods thereupon refused to have anything more to do with the latter and he in turn caused the arrest of Anderson on a charge of atrocious assault. Anderson was held under $1,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury. Letuor is in St. Mary's Hospital.

BEGIN TO FEAR UNDERWOOD BOOM

Majority Leader In House Starts Campaign.

BANKHEAD IS HIS MANAGER

Alabama Senator Plans to Interest Every Weekly Newspaper in the South In Fight For Delegates to Democratic National Convention in Baltimore.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Friends of Harmon, Wilson, Clark and even the inactive Democrats here are watching the Underwood boom grow, some of them with feelings of anxiety lest its proportions sap their strength. Headed by Senator Bankhead of Alabama, the majority leader of the house is making a fight for southern delegates from every state in Dixie.

Senator Bankhead has undertaken to enlist the support of the weekly press of the south and through it to reach the people of that section. He has written to the editor of every weekly paper in the south a letter trying to arrange for the circulation of a special Underwood supplement giving the claims why Representative Underwood should be nominated by the Democrats. He proposes a strictly business transaction and states that the Underwood campaign committee believes it to be allowable in every way by the ethics of good journalism.

Senator Bankhead proposes to compensate the papers that circulate the Underwood supplement.

There is no longer any doubt that the Underwood campaign committee is at work in earnest, and it is this fact that has stirred the friends of Governor Wilson and other candidates.

DEMOCRATS VOTE TO PROBE MONEY TRUST

Only Caucus Favors Underwood's Plans Over Bryan's.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Oscar Underwood, majority leader of the house of representatives, won his fight against William J. Bryan on the money trust investigation. It was the second notable victory that Mr. Underwood has achieved over the Nebraskan, the first having been Mr. Bryan's stubborn attempt to force a free raw wool bill on the majority.

The Democrats of the house in caucus upheld Mr. Underwood's demand for a conservative investigation by the standing committee of the house by a vote of 115 to 66. The Henry-Lindbergh resolution authorizing a sweeping investigation by a special committee, as urged by Bryan, was laid on the table. Among those who voted to uphold the hands of Leader Underwood was Speaker Clark. The vote by which the Bryan-Henry resolution was taken immediately followed the reading of a telegram from Mr. Bryan, in which he said he regarded the caucus on money trust investigation as a crisis and that its result will largely affect Democratic chances in the coming campaign.

SLAYS OWN FATHER.

Cleveland Man Shoots In Defense of Mother and Family.

Cleveland, Feb. 8.—That he shot and killed his father in defense of his mother, sister and himself was the plea of James Hurst, Jr., twenty-three years old, when arraigned on a charge of murder. At the inquest Mrs. James Hurst, Sr., and Miss Hettie Hurst, her daughter, will tell a story of abuse and, the police say, of murderous threats against their lives at the hands of the husband and father, James Hurst, a ship carpenter.

Hurst junior went to the police station and surrendered himself after he had shot and killed his father in their home.

JOKE ON HIM, SAYS CONDEMNED MAN

MacFarland's Appeal Acts as Stay of Execution.

COMPLAINS TO THE COURT

Newark Convicted Wife Murderer Jokes With Jailers on Way to Cell and Takes Fate as Joke, Saying He Prefers "Short Life and a Merry One."

Newark, N. J., Feb. 8.—Allison MacFarland, convicted of murdering his wife by causing her to take cyanide of potassium, was sentenced by Chief Justice Gummere in the court of oyer and terminer to die in the electric chair in the week beginning March 17. Sentence was imposed after the court had refused to grant a motion for a new trial. Frank M. McDermit, counsel for the condemned man, said that he would appeal to the court of errors. This will act as a stay of execution of the sentence.

After MacFarland had been told to stand up and hear his sentence and the chief justice began speaking MacFarland interrupted and asked, "What would I be permitted to say at this time, your honor?"

The chief justice explained that he was at liberty to make any statement he desired to show why sentence should not be pronounced.

"Well, I would simply say," MacFarland replied, "that there are many things which I feel might be offered to show this thing in a different light and that for some reason or other beyond my control those things have not been brought to light. It was a matter which was out of my control and discretion, and I am in a position of being in the hands of another man who directs the bout, and I simply yield to superior force under protest. This is all I will have to say in the case, your honor."

The death sentence was then pronounced, and MacFarland was taken back to the jail. After rolling a cigarette and lighting it he remarked that the "joke" was on him. One of the constables said it was a serious joke and MacFarland replied: "Oh, I don't know. Some people eat pork and beans all their lives and live to be a hundred years old. Me for a short life and a merry one."

Pointing to a pair of cuff buttons he wore, he said that Bunny gave them to him and that if Prosecutor Mott had known it he would have had them marked "Exhibit Q." In saluting one of his keepers at the jail MacFarland said, "They handed it to me all right." He then ate a hearty meal in his cell.

FORGIVE YOUNG ELOPERS.

East Orange Couple Will Wed When Older, Asserts Mother.

East Orange, N. J., Feb. 8.—Emil L. Edelhoff has forgiven his thirteen-year-old daughter Ella and John Fitzpatrick, who had run away together a week ago. Edelhoff had declared that if he ever laid eyes again on Fitzpatrick he would kill him. Fitzpatrick escaped the father's wrath.

Fitzpatrick is seventeen years old, but hardly looks it. He was under probation when he ran away with the girl, having been found guilty several months ago of annoying young girls in Orange park. It was in Orange park at a band concert he met Ella Edelhoff.

"I proposed that we get married, because it was leap year," announced the girl. "We would have got married, too, only we were afraid to ask for a license.

"I told John we ought to run away, because my father would not let him come to see me. I love John, and we are going to be married just as soon as we can."

The mother explained that it is the desire of the parents to let the children wed in a couple of years, after Ella has finished her school.

SEEKS HOMELY WIFE.

Steubenville Girls Too Pretty For This Spouse Hunter.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 8.—The girls of Steubenville, O., have received a pretty compliment from Henry Beckmyer. Beckmyer wants a wife, and apparently the Steubenville girls are all too pretty for him.

Beckmyer has written to Registrar Ely here asking help in finding a wife—a "homely girl with good plain features," he says, but he will not object to her if she is not more than medium good looking so long as she is not over five feet eight inches tall, weighs about 145 pounds, is not older than twenty-eight and is willing to live in Florida nine months in the year. In exchange he offers kind and gentlemanly treatment, good home, good living, all that will make her contented and happy and a husband with no bad habits, with good wages and a home of his own. And he promises to ask her no questions.

Survives 15,000 Volts of Electricity.

Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 8.—Knocked unconscious by 15,000 volts of electricity, Wilbur Scrudders, foreman of the Citizens' Light, Heat and Power company here, was carried into a physician's office for dead. He remained in a comatose condition for about twenty-four hours, but arose and went to work as usual, complaining only of a soreness of muscles.

MAKE CONVICTS WORK.

Aiming to have New Jersey follow the example of a dozen other states in that respect, Assemblyman W. de laR. Anderson, of Somerset county, has introduced a resolution in the Legislature for a Convict Labor Commission. The Somerset man wants the convict made useful to the State during his term of imprisonment and he also desires to see the State obtain considerable revenue by keeping him employed. The chief aim of the resolution, so the author says, is to restore and not to destroy the prisoner. It would provide him with an occupation and would put an end to the idleness which breeds mental and physical disease.

Mr. Anderson's resolution proposes that a commission be appointed by the Governor to "formulate a comprehensive plan for the initiation and use of the labor of all convicts, physically able, on the public roads, in public parks, in forestry and in such other ways to the public benefit, not in competition with free labor, as may suggest themselves, and to report said plan, together with recommendations for suitable legislation, to the Legislature."

The membership of his commission would be made up of two members of the Legislature, both Republicans, the Commissioner of Roads, the Commissioner of Charities, the Secretary of the State Health Board, the State Prison Keeper and a delegate of the American Federation of Labor. As the Trenton Times observes, there is enough work to be done on the highways and forestry reservations "to keep employed all of the inmates of the prison, reformatory, penitentiaries and jails, and in a way that will offer no competition to free labor." And it means a saving of approximately two millions of dollars annually to the State.

American patents are now fully protected in twenty countries, the United States Senate having ratified the convention for international protection of industrial property which was signed by representatives of the leading governments of the world at Washington last June. The major provision of the convention is contained in this paragraph: "The subjects or citizens of each of the contracting countries shall enjoy, in all the other countries of the union, with regard to patents of invention, models of utility, industrial designs or models, trademarks, trade names, the statements of place of origin, suppression of unfair competition, the advantages which the respective laws now grant or may hereafter grant to the citizens of that country."

The signatories are Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Spain, Portugal, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Belgium, Netherlands, Japan, San Domingo, Servia, Switzerland and the United States.

It is not too late to make mention that William Newcorn, who will be succeeded by Walter L. Hetfield as District Court Judge, gave the utmost satisfaction during his term of office. His decisions were always fair and gave evidence that he who handed them down possessed a profound knowledge of the law. "Rotation in office" is now a cardinal principle of both parties—an inheritance from Andrew Jackson—and it is solely due to its application by a Democratic Governor that Mr. Newcorn is retired. He has rendered good service as a jurist and leaves the bench with an honorable record. It is fortunate that the power that dispossesses him has made such a fine selection in nominating his successor. Walter L. Hetfield is a good lawyer. He should, and we believe will, make a good judge.

One of the speakers at the dinner starting the campaign in aid of Muhlenberg hospital referred to the humanity and fellow feeling of hospital work in the Occident and its absence in Oriental countries. It was pointed out, however, that the Oriental countries would probably follow our example in this respect. The speaker also mentioned that the United States was being closely watched by the people of China and Japan and used as an object lesson for their progress and advancement. The United States has attracted the envy and admiration of the world because its government has been strong, sane and steady. One of the reasons why our institutions have successfully endured for over a century is that in every crisis the abiding common sense of the American people has firmly stood in the way of alteration or destruction, and may this condition prevail for generations to come.

In New York State the farmers show some appreciation of the value of women's opinions on business matters and would have the ballot given to them. At the New York State Grange in session at Albany yesterday, Secretary Dye expressed the view of the farmers when he said. "We believe the one thing that has tended not only to the growth and influence of the grange but to its high position in the affairs of the State is its recognition of the full equality of women. Their counsel and their advice have made a stronger organization of the grange, and we believe that the grange should emphasize this feature more and more: and, recognizing their value to the organization, we can easily see what their value would be to the State and Nation if they were taken into full citizenship."

If there is one bill in the Legislature deserving of being put to death it is that of Senator Fielder, of Hudson, allowing an increase in salary of a public official during his term of office. The measure applies to cities of the second class and authorizes the governing body to fix by ordinances the compensation or salary of municipal officers. The present law forbidding an increase or reduction in salaries during the terms of office would be repealed by a provision of the Fielder bill and the proposed act would give the council or aldermanic board the privilege of raising but not lowering salaries. It's a dangerous privilege.

Assemblyman Hennessey's bill, abolishing capital punishment and substituting imprisonment for life for the crime of murder, is foolish sentimentalism in the extreme. The right to inflict the death penalty on the man who slays another is founded on the Biblical injunction that he who sheds the blood of a man by man shall his blood be shed. Reason and not sentiment warrants that disposition of such enemies to society.

As the third peace conference will not be held at the Hague until 1915, there's a chance for England and Germany to "mix it up."

James E. Martine neither spoke at nor sent a letter to the hospital banquet. Now, my son, don't let that happen again.

MASONS ATTEND FUNERAL OF DAVID T. BLACKFORD

The funeral of Daniel F. Blackford, of Samptown, whose death occurred Saturday after a long illness, was held at his late home in Sampton, yesterday afternoon. A large gathering of friends and relatives was in attendance, including a delegation from Jerusalem lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., of this city, and of Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Market, of which he was a member.

The service was in charge of Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, of this city, former pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church, and members of Jerusalem lodge conducted the Masonic committment at the graveside in the Samptown cemetery. The floral tributes included pieces from the Italian truck farmers whose home adjoins the Blackford farm.

The Marriage Ceremony.

Trenton, Feb. 8.—As was expected, Assemblyman Martin's bill, forbidding justices of the peace to perform the marriage ceremony was passed by the House yesterday. Amendments that made the measure read so that any ordained minister or any mayor is allowed to marry couples placed the bill in a form to meet all objections.

STEVENS SUGGESTS NEW AUTO LICENSE PLAN

Trenton, Feb. 8.—Colonel Edwin A. Stevens, State Road Commissioner, has compiled a tentative formula for a new method of taxing automobiles, which considers the weight of the load carried as well as the horse power, on the theory that the heavier the load the more damage to the highways. One purpose of proposing the new method is to make the heavy motor trucks pay a larger share of the cost of road repairs.

The officials of the State Road Department declare that the heavy trucks are the greatest destroyers of good roads. At present automobiles and motor trucks are taxed solely according to horse power.

Commissioner Stevens' formula gives six classes of motor vehicles, beginning with 'motorcycles and three-wheeled vehicles not exceeding six horse power, with an allowed weight of 1,000 pounds, for which the fee proposed is $2. This is class 0. The other classes, with horse power, allowed weight and fee of each, are: 1, Cars not exceeding 10 horse power, allowed weight, 2,000 pounds, fee $3; class 2, not exceeding 20 horse power, allowed weight 2,600 pounds, fee $5; class 3, not exceeding 30 horse power, allowed weight 3,400 pounds, fee $10; class 4, not exceeding 40 horse power, allowed weight 4,200 pounds, fee $20, class 5, not exceeding 50 horse power, allowed weight 5,000 pounds, fee $30; class 6, all cars exceeding 50 horse power, allowed weight 6,500 pounds, fee $40.

The plan provides for an extra tax of twenty cents for every 100 pound of load carried in excess of the allowed weight. For motor trucks the maximum capacity will be taken as load. Thus, a truck of 35 horse power and five tons capacity of load would fall in class 4, fee $20, but would have to pay $23.60 extra for 11,800 pounds excess load. This would put this truck on about the same basis as a six-cylinder, seven passenger car of more than fifty horse power.

Commissioner Stevens says the formula was merely prepared and announced in order to have the proposition discussed as a basis of arriving at the best system of taxation according to load and road destroying power.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST ENDEAVORERS ENTERTAIN.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church a social and entertainment was held in the church parlos last night. The entertainment consisted of two military drills by companies of six persons. One was a genuine drill and the other a burlesque. The affair was arranged by Alvah Conant.

Roland Davis was in charge of the "real drill," and those taking part were Mrs. Frank A. Langworthy, Miss Ethel Titsworth, Miss Helen Ford, Miss Frances Mosher, Miss Evalois St. John and Mrs. Roland Davis. Alvah Conant had charge of those giving the burlesque drill and the participants were Mrs. Alvah Conant, Miss Helen Rogers, Miss Maudella Ford, Miss Isabelle Randolph, Miss Mary Hunting and Miss Mildred Greene. A social hour followed during which refreshments were served.

Senator Martine was invited because of his friendship for labor organization and the fact that he is a member of the committee on Education and Labor, which is the Senate clearing House for labor bills.

Blackbuck's Extra Nostril.

Two visitors to the menagerie were discussing the why and wherefore of an opening on the face of an Indian antelope or blackbuck halfway between the eye and nose. One visitor said it was due to an injury; the other opined it led to the tear duct.

"You are both wrong," said the keeper. "That is an extra nostril for the fastest running member of the antelope or deer family. He runs so fast that his ordinary nostrils cannot supply enough air to his lungs nature came to the rescue with the extra air channel. No other animal that I know of is so well provided. The blackbuck is the fastest thing on hoofs. On favorable ground and spurred by fear the blackbuck could make sixty miles an hour."—New York Sun.

The Lessening Death Rate.

Some of the greatest advances of civilization are made silently. They escape the flourish of trumpets, while other much less important advances are accompanied by incessant drum beating and pyrotechnics. The diminution of the death rate is one of the signal triumphs of modern enlightenment. It is also one of the most potent checks on economic waste. The average age of each generation is being materially lengthened, and that result is chiefly being reached by stopping the excessive loss of infant life. Yet few persons realize the extent of the beneficent progress thus made or what it has meant in the way of increasing the sum total of human happiness and efficiency.—New York Tribune.

The Old Press Gang.

Desperate means were sometimes resorted to in order to get men for British warships. A chronicler writes that in the year 1738 "a fleet of ships being required immediately to be manned, the press gangs placed a live turkey on the top of a monument, which, drawing together a great number of idle people, they had the opportunity of selecting as many men as answered the purpose of their intended scheme." The scene so enraged a citizen that he fired a shot at the bird, "which occasioned it to fly away." But the mischief had been done.

"St. Wapniac."

A person desiring to keep in mind which members of the cabinet would succeed to the executive office may remember the name St. Wapniac. Each letter suggests the secretary or head of department next in succession for president of the United States—for instance, state, treasury, war, attorney general, postmaster general, navy, interior, agriculture and commerce and labor.—Leslie's.

HELD FOR UNCLE'S DEATH.

Sole Beneficiary of Will Leaving $150,000 Charged With Murder.

Toledo, O., Feb. 8.—James Utz, thirty-two years old, and J. H. Fretz, a nurse, both of Fostoria, are under arrest charged with administering poison to Samuel Utz, seventy-two, a wealthy real estate man of Tiffin, O., and uncle of James Utz.

The older Utz died Saturday night. Pneumonia was given as the cause. Undertaker Kishler discovered burns upon the dead man's mouth and notified Coroner Lepper, who ordered the body held for examination while the funeral services were in progress. A postmortem examination developed traces of poison in the stomach. The coroner rendered a verdict of "death by carbolic acid poisoning." Poison records in Weidling's drug store show that young Utz purchased a one ounce phial of carbolic acid last Friday.

By the terms of a will executed in 1905 James Utz was made the sole beneficiary of his uncle's estate, which is estimated to be worth $150,000.

Close friends of the Utz family declare that Samuel Utz had selected a wife for his nephew. This woman, it is said, was much older than the young man. James Utz was married last week to a woman of his own age. It is said the uncle and young man quarreled frequently as a result of this marriage.

BRITISH ACT FOR PEACE.

International Reduction of Armament Said to Be Up For Discussion.

London, Feb. 8.—There is much speculation over the sudden departure for Berlin of Viscount Haldane, the secretary of war, and Sir Ernest Cassel, the financier, who recently received the Order of the Red Eagle from the kaiser. It is supposed that the two men have gone to the German capital on some important mission.

The king gave an audience to Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, and Lord Lansdowne, the leader of the opposition in the second chamber.

These two things taken together suggest the thought that there may be something afoot in the way of a more cordial international understanding on the lines suggested by Lloyd-George in his speech at the City Liberal club on Feb. 3. The chancellor of the exchequer said on that occasion that he believed the present was a good time to take up the possible international reduction of armaments. He insisted that it would be to the interests of Great Britain, Germany, France and Russia to have a better understanding on this subject. The cornerstone of sound finance, said the chancellor on this occasion, is peace.

MORSE IN NEW YORK TODAY.

Pardoned Banker's Recovery Quick on Gaining Release.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 8.—Charles W. Morse, the New York banker, recently paroled by President Taft, is on his way to New York, where he will arrive late this afternoon.

Since his parole from the Atlanta penitentiary, signed on account of his reported failing health, Morse has been most of the time at the military hospital at Fort McPherson, but the past ten days he spent in a local hotel.

DUKE TO LARGER FIELD.

Head of American Tobacco Company to Direct British Concern.

New York, Feb. 8.—It is announced at the offices of the American Tobacco company that James B. Duke, its president, would very soon resign and accept the chairmanship of British-American Tobacco Company, Limited, with its head office in London, in order to devote himself to the extension of the business of the latter company, which now lies principally in China, India, Australia, Canada, South Africa and continental Europe.

He will be succeeded as president of the American Tobacco company by Percival S. Hill, long a vice president of the company.

Nonintervention Policy In China Upheaval.

Secretary Knox In Note to German Ambassador Outlines This Government's Policy Toward Civil War In China—Virtually an Ultimatum of "Hands Off!"

Washington, Feb. 8.—The United States has again assumed the role of protector to the Chinese empire or republic, whichever it is or will eventually be. Secretary Knox in a note to the German ambassador places the United States on record as being in favor of a policy of nonintervention in China by the powers collectively or singly.

The publication of the note is also regarded here as in effect a declaration to the world that the United States and Germany will be found acting together against any "grabs" in China by other powers. The publication of the note follows an exchange between the governments of Germany and the United States in regard to the situation. The note was handed to Ambassador Bernstorff in response to an inquiry from his government as to the "attitude and general impressions of the government of the United States in regard to conditions in China."

Copies of the note have been placed in the hands of the governments of the other powers chiefly interested in China—namely, Great Britain, France, Italy, Russia and Japan. It is expected that the text of the note and the circumstances in which its publication was agreed upon by the governments of Germany and the United States will have a strong moral effect in regard to the future developments in China.

Full faith in the adhesion of all the powers to the policy of nonintervention and absolute neutrality in the Chinese situation is expressed by Secretary Knox in the note.

Secretary Knox also declares it to be the policy of the United States to discourage its national bankers from making any loan to either side in the Chinese situation, regarding a loan to either a violation of the policy of absolute neutrality.

This step upon the part of Secretary Knox is plainly a move in continuation of the Hay policy in regard to China. Germany has from the first been most heartily in accord with the United States in maintaining the integrity of China and the absolute neutrality of the powers during the present revolution.

The quarter in which the Knox note is expected to do the most good is in the councils of Russia, Japan and Great Britain. Ever since the beginning of the Chinese revolution suspicion has fallen repeatedly upon Russia and Japan.

Great Britain has been involved in these suspicions owing to her alliance with Japan and also through the assiduity with which the British foreign official cultivated Russian friendship during the Moroccan crisis.

The state department was quick to recognize the grave possibilities in the situation at the very outset of the Chinese revolution. Through Minister Calhoun at Peking it exerted every possible effort to obtain an informal agreement among the interested parties on a neutral policy of nonintervention. It developed soon that Germany was in complete accord with the United States in regard to the policy the powers should adopt in China. The two governments were a unit throughout in working for a "hands off" policy.

BEGIN PROBE OF ALLEGED EVERGLADES FRAUD

Secretary Wilson Anxious to Have Facts Known.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Thorough investigation of the Everglades land controversy was begun this morning by the house committee on expenditures in the agricultural department when Chairman Moss was directed to issue subpoenas for witnesses.

Henry E. Davis, former United States attorney for the District of Columbia, had been retained by Chief Engineer Elliott and Assistant Engineer Moorehouse of the drainage division, who were dismissed by Secretary Wilson last Saturday, and by Accountant Singleton, who was suspended, to represent their interests before the committee during the investigation.

There are several new developments in the Everglades controversy. The department issued a statement denouncing as "prejudiced, one-sided and untrue" the statement given out by Representative Clark of Florida declaring that Secretary Wilson suppressed a warning circular and an engineer's report on the Everglades because the circular and report did not please the land speculators operating in the Everglades. The department's statement also declares that Elliott and Moorehouse were dismissed "because they had certified and presented false accounts, knowing them to be false, on which the government paid out money."

The stand taken by Secretary Wilson and Solicitor McCabe in their conviction that in punishing Elliott, Moorehouse and Singleton they did the only thing possible under the circumstances and their apparent willingness to be investigated have lent additional interest to the pending inquiry.

THE CAMERA IN WAR.

New York Photographer Takes Shots From Aeroplane.

New York, Feb. 8.—In exactly 11 minutes 47 2-5 seconds Adrian Duff, a young photographer for the American Press Association, flying over New York harbor as a passenger with Frank Coffyn in a hydro-aeroplane, gave a striking demonstration of the possibilities of the camera and a flying machine in conjunction acting as a spy in time of war. Wholly unexperienced in aiming his snapshot camera downward from the clouds and clicking the shutter when speeding at forty miles an hour, Duff got remarkable results.

Of course the picture taking flight might not have been as smooth if the harbor fortifications had assailed the machine with rifle bullets and larger projectiles.

NO TROUBLE IN BELFAST.

Irish Unionists Will Let Churchill Speak For Home Rule.

Belfast, Ireland, Feb. 8.—If the conditions today are any indication of what may be expected tonight the great home rule demonstration at Celtic park, where Winston Churchill, John Redmond and others are to address a great Liberal meeting, will pass off without the expected disturbances.

The streets are crowded, but every one appears to be in the best of humor. The Unionists have made no attempt to revive their scheme for a counter demonstration in Ulster hall, the Unionist council having abandoned this project because of the fear that it might lead to trouble which would be directly traceable to their organization. Through the efforts of Winston Churchill and indifference to the feelings of the Unionists the Liberals gave up their lease of Ulster hall and hired the football grounds for the demonstration.

The soldiers, who are said to number about 3,500, remain in their baracks.

IN MEMORY OF DICKENS.

Great Britain Newspapers and People Pay Loving Tribute.

London, Feb. 8.—The centenary of the birth of Charles Dickens occupies hundreds of columns in the newspapers throughout Great Britain. These tributes are eulogistic, reminiscent and anecdotal.

It was intended at first to have services at various places made famous by the great novelist, but these were abandoned on account of the recent death of Alfred Tennyson Dickens, the son of Charles Dickens, in New York.

Many wreaths were sent to Westminster abbey and placed on the grave of the immortal writer in the "poets' corner."

Great crowds visited the tomb of Dickens. One of the most interesting visitors to the grave was the Rev. Edward Horton, chaplain of the Massachusetts senate, who was deputed by the Dickens' club of Boston to lay a tribute on the grave.

MISS MEAD PRESIDENT OF WESTMINSTER GUILD.

For the purpose of discussing the advisability of forming a chapter of the Westminster Guild, a meeting of women was held in the Crescent Avenue church parlors yesterday afternoon. Miss Josephine Petrie, of the home board, and Mrs. Dwight M. Potter, of the foreign board, were both present and explained the aims and interest of the Guild, and also how chapters are formed and the objects. Their talks were listened to with great interest by the large company of women numbering about fifty.

It was first decided to form a chapter for women of 18 years and over, and then Miss Marguerite Mead was chosen president. A nominating committee will be named and the other officers will be chosen at a meeting on Monday afternoon, February 26. The chapter will meet on Monday every two weeks for the present. The chief object of the organization is to promote an equal interest in foreign and home mission work. A majority of those present yesterday signified their intention of becoming identified with the chapter.

PSYCHOLOGY PROFESSOR ON REMEMBERING THINGS.

Will S. Monroe, professor of psychology at the Montclair State Normal School addressed the teachers of the Plainfield and North Plainfield schools at the Somerset street school yesterday afternoon on the topic of "Memory."

Referring to the New York regent system Professor Monroe said that he would not like to see it adopted in New Jersey as it encouraged cramming for examinations and experience had shown him that this means of storing up knowledge was not a lasting benefit.

King's Daughters Elect.

The Loyal Daughters' Circle of the King's Daughters, at its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry B. Smith on Denmark road, yesterday afternoon, elected these officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. J. A. Peterkin; vice president, Mrs. Harry B. Smith; secretary, Mrs. J. R. Evans; treasurer, Mrs. F. W. Carlisle; trustee, Mrs. W. W. Coriell. The circle more than raised its pledge of $200 for the city union work in support of the Day Nursery during the year, and in addition sends thirty pounds of sugar to the nursery every month, and milk and meat, and helps the poor in other ways. The circle has thirty active members and ten honorary.

AUTOIST'S ARM BROKEN BY CRANK HANDLE OF CAR.

While cranking his automobile at Park avenue and Front street, Hart L. Van Fleet, a member of the Cranford Common Council, suffered a broken arm this afternoon. The injured man was assisted to the office of Dr. R. Wood, where the fracture was reduced.

The Woman Who Owned Niagara.

Dr. Farquharson, ex-M. P., in his "Recollections" refers amusingly to his once having said in the house of commons that he owned a mountain. Claudius Clear in the British Weekly caps that story. His friend George Forbes, F. R. S., who had the chief part in harnessing Niagara, tells that once a Miss Porter was traveling in Europe, and at the table d'hote her neighbor said, "Oh, if you are an American I suppose you have seen Niagara falls." She turned to her inquirer, and, fixing him with her eyes, she said, "I own them!" That was an answer indeed. The Porter family long owned most of the property about Niagara.—Westminster Gazette.

Old Time Cure For Seasickness.

A curious cure for seasickness is given in an old homeopathic medical book, "The School of Salerne." "He that would crosse the sea," runs the prescription, "must a few dayes before hee take ship mingle the sea water with his wine. This is a remedy for them that are rich; but if it be a poor man, then he must drink sea water onely, that he may the easier eschew casting. The reason hereof is because the sea water is salt, and with its saltnesse and the stipticitie that followeth saltnesse it closeth the mouth of the stomach, and thereby avoydeth casting or perbreaking." Some might prefer to be sick.

Elizabeth's score of 1,116, made the opening night in the Elks' league, remains unbeaten.

New Brunswick claims to have turned in more 1,000 and over totals than any other team in the league. Rahway is not claiming anything.

Tonight the Elizabeth B. P. O. E. bowlers will entertain the Jersey City five on the Club House alleys and on Friday night they go to Hoboken for a session with the Germans. These are two busy engagements for the county seat pinners.

If the Betseytown pinners make any kind of a showing at all in these two meetings, they will pass Plainfield for the top position as the locals are not scheduled again until a week from tonight with Rutherford here.

At a meeting of enthusiastic golfers of the Westfield Club Tuesday night, $3,000 was subscribed by sixteen members towards the $16,000 needed to purchase the links. After the property has been secured, it is proposed to erect a more elaborate building as a club house. The club has a membership of 250.

Still no big league trades. It seems as if every manager is either satisfied or afraid of being stung.

Friends of Jimmy Doyle, the Cubs' third baseman who died at Syracuse, N. Y., last week are planning for a benefit game to be played early this season, the proceeds to go to Doyle's family.

Both Knockout Brown and Frank Madden, the Bowery champion, are in splendid condition for their ten-round fight tonight at the American Boxing Club.

According to scouts for the New York Giants a second Eddie Collins has been signed in the person of Frank Nohowel, who played third base at Columbia when Collins played second. Nohowel is said to be one of the most promising infielders in the game today.

The Yale varsity hockey team has won nine of its thirteen games this season, and its only remaining contests are with Dartmouth, Columbia and Harvard.

Amateurs who aspire to the Metropolitan Golf Association championship, now held by Jerome D. Travers, will meet on the course of the Baltusrol Golf Club, Short Hills, on May 22, 23, 24 and 25.

Hugh McBreen denies that his Jersey City Club is to be a farm for the Boston Red Sox. "Nothing like that in the 'Skeeter' family," says Hugh.

New Mexico had its first prize fight in seventeen years recently, when a Mexican by the name of Gonzales defeated an American soldier named Hunt.

No rumblings like those heard here following a scrap in Saengerbund Hall, several years ago have yet been heard, although the local rumblings are still discernible.

McCoy May Sidestep Moran.

Frank Moran, the Pittsburg heavyweight who knocked out Fred Storbeck in London Monday night, is prepared to go ahead with his fight with the venerable Kid McCoy in Paris Saturday night. If the criticisms leveled at McCoy by English writers are fair it is thought that Moran will beat him quickly and decisively. McCoy's mother, by the way, has cabled him to quit the ring and come home. "You are tempting fate," is the message sent to the Hoosier, who has been trying to come back since last summer. McCoy is apparently strong and vigorous in physique, but those who saw him fight George Gunther recently declared that he didn't think quickly enough. In view of Moran's prestige it would not be surprising if McCoy called off the fight at the last moment.

John L.'s Manager Dead.

Frank Moran, the former partner and manager of John L. Sullivan, died Tuesday afternoon at the Washington Heights Hospital, New York. As a sporting man Moran was one of the best known in the country. He came into prominence with John L. Sullivan. He grew up with the former champion in Boston and was his manager when John L. fought his first bout. It was Moran who brought him across the country, fighting all comers, and to Australia to fight there. While on this trip Moran was stricken with his first stroke of paralysis. He was fifty-seven years old.

NEW ASSOCIATION PLANS TO CONTROL SOCCER GAME

A new body known as the American Amateur Football Association came into existence in New York Tuesday when a special meeting was held at the Boys' Club at which delegates from ten of the clubs affiliated with the New York State Football Association, were present. The organization promises to be a power in amateur soccer football circles throughout the United States.

The New York State Football Association went out of existence when the delegates unanimously voted to accept the constitution, by-laws and regulations which had been submitted and read at a previous meeting. H. Apgar, president of the old association; W. A. Campbell, vice-president; G. Bourne, treasurer, and Robert MacCulloch, secretary, retained their respective offices in the American Association.

The clubs represented at the meeting to ratify the constitution were the Clan McDonalds, Critchleys, Camerons, New York, Celtics, St. George, Eureka, Clan McDuff, Washington and German clubs, and the New York State League.

N. P. H. S. WRESTED LAURELS FROM SUMMIT

The N. P. H. S. basketball team recovered lost honors from the Summit High School five yesterday afternoon in Debele's Auditorium by defeating them 30 to 17. There will not be another game as the N. P. H. S. quintet schedule is full to the end of the season.

At the end of the first half the visitors had the boroughites 8 to 7. The locals went at them in the second half and ran circles around the hill-town pupils. Bill Taylor and his brother "Curley," were the point getters. Bill tossed four goals and four fouls. Curley made five goals. Running warmed up in the second and made three in a row and Burner annexed one.

The lineup for N. P. H. S. was C. Taylor and B. Taylor, forwards; Dunning, centre; Townley and Burner, guards. Hub Stein refereed the match.

JUNIORS CLINCH TITLE BY POUNDING P. H. S. FRESHMEN.

The junior basketball team of the Plainfield High School walked away with the freshman five yesterday afternoon and defeated them by the overwhelming score of 51 to 6. The one-sided victory practically clinches th interclass championship for the juniors.

The lower classmen were outplayed in every department of the game. The freshmen scored only one basket and a foul goal in the first half, which were both credited to McNamee. The score stood at 24 to 3 when time was called for the first period.

NEWARK ELKS DROPPED TWO TO RUTHERFORD.

The Rutherford Elks took two from the Newark pin knights, bowling at Rutherford last night. By a clean sweep of all three, the victors would have ousted Plainfield from the lead, but are still tied for second place with Elizabeth and Hoboken. Newark showed regular form only in the last game when they rolled 904, winning by a margin of 40 pins. Weingarth led the Newarkers with 207. Riker totalled 203 for high among the victors.

Big Match for Billy Galley

An interesting boxing match has been arranged to take place at the American Club next Monday, the contestants being Knockout Brown, of New York, and Billy Galley, of Australia. According to the terms of the articles of agreement, the men are to weigh in at 134 pounds at 6 o'clock of the day of the contest.

Papke and Montell Matched.

Sacremento, Cal., Feb. 8.—Billy Papke, former middle-weight champion, and Frank Montell, of Pawtucket, R. I., have been matched to fight twenty rounds in this city February 22. The fight will take place in the open air.

WHEN PLAYERS PLAYED MEAN TRICK ON FERRIS.

"At the close of one season, when the Boston Americans swept everything before them," said Jess Tannehill, "John I. Taylor told the management of a big hotel where we were stopping to give us unlimited credit for anything we might desire. I never knew whether John I. was sorry afterward or not, but the bill that was handed him footed up $3,000. Everybody had champagne unlimited, and Hobe Ferris put five quarts of the golden wine into a suit case. Chick Stahl, myself and three other players waited till it was almost time for Hobe to take the train for home. Then we deftly snaked the five quarts out of the suit case and refilled it with bricks. Hobe, who wanted to take the stuff home with him, never opened the suit case on the train, probably for fear the sight of the five quarts would make him thirsty and force him to break into the supply. When he arrived and proudly opened the suit case to display his trophies there was an interesting scene, though we could never get Hobe to give us the full details."

FIGHTERS SPRING FROM HUMBLE ORIGIN MOSTLY.

Most boxers sprang from lowly positions.

Young Corbett used to earn $6 a week before he fought McGovern. Terry himself was a poor newsboy when picked up by Sam Harris, who made a champion out of him.

Jeffries was earning $15 a week in California as a handy man in a boiler shop when Billy Delaney took hold and made a fighter of him.

Bob Fitzsimmons did not have more than one suit of clothes when he came to this country from Australia.

Jim Corbett left a good position in a Frisco bank to seek honors in the ring, but there were few like him. Sharkey, Gardner, Ryan, Erne and many other fistic stars were all poor at the time of starting out for pugilistic honors. Following is a list of other well known fighters and their former vocations:

YANKEE PLAYERS TALLEST.

Eleven Members of New York Americans Are Over Six Feet In Height.

The New York American league baseball team will go through the season of 1912 with the highest average in one respect at least—of any big league club. It will include more tall players than any other team.

As Manager Wolverton figures it there are eleven men in the Yankee squad who stand over six feet in height. The giants of the squad and their heights are: Shears, 6.4; McConnell, 6.3; Sweeney, 6.2; Knight, 6.2 Vaughn, 6.2; Caldwell, 6.1; Appleby 6.1; Stump, 6.1; Clarke, 6; Upham, 6; Williams, 6.

Rube Waddell with Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Feb. 8.—Two veteran pitchers and a recruit have joined the Minneapolis American Association team, signed contracts being received from George Edward (Rube) Waddell, Roy Patterson and Dewey Lyle. Lyle, the recruit, is a former local high school star, and is to be given a try-out at Hickman, Ky.

Bastian on York Nine.

Ward Bastian, shortstop last season on the Utica, New York State League team, and who formed a number of acquaintances here while his team was training last spring at Westfield, signed a York contract yesterday and this season will travel over the Tri-State circuit.

P. H. S. FACULTY FIVE IS LIKELY TO BEST SENIORS

The senior basketball team of the Plainfield High School will meet the faculty five tomorrow afternoon in the annual contest. The faculty five has been having its own way for several years, rolling up big scores against the pupils.

The present prospects do not look as though the program would be greatly changed this year, but the seniors have strong hopes of winning the contest. The faculty lineup will include some fast players. Besides Lindsey Best, who keeps in training at the Y. M. C. A., they will be represented by Mr. Wilkinson, who has had some experience in basketball and Allen Doggett, who played with his fraternity team while at New York University, and Everett Beers the new science teacher, who played for three years with the varsity five of Colgate College.

The lineups will be as follows: Seniors, Fountain, Manley, forwards; Phillips, center; Line and Doane, guards.

Faculty, L. Best, A. Doggett, forwards; Wilkinson, center; Bostrick, Beers, guards.

THEY HAVE TO SHOW NELSON "PET" STAR BACKSTOP

In these days when the big fellows in baseball are collecting contracts from all players who have ever twinkled a twinkle in the game, local fans wanted to know how the home talent was being considered. To satisfy this craving the wilds of New Market were gone over with a fine tooth comb to locate Walter Nelson, the star backstop of the Plainfield team last year.

Walter was found at his home last night and while he admitted a longing to travel in fast company, he said that the offers so far received have not been attractive enough to cause him to sever his connections with the engineering corps of the Central railroad, where he is being well taken care of and can play the game every Saturday afternoon in the season. This sounded encouraging and the next question, naturally, was if he expected to wear a "Pets" uniform again this season. He said that unless something steady in one of the big leagues was handed him he would.

Early last season he was promised a tryout with the Boston Nationals. After an absence of several weeks he was again welcomed in the local fold and the inside of the deal was never known. It is ancient history now, but taught Walter a lesson and he won't fall for the same kind of a game again. In a few weeks when the teams are all in camp, stories about phenoms will fly thick and fast. And then in a very short time later, these same heralded wonders will be back on their own sand lots wondering how it happened and telling how while the folks at home were shivering in the icy blasts they were picking wild flowers—real ones—not from castles in the air.

BLUE ROCK SHOOTING AT SPORTSMEN'S SHOW.

Last year at the Sportsmen's Show held in Madison Square Garden, New York city, one of the most interesting features of the show was the blue rock shooting under artificial light, and this will be made a special feature at this year's show, which takes place March 1 to 9, inclusive. There will be a trophy for high score each day.

In addition to the regular events on Wednesday, March 6, there will be a team race between members of the Allied Clubs of New York city and vicinity and members of the Philadelphia Trap Shooters' League, under the following conditions:

Each side to shoot ten men, 100 targets per man. The five best scores on each side to count as the team.

"LEW" SLOCUM TO HAVE SOME FAST TEAM MATES.

Catcher Peterson, formerly of the Boston Americans, was traded to Scranton in the New York State League yesterday by the Providence Club of the International League. This deal makes him one of the backstops to handle the delivery of "Lew" Slocum, of local strike-out fame, who has been farmed to the Miners by the Athletics.

Martin, a youngster from Rochester, who held "Lanky" McConnell part of last season, is the other catcher the Miners are after. "Bull" Freeman, who hit for .316 last year in 92 games, with the Wheeling Central League team, will likely be another of Lew's team mates.

Penn's Relay Team Chosen.

The one-mile relay team of the University of Pennsylvania, which will race against Cornell in a match race at the Boston Athletic Association, at Boston, on Saturday, has been selected as follows: Haydock, Laflamme, McGowan and Brown. The race is called one mile, but it is short of that distance owing to the size of the track, and each runner will run 390 yards.

HOLY CROSS CHOIR FIVE SHOWN THE WAY BY HOPE

The Hope chapel basketball team cut another notch on the victory stick last night when the team of choir boys of the Church of the Holy Cross was defeated in a fast game in the latter's cage. The score was 18 to 9. This is the first game of the songsters and for that reason they wanted to get away with a win. At the end of the first half honors were even with a 5-5 tie score. In the second half rough work started, but skill and condition of the opponents, by reason of longer experience, told the tale.

The lineup:

Hope chapel—Heron and Snyder forwards; Doig, centre; Leighs and Wardrop, guards. Holy Cross—Harriman and Coyle, forwards; Miller and Moran, centres; Bechtel, Wilson and VanNorden, guards.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE WINS FROM GLEN RIDGE QUINTET.

The Plainfield High School basketball team came home from Glen Ridge with another victory added to is record, yesterday afternoon, having defeated the Glen Ridge High School five in a fast contest by a score of 17 to 9. The teams were evenly matched.

Ricketts and Good both threw two baskets apiece before the end of the first half and Zerega dropped the ball through the net once in this period. The half ended with a score of 11 to 6. The line-up:

P. H. S.—forwards, Ricketts, Zerega; centre, Good; guards, Nash, Van Zandt.

Glen Ridge—forwards, Wilson, Valentine; centre, Powers; guards, VanCourt, Martin.

Referee—A. T. Doggett.

Quoit Matches Tonight.

Raritan Lodge, No. 6, of New Brunswick, will play a series of games in the A. O. U. W. quoit tournament with Central Lodge, No. 48, in Central's rooms tonight. As the New Brunswick lodge team now leads in the tournament by a few games, the series should be an interesting one. Columbia Lodge, No. 58, will pitch against the Rahwegians at that place.

Ponies Lost to Butchers.

The Butcher bowlers took three straight from the Olympia Ponies on Walter's alleys last night. Neither team rolled to usual form.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Burton Holmes, of Travelogue fame, finds himself in the unique position of being compelled to give repetitions of many of this season's lectures, in order to accommodate his patrons, in addition to which he will give one or two favorites of former seasons. This coming Sunday evening and Monday afternoon at Carnegie Hall, he will give the last in his regular series, "Rio de Janeiro." On Sunday evening, February 18, and on Monday afternoon, the 19th, also at Carnegie Hall, he will give a new travelogue on "Paris, the Magnificent." On the next Sunday evening and Monday afternoon, February 25 and 26, he begins a series at the Lyceum theatre, his first travelogue being a repetition—under the auspices of the American Mfrs. Export Assn.,—of "Buenos Aires, the Paris of America." On Sunday afternoon, March 23, at the Lyceum theatre, he will give a repetition of "Rio de Janeiro" and in the evening and on Monday afternoon, March 4, he will close his season in Manhattan with "Two Ways Around the World." He is also giving a similar series of repetitions twice every Wednesday at the Brooklyn Institute.

BOROUGH WILL IMPOUND ALL ROAMING CANINES

Stray and wandering dogs have been placed under the ban in North Plainfield by a proclamation issued by Mayor Clark. Hereafter all animals running at large will be impounded. If not claimed within the time limit, forty-eight hours, they will be put to death as required by law.

An official dog catcher is to be appointed and a suitable place as a pound rented. This is made necessary by the large number of stray curs that have been roaming the borough streets, not only annoying the residents by prowling about in search of food and fighting, but frightening them by snapping and snarling when efforts are made to drive them away. Children going to and from school have been terrorized by the animals many times during the past few weeks.

CLERK FELL WITH BOTTLE; HIS HAND BADLY GASHED.

Falling with a bottle of vinegar in his hand, Albert Clawson, of Brook avenue, a clerk in the Scheuer store, yesterday received a painful injury. The bottle broke and the fragments of glass lacerated his hand badly.

Dr. Buchanan had to take several stitches to close the wound and it will be several days before Clawson can resume his work.

THE DELIGHT OF MOTHERS—THE MARVEL OF THE TRADE

We are not quite sure that we are the largest handlers of Baby Carriages in the United States, but certain we are that we show more styles of baby vehicles than any other store in the Metropolitan district, and we are safe in claiming the largest assortment in the country.

We feature two of the most celebrated makes of baby vehicles—those manufactured by the F. A. Whitney Carriage Co., who have been leaders for fully half a century in the manufacture of baby carriages, and of the Bloch Go-Cart Co., the trademark of which has stood for quality, and which is a guarantee of scientifically constructed vehicles.

There is everything in stock that any one is likely to desire, from the simplest collapsible Go-Cart to the most sumptuous Pullman Sleeper.

We are showing Whitney Pullman Sleepers in white enamel, natural oak and gray with reverse gear, which enables nurse or mother to be in full view of baby all the time, and others with reversible handles that can be used front or back, reed bodies, reed and leatherette hoods, at prices running from $11.98 to $60.00.

Whitney Pullman Chaises—much lighter and more easily handled than the full size sleepers or ambulators and very beautiful in model, yet affording plenty of room for baby to lie down in; all wanted finishes—white enamel, natural or others, are here at $25 to $35.

Whitney and Bloch Perambulators in a dozen different styles; solid wood bodies in deep blue, black, olive, maroon, gray, white and two-tone; built with resilient strap coach springs, some with wheels having nickel bicycle spokes; all rubber-tired wheels; may be had at $17.50 to $50.

The finer carriages have extension hoods and some of those with wood bodies have just a bit of wicker trimming, are beautifully lined with fine Pongee broadcloth, upholstered in black leather, and have side lamps.

We show more than fifty styles in white enamel Pullmans and Perambulators alone.

About a dozen of the styles shown here are sold by us exclusively.

Truly there is no place where Baby Carriages can be selected to such great advantage.

Pleased to have you come in any time and look them over.

EVERY BRASS BED

ON OUR SALES FLOOR AND IN OUR WAREROOMS

At a Discount of 25 Per Cent.

The new beds are coming—hundreds of them—dozens of new designs—and we are going to be more crowded than ever for space in which to display them—which means that we must sell off a lot of the beds we now have in stock, clearing out some patterns for good, and we are going to adopt drastic measures to make certain a sweeping sale tomorrow.

We have decided to dispose of every brass bed now on our sales floor and in our warehouse.

We have cut the prices on every bed 25 per cent.—one-fourth.

These are our standard brass beds, dependable in every particular, both as to construction and finish, and the designs are excellent, up-to-date, some of them having been here only a couple of months; a few may show slight blemishes thru having been used on the sales floor as show pieces, but the hurts would be hard to find.

There will be all sizes, including 3x6 ft., 4 ft. and 4x6 widths, and there will be polished and satin finishes to choose from.

These beds will be ready for sale Friday morning at 8:30 and will continue on sale until all are disposed of, even tho it takes two days to do it.

There is one restriction in this special offering, which is—no beds will be exchangeable, the transaction must be complete at the time of the sale.

Pick any bed you like, satisfy yourself it is just what you want and pay us 25 per cent. or one-fourth less than the regular fair price marked upon it.

SENATOR GRADY WAS A TAMMANY IDOL.

Silver Tongued Orator Was Famously Witty and Picturesque.

Senator Thomas F. Grady of New York, who died recently, was for nearly a quarter of a century an idol of Tammany Hall, one of its most highly esteemed orators, famously witty and picturesque, and for the last sixteen years one of the leading Democrats in the legislature.

Senator Grady was born on Nov. 27, 1853. His fame as an orator and the likeableness of his personality began rapidly to earn him political prominence, and in 1877 he first went to the legislature as an assemblyman from the Second district. He served until 1880 in the lower house and then was sent to the senate. He arrayed himself against Grover Cleveland, then governor, and succeeded in making himself so great a thorn in the future president's side that Cleveland wrote a letter to John Kelly, then leader of Tammany, asking him to prevent Grady's return to the senate.

Mr. Cleveland said, among other things, that Grady's activities in the senate interfered with his "personal comfort."

So Grady, with his silver tongue and stinging wit, went out in a great huff from the ranks of the party, took the stump against Cleveland, supporting Butler. He was out in the political cold until at a special election in 1889 he was re-elected to the senate, only, however, to be defeated in the same year, when he stood for re-election.

In 1893 he went back to the senate and served there continuously up to the time of his death.

NEW STAMPS READY.

Postmasters Advised as to Requisitions For Latest Series.

The supply of the new series of postage stamps is now available to be drawn on by postmasters, according to an order in the current issue of the United States Official Postal Guide. Requisitions by postmasters for stamps, however, will be filled in part with the old series until the old series is exhausted, and postmasters are instructed in the order that they should not draw requisitions merely because of the novelty of the new stamps if they have a sufficient stock of stamps on hand to provide for their patrons.

They are also instructed that the older stamps should remain on sale until exhausted, but that new stamps may be supplied, if in stock, when preferred by purchasers.

In the new series the one cent green and two cent red stamps bear the head of Washington in profile, from Houdon's bust, the portrait being within a plain ellipse on end, with branches of laurel on each side. The colors of the five higher denominations of stamps in the new series are: Eight cent, olive; ten cent, dark yellow; fifteen cent, gray; fifty cent, lavender; one dollar, dark brown. These bear a portrait of Franklin in profile, from Houdon's bust, with an ellipse on end, and on either side of the lower part of the ellipse are branches of oak leaves.

DEWEY FOR FOUR WARSHIPS.

To Take the Place of Four That Are Soon to Go Out as Obsolete.

Admiral Dewey has declared himself in favor of four new battleships. These are needed, Admiral Dewey says, to replace four ships which will go out of the life as obsolete next year. He is confident that the navy will get at least two battleships this year.

"The authorization of two new battleships at this session of congress is necessary to prevent a step backward," said Admiral Dewey, "but four are needed to keep the fleet up to its present standing.

"Four battleships authorized this year would take the place of the four that are soon to go out as obsolete. These antiquated vessels are the Iowa, the Indiana, the Massachusetts and the Oregon. They have neither the speed, guns nor armor of the present day requirements."

ONE TOED MEN IN FUTURE.

London Surgeon Makes This Prediction, Giving His Reasons.

Dr. R. Clement Lucas, in an address at the Royal College of Surgeons, London, predicted that men might in time become a one toed race.

The little toe, he said, had already lost one of its extensor tendons and in quite an appreciable percentage of cases one of its flexor tendons was absent also. On the other hand, the great toe had undergone extraordinary development because the inner side of the foot was the first to catch the center of gravity in transferring the weight of the body from one foot to the other in walking.

If the world went on long enough, in perhaps 500,000 years the useless outer toes, being less and less employed, might gradually disappear.

Dewey's Chief Gunner Dead.

Joseph Holub, chief gunner under Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila Bay, died recently at the great lakes naval training station at north Chicago. Holub had served in the navy for twenty-seven years and was retired Jan. 1 last.

Dr. Hibben to Be Inaugurated May 11.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the inauguration of Dr. John G. Hibben as president of Princeton university announced that the inauguration will take place on May 11.

250 YEARS OF MANCHU RULE IN CHINA HAVE COME TO AN END

With the Abdication of the Throne the Chinese Come Into Their Own.

Conquest of the Empire Without Parallel In the History of the World.

IT is 250 years since the Manchus imposed their rule on China, a rule that comes to an end with the abdication of the present regime on March 1. A republican government will prevail after that date with Yuan Shih Kai as president, Sun Yat Sen as vice president, Tang Shao Yi as premier and Li Yuen Heng as minister of war.

The Chinese are believed to have succeeded in banishing forever the rule of these barbarians, thereby putting an end to an episode without parallel in the history of the world.

Nothing like the Manchu conquest of China ever took place elsewhere in the memory of man and no such domination as that of the Manchus over the people of the empire they ruled has ever happened anywhere else.

China in 1644 was unquestionably the greatest and richest empire of its time. The Manchus were not a nation. Manchu was hardly more than the name of a family, living in a valley in a region too little prosperous and too far out of the way for the great empire to disturb or to know much about its existence.

Noormachu, into whose great if ignorant mind first entered the apparently impossible idea of conquering the Chinese empire, deserves a place in history with Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon.

In the thirteenth century some refugees from northern China fled into Manchuria, where they took, or, rather, assumed the name of the Niuche. There was no nation; they were simply innumerable small clans or tribes or families.

Noormachu Appears.

One of these little clans was that which subsequently gave birth to Noormachu. It occupied a small district on a stream about thirty miles east of Mukden.

How insignificant this little kingdom was may be seen from the chronicles which tell of the victory of Noormachu's grandfather, the "emperor" Jingdsoo, over his enemies. This emperor ruled an empire which, says the Rev. John Ross in his history of the Manchus, consisted of "six little hamlets of probably a dozen or two families each surrounded by a wall and called a city." To the west was a man called Shwosaina, who, with his nine powerful sons, was "the scourge of the west." This terrible rebel was joined by Jiahoo and his seven sons, and this army of eighteen terrorized the whole region.

"But," says Ross, following the chronicles, "the emperor Jingdsoo was wise, and his eldest son, Lidun, was brave." Lidun mustered all the forces of the kingdom, marched against the enemy and compelled victory over the eighteen robbers.

"This victory secured them five mountain passes and 200 li of territory. This battle, so carefully related by their historians, who trace the rise of their kingdom to it, is the best evidence as to the original size of the Manchuskingdom and the resources of their six 'cities.'"

His little wars with the neighboring clans resulted in the formation of a military confederacy, for none could stand before Noormachu. Finally, in 1618, he had dared to invade the great empire to the south and discovered probably to his intense astonishment as did the Goths in Italy, that he was annihilated.

Wherein Ming Dynasty Was Weak.

A growing weakness of the Ming dynasty, which had occupied the throne for more than 200 years, was, of course, responsible. The government was so busy dealing with riots and rebellions in its own bailiwick that it thought no more of an outbreak on the northern frontier than we now would of a local strike in the state of Washington. Yet within twenty-six years after Noormachu crossed the Chinese frontier his grandson was made emperor in Peking.

There was a wide awake general on the Manchurian frontier named Tingbi, who saw the dangers of the Manchu incursion and had by his own unaided efforts saved Liaotung province from them. But he was soon removed, and Yuen Ying Tai, a man of letters, "who," says one historian, "had never heard a shot fired nor seen the flight of the Manchu arrows," was sent to take his place and defend the extensive border.

Noormachu had not intended to make an attack until he heard of this substitution, but when he found that Tingbi was no longer to oppose him he took the field in 1621 and won his first great victory.

Meanwhile the south of China was aflame with revolt, and the efforts of the government were spent there and not on the northern border.

In 1627 Chung Cheng, the last of the Chinese emperors, ascended the throne, and two years afterward came the most formidable of all the Manchu invasions. This time the Manchus appeared before the walls of Peking.

For several months the Tartars wandered around the walls of Peking, never attempting to assail the city, harrying the country round about, and, one can fancy, too surprised at their own success than to do more than wonder at the actual sight of the great capital of which they had so often heard as the capital of the world.

This incursion was after the death of Noormachu, who is said to have died of chagrin over the only repulse he ever received in his career. He besieged Ningyuen, imagining that he would have an easy victory, but the gallant Chinese commander, Chungwan, was a foeman worthy of his steel. Chungwan had sworn to die in the defense of the city if necessary, and all his soldiers had taken the oath after him.

Chungwan had cannon imported from Europe, and while the Manchus were accustomed to face muskets and were not afraid of them this new weapon bewildered them. After a most desperate defense by the Chinese the Manchu general was obliged to retire, and he died soon after at Mukden in the sixty-eighth year of his age.

Chungwan, like Tingbi, felt the effects of the jealousy of those who poisoned the ear of their sovereign, and he shared Tingbi's fate. Both were decapitated on trumped up charges. Chung Cheng was not yet on the throne. When he ascended it he found himself deprived of the only generals who had both the resolution and the foresight to cope with the Manchus.

Noormachu's Successor.

Noormachu's successor was worthy of him. He was Taitsong or Tienming, a brave and wise ruler. In 1635 he assumed the title of emperor of China.

Taitsong, like Noormachu, did not live to enter the promised land. He died in 1643, the year before the final victory. Before he died he had made his authority recognized among the Tartars to the borders of Japan. Korea was his vassal and Liaotung one of his provinces.

But it was not the Manchus who ended the long struggle. It was the Chinese themselves who delivered their country into the hands of the Tartars. They did it by means of their own divisions, which reached such a point that in the angry clamor the Manchus entered Peking almost unperceived. The story is a strange one.

The feebleness of the Ming government had grown to such a point that the bandit chiefs who were harrying the south and west had become the most powerful persons in the kingdom.

Such buccaneers as Sir Henry Morgan sink into utter insignificance compared with these robbers, who thought no more of capturing a city than Napoleon would. Chang Hsien Chang, the most ruthless of them all, is remembered with horror to this day in China.

But his fame was destined to be extinguished by that of a robber greater than himself—Li Tzu Cheng—who was the real conqueror of the Ming dynasty and the man who unwittingly installed the Manchus in Peking.

As Li's fame increased Changwaned. At last Li was no longer a mere bandit chief, but the head of a great army, and he conceived the dazzling idea of overthrowing the dynasty and making himself emperor. After making conquests everywhere he attacked the capital itself.

Before beginning the attack he proposed that the emperor should make him king of northwest China and give him a subsidy of a million taels. Hopeless as was the situation, the doomed emperor, Ching Cheng, met the robber's envoy with the dignity becoming him. He dismissed him in silence without an answer of any kind. Then the attack began.

Treacherous hands opened one of the gates, and the rebel robbers streamed into the city and put it to the sword. As they forced the defenders back the Lady Wei, one of the emperor's wives, cried out: "The robbers have penetrated the innermost courts! I will carry out my plan!" And she threw herself into the Imperial river and was drowned.

When it became evident that all was lost the emperor summoned the members of his family and his servants about him, filled a goblet with wine and passed it around. He then told them that there was no hope, and at his command the empress withdrew into her apartment and hanged herself. When she was gone Chung Cheng, looking fondly at his fifteen-year-old daughter, said, "Why were you born of a father so unfortunate as I am?" and, drawing his sword, slew her on the spot. He then killed all the other female members of his family.

Having committed this Spartan deed, the emperor, after a vain search for some means of flight, ascended Prospect hill and hanged himself on a tree.

There was one man left who was capable of withstanding Li, and this was Wu San Kuei, an officer in command of a little tract along the Manchurian frontier. When Li sent a force to attack him Wu perceived that he would be overwhelmed if he fought alone, and he invited the aid of the Manchus. They gave it; they swore friendship with him and induced him to make his men shave their heads in order that they might be distinguishable from other Chinese. This was the origin of the present custom of the shaven head and the pigtail among Chinamen.

While Li's men were attacking Wu, expecting an easy victory, the Tartars fell upon their flank. Frightened at the unexpected attack, they gave way and fled, with Wu in such hot pursuit that none of Li's infantry was able to escape.

Li fled to Peking, where he revenged himself by murdering all the members of Wu's household in Peking. He had himself crowned emperor, but it was all over. Forty days after his conquest of Peking Li retreated from the city, with Wu still in full chase. There was another battle and Li's ruin was completed.

When Wu returned to the city he found his Manchu allies in tranquil possession. They had seated Noormachu's grandson, Shun Chih, on the throne, and as he was a mere boy, his uncle, Ama Wang, was acting as regent.

How after this the Manchus arrogated to themselves most of the honors of the empire and made the Chinese a subject is well known. It is a story that has just come to an end after 250 years. It was in 1644 that the first Manchu emperor ascended the throne.

MAN ABOUT TOWN.

One of the rules adopted by the English class at the Plainfield High School is that the pupils and teacher are privileged to criticize each other for making ungrammatical remarks. A few days ago, the teacher exercised the privilege, whereupon the pupil corrected remarked: "I've got you Steve." The next minute the class was convulsed with laughter when the teacher with an entirely innocent air replied: "I think it would be better to say, 'I have got you Stephen.'"

Somnambulist Hurt.

Morristown, Feb. 8.—While walking in his sleep, Edward Durrin, an employe on Glen Alpin Farm near here, fell down the stairs in the boarding house of Emil Newmark, at Elm and Morris street, where he was staying overnight. Durrin sustained a scalp wound, and was also badly shaken up.

SHORE FLOWER SHOW TO LAST 3 DAYS; OPENS OCT. 29.

Asbury Park, Feb. 8.—Asbury Park's second chrysanthemum show will be held for three days this year, beginning Tuesday, Oct. 29. In every way it will surpass the magnificent display of last November. The Asbury Park show now ranks in professional estimation, with the best 'mum shows of America and it is expected that the list of exhibitors will be trebeled over last year. Among the prizes already secured is a $50 cup from Charles Totty of Madison, N. J., one of the largest professional growers in the country; a $25 cup from Samuel Heilner of Spring Lake and several cash prizes from seed dealers.

Mr. Bradley has offered the use of the beach auditorium for the show.

SUMMIT COUNCIL TURNS DOWN POLICE PENSION.

Summit, Feb. 8.—The petition requesting Common Council to establish a pension fund for the members of the police department has been denied by the Council.

The request, which had been filed by the patrolmen with Council of 1911, set forth that one per cent. of such fund as Council might establish would be contributed from the salary of each of the policemen. Councilman-at-large Thomas M. Debevoise explained at the meeting that he and his colleagues were unwilling to assume the responsibility of placing such a burden on the taxpayers at this time.

At present there is no provision in the law for submitting such a proposition to the voters of a community, although Mr. Debevoise said if there was such a referendum and the voters favored establishing such a fund the members of Council would be glad to do their share.

SHORE WOMAN PROPOSES, WINNING PRIZE AWARD.

Point Pleasant, Feb. 8.—Arthur A. Zimmerman has announced that Mrs. Blanche Mooney, of Asbury Park, is the winner of the $20 gold piece he offered to the first woman who would make affidavit that she had proposed to a man. Mrs. Mooney wins a husband as well, because Raymond Applegate, also of Asbury Park, accepted her proposal. The woman presented an affidavit made by her before Counselor Charles E Cook, of Asbury Park.

The prize is to be presented at a dinner, which is soon to be given for the benefit of the two Point Pleasant fire companies. Mrs. Mooney has agreed to be present and receive the $20 prize at that time.

"Incorrigible" At 43.

Elizabeth, Feb. 8.—Complaining that his son, forty-three years old, was "incorrigible," James Kiely, eighty-three years old, of 336 Magnolia avenue, told a tale of disorderly conduct in police court. The son, James Kiely, Jr., six feet tall, protested that his father cuffed him frequently. The father said that his son was inclined to linger out late at night, sometimes not returning before 10 o'clock. Judge Mahon sentenced the son to ten days in the county jail.

Among the many places of interest in Europe which will be visited by the Daily Press party who will tour Europe next summer, few are looked forward to with more pleasurable anticipation than the beautiful city of Paris, the city which originates the fashions, and the home of the most wonderfully-gowned women in the world.

Paris lies in the valley of the Seine, surrounded by heights which add much to the scenic beauty of the city itself. The visitor is at once struck by many features in this metropolis which are peculiar to Paris alone. The houses are almost invariably composed of white calcerous stone, and are usually five or six stories high. Many of the modern street buildings have mansard roofs, and are highly enriched in the Renaissance manner. Although in some of the older parts of the city the streets are narrow and irregular, the majority are wide, straight and well-kept. The best streets are the "Boulevards," among the most famous of which might be mentioned the Boulevard St. Germain, which is one of the most widely-known thoroughfares in the world. Famous public squares, as the Place de la Concorde; magnificent cathedrals, as the

The Board of Health has sent out the following notice:

In view of the fact that a large number of the children in the public schools of this city have never been vaccinated, and in view also of the fact that, while at present there is no smallpox in the vicinity of Plainfield, the disease exists to a greater extent than usual in some of the neighboring States, the Board of Health would advise all who have not been successfully vaccinated within the past five years to be vaccinated at their early convenience.

"In order to make it as easy as possible for parents to secure the vaccination of their children, the Board of Education has arranged to give all school children free vaccination by the medical examiners at their schools. Any adult or child not connected with the schools, on furnishing evidence of inability to pay for the service, may receive free vaccination from the Board of Health for themselves or children at the office of the board, 104 East Front street, on Tuesday and Fridays from 3:30 to 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon."

He Kicked His Horse.

ENDEAVORERS PLAN BIG ANTI-LICENSE PROTEST

Workers Arranging to Have Members Throng the Council Chamber in Opposition to Christian Gloekler's Application.

The representatives of the Christian Endeavor Societies, at a congress meeting in the Y. M. C. A. last night adopted resolutions favoring local option, and followed that with a resolution of protest against the granting of a liquor license to Christian Gloekler.

Gloekler, whose license for a saloon at Front and Somerset streets was not renewed last year because he was alleged to have sold to minors, has asked for permission to resume business.

Efforts will be made by C. E. workers to secure the attendance of as many Endeavorers as possible at the meeting of the Common Council on Monday night, February 26, when the licenses are acted upon. It is the purpose of the Endeavorers to throng the Council Chamber, and impress the members of the Common Council with the strength of the organization.

The Plainfield Ministers' Association, at their annual meeting yesterday afternoon, also protested vigorously against granting Gloekler a license. The protest will be filed with the Common Council committee before the 26th.

Copies of the C. E. local option resolution will be sent to Assemblymen and Senators of Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties, with appeals for support of a local option measure.

HOBOES START FIRE; TOOL HOUSE GOES

Lehigh Valley Auto Track Car Destroyed by Blaze in South Plainfield.

RAILROAD STATION ENDANGERED

Flames Spread From Fire Built by Tramps for Warmth—Hand Car, Power Car, Tools and Everything Else in Building Lost.

A blaze started for warmth by tramps, set fire to a tool house along the Lehigh Valley tracks at South Plainfield at 2 o'clock this morning and despite the work of the firemen the building was totally ruined with all the contents.

In the house were a gasolene propelled track motor used by Charles Dorsey in inspecting the tracks of the division, a hand car used by the repair gang, their tools, oil, etc. Not a thing was saved.

The tool house is about 500 feet east of the railroad station and for a time threatened that structure. When it was seen that the efforts of the firemen were unavailing on the burning tool house on account of the highly inflammable quality of the contents, the firefighters concentrated their efforts on keeping the flames from spreading to the station.

DISMISS A COMPLAINT AGAINST CANAL COMPANY

Trenton, Feb 9.—Upon the grounds that the charter rights of the Delaware and Raritan Canal Co. preclude the regulation of tolls on the waterway; that a classification of tolls on the canal, if reasonable, is not unjust, and that a uniform charge per ton in mile for all canal traffic would be less reasonable than a proper constructed classification of tolls, the State Public Utility Commission today dismissed the complaint of the Board of Trade of New Brunswick filed against the Canal Co., on Oct. 9, 1911.

BUNNY HUG LESSON FRACTURES HER RIB

NOW MRS. EMMONS WEARS CAST

Painful Ending to Skylarking in Family Circle Leads Matron to a Decided Conviction That Freak Dances Should be Banned.

Mrs. J. P. Emmons, of Prospect place, is suffering with a fractured rib received in learning what the "bunny-hug" is like. Her son Frank was the teacher.

During an evening meal at the Emmons home recently the family had a discussion on the freak dances brought out this season, and the ban placed on them in many cities.

Mrs. Emmons incautiously expressed a desire to learn just what the freak dances were like.

"I can show you the 'bunny hug, ma,' said Frank, and before his mother could protest he caught her round the waist and whirled her about the room, much to the amusement of the family.

Suddenly Mrs. Emmons screamed with pain and the dance and laughter ceased abruptly. Dr. Daniel C. Adams was summoned when Mrs. Emmons complained of a persistent pain in her side, and his examination disclosed the fact that a rib had broken under the pressure put upon it. Now, with a plaster cast about her body, Mrs. Emmons is decidely of the opinion that the "bunny hug" ought to be under a ban. So is Frank Emmons.

WATER COMMITTEE MET; AND HAD COSY LITTLE CHAT.

The special Water Committee of Council met last night and talked over some features of the proposed condemnation proceedings relative to the question of acquiring a municipal water plant. Mayor G. W. V. Moy met with the committee and reported that the recent hearing before the Attorney-General would be continued at a later date.

The committee through its special counsel, Albert T. Wall, of Jersey City, with the assistance of Mayor Moy, is trying to establish the true relationship between the Plainfield Water Company as it was formerly known and the Plainfield-Union Water Company, the present corporate name of the company. If the merger can be shown to be illegal, which is believed by some people, the city is of the opinion that it will have an important bearing on the steps to condemn the local plant.

CARUSO SEES HIMSELF PORTRAYED AND LAUGHS.

"Mi mak-a Carus' look-a like thirty centesimi," said Frederico Donatelli, the Caruso of the Bowery, in The Million, at the Herald Square. And the real Caruso, occupying a box as the guest of Henry W. Savage, laughed himself speechless. He was so convulsed with laughter that he could not sing in the refrain of his own song, "Dreams of Long Ago," which is rendered in the action of the comedy. When presented to Paul Ker, who plays Donatelli, the great tenor said:

"I have not laughed so much in years. I think it is good for anyone to see his own eccentricities shown up. You represent me very kindly though. I have enjoyed myself thanks to you and you sing well."

Glowing with the appreciation but with his fine sense of humor ever on tap, Paul Ker responded:

"Well, one of us can sing."

Wanted a Consultation.

So supreme was the leadership of Senator Aldrich over a host of political followers and personal friends that many a vote was cast this way or that or the other for the sole reason that "Nels says so." Some one was recalling this fact in the senate lobby when another of the little group remarked:

"That's the exact truth. I speak from personal feeling. I trusted Aldrich's judgment implicity, and I don't know that it ever led me wrong." Then, as he contemplatively flicked the ashes off his cigar, he went on: "Did I ever tell you about a funny dream I had? I thought I was dead, and St. Peter was putting the usual questions at me before adding my name to his heavenly census. At last he figured out I was O. K. and told me to go ahead in, but I hesitated. 'Why, what's wrong?' says he. 'Most folks are in a hurry when I give 'em the word.' 'Well,' says I, 'I dare say it's all right, but I do wish I could have a couple of words with Aldrich before taking so important a step.'" — Los Angeles Times.

Dr. D. W. C. Huntington Dies.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 9.—Dr. D. W. C. Huntington, chancellor emeritus of Wesleyan university, died suddenly here of pneumonia at the age of eighty two years. Dr. Huntington composed the hymn "Oh, Think of the Home Over There," which is sung the world over and has been translated into every tongue.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

On Monday evening, January 22, George Arliss will have appeared at Wallack's theatre in Louis N. Parker's "Disraeli" 150 times. This is the first play of the season to have reached this coveted mark, so it was suggested to Mr. Arliss that the occasion be commemorated by the distribution of fitting souvenirs. "Nonsense," said he, "there will be ten or possibly twelve attractions that will reach 150 performances before the season is over. We'll wait until we have 250 to our credit before we celebrate publicly. Then we'll have reason to be proud." "Disraeli" has been one of the most consistently strong attractions of the season. Even during the few weeks just preceding Christmas, when the theatres usually feel a decided slump in business, there was no considerable diminution in the Wallack's theatre receipts. It is confidently expected that "Disraeli" will run the season out in its present quarters.

Those who have read John Fox, Jr.'s widely read book, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and had their minds flooded with sunshine as they followed June along the lonely trail to the rugged, gaunt, lonesome pine that guarded Lonesome Cove, will follow with equal interest the same trail hewn by Eugene Walter, in Klaw & Erlanger's production at the New Amsterdam theatre. While John Fox, Jr., let us trace the life of June in the written page, in the play we follow Charlotte Walker, who impersonates the wild mountain girl with deep sympathy beyond the purple tops of the Cumberland mountains into a realm of romantic love. Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger have struck a true note of coloring in the impressive scenic embellishment they have lent their production, for not only do painter and author charmingly interweave their conception of scene and action, but they have given on the stage a truer interpretation of the primitiveness of the denizen of the Virginia hills than one could possibly believe could be conjured from the printed page of Mr. Fox's delightful narrative.

MORSE HOME FROM ATLANTA PRISON

Ex-Banker's Health Improves by Freedom.

FAMILY REUNION ON TRAIN

Physician For New Yorker Who President Paroled That He Might Die Outside Prison Walls Says Patient Is Suffering From Several Incurable Diseases.

New York, Feb. 9.—Accompanied by his wife, his son and private physician, Dr. A. L. Fowler of Atlanta, Charles W. Morse arrived here, a paroled prisoner from the federal penitentiary in Georgia.

With Mrs. Morse leading the way, the former banker was wheeled in a roller chair to a taxicab, in which the entire party was driven hurriedly to 127 West Fifty-eighth street, where Morse and his wife will remain, pending arrangements for his departure for Bad Nauheim, Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany. He will probably leave New York in ten days or two weeks, depending upon the advice of his physician.

Morse is suffering from Bright's disease, in addition to which he is afflicted with a valvular disease of the heart. Dr. Fowler says that the greatest danger now confronting the ex-banker is excitement and that he survived the welcome that awaited him in New York is short of remarkable. The explosions of flashlight powder, which startled the people in the Pennsylvania station and reverberated through the building seemed to have little effect upon Mr. Morse. He looked steadily ahead as the chair was wheeled along, the big collar of the fur-lined overcoat obscuring most of his face. Mrs. Morse attempted to cover her face with a wrap.

"Mr. Morse's health has shown wonderful improvement since his release," said Mrs. Morse, "but we both realize that he is a very sick man still. He did the trip well, and if he escapes the journal photographers, I hope that he will soon be strong enough to take a trip abroad, which we have planned. The trip from Atlanta was uneventful except for the family reunion we held aboard the train after leaving Washington. Mr. Morse was delighted to have the company of both of his sons, his daughter-in-law, his granddaughter and his sister."

Dr. A. L. Fowler, the physician who has attended Morse since last November, said that Morse's condition has shown rapid improvement since his release from Fort McPherson, where he was confined for some weeks after being removed from Atlanta prison.

WIFE OF HAWLEY HEIR IN WORKHOUSE CELL

Mrs. Frederick H. Crandell Will Be Released Today.

New York, Feb. 9.—In a cell in a cotton blouse of prison pattern Mrs. Caroline Crandell, wife of Frederick H. Crandell, an heir to the $200,000 estate of his uncle, John Hawley, was found in the Queens county workhouse on Blackwell's island. The woman, so it is said, in ignorance of the fact that her husband has inherited a fortune.

Mrs. Crandell was arrested on Jan. 20 at 2549 Eighth avenue on the charge of "disorderly conduct and malicious mischief." The complaint was made by Margaret Brown, one of the two daughters of Mrs. Mary Brown, a widow, with whom Frederick H. Crandell and his wife had been living in their home.

The term of Mrs. Crandell at the workhouse expires today, and it is said he is her sister, Miss Ethel M. Morse, formerly of 318 West One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street. Mr. Crandell and Orlando [illegible] together took it to the Morses [illegible] and as plans [illegible] their inheritance.

SCHWAB THREATENS TO QUIT

Will Retire if Underwood Steel Bill Is Passed.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Speaking with every evidence of sincerity and in a manner that strongly impressed his hearers, Charles M. Schwab, the steel manufacturer, told the senate committee on finance today that if the Underwood bill reducing the tariff on steel becomes a law he would sell out his share in the Bethlehem Steel company and retire.

"I have put my entire fortune in twenty years of toil in the business," said Mr. Schwab. "Our company is the largest [illegible] in the past, doing a business of $[illegible] a year. We are doing [illegible] dividends, but are putting all our profits back into the business. I am [illegible] in the world. I love my work. I love this business, and not only my interest is in building up a good plant and keeping it going, but if you gentlemen in congress pass this Underwood bill I will sell out my stock and retire from the steel business forever."

Mr. Schwab appeared before the committee voluntarily and was on the stand about three hours. Labor conditions appeared to be the phase that interested the members of the committee most. Mr. Schwab described them in detail and said they were not half as bad as they had been painted.

STEAL AMERICAN MAIL.

Pouches Stolen In Italy Are Valued at $100,000.

Naples, Feb. 9.—A number of American mail bags, here by way of Havre, France, containing registered mail and remittances from Italian emigrants in America for their families in Sicily, valued at $100,000, disappeared after they left Naples and no trace of them can be found. It is believed the bags were stolen from the mail boat Persee, which was taking them to Palermo.

SAYS HINES OFFERED BRIBE.

Girl Telegraph Operator Important Lorimer Case Witness.

Washington, Feb. 9.—A situation has been created in the Lorimer investigation that is likely to lead to more startling developments than anything that has been before disclosed in this much talked case. A Postal Telegraph operator, Miss Helen M. Scavers, who testified in the rotunda of the Willard hotel that Edward Hines, the Chicago lumber merchant, whose name has figured prominently in the Lorimer case, had offered her money if she would show him a telegram that had been filed with her for transmission by A. C. Bailey, a Burns detective who has been a witness in the investigation here. She gave her testimony in a straightforward manner and made a profound impression on the committee.

Miss Scavers testified that Mr. Hines [illegible] to see the Bailey telegram and offered "to put something in her palm." The attempted bribery, according to Miss Scavers, occurred about [illegible] ago. Mr. Bailey had filed a telegram to Henry Kerr of Detroit, who is a witness against Lorimer.

Madrid, Feb. 9.—It is reported that King Alfonso will meet President Fallieres in a shooting match at Biarritz in April. The return of the king to the capital has been delayed by the floods.

The minister of finance has drawn a bill to give financial aid to the relatives of the men who were murdered in Catalonia some time ago. These murders brought about the recent government resignations after the king had pardoned the only man condemned for the crime.

ASK TAFT TO INTERVENE.

Illinois Business Men Fear Strike of Bituminous Miners.

Decatur, Ill., Feb. 9.—President Taft and congress may be asked to aid in preventing a strike of Illinois coal miners. The Decatur chamber of commerce has sent a letter to every commercial organization in the state urging its cooperation in a movement to prevent a labor strike in the bituminous coal fields. The plan is to have President Taft insist that the differences between the miners and the operators be settled by arbitration.

AN EXPLANATION.

It is said that only by sad experience do we learn how to accomplish things; and the publishers of the Daily Press are getting a taste of that experience, which has been unpleasant not only for us but for our readers. As is well known a new and much faster press was installed a little over two weeks ago to handle the increased volume of news and advertising matter which has been printed since the change of ownership of the paper took place on January first. The press has been running very well for over a week, and our own men have handled it satisfactorily for days, the paper on several occasions having been in the hands of the readers an hour earlier than was the case before the installation of the press.

Because of lack of room, our paper has been stored in another building. The rolls have become damp, and when moved into the office have dried out thoroughly. Last night it was found, when a new roll was put on the press, after about one-half of the evening's edition was printed, that the paper continually tore. As a result it was late in the evening before the edition was finally completed, and some of our subscribers did not get their papers until this morning.

New machinery always causes more or less trouble, and the Press has had its full share. Our readers have been most loyal, and we have the greatest hope now that we will not have to ask their indulgence for many days more. The lack of ink on some pages, which has caused complaint, will not be troublesome to anyone after a few more issues, and when that is corrected the publishers of the Press will not have to make any apologies.

THE MONEY TRUST CANARD.

Probably the most dangerous, certainly the most silly, scheme to make political capital at the expense of general business conditions is the movement for an investigation by Congress of the so-called Money Trust. It is an old, old trick of the cunning politician and the demagogue. As an exchange says, it is the most absurd of all the foolish spectres conjured up to frighten a free and independent people.

Professor Joseph French Johnson dean of the New York University School of Commerce, in an address in Boston a few nights ago told the history of the scheme in this fashion:

"The so-called Money Trust is the same old bogey with which demagogues have frightened the Simple Simons of all ages. Apparently its blood-sucking tentacles are no longer, nor more numerous, than when under the name of Julian, in the second century of the Christian era, it bought the Roman Empire, or than when, under the disguise of a Venetian banker, it financed the Crusades in return for a first mortgage upon Christendom.

"The Scotch historian, Archibald Alison, discovered the monster at work in England nearly one hundred years ago. He writes of the "common complaint that the money power has become all powerful, that its sway is paramount in the legislature and that it is able to set all the other interests in the community at defiance.'"

The man who would destroy business confidence and bring disaster to his country by being instrumental in such an uncalled-for and pernicious scheme, for the sole purpose of attracting political attention to himself, is a dangerous being, of whom nothing too bad can be said.

One aspect of the "recall" in actual practice is furnished by the Tacoma, Washington, Ledger, and we can't do better than reprint the western paper's comment. Here it is:

"They'll be around soon knocking at your door to ask for signatures to a recall petition against the mayor.

"'Won't you please sign just to accommodate me?' will be one appeal.

"'It won't cost you anything to sign,' will be another.

"'Help make up the necessary number of names and let the people decide,' will be one of the demagogic remarks designed to induce you to take pen in hand and assist in bringing on a recall election.

"'What's the recall for if not to use?' may be still another method of getting at you, if the petition circulator takes you to be easy.

"These and a score more reasons and pretexts will be given, and some persons will sign without realizing the full force and effect of their act."

That Plainfield's people may be depended upon to respond liberally and readily to an worthy appeal no one of us has ever questioned. But many of us must admit that when the hospital governors announced their purpose to raise $90,000 in ten days by voluntary popular subscription, grave fears were expressed that the task was too stupendous. Yet, after two short days, the campaigners report having obtained over $53,000 towards the fund. Ten days remain in which the balance of $37,000 must be subscribed. Probably that burst of enthusiasm which blew in from Erie, Pa., was right when he declared that Plainfield would not give $90,000 but that it would give $125,000.

This is no time for giving suggestions how things should be done either at the institution or by the $90,000 campaign committee. It is a time for action; a time for putting up and shutting up. Don't knock just shove. Don't be a four-flusher be a man. When a campaigner visits your home, don't send word that you are out, or have gone to bed, or are too busy. Give him a hearty welcome and tell him that you are glad to be counted among those who are a credit to the city and that you will give even more than you can afford.

New Jersey has had three Governors within twenty-four hours and two of them were Republicans. When Governor Wilson left for the West on Wednesday afternoon, Speaker Martin, of the House, was sworn in as President Prince, of the Senate, happened to be in New York. Dr. Prince did not intend to forego the honors he hurried back to Trenton early yesterday and took the oath. But Jersey always has plenty of men for that job.

Prince Jaisingrao, son of the Gaekwar of Baroda, has completed his course for an academic degree at Harvard and will soon return to India, where his father is one of the most powerful and richest rulers. It seems that he specialized in philosophy and religion but found abundant time to get a taste of one branch of an American education which is not confined to colleges, for he says that poker is expensive.

At the session of the Plainfield Business College yesterday, Professor Herr put out the ideas along which the committee is working. The pupils voted to subscribe in the name of the school. The money raised is to be turned over to the fund of which Hugh B. Sweeny, who is connected with the institution, is leader.

There are numerous clubs and societies of young people throughout the city, the members of which will not be approached through the regular committee, perhaps, because of the failure to have them listed, and it remains for these bodies of young people to "get together" at this time and engage in the good work and make the sacrifices which this work calls for.

London Lad Believed to Be Heir to California Miner's Estate.

By an action filed in the superior court at San Francisco a London newsboy, Etienne Buillard, fourteen years old, becomes a contestant for a fortune. The suit is filed by Mrs. Amelia A. Dierks on his behalf. The lad she found selling papers in London two years ago, and in her suit she tells a story of the boy's abandonment in Paris after the death of his mother.

She says she discovered that he is the grandson of the late Dennis Hayes, a wealthy pioneer miner of California. The suit is for the Hayes estate, approximately valued at $100,000.

Tomb of Omar Khayyam.

Omar Khayyam's tomb at Nishapur is in one wing of the mosque erected in memory of the Moslem saint Imamzadah Mohammed Mahruk. Although the poet's prophecy concerning his tomb—that it would be in a place where the north wind would scatter roses over it—is not literally true, the garden of the mosque is so rich in roses as almost "to make one in love with death." There is no inscription upon the tomb, a simple case made of brick and cement, to tell the story, or even the name, of its occupant, although it is well known to be Omar's grave. "Vandal scribblers," Professor Jackson, who lately visited the spot, says, "have desecrated it with random scrawls and have also scratched their names upon the brown mortar of the adjoining walls, disclosing the white cement underneath. A stick of wood, a stone and some fragments of shards profaned the top of the sarcophagus when we saw it. There was nothing else. It is to be regretted that some of Omar's admirers in the occident do not provide a suitable inscription on the spot to show the renown he enjoys in the west."—Argonaut.

Paint that Stays Painted

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

CHURCHILL TELLS OF HOME RULE BILL

Belfast Orangemen Hiss Cabinet Member.

PARLIAMENT FOR IRELAND

Expected Fight Between Orangemen and Nationalists Passes Off With Comparative Quiet Except For Minor Riots—Troops and Police Put Down Disorders.

Belfast, Ireland, Feb. 9.—After all the turmoil of the past month Winston Churchill's meeting passed off peacefully. The authorities had taken elaborate military and police precautions to prevent disorder, and, as it proved, they were successful, but more than once the situation looked threatening.

The salient points of Mr. Churchill's home rule proposal follow:

The Irish parliament to consist of a senate and house of commons, to control taxation, subject to the veto power of the imperial government.

The crown to retain the power to refuse its assent to any unjust bill and the imperial parliament to have the power to repeal any such bill.

The army and navy to remain under the control of the imperial government.

The bill also will contain provisions to safeguard religious freedom and fair play for Protestants and Catholics.

If any law passed by the Irish parliament transgresses the limit laid down in the home rule act, the privy council, during the adjournment of the imperial parliament, will have power to declare it null and void.

The predictions of bloodshed which had caused the government to quarter 5,000 troops in Belfast were not fulfilled. The Orange workmen paraded the streets in front of the hotel where Mr. and Mrs. Churchill were stopping both before and after his speech, carrying an effigy of the first lord of the admiralty and singing British songs, but they did not come in contact with the Nationalists. These also paraded and cheered enthusiastically and sang "The Boys of Wexford" and other Nationalist songs.

There were some hostile demonstrations at Larne when Mr. Churchill arrived there and again when he left that place on the steamer, but no serious trouble. The first lord and his wife were "booed" on several occasions, but when a mob attempted to overturn the motorcar in which Mr. Churchill and his wife were going to Celtic park the police and detectives, who accompanied the cabinet member in other automobiles, rushed to and quickly dispersed the rioters.

Belfast is quiet. The streets of the rival organizations, the Nationalists and the Orangemen, are crowded with the respective partisans, who are having a high jubilation.

Sir Edward Carson, who is the head of the Ulster Unionists, addressed an assemblage of thousands from the steps of the Unionist club. He congratulated the people on their orderly conduct and declared that the people of Ulster would never accept home rule.

"We'll fight rather than that," he declared, "and tombstones shall move our way."

DELAY DYNAMITE ARRESTS.

Labor Men Expecting Indictments, Have Retained Alton B. Parker.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 9.—The activities about the offices of the United States district attorney and district clerk increased with the sending out of certified indictments and capiases in the dynamiting cases, but the officers were not able to meet their expectations, and the arrests under the indictments may be delayed now until early next week. The district attorney does not fear that attempts will be made to leave the country if all indicted persons are not arrested at the same time, but he says he prefers such a program, and for that reason the farthest federal jurisdiction, presumably California, will have to be reached with the indictments and capiases before any arrests are made.

A report is current here that Alton B. Parker of New York, candidate on the Democratic ticket for president in 1904, has been retained by some of the men who have been indicted. It is said that these men have been connected with the ironworkers' organization in the east, but it is not known here whether they have been indicted or not.

AFTER NEW YORK DELEGATES

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 9.—The battle for New York state delegates for Wilson opened here today when Charles Marshall of Washington, representing the National League of Woodrow Wilson Clubs, is in Auburn conferring with Democratic leaders attending the state grange convention. He said:

"We have decided to contest the New York state delegation to the Democratic national convention, as we do not hope for anything from Tammany. We find such a response from the rank and file that we will fight for the New York state delegates and if Murphy gets in the way he will have his troubles. Headquarters have been opened in Utica, and another headquarters will be opened in Syracuse."

The real question is not whether the money trust shall be investigated, but what sort of a Presidential campaign shall the Democrats carry on.—New York Times.

FOR INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

Bill For Federal Licensing and Regulation of Corporations.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Representative E. W. Martin of South Dakota, a Republican, authority in congress on anti-trust legislation, has introduced a bill in the house providing for the creation of an industrial commission of five members to whom all interstate corporations in the country with a capitalization of $1,000,000 or more shall apply for a federal license. The commission is to have the same powers as the interstate commerce commission, and not more than three members shall come from one political party. They are to be appointed by the president and confirmed by the senate for a term of six years and to be paid $10,000 a year.

TO ADJOURN APRIL 1.

Legislature at Albany Not to Hold Long Session.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Final adjournment of the legislature by April 1 is predicted by Majority Leader Young in the assembly in announcing that action on primary election legislation probably will be taken next week. Mr. Young said a careful study of bills thus far introduced led him to believe that early adjournment is possible.

Assemblyman Horton introduced a bill providing that a savings bank's dividend shall not be greater than 3½ per cent unless its surplus, reckoned on the market value of its securities, shall amount to 20 per cent of its deposits.

TO LIMIT WOMEN'S WORKING HOURS

Edge Bill Hearing Will Be Taken Up Next Tuesday.

LABOR LEAGUES FAVOR IT.

Measure Calls For a Ten Hour Day and Eight Hours For a Night's Work. Will Be Effective to Many of the State's Factories.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 9.—The committee on corporations in the state senate has set next Tuesday, Feb. 13, as the day for a hearing on the Edge bill to limit the hours of women's work. The bill asks for a ten hour day and a sixty hour week in day work, and an eight hour day and forty-eight hour week in night work, for women employed in factories, stores, laundries, bakeries and restaurants.

In twenty-six other states laws to limit the hours of women's work are in force, and in Kentucky, Rhode Island and New York similar bills are being introduced this winter. The Kentucky and New York bills are recommended by state commissions appointed to investigate conditions.

The state bill is indorsed by the Consumers' league, the state department of labor, the American Association For Labor Legislation, the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the public welfare committee of Essex county and several other organizations. They consider that the strength of the bill lies in the fact that it makes no exemption even of seasonal trades.

The Edge bill includes stores because some are now working regularly five days of twelve hours each, followed by a Saturday of fourteen hours. Restaurants are included because many are now open night and day with two shifts of girls working twelve hours each.

In some factories the regular day will not be affected by the bill, but in many it is badly needed, for, according to a statement in the report of the bureau of statistics of labor and industries for 1910, there were then "eighty-three establishments employing over 17,000 operatives male and female in which the working hours range from sixty and one-half to eighty-four hours per week, and these are without exception the industries in which the working conditions are most severe."

TAKE MONEY AS POLICE WAIT.

Detectives Let Black Hands Take Package They Demanded.

Hackensack, N. J., Feb. 9.—Two Black Hand agents played a trick on county detectives. A package supposed to contain $500 in money was placed in a spot designated by them, and which they took, contained two marked five dollar bills and a quantity of stage money.

George Murray, a hotel keeper of Cliffside Park, received last December threatening letters in which the writers demanded $500 and that it be placed under a large rock on Dan Kelly's hill at a certain time. The request was not complied with. At midnight on New Year's eve Mr. Murray discovered two bombs in his barroom. He kicked them out into the street before they exploded, but the front of his hotel was badly damaged. No more was heard of the Black Hand men until Wednesday, when another threatening letter was received.

Mr. Murray put the package in the in the opening under the frame trolley station.

Detectives Blauvelt, Courtor and Bounsor went to Cliffside Park. Soon after two well dressed men walked up to the station and went into the waiting room. They came out in a few seconds and disappeared.

After the men were out of sight the detectives came out, went to the rear of the waiting room and looked in the opening for the package. It had vanished. The detectives hurried to the waiting room and found a hole had been chopped in the floor.

PREACHER FIGHTS BEGGAR.

Asbury Park Clergyman Arrested After Lively Scrimmage.

Asbury Park, N. J., Feb. 9.—The Rev. Joseph M. Conway of this place knocked John Kelly down at Mount Vernon when Kelly insulted him after he had refused him alms.

Kelly arose and attacked the minister and both were soon rolling about in the mud and snow. Policeman Wren arrived after the men had been parted and placed both under arrest. The Rev. Mr. Conway was released in his own custody.

NEW WAY FOR MARRIAGE.

Branchville Couple Take Sleigh Ride to Clergyman's Home.

Branchville, N. J., Feb. 9.—Miss Viola Sanders and John David Hull left the young woman's home here for a sleigh ride. They returned man and wife. They had been engaged for some time, but none of their friends suspected that the knot would be tied so soon. The ceremony was performed in the parlors of the Park Place hotel by the Rev. William C. Perez.

"Mary, how was it I saw you entertaining a policeman at supper last night?"

"I dunno, mum, unless you was peerin' thro' the key'ole."—Punch.

Could This Happen to You?

WILL OF 99 YEARS AGO FIGURES IN LAND SUIT

Ambiguity in a clause in a will made ninety-nine years ago, devising a parcel of wild land in West Orange Township, was the basis of a suit to quiet title that came on for final hearing before Vice-Chancellor Stevens today.

M'KINLEY TO MANAGE THE TAFT CAMPAIGN

Illinois Congressman to Run Pre-convention Fight.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois, who for the last four years has been chairman of the Republican congressional campaign, will run President Taft's pre-convention campaign. This announcement is made authoritatively. It was said that Taft headquarters would be opened in Washington within a few days and that an aggressive campaign in the interest of the president will be waged from now on.

The selection of Representative McKinley came as a surprise to most Republicans in Washington, but it is conceded that the choice is a good one. Mr. McKinley is a man of considerable wealth, controlling a large traction system in Illinois; is an experienced politician and is well liked even by the insurgents. It is true that McKinley is known as a Cannon man, having managed the Cannon presidential boom back in 1908.

OROZCO LOYAL TO MADERO.

Mexican General Refuses Governorship of Chihuahua.

El Paso, Feb. 9.—Pasqual Orozco refused the governorship of Chihuahua after the state legislature had selected him, but he protests his loyalty to Madero and is said to have declined the governorship partially because the state legislature declined to indorse Madero, also because he believed the constitutional governor, Abram Gonzales, should first be given a chance to restore order, or at least have some say in the matter.

Orozco still protests loyalty to Madero and is sending troops into the country west of Chihuahua to attempt to disperse the bands of armed men in the field in the name of Vasquez Gomez.

Prominent families are still fleeing from Chihuahua to El Paso, and the Chinese throughout northern Mexico are fleeing to El Paso and Juarez, fearing a repetition of the slaughter that occurred in Torreon during the taking of the town by Maderistas a year ago.

RESCUE ENTOMBED MINERS.

In California Sixty-two Men Were Caught by Cave-in.

Sutter Creek, Cal., Feb. 9. The sixty-two miners entombed in the Bunker Hill mine by a cave-in in the mouth of the shaft were rescued after twelve hours of hard work by miner from nearby mines. None of the men was injured. They were greeted by their wives and daughters as they came out of the shaft with their candles still burning.

The men had been caught by a cave-in at the mouth of the incline shaft.

"Mad Anthony" Wayne.

The nickname of "Mad Anthony" attached to the name of General Wayne of Revolutionary fame was due to no trace of insanity, but instead to the man's wild, reckless courage in plunging into battle where the odds against him seemed hopeless. He had other nicknames too. "Dandy Wayne" was one of them, because of his absurd love for wearing fine clothes in the wilderness and in battle. The Indians gave him the nickname of "Black Snake" from the swift and deadliness of his attack. At the outbreak of the Revolutionary war Sir Henry Clinton sold of Wayne: "Wherever Mad Anthony Wayne is there's always a fight. That's what he is there for." And Clinton had sufficient experience to know whereof he spoke.

PROCLAMATION.

Owing to the number of mad dogs running at large, and the number of persons who have been bitten by the same:

Therefore, I, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Major of North Plainfield, do order the muzzling of all dogs within the Borough limits, with a suitable muzzle sufficient to render biting impossible.

Any person who shall after the issuing of this notice and during the time that the same shall remain in force, suffer, allow or permit any dog, owned, kept or harbored by any person, to go unmuzzled upon any of the streets or public places of the Borough of North Plainfield, or upon any premises other than those owned or occupied by such person, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of the dog ordinance of the said Borough.

This notice shall continue in force sixty days.

SCRANTON MAY PLAY SUNDAY BASEBALL.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 9.—A ball park along the Laurel line, most likely at Rocky Glen to be used for Sunday games, is being considered by Owner Coleman, of the Scranton club, and Clymer, of Wilkes-Barre.

The two have already held several conferences over the matter. A site for a park at Rocky Glen has been offered with the understanding that the two clubs erect a grandstand and bleachers. Mr. Coleman proposes to have either Scranton or Wilkes-Barre use the park every Sunday, and is trying to interest the Laurel Line company to the extent of standing some of the expense of erecting a park.

NEW MEXICO BANISHES JOHNSON-FLYNN BOUT.

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 9.—Promoters of the Johnson-Flynn prizefight will encounter official opposition to the proposal to stage the bout in New Mexico, according to a statement made yesterday by Governor William McDonald, who says: "If I can stop it I will not permit a contest between a white man and a negro."

The Governor recognizes that as a State New Mexico has no legal means of preventing ring battles, and declares that when the State Legislature convenes, March 11, he will submit a special message urging the enactment of an anti-prizefight law.

Wild Stick to Old Love.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Charles A. Comiskey, president of the White Sox, was asked last night to attach his signature to a contract to seek the Democratic nomination for Governor of Illinois. At first Comiskey thought it was a joke and told the four Mayors of Illinois cities who were promising him he could win that he would be a candidate only it might interfere with his baseball and fishing engagements.

Big Basketball Score.

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 9.—One of the largest basketball scores of the season is claimed today by Lehigh University's five. In a game here Wednesday night the local five overwhelmed Maryland College by a score of 60 to 8.

WHAT THE SPORTS EDITOR HAS TO SAY

The Red Men and Knights of Columbus bowling teams clash tonight in the Fraternal league tournament at the Olympia alleys. This is the first meeting between the Indians and the Shamrocks and as both are strong contenders the meeting is attracting considerable attention.

The cups to be awarded to the winners in the Fraternal league, which have been on exhibition in George Finger's store windows, are now being shown in the Putnam and LeGraw store. They are admired—yes coveted—by all the pinners who tell each other how swell they will look adorning the walls of their meeting rooms.

Jimmy Mullen, who used to wear a Newark uniform, will hereafter be one of the men roaming about the country looking for new material for the big leagues. He will scout for the Toronto team of the International League.

The selection of Tom Jenkins, the former heavyweight champion wrestler, to referee the bout between Zbyszko and Raicevich on Monday night, is meeting with popular favor by fans of the wrestling game. They feel that under his orders the match will not result in the same kind of a fiasco as did the former meeting between these grapplers.

The news that veteran Jim Delehanty will quit the diamond to wear a star as a member of Cleveland's finest, comes as the curtain to more than a decade of strenuous work with various big league teams. Last season he was second baseman for the Detroit Tigers.

Boston is emulating Plainfield in the matter of putting the soft pedal on boxing bouts. The old Armory A. C. has been closed, and Eddie Keevin, who opened the American A. C., was arrested and fined $500 the other day for promoting an exhibition.

One bowler in Plainfield who is rapidly forging to the front is James Mahoney. Wednesday night he hit the wood for 234 and 224 respectively in open games on the Olympia alleys. At this rate, and it seems to be about his stride, it behooves the stars to look well to their laurels.

Frank Willett is talking up a duck pin tournament among the enthusiasts of this branch of the sport and already has secured enough encouragement to proceed with plans. He expects to have teams selected and a schedule under way in about a week. All who are fond of the little ones are welcome. Just see Frank.

LEE HART NEW FIELDER, JOINS DOOIN'S PHILLIES.

It looks as though the Phillies are going to have one of the strongest outfields that ever played the National game. President Horace S. Fogel has received the signed contract of the star gardener of the "Kitty" League, Lee Hart, who is in Paducah, Ky.

This youngster played on the Fulton team, which won the championship in the Kitty League last season. He led the league in batting and base running. His batting average his first year was .368 and last season he slashed the pill to the tune of .383. He is only a youngster, but he is said to not only be fit for the fast set, but good enough to make a position on almost any team in the top company.

Manager Charles Dooin the other day said that there was not a sure position on his team and that any time he could improve the nine by using a new man he would do so.

Yale Tennis Team to Play 7 Games.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 9.—The Yale Tennis Club schedule announced today calls for seven matches, three abroad and four at home. It follows: May 4, West Side Athletic Club, at New York; May 9, Columbia at New Haven; May 11, Amherst at Amherst; May 15, Dartmouth at New Haven; May 18, Princeton, at Princeton; May 22, University of Pennsylvania, at New Haven; May 25, Harvard, at New Haven.

Haverford Coach Dead.

Haverford, Pa., Feb. 9.—John J. Guiney, football coach and athletic director of Haverford College, died Tuesday night at the Bryn Mawr Hospital after a two days' illness. A testimonial memorial service was held Wednesday afternoon at the college, which was attended by every student. Guiney was so well known and admired that each undergraduate feels a deep personal loss in his death.

"Cy" Young Signed up.

Denton T. ("Cy") Young sent to the office of the Boston club of the National League yesterday is signed contract for his twenty-sevond year in major league baseball. He is the oldest pitcher in point of years and service in either of the big leagues.

YALE AND COLUMBIA PLAY BEST IN 'COLLEGE GAMES'

Yale and Columbia put up the best contest in the college league basketball games played yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. Columbia nosed out the Old Eli five by one point, the score being 5 to 4. The other games were more or less one sided, but furnished lots of sport for the team supporters.

Harvard trimmed Brown with a 12 to 2 score. Princeton showed her supremacy over Rutgers 7 to 2, while the leading Pennsylvania quintet had no difficulty in defeating Cornell 16 to 2.

The lineups follows: Yale—Rider, Huelson, Hirsch, Tomlinson and Cantor; Columbia—Krausse, Rosenson, Giles, Gunzleman and Causebrock; Harvard—Whelan, McDonald, Simon, Emmons and Sheng; Brown, Fass, Brower, Pennoyer, Brownley and O'Donnell; Princeton—Foster, Hirsch, Cartwright, Paterson and Smith; Rutgers—Thickstun, Stout, Crone, Hyland and Starkweather; Pennsylvania—Abrams, Dealaman, Bierse, Farman and Beekman; Cornell—Condroy, Conroy, Seals, Adams and Bradford.

Charley Faust Makes Threats.

Today's the day when Charley Faust, the Giants' eccentric mascot is to meet Manager McGraw at his office and for the last time ask for a contract. If McGraw refuses to tender him the papers Faust will leave the club and let it get along as best it can. Faust says he will spring a sensation at the National League meeting on next Tuesday by appearing before the club owners and offering himself at auction to the highest bidder—that is if Manager McGraw refuses to sign him today.

Yale Fencing Dates Announced.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 9.—The schedule of the Yale fencing team, announced, includes five meets besides the intercollegiate preliminaries. The schedule follows: February 17, Army, at West Point; 24, Harvard, at New Haven; March 1, University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; 2, Princeton and Columbia, at New York; 16, Navy, at Annapolis; 23, intercollegiate preliminaries at West Point.

Tommy Burns After Johnson.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 9.—Tommy Burns, the heavyweight pugilist, returned from Australia yesterday and announced he was anxious to fight Jack Johnson. Burns said he was in good condition, weighed 190 pounds and could enter the ring at 180. "Promoter Mountesh promised me that I could have a match with either Johnson or McVey," said Burns. "I'm after that heavyweight title again."

Kessler May Pitch for Troy.

Troy, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Pitcher Kessler may be back in the New York State League again next season, as Manager Ramsey has received a letter from Manager Lars Schlafly, of Jersey City, offering to turn Kessler over to the locals. The price is the only thing that prevents Manager Hank from closing the deal at once.

Newark Player to Quit Baseball.

York, Pa., Feb. 9.—Eddie Zimmerman, the fast third baseman of the Newark International League club, has decided to quit baseball. Zimmerman is spending the winter at his home in this city. He says he received a cut in salary and does not intend to rejoin the Indians.

Johnson Already Signed Up.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight, said he would leave for New York today for the purpose of signing articles for a 10-round fight before the Fairmont Athletic Club. Johnson said he had been offered $20,000 as his end of the show, and he immediately wired his acceptance.

Marquard Signs for Three Years.

New York, Feb. 9.—Rube Marquard met Manager McGraw in the office of the New York Club yesterday, and the young southpaw twirler ceased to be a holdout, if he ever was one. After a short confab Marquard put his name to a contract for the seasons of 1912, 1913 and 1914.

Pat Murphy Released.

Reading, Pa., Feb.—Pat Murphy, a guard who came here about a month ago from Kingston, N. Y., has been released by the management of the Reading Eastern League basketball team. Freichhorn, Posey Fisher and Kissinger will hereafter take care of the defense work.

A Skating Challenge.

Ludlow, Mass., Feb. 9.—The New England woman skating champion, Miss Margaret Graham, has issued a challenge to Miss Leonard, of Cleveland, the world's champion. If the latter accepts the defi the race will be held on the James River or on Lake Erie.

In any case Wilson's election appears impossible unless the Democratic party is to become the party of radicalism.—Forth Worth Record.

The Elizabeth team won two games out of three last evening, on their home alleys from the Jersey City five, in the Elk's League, tying Hoboken and Rutherford for second place. The Union county boys missed going into first place by three pins, losing the second game by the score of 978 to 980, for which the Plainfield Elk's are thankful to Jersey City. Bowling for an average of 979.1 the Betsytown wood choppers succeeded in again going into first place for the fight for the team, securing the best average during the season for the greatest number of pins. Gathman reached high score for the evening by rolling 240. Henry Clauss, as anchor for Elizabeth was the real king pin, rolling scores of 219, 213 and 202 for an average of 211.1. "Tommy" Corrydon did the great "come-back stunt" in the second and third games by rolling 227 and 203 after having chalked up 137 in his first game. Tonight Elizabeth will meet the Hoboken boys on the Hoboken alleys and those who are lucky enough to witness the game should see a fast and exciting series. The outcome will be awaited with more than ordinary interest in this city, as the two teams are now tied for second place and either can pass Plainfield and go into first place by winning three games.

GERMANS TOOK TWO FROM THE SILK CITY FIVE

The Hoboken quintet got two games out of three on their home alleys last night in the Elks Bowling League match with the Passaic lodge representatives. There is now a three-cornered tie for second place, Elizabeth, Hoboken and Rutherford being even up in the percentage table.

The third encounter was a regular battle royal and was as fine an exhibition of pinning as one would care to see, the Passaic county bowlers hitting the wood for 957, putting up its best game for the season, but the Hoboken knights of the wood managed to creep away in the ninth and tenth frames by the excellent pinning of Miller and Topser until they reached 981, thus winning by twenty-four pins.

AUTO TO RACE ON ICE.

Koenig Plans Contest Between Tarrytown and Newburg.

New York, Feb 9.—Over the frozen surface of the Hudson Fred Koenig, the auto racer, drove his car from Tarrytown to Albany and back. With one exception the trip was without incident. Near West Point the car plunged through the ice drift and was stalled until pulled out by block and tackle.

Koenig in his auto now plans to race Hadley, the aviator, from Tarrytown to Newburg.

PARIS ALWAYS BIG ATTRACTION

Cathedral of Notre Dame, and many other educational, interesting and instructive points of interest will be visited during the five days which the Press party will spend in Paris. Many of these places you have heard or read about, but won't it be many times better to be able to say that you have seen them yourself, and to discuss them with others from your own personal observation?

And five days in Paris is only a very small part of the reward that will be hers who wins her district in this contest. It is not too late to start if your name or your friend's name is not entered, cut the nomination blank out at once and send it to the contest manager; each blank is good for 500 votes, and three are allowed to each candidate. The contest is only just getting under way, so your chance is equal to that of any one else. You compete only with those in your own district, and the competition will be strictly on the level. There are no favorites and there will be no favorites. A square deal to all is the keynote to the entire contest, and those who win will win on their merits alone.

The first count of votes will be made on Saturday night, and will be published in Monday's paper. The next count will be made on Wednesday, and votes will be counted each night thereafter and published in the following day's paper.

The Daily Press office will be open every evening from 7:30 until 9 o'clock, and the contest manager will be glad to answer any and all questions which may arise pertaining to the contest.

PNEUMONIA IS DUE TO A GERM

Rockefeller Institute Doctors Prove the Theory.

EXPERIMENTS ON DOGS.

Forty-eight Were Used, and Forty-two Developed Disease Just Like Pneumonia In Human Beings—Cancer Not Due to a Parasite.

The Rockefeller institute announces that it has succeeded at last in producing pneumonia experimentally, thereby proving, so the experts of the institute say, that pneumonia is caused by a germ, the pneumococcus. While that has long been a theory it has not been direct proof of it until now.

The institute experiments, made by Dr. R. V. Lamar and Dr. S. J. Melzer of the Rockefeller laboratories, are described in the Journal of Experimental Medicine.

All the experiments were made upon dogs. The method consisted in injecting pure cultures of the organisms taken from human patients into the lungs of the dogs. Forty-eight animals were used. In forty-two of the animals pneumonia was produced by the pneumococcus injections. Ten of the dogs died, thirty-four were killed within from one to twelve days and four several weeks after the injection.

Resembled Pneumonia.

"The fatal cases," say the experimenters, "resembled closely lobar pneumonia in man. In the non-fatal cases the pathological and bacteriological findings were again in accord with the findings in man. Clinically, however, the cases of non-fatal experimental pneumonia run a milder and shorter course than in man."

The dogs' lungs were clogged just like pneumonia stricken human lungs. The symptoms and autopsy findings were identical with those of human pneumonia.

Two other Rockefeller Institute experimenters, Dr. J. B. Murphy and Dr. Peyton Rous, have been inoculating unborn chicks with cancer. The work was done in the Rockefeller laboratories. The doctors cut out a piece of the eggshell, used a hypodermic needle containing the cancerous fluid and then sealed up the hole in the shell. The eggs were those of pure blooded barred Plymouth Rocks.

Cancer Inoculation.

The doctors report that they succeeded in the direct inoculation of a cancer of a fowl into the unhatched chick in the shell and also into unborn pigeons and ducklings, but they could not transplant fowl cancer to an adult pigeon or duck, and cancer transplanted from one variety of adult chicken to another did not flourish.

Dr. Isaac Levin, a Columbia university investigator under the provisions of the George Crocker Special Research fund, reports that he is convinced, after experiments on white rats, which are remarkably resistant to cancer, that the disease at the beginning is local, not constitutional or general, and hence is not due to a parasite.

Growth of cancer, concludes the Crocker fund experimenter, is due to a loss of equilibrium between the repressive power of the soft glandular cells and the "flowering" power of the cancer cells.

As to the origin of the cancer cell itself he announces no conclusion.

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION.

New Measure to Meet Objections of the Gallinger Bill.

A bill for the incorporation of the Rockefeller foundation has been introduced in the house by Mr. Peters of Massachusetts. It was referred to the committee on judiciary. A bill along the same lines was introduced in the senate in 1910, but publication of the terms of the proposed charter aroused criticism. It was reintroduced in amended form in June, 1911, and it is in this form that it has just been introduced in the house.

In the original bill it was stated the object of the incorporation was "to promote the well being and to advance the civilization of the peoples of the United States and its territories and possessions and of foreign lands," which terms opponents said were too broad.

The first important amendment states that congress may at any time impose such limitations on the objects of the corporation as the public interest may demand. Another amendment provides that the total amount of property shall be limited to $100,000,000.

The party will be provided with every comfort and convenience, and experienced guides will accompany them everywhere.

MISS HART BRIDE OF A CLERGYMAN

Her Marriage to Rev. Edward Pearsons Newton Takes Place at Calvary, N. Y.

GROOM FORMER MISSIONARY

Miss Carolina Burton Hart and the Rev. Edward Pearsons Newton were quietly married in Calvary church, New York, on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Canon Robert E. Jones, of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and Rev. Theodore Sedgwick, rector of the parish. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Harold Burton Hart, of New York, and there were no bridesmaids. Dr. George Bomtier Huntington, professor in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, was best man, and the ushers were Frederick W. Goddard, of New York, and Paul Bosaiiko, of Hartford, Conn., nephews of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. Charles A. Hart, formerly of Plainfield, who was most zealous in the founding of Muhlenberg Hospital; and of Virginia Burton Hart, and is a granddaughter of William E. Burton, a celebrated manager and comedian.

The groom has recently returned from four years' missionary service in Valdez and Cordova, Alaska, and was formerly senior curate of Calvary church for five years and prior to that time rector of Holy Trinity church, Pueblo, Colo. He has accepted a call to St. James church, Hyde Park-on-Hudson, whereafter a short wedding trip the couple will be located. He is a brother of Mrs. George H. Goddard and Mrs. John M. Whiton, both of this city.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE HEARS YALE'S MUSICAL CLUBS

The Yale Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Cubs were greeated by a capacity audience at the Hartridge Auditorium, last night, when they gave a concert, under the local management of Lewis A. Williams, Jr., the patronage of about one hundred prominent society women of the city and borough, and the auspices of the Plainfield Yale Club.

The glee club was in excellent voice, the selections were the best and the work of the soloists was especially noteworthy. The mandolin and banjo clubs also came in for a full share of applause for excellent work.

Features of the program were the tenor solos by W. W. Meyer; humorous vocal selections by a quartet, and the numbers by Cole Porter, who accompanied himself on the piano. His impersonations were unusually good.

After the concert the floor was cleared and dancing followed.

Fire at Berkeley Heights.

The cottage on Springfield avenue Berkeley Heights, occupied by P. Garfield Johnson and family, was totally destroyed by fire this week. The fire is supposed to have started from a defective flue, though its source has not been positively ascertained. Mrs. Johnson and her daughter were absent visiting relatives at Oakland, and Mrs. Johnson was preparing to bring them home the day after the blaze.

DO EDUCATION BOARDS VIOLATE STATE LAW ?

Meetings Are Open to Public by Act of 1911 But Local Boards Continue to Transact Business in Private Session.

Is it legal for either the Plainfield or the North Plainfield Board of Education to conduct its proceedings in private? In short is either body warranted in its practice of conducting its important proceedings in executive session as has been the custom for years? This question has been referred by the Daily Press to lawyers and they disagree—lawyers will sometimes disagree.

The Act of Legislature, session of 1911, chapter 231, section one, leads the layman at least to form the opinion that the boards of education are forbidden to hold "star chamber" proceedings. In other words their business must be transacted in public and not behind closed doors.

Often it has been the rule to rush through the minor formal business, such for instance, as reading the minutes of the previous meeting and then for some member to move that the body go into executive session. The knowing glance is then given the reporters, who are there to tell the public, the taxpayers, what occurred. The reporters take the tip and apply the absent treatment to themselves.

The section of the Act referred to, in its final paragraph, states that "Its meeting," means those of the State Board of Education, "AS WELL AS THOSE OF EVERY OTHER BOARD OF EDUCATION IN THE STATE, SHALL BE PUBLIC and shall commence not later than 8 p. m."

The majority of legal talent, whose advice was sought by this paper, give the opinion that the section means exactly what it says—that the meetings shall be public. One of those high in the councils of the State Board of Education said today to a reporter for the Daily Press that no local board is privileged to bar out the public by the executive session scheme. He added that the method pursued by the local boards is "nothing less than an evasion of the law as written on the statute books. Whatever they may do at committee meetings is one thing but when they take a vote or action on an important matter the meeting must be open to the public."

MAGIC IN NAME OF SWITZERLAND

It Brings to Mind Pictures of Beautiful Scenery and Chalets.

TOURISTS WILL VIEW THEM

Full Week in the Land of William Tell For The Daily Press Travellers—First Count of Votes Next Monday.

Switzerland! The very name suggests beautiful scenery, picturesque homes, awe-inspiring mountains and sun-kissed hillsides. Switzerland has always been known as the greatest scenic center on the face of the earth, and those who have had the good fortune to feast their eyes upon the magnificent splendor of this country, freely acknowledge that in no other country is nature seen to the advantage that it is here.

The Daily Press tourists will spend a full week in Switzerland. During this time they will visit those places which are considered by experts to be the most wonderful in this country of wonders. They will make their initial bow to Switzerland in Lucerne, a city which lies in one the most picturesque sections of the country on the banks of the beautiful Lake of Lucerne. Here stands Thorwaldsen's immortal work, the Lion of Lucerne, which is of interest to every lover of art at its best. The Glacial Garden is another feature which is well worth seeing, as well as many other places which will be visited during the stay here. A trip will be made by steamer on Lake Lucerne to Vitznau, and thence by rail to the summit of the Rigi, 5,906 feet above the sea level. The party will go from Lucerne to Alpenachet, and over the famous Brunig Pass to Lungren and Meringen. This city is situated on the banks of the Aare, and is surrounded by lofty snow-covered peaks, from which romantic water-falls descend to the plain. From here they will proceed by rail to Brienz, and by steamer to Interlaken, passing the Giessbach waterfall.

A day will be spent in Interlaken, when the party will leave for Lausanne, where magnificent views of Lake Leman and the Alps will be had. The trip from Lausanne to Geneva will be made by steamer over Lake Leman, and three days will be spent here, the time being occupied by side trips and excursions to the many beautiful places which abound in and around Geneva.

Lack of space makes it impossible for us to mention all the places to be visited by the party in Switzerland, but you may rest assured that the time spent in this country alone, is worth many times the effort required to win one of these tours. The field is still open, the out-of-town districts in particular, furnishing fruitful territory for the procuring of votes. The contest has only just commenced and now is the time to start. This is just friendly, good-natured competition, with a wonderful reward for the winners. One Possibility of Doing it to be Discussed at N. J. Charities Conference.

TO BE HELD MARCH 24,25,26

Hugh F. Fox, of this City to Preside at One of the Sessions—Program of Unusual Interest and Value Outlined.

Newark, Feb. 10.—"The Relation of Our Schools to Pauperism, Delinquency and Crime" is to be the general topic at the sessions of the eleventh annual New Jersey Conference of Charities and Corrections, which will be held this year in the Woman's Club, Prospect and William streets, East Orange, on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, March 24, 25 and 26.

The aim of the program this year is to have fewer papers read and more time for discussion from the floor than in former years.

The opening session on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock will include the address of the president, Professor Royal Meeker, of Princeton, and two addresses on "Education for Efficiency," by Dr. Herman C. Schneider, dean of the College of Engineering, Cincinnati, and Miss Virgina C. Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard College, Columbia University.

At the evening session at 8:30 o'clock, former President Hugh F. Fox, of Plainfield, will preside. Experiences with exceptional children will be given by teachers from Newark, Jersey City, Orange and New York public schools.

There will be three sessions on Monday. In the morning at 9:30 the topic will be "Preventive vs. Curative Education," the chairman being Dr. Charles S. Chapin, principal of the Montclair Normal School. The addresses, to be followed by an open discussion, will be by Professor James B. Haney, of the New York City Department of Education; Professor E. R. Johnstone, principal of the New Jersey State Training School, Vineland; Professor Alexander C. Humphreys, of Stevens Institute, Hoboken; Professor Meyer Bloomfield, of the Vocational Bureau Boston, and Dr. M. G. Schlapp, director of clinics, New York.

"Public Schools" will be the topic at the afternoon session at 2 o'clock. The addresses will be "An Italian Experiment in Education" by Mrs. Howard C. Warren, president of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs; "New Jersey Rural Schools" by John P. Murray, of the New Jersey State Board of Education; "Western Consolidated Schools" by Superintendent O. J. Kern, of Rockford, Ill.

"What Are We Teaching? Why Are We Teaching It? Why Are We Teaching It That Way?" will be the theme on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Addresses on "Educational Values" will be made by Talcott Williams, LL. D., of Philadelphia; Dr. Calvin N. Kendall, New Jersey Commissioner of Education, and Superintendent F. E. Spalding, of Newton, Mass.

Two addresses on "Private Schools" will be given on Tuesday morning by Rev. Samuel S. Drury, D. D., of St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H., and Miss Mary R. Hilliard, of Westover school, Conn. The chairman will be Wilson Farrand, headmaster of Newark Academy.

The closing session on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock will be devoted to "Broader Fields in Education." The speakers will be Dr. W. E. Watt, of Chicago, on "Open-Air Schools;" Clarence A. Perry, of the Department of Child Hygiene, Russell Sage Foundation, on "The Schools As Social and Recreational Centres," and Miss Mary Garrett, of New York, on "Moral and Physical Education."

The contributions secured yesterday to the Muhlenberg Hospital campaign fund totalled $7,215.00. While that figure is considerably lower than that reported the previous day, none of the workers or managers seem to be at all concerned.

Percy H. Stewart.
First Vice-President.

They rather expected the falling off, and were prepared for it. The showing made, they consider, is most gratifying, when it is remembered that there is now on hand at the end of the third day of the twelve day campaign, $60,379.00.

The Citizens' Committee teams still hold the lead, the total of their collections for yesterday being $4,903.00 against the Business Men's $2,312.00. The latter amount does not show as great a shrinkage as that shown between the first and second day's receipts from the Citizens'.

Charles W. McCutchen made a brief address prior to the calling for reports at the Y. M. C. A. last night and announced that he had been authorized, by a woman who wishes her name withheld at this time, to offer the following prizes to the team of business men: The team securing the largest amount of contributions, $150; the team securing the second largest amount, $100, and to the third, $50. An additional $50 was offered for the team reporting the largest number of subscriptions, regardless of the amount collected.

Mr. McCutchen said that he was very much encouraged by the showing made and said that it was what he considered the proper spirit. He would much rather see subscription of $10 each received than one for $1,000 as it was an indication that the people generally were interested in taking care of what belonged to them.

Second Vice-President.

SPARE COP'S HEAD BUT SLASH SALARY

Council Reduces Myers, Who Got Drunk on Post From Class A to D.

FINES HIM $264 IN ADDITION

Accused Patrolman, Through Counsel, Enters Plea of Guilty, and Lawyer Appeals for Leniency—Year In Which to Pay Fine.

Patrolman Nicholas Myers, who has been under suspension for getting drunk on post and swearing at his superiors, appeared before the Common Council last night for a hearing. Through his counsel, City Judge W. G. DeMeza, he plead guilty to the charge and after a strong plea for leniency was made by his counsel, the accused man was fined four months' pay, given twelve months in which to pay the fine and was reduced in the ranks from Class A to D.

The resolution imposing the penalty was introduced by Councilman F. E. Mygatt, and originally allowed the officer eight months in which to pay the fine. Upon the suggestion of Councilman G. S. Clay the time was extended to one year.

As a Class A policeman Myers has been drawing $1,000 a year, or about $83 a month. As a class D man he will draw $66 a month.

The Council chamber was filled with interested spectators when Council Mygatt moved the suspension of the regular order of business that the hearing of the charges against Patrolman Myers might begin. The latter was present with his counsel, City Judge W. G. DeMeza, while Harry C. Runyon, acting corporation counsel, occupied a seat in company with Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, who had made the formal charges against the patrolmen.

Believing that there would be a trial, both sides had a number of witnesses present in readiness to be called.

Several members of the police department were present, including Captain Christian Frederickson, Doorman Thomas O'Connan, Patrolmen William Messler, Andrew Saffron and Tobias Nolan; also Detective-Sergeant John Flynn and Sergeant Herbert L. Overhaugh, all being directly or indirectly interested in the case.

Judge DeMeza gave the gallery something of a surprise when he entered a plea of guilty for the accused man, and waived the reading of the complaint. He said that Patrolman Myers had been in the service of the police department for eighteen years, and prior to that had served as a special officer for three years. He said that the officer was married, had four children, and at his age in life, being fifty-eight years old, if dismissed from the department would have trouble in getting employment.

"I come before you frankly and openly and admit the charges," continued Judge DeMeza, "but I ask you to be lenient with the accused man. Give him one more chance to make good. I don't uphold any man who violates police rules, but I feel sure that if given another chance Patrolman Myers will make good. Therefore, I ask you to give him another chance and be as lenient with him as possible."

Replying to Judge DeMeza, Acting Corporation Counsel H. C. Runyon, said:

"As the charges are admitted it is beyond my province to say what the penalty shall be. It is not serious, perhaps, for a civilian to become intoxicated, but it is for a police officer, especially while on duty. Patrolman Myers was in a district in which wealthy people reside. They have a right to expect that their property is properly guarded.

"We are prepared to show that the officer could not guard anything or even take care of himself. A gang of crooks could have gone through the whole district, they could have removed the man's uniform and impersonated an officer and robbed the whole neighborhood. In this case the city might be liable. As I stated it is not within my province to say what shall be done with the accused man, but the penalty should be severe enough to serve as a warning to him or any other member of the force in the future."

Following Mr. Runyon's remarks, Mr. Mygatt offered the resolution providing for the penalty, which was adopted by a full vote. It seemed to be the opinion of those in the gallery that Patrolman Myers had been treated fairly.

Recital at Grace Church.

Prof. H. C. Krebs.

Among the aims of the new management of the Plainfield Daily Press, second to none is the desire to make it a newspaper truly representative of the community—the finest community in the whole State—and to have it said that Plainfield should be proud of its foremost news medium. With this end in view, many new features have been carefully planned and among them is one introduced with this issue.

Today and on each succeeding Saturday, the editorial writer will be some leading citizen. He will have absolute control of the editorial columns and will conduct them as he sees fit. He will express his own views on any subject, or subjects, that he wishes and will be entirely unrestricted.

The management is happy to announce that men whose services this paper would be unable to obtain were we compelled to pay for what their time and opinions are worth, have heartily endorsed the plan and have gladly consented to become contributing editors. Other citizens of note will be asked from time to time to give the public the benefit of their views on topics of interest.

Professor H. C. Krebs, Superintendent of Schools of Somerset County and Supervising Principal of North Plainfield's Schools, has charge of the editorial columns today. What he has to say will prove interesting to all.

Kindly bear in mind that the Daily Press—the paper with the people's confidence—is the paper that originates and does not imitate.

Is Music made by REASON Or by INSTINCT?

PLAYER pianos could be made to run like music boxes, when turned on, if people wanted them like that.

But people don't. More than half the joy of having a player piano lies in the pleasure of Personal Expression.

This pleasure can be had only in two ways: by working numerous "interpretive" devices, or by Instinctive control—the Virtuolo way.

But how much more pleasure there is in expressing yourself, impulsively and instinctively, than there is in manipulating machinery!

We think that musical expression has to do with Feelings, Emotions, Passions, and that these things have naught to do with mechanical devices but are things that rise and fall and flow from human beings Instinctively.

Instead of trying to force you to walk a figurative tight-rope of fixed interpretation, the Virtuolo aims to lead you to express yourself in your own instinctive way—to let your instinct for expression be stirred into flame.

Four sensitive buttons to touch—that is all!

They respond to your musical desires like nerves in your own finger-tips! How this is done is too much to try to tell in advertisements. The best way to explain it is to let your fingers rest on the four expression buttons and let the Virtuolo itself tell you the marvels of instinctive playing. If you do this at the store where Virtuolos are sold, you will sell the Virtuolo to yourself.

SECOND LECTURE ON CHILD ILLS BY DR. H.D. CORBUSIER

Dr. H. D. Corbusier delivered an interesting and instructive lecture on the diseases peculiar to infants before the Mothers' Association in the High School Auditorium yesterday.

This was Dr. Corbusier's second talk to the association and was in the nature of a follow-up on his first address. Stress was placed on the prevention of deformity by improper desks and chairs in school rooms.

The injuries to which children are exposed and helpful hints for first aid in such instances were touched on.

OLD-FASHIONED MACY'S.

The older generation will remember Macy's as it used to be—a store where only low priced goods were handled. Old Macy's was famous for the low prices at which goods of medium quality were sold. With the demand for luxurious things in the way of dress necessories, china, furniture, etc., Macy's felt the call for finer merchandise. There were constantly increasing demands for a better grade of goods and the need for larger facilities in a newer neighborhood was felt. Accordingly Macy's moved to Thirty-fourth Street, blazing the road to the new retail section that is now the heart of the New York Department Store district. Here increased facilities in a more central location, made it possible to offer, in addition to the lower priced goods, finer goods at the same savings as had made Macy's famous. Rent was low in Thirty-fourth Street, as it had been in Fourteenth, building expenses were low and so Macy's have not found themselves weighed down by the heavy expenses that have proved to be such a handicap to low prices at the stores that have recently moved to the Thirty-fourth Street district.

To-day Macy's find themselves confronted by a new problem, in that again higher priced stocks are clamoring for more space, and more space is not to be had. Accordingly they have hit upon a plan of assembling a large portion of the lower priced stocks from the entire store on the new sixth floor of their building. This new Sixth Floor opens on Monday, the 12th. On this sixth floor will be kept the regular medium grade goods from other floors and in addition some vast purchases of goods direct from mills and factories. Needless to say, everything will be sold at the same low margin of profit that has made Macy's famous in New York for fifty-four years.

Old-Fashioned Macy's on the new sixth floor of the Macy building will offer a new and very economical source of supply to those who want the least expensive merchandise that is of reliable quality. It will not be a "bargain store" by any means, but a distinct innovation in that prices will be low enough to enable those who hitherto had to content themselves with the shoddy merchandise offered in bargain stores to purchase reliable quality goods. It may be mentioned that, as a natural consequence of assembling the lower priced stocks on the new sixth floor, R. H. MACY & CO. will be able to devote more space than ever before to their high grade goods in other departments.

Mrs. DeWitt Bowman and Mrs. William Fritts, of Somerville, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter VanCamp, of this city.

SEWER SUBJECTS BEFORE CITY AND BORO COUNCILS

The Common Council at its adjourned meeting last night deferred action on the proposed trunk line sewer plans to the Cramer farm. Councilman W. L. Gloak presented a resolution which provides that the plans and survey prepared by George W. Fuller, which were accepted by the North Plainfield Council, last week, be accepted by the city, and that Mayor G. W. V. Moy be authorized to present the same to the State Board of Health for approval. He then moved that the resolution be laid on the table until after the conference with representatives of nearby municipalities on Thursday night February 15, in the Mayor's office.

In explanation of the delay on the part of the Common Council in this matter, Councilman F. L. Holt stated that the members were hesitating about taking action until certain features touching on the joint management had been discussed and worked out properly.

The request of Dunellen to North Plainfield to have a committee appointed to enter into a conference to consider the advisability of a trunk line sewer to tide water, was turned down by the North Plainfield Council at an adjourned meeting of that body last night.

A committee will be appointed at another adjourned meeting to be held Wednesday night, February 14 to attend the conference to be held the night following, and explain the plan North Plainfield has under advisement.

BOLTED IN DUER STREET, CAUGHT IN SCOTCH PLAINS.

A sorrel horse belonging to Jacob Sklarew, of Duer street, and hitched to a two-seated wagon, took fright while standing in front of the owner's home last night and ran away. Turning east on West Front street at the postoffice, the frightened animal threaded its way through the heavy traffic in the business section and was not caught until it arrived at Scotchr Plains. Mr. Sklarew went there and found the animal apparently none the worse for its run.

THIEF ATE THE CRUST OF A PUDDING AND JAR OF BEETS

A thief with a finicky appetite broke into the residence of T. W. Tebbs, 1318 South avenue, early today, and got away undetected with a dozen and a half silver spoons, a dozen plated forks, a half a dozen silver knives, and one of Mr. Tebbs' overcoats.

The thief left evidence of his appetite in the pantry, where he ate the crust of a rice pudding and a jar of pickled beets.

He got in through a cellar window. Mr. Tebbs and his wife came home from New York at 1 o'clock this morning, the former wearing the coat that was stolen, so they know the theft occurred some time after they went to bed.

GIFTS FOR G. E. HALL AND HIS SUNDAY SCHOOL ASST.

Under the auspices of the Volunteer Bible Class, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of which Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire is the teacher, a successful social and entertainment was held at the church, last night. The affair was attended by more than 300 members and friends.

After the opening exercises, Mrs. Maguire, in behalf of the class, presented George E. Hall, superintendent of the Sunday-school, with an oak chair, and a sofa pillow made in felt in the class colors, red and white, the centre-piece being a fac-simile of the class button. Radiating in the form of a sunburst were thirty-nine stripes of white satin ribbon, each containing the name of a member of the class written in red ink.

David M. Runyon presented Mr. Hall, on behalf of the officers, teachers and other members of the school, a framed set of handsomely engrossed resolutions.

The associate superintendent, Miss Florence Hawkins, was presented with a handsome cut-glass fern dish. Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton made a short address. The following took part in a musical program:

Mrs. John Groendyke, Mrs. C. A. Smith and Miss Grace P. Karr; Mrs. Henry F. Johnson, Karl Wilson, B. F. Hadley, Charles Hellyer Luther H. Banks, Robert Humpston, Mrs. Robert Humpston, Miss Ferris, Mrs. Martin and Mr. Tallamy, Misses Ruth Maguire, Carrie Kling, Ruth Pratt, Alice Brown, Edith Bush, Elizabeth Mills, Madlyn Moy Arline Brown and Emma Gage.

AUTO BUS BUMPS TOURING CAR; DRIVERS ARRESTED

The New Market, South Plainfield-Plainfield autobus driven by John Fisher, collided with a touring car owned by O. D. Hammond, 1340 Watchung avenue, and driven by Edward Hallis, at Plainfield avenue and West Fourth street, early last evening. Neither car was damaged much, and none of the twelve passengers in the bus was injured.

Patrolman Muir arrived on the scene a few minutes after the accident, and eye-witnesses told him both drivers were making speed when the crash took place. He placed the two of them under arrest, and they pleaded guilty to charges of reckless driving in the City Court today. They were released with warnings. Mr. Hammond and George Voehl, owner of the autobus, adjusted the question of damage between them.

THE VALUE OF PERSPIRATION.

When Edison was questioned on the subject of genius, he is said to have exclaimed, "Genius is one-tenth inspiration—the rest is perspiration!" Michael Angelo said, "Genius is eternal patience." "If," said Napoleon, "I always appear prepared, it is because, before entering on an undertaking, I have meditated for long and have foreseen what may occur. It is not genius which reveals to me suddenly and secretly what I should do in circumstances unexpected by others; it is thought and meditation." "Genius," says another writer, "is an infinite capacity for taking pains."

It is an interesting fact that every great man who has spoken on the subject disclaims the possession of any mysterious gifts, but attributes his success to industry and foresight. It is equally interesting that nearly all undistinguished men attribute the success of their more fortunate brethren to the workings of a peculiar genius. It is probable that both views are partial; but it is quite certain that the value of effort as a constituent of success is much underestimated by the majority of men.

Napoleon worked intensely for long hours every day. Edison seldom sleeps more than six hours in twenty-four, and has been a man of indefatigable industry all his life. Nearly all great men have been great workers; and there is no doubt that their success was very largely conditioned on their efforts.

There is not so much need of emphasis on industry on one's regular occupation as there is on industry outside of business hours. The nature of one's daily work is usually such as to demand constant application thereto. But there is great need of setting forth the importance of the right use of time outside of working hours. Herein lies the difference between men who progress and men who stand still.

Too many young men feel that, the regular day's work done, they are free to "loaf" and "bum." So they are; but success is not thus achieved. Napoleon and Edison never "loafed;" and few other successful men, living or dead, wasted their spare moments.

Observant persons have noted a difference between young men and young women on this point. The young man goes out in the evening to amuse himself. The young woman, who may have a similar position during the day, spends her evening assisting in the household, or sewing, reading, or in attending evening classes. She limits her social pleasures to needed relaxation. In many towns the classes in the Young Women's Christian Association are much more numerously attended by employed young women than are the Young Men's Christian Association classes by young men. There can be no doubt that these unremitting efforts at self-improvement lead to corresponding progress in business for the young women; while the waste of time on the part of young men is often the cause of their slower advancement.

It is very desirable that young men should play pool in decent places rather than in the saloons. But would it not be still better for them to spend at least several evenings each week in self-improvement rather than in amusement? When in one position, prepare for something higher. This you can do partly by being faithful to your present work; but something more is necessary, and that something more must be done during spare moments.

A clerk who earns ten dollars a week, and is faithful to his work, is worth what he gets; but he must show a greater value to be worth more. There must be more than faithfulness to one's work—there must be faithfulness to one's life.

Nothing great is attained without sacrifice. Pleasure must be limited. Effort must be put forth. The direction of least resistance must be given up, and the path of greater resistance pursued. Whittier sums the whole matter up thus:

"Better to stem with heart and hand
The roaring tide of life, than lie
Unmindful on the flowery strand
Of God's occasions drifting by!
Better with naked nerve to bear
The needles of this goading air,
Than in the lap of sensual ease forego
The Godlike power to do, the Godlike aim to know!"

THE RECOVERY OF MORSE.

President Taft refused to pardon Mr. Charles W. Morse until he was assured beyond doubt by several impartial and competent physicians that Morse could not live more than several months under the most favorable conditions.

News dispatches this week state that Mr. Morse is now gaining in health at a marvelous rate; that while he was in prison he put forth no effort to get well; that after his pardon he aroused his will in a great desire to recover, and that his friends would not be surprised to see him in Wall Street again within a few weeks.

If this information is correct, it indicates not that Mr. Morse deceived the physicians, but that the power of the human will to overcome disease is almost unlimited.

Chief Justice Beasley, of New Jersey, was taken with a fully developed case of Bright's Disease, but he recovered therefrom. Samuel J. Randall fought off death for many weeks, to the astonishment of his physicians, because he refused to succumb. It must have been inspiring to see him, during periods of consciousness, snap his jaws and say: "I will get well." Nearly all of us have known people sorely afflicted fight the disease with superb courage, and get well against all odds.

The influence of the mind on the body has lately been illustrated by a writer who has shown that the percentage of mortality among the wounded of a victorious army is very much less than among the wounded of a defeated army. The exhilaration of victory secures recovery when the dejection of defeat brings death.

Mrs. Burton Harrison and Mrs. Roger A. Pryor, in their delightful reminiscences of the Civil War, have depicted the heroism of the women of Virginia, who worked in the Richmond hospitals during that period. Girls who had been reared in affluence, and had been sheltered from contact with the coarse things of life, entered these hospitals as nurses, and worked day after day with but few hours of rest, in most painful and exhausting duties, showing an endurance that seemed utterly beyond their strength. Here again the mind triumphed over the body.

"Impossibilities are for the timid," said Cushing when about to set out on a desperate attempt to destroy the Confederate ram Albemarle in Plymouth Harbor, North Carolina; and he accomplished what was perhaps the most daring exploit in the history of the Civil War, and escaped after a test of physical and mental endurance that seems incredible.

The main difference between men is in will-power. The same physical strength in one man may be equal to ten times the endurance in another man. The will can not only drive the body through difficulties, but can increase the endurance of the body by arousing its latent powers.

In Arctic and African exploration, the leader of an expedition is almost always the last to succumb in time of disaster. He is buoyed up by a great hope and a firm purpose, while his followers, without such mental stimulus, are unable to withstand the rigors of climate and disease.

Some day science will make clearer the relation between mind and body. We shall then understand better the laws of energy. There will be rules for the increase of power in each individual. We shall accomplish more work, and yet maintain good health, thus promoting happiness as well as achievement.

THE PRESERVATION OF THE CHILD

"Every child restored to health, means the conservation of economic, social, industrial and spiritual power."

—By—

EVERETT COLBY

Formerly State Senator.

I want to say a few words to you about one part of your programme to raise ninety thousand dollars for the Muhlenberg Hospital which appeals to me with particular force, and that is the proposition to add a children's ward. I say this part of your programme appeals especially to me for the reason that at this point you leave the rather unsatisfactory and hopeless field of charity and place your plan on the plain of intelligent effort.

I have very little sympathy with the socialists and philosophical anarchists who say that all forms of charity are nothing but palliatives, yet to the extent that philanthropy fails to place itself in line and co-operation with modern thought and science—I believe the socialists have some ground from which to argue. What I mean is this—If a child is taken to a hospital from a home in which poverty, disease and vice prevails, and the case is treated by those supporting the hospital as the natural and unavoidable result of congestion in a tenement without any relation to the economic questions involved in that particular case and without any knowledge of the great movement now on foot for the scientific conservation of child life; then I agree your hospital is nothing but a palliative. If on the other hand, your hospital building is but the concrete expression of a civic understanding that the problem of the race is the whole problem of that child and that every child kept in health, as well as every child restored to health, means the conservation of economic, social, industrial and spiritual power; then you are on the right track and have a real vision.

I believe that, when the history of our time is written the emphasis will not be upon the advent of the flying machine and the wireless message, but, upon the fact, that, in our day the preservation of the child for future usefulness became a science and took its place among the great practical problems that confront statesmen as well as philanthropists.

Dean Farrer in his "Life of Christ," says that, since the dawn of Christianity childhood has been surrounded by a halo of romance; and that is true, but now, to the wonder and beauty and romance of childhood has been added the recognition of child life as an economic factor that can no longer be disregarded, and while the charm of the child mind and child fancy has been kept alive and made still more vivid and attractive by the writings of Robert Louis Stevenson and by Kenneth Graham and Ethel Wain, the practical statesman has with cold precision figured out in dollars and cents what a child's life is worth and what the waste of a single life will mean to the future. The fact that, between three and four hundred thousand children under one year of age die every year in the United States, and that, at least fifty per cent. of these deaths can be prevented, is a fact not simply to be deplored and a fact that effects only those who sorrow for the loss of a child, but one that involves the very destiny of our country and the lives and happiness of countless generations yet unborn.

The other evening I passed St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York, when its perfect gothic form was outlined and sharply traced against the sky, as on a plate of blackest steel, by a thousand tiny lights that pierced the night like stars. I saw those same lights in the brilliant sunshine, the following morning as they were being tested and a hundred of those lamps could have been snuffed out and no one would have seen, no one would have known the difference, no one would have felt the loss, so pale and wan did they appear against the white stone; but when the night came on, when the time arrived for each lamp to play its part in the grand spectacle, how important each seemingly insignificant little light became—snuff out one, and the beauty and symmetry of the whole is marred and disfigured; and so it is with child life; thousands have been destroyed every year, and we have hardly stopped to record the fact, partly because of ignorance, partly because of indifference, and partly because of greed, but now we know that the loss of a single life, either from ignorance or greed, mars and destroys the symmetry of the social structure when the time comes when the child should take its place in the life and activities of the community into which it was born.

And so I believe, and believe very sincerely, that this hospital, as part of a great social movement to conserve child life, is not only a great necessity today—but will project itself far,—very far into the future.

Do you recall Stevenson's poem, "Where go the Boats?"

On goes the River
And out past the mill,
Away down the valley,
Away down the hill.

Green leaves afloating
Castles of the foam;
Boats of mine aboating;
Where will all come home.

Away down the river
A hundred miles or more
Other little children
Shall bring my boats ashore.

Gentlemen, every dollar you give to this enterprise goes into a sturdy boat ladened with the richest of all gifts, health and power, and the joy of living to be brought ashore by our children and our children's children far down the river of life.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic.—The Christian virtues.—II. Generosity.—II Cor. ix, 6-15. (Consecration meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Generosity has always been considered one of the noblest traits of human character. He who unselfishly gives himself, his time, his abilities or his money for the betterment of mankind in any form has ever been extolled. No names are given a higher place in the world's hall of fame than those of its martyrs, its patriots and its philanthropists. On the other hand, the lack of a generous spirit has ever been sufficient to characterize a man as mean and ignoble. Generosity is universally admired and commended, while miserliness is universally despised and condemned.

Generosity as a Christian virtue is obligatory upon us. Giving is a duty. The commands of the word of God in this particular are definite and explicit. The chosen people of God were required to give a definite proportion of their temporal means for the support of the church and the state, which were both recognized as being under the control and authority of God. Until these requirements were fulfilled there were no such things as free will offerings. In the Christian dispensation no exact proportion is exacted by commandment, but the duty is no less insisted upon. Moreover, the liberality of Christians should be far superior to that of the ancient Jews in consideration of the increased blessings and benefits that we enjoy as Christians since the life and death of Christ. But let us always remember that Christian generosity should not be determined by feeling or sentiment. It is an obligation, a duty. "Freely ye have received, freely give."

Generosity as a Christian virtue should ever have associated with it a spirit of cheerfulness. One of the long remembered expressions of Christ which was not recorded by any of His biographers was, "God loveth a cheerful giver." Giving is a duty, but like all Christian duties it should be willingly and cheerfully performed. The reality of our religion is not proved so much by what we do as by the way in which we do it. It is the spirit of an act as well as the character of it that determines its value, not only in the sight of man, but also in the sight of God, and with this tremendous difference God sees the heart, while man cannot. We may pretend cheerfulness in giving and may deceive men, but we cannot deceive God.

Generosity as a Christian virtue has the promise of abundant reward. We increase by giving; we decrease by withholding. This may seem to be self contradictory, but it is true. The sea gives of its water to refresh and enliven the land and in return receives the salt and other ingredients from the soil, in addition to the water that has been given, which purify and preserve the water of the ocean itself. If it withheld itself from the land it would become a stagnant and death breathing pool. As in the natural, so in the spiritual world. He that giveth liberally, cheerfully and unselfishly has the unconditional promise of God that he will be abundantly rewarded.

The Making of Strong Committees.

The weakest part of the committee system in many Christian Endeavor societies is the lack of organization. This is largely the chairman's fault. His primary duty is to give each member of his committee a duty to perform and then to superintend the doing of it.

Take the missionary committee, for example. To one member might be delegated the duty of laying out plans for the meetings, in co-operation, of course, with the other members. To another may be given the working out of a system of giving for the society. One may be made the librarian and should become an encyclopedia of knowledge on missionary books. Another will find enough to do to keep in touch with the denominational mission boards, get leaflets and distribute them.

The work of each committee may be laid out in this fashion and a definite part be given to each member. What is everybody's business is nobody's business. What is left to all to do is done by none. The secret of successful committee work is the definite saddling of responsibility for doing definite work.

Growth In Two Lines of Christian Endeavor.

Last month saw the addition of seventy-two new members to the United society's enrollment of the Tenth legion, which now has an aggregate of 27,483.

Last month saw the splendid addition of 1,544 new Comrades of the Quiet Hour, making the total enrollment 59,104. Nearly all of this increase is due to California, which sent in 1,478 new names.

Endeavor's Quiet Hour.

A grasp and a grip on the newborn day
That only communion can bring;
A gaining of poise for our onward way
That comes from the throne as we bend to pray,
And a newborn song to sing.
—John R. Clements.

KERR FREED AT MIDNIGHT HOUR

Ends Term For Part In Bosschieter Murder.

FRIENDS TAKE HIM HOME.

Paterson Man Leaves Three Companions In Trenton State Prison With Long Sentences Yet to Serve—Helped to Kill Mill Girl After Drugging Her Drinks.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 10.—Attired in a new suit made to his order by a fashionable tailor, George J. Kerr, who has been the last eleven years in the state prison here for his part in the murder of Jennie Bosschieter, the Paterson mill girl, on Oct. 18, 1900, was released at five minutes after midnight this morning, and friends hurried him to an automobile and whisked him away.

Kerr is fifty-two years old and very gray. He begged the head keeper, George Osborne, to arrange that he might be let out of the jail the moment his sentence expired under the good conduct commutation provisions, which would be at midnight, and Osborne, although doubtful about his right to allow any one to leave the prison at such an hour, promised to do all he could. Kerr said that even if he had to stay up all night he would not sleep again in his cell.

The convict clothes that have been his raiment since Feb. 1, 1901, lay in a corner of Kerr's cell. His new suit, ordered a week ago and very carefully tailored, made the prisoner seem an incongruous figure in the jail surroundings.

A party of Kerr's friends from Paterson gathered at a hostelry near the prison, prepared to give him a rousing welcome as soon as he was set free, and they joined in the plea that at midnight the gates of the jail be opened for Kerr.

When the prisoners were sent to their cells after supper, in the usual routine, Kerr was permitted to bid farewell to Andrew J. Campbell, Walter McAllister and William A. Death, who were sentenced to serve thirty years each for their part in the death of Jennie Bosschieter. Kerr got off with half that sentence, reduced by good conduct to eleven years and nine days.

While he has been in prison Kerr's children have grown from babyhood to youth. His wife, despite his crime, remains faithful and will take him back. Kerr's aged father, a wealthy contractor, was long prominent in Democratic party councils in New Jersey. His brother is a noted lawyer.

Jennie Bosschieter worked in one of Paterson's mills. Her body was found by the roadway, with her skull crushed in, the morning after she had been seen in the company of McAllister, Death, Kerr and Campbell. It was proved in the course of a sensational trial that drinks which she was persuaded to take had been drugged and that she had been cruelly treated while in an unconscious condition.

PROMOTED, THEN ENDS LIFE.

Newark Man Thought He Could Not Hold New Job.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 10.—Fearing he was not capable of holding the position to which he was recently advanced is said to have led to the suicide of Frank J. Thiene, twenty-three years old, of 150 Littleton avenue here.

He was found dead with a tube leading from a gas jet in his mouth. He had been employed for several years as a bookkeeper for the Murphy Varnish company. Recently he was informed that it had been decided to put him on the road as a salesman.

Thiene came into prominence at a fire at the Essex County Homeopathic hospital about a month ago, when he and a fireman ran into the building and rescued patients.

GAS FUMES KILL THREE.

Man and Two Children Victims of Disconnected Tube.

Hackensack, N. J., Feb. 10.—Edward Chapbelaine, a foreman of the Flynt Construction company, and two of his children, Wilfred, aged six, and Alfred, a three-months-old baby, died at Lodi, a small town outside of Hackensack, from inhaling illuminating gas.

The foreman's wife and two daughters, who had also inhaled the gas, were taken unconscious from the Chapbelaine home, but the physicians who were working over them said that there was some hope for their recovery. A gas tube leading to a stove had become disconnected while the family was asleep, and the leaking gas had filled the house.

8 HURT IN TROLLEY CRASH.

One Passenger May Die From Collision In Newark.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 10.—Eight persons were hurt, one mortally, in a collision between a Springfield avenue and a Bergen street trolley car on Springfield avenue. The Bergen street car overturned and the passengers pinned beneath the wreckage, which immediately caught fire.

Failure of the brakes to work properly is believed to have caused the crash. Henry Cordes, an aged resident of this city, probably will die.

NO REVENGE FOR MORSE.

Son Denies Pardoned Banker Will Go After Enemies.

New York, Feb. 10.—Charles W. Morse, whose fifteen year sentence was commuted by President Taft, refuses himself to all callers at his apartments. No statement regarding Mr. Morse's proposed movements, beyond the fact he will start for Germany within a month, are given out by his wife or son, Harry F. Morse.

"I want to deny statements that my father is seeking to revenge himself on persons he believes treated him unfairly at the time of his trial," Harry Morse said. "He is not concerning himself with such matters. He has talked with no one since he left Atlanta, and no one will be permitted to see him here except his relatives and such old friends as he desires to see. We shall go to Bad Nauheim in about three weeks if my father is strong enough to make the trip.

"As to stories that my father is worried over the alleged loss of his citizenship, I can only say this is false. My father's conviction did not rob him of any of his rights as a citizen."

TO ARREST MEMBERS OF PRODUCE COMBINE

New York District Attorney Orders 400 to Court.

New York, Feb. 10.—After a two weeks' investigation of the butter situation Assistant District Attorney De Ford has arrived at the conclusion that the New York mercantile exchange, an organization of produce dealers, which comprises most of the butter, eggs and cheese jobbers in the city, is virtually a conspiracy in restraint of trade. He has filed with Magistrate Murphy information to that effect, in which he asks for warrants for the 400 members of the exchange, and within a week or ten days Magistrate Murphy will hear evidence corroborating the information in a series of public hearings similar to those held last summer by Magistrate Appleton in the ice investigation.

It is stated that the members of the exchange fixed the price of butter and eggs so that during the spring and summer months, when such products are most plentiful, "they might purchase them and place them in cold storage at the lowest possible figure and thereafter, during the fall and winter months of each year, increase the price to the retailer to as high a figure as the local market would stand without substantially curtailing the consumption of the butter and eggs held by them in storage before the season of greatest production."

WOULD REDUCE CAVALRY.

Amendment of Congressman Hay Adopted by the House.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The Democratic house made a raid on the cavalry branch of the army, voting into the army appropriation bill an amendment offered by Representative Hay of Virginia reducing the regiments of cavalry from fifteen to ten, or by 3,980 men and 225 officers.

Mr. Hay says his amendment will save the government $376,253 a year.

Mr. Hay, in urging the amendment, declared that the United States army was too heavy in cavalry regiments, having fifteen regiments in that arm to thirty regiments of infantry, or one-half.

EQUALLY DIVIDED IN LORIMER CASE

Senate Subcommittee Ends Inquiry.

SECOND TRIAL ON CHARGE

Counsel For Accused Senator Interposes Old Plea of Res Adjudicata, Declaring That He Could Not Be Tried Again on Charge After Being Acquitted by Senate.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The investigation of the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois is ended. It started last June and has dragged through the months since. Lorimer was exonerated in his former trial before the senate.

It looks now as if the subcommittee of the senate committee on privileges and elections which conducted the investigation will be about equally divided. Although nothing definite is known, the tenor of the questions put to witnesses in the last few weeks has indicated that Kenyon, Kern and Lea are against Lorimer and Dillingham, Gamble, Johnson and Fletcher in favor of him. The belief is expressed that Jones of Washington is in doubt. Dillingham, Gamble, Johnson and Fletcher were members of the old senate committee on privileges and elections which cleared Lorimer.

The closing act in the Lorimer investigation was the introduction of the plea of res adjuditaca. Judge E. G. Hanecy, counsel for Lorimer, announced that if permitted the senator would interpose the plea that he had already once successfully defended his title to the seat in the senate before that body and that the validity of his title could not be attacked the second time on the same charge.

The committee agreed to permit this plea to be submitted. It will not only be passed upon by the committee, but also by the senate.

Miss Helen Seavers, the Postal Telegraph operator at the New Willard, gave a new and sensational turn to the case by testifying that Edward Hines, the Chicago lumber merchant who was involved in the Lorimer case, had offered to pay her to show him a telegram that had been filed with her by A. C. Bailey, a Burns detective. The committee was plainly annoyed by this testimony, which made quite an impression, but on reflection the members of the committee decided that the incident had no direct bearing on Lorimer's right to his seat, and after considering the matter in this light they agreed to hear Edward Hines in denial of the incident and closed the matter. Mr. Hines admitted he read the telegram while standing at the telegraph booth because it was lying face upward and had attracted his attention, but he denied he had ever offered Miss Seavers money for the message.

WARNING TO HONDURAS.

State Department Backs Owner of Republic's One Railroad.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Notice has been given to the government of Honduras that the United States reserves the right to entertain claims for damages in the event of the taking over by that government of the Valentine railroad in Honduras.

Commander Dismukes, on receipt of these instructions, withdrew the bluejackets which he had landed and delivered the notice of protest. The Petrel will remain at Puerto Cortez indefinitely, ready to act in any emergency. Commander Dismuke's action in landing bluejackets to forcibly prevent the taking over of the wharves and other railroad property was taken before he had received his instructions from the state department.

The railroad in question is the only one in Honduras. It was built by a syndicate now represented by W. S. Valentine of New York under a concession granted by the government of Honduras. Charges that the railroad has failed to observe the terms of its contract with Honduras have been made frequently. The state department is backing Valentine in the matter to the extent of trying to secure for him fair and just treatment, convinced that he has a good claim both as to law and to equity. The department has not, however, attempted to pass upon the merits of the railroad matter.

MAY CONTEST DUPONT'S SEAT

Senate Committee Hears of Election Corruption In Maryland.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Some of the details of the alleged corrupt political practices resorted to in the elections of 1904 in Delaware came out before a subcommittee of the committee on judiciary.

The subcommittee's investigating filed charges against Cornelius P. Swain, who has been nominated for United States marshal for the district of Delaware. The names of Senator Henry A. Dupont and T. Coleman Dupont, his cousin and head of the Dupont de Nemours Powder company, figured prominently in the hearing. It has been suggested that the disclosures may lead to an effort to contest Senator Dupont's right to a seat in the United States senate.

TO PLACE MUHLENBERG AT SERVICE OF ALL DOCTORS

The Medical Board of Muhlenberg Hospital and members of the Hospital Executive Committee, at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday decided to suggest to the Board of Governors that the hospital service be made available to the greatest extent practicable to physicians in Plainfield and vicinity even though they may not be officially connected with the Hospital medical staff.

It is the desire of the board and the committee that opportunity be given to all physicians to make use of the hospital and its splendid equipment for the benefit of the public, so far as compatible with the regular service and good discipline.

Under the existing conditions, if a patient is in a private room under the care of a physician not a member of the medical staff and the need of an operation arises, that practitioner is not permitted to perform it, but must turn the case over to a member of the staff. If the patient is in a ward he can only have his own physician by request. Even then the same restriction as to operations prevails.

"Life of A. M. Powell."

The Young Friends' Association was entertained last night at "The Margaret," on Arlington avenue. The topic of the evening was "The Life of Aaron M. Powell," for many years a resident of this city. Papers were presented by Charles Palmer, Sarah L. Vail and Mrs. E. D. Hutchinson. A social hour followed.

BIG LEAGUE HEADS TO FIGHT IT OUT

BOSTON, THE FIGHTING GROUND

Ban Johnson Is Looked Upon as Owner of Red Sox—J. M. Ward Controls the Boston Nationals—The Fun Starts With the Season.

BAN JOHNSON.

It begins to look as if the fates—at least baseball fates—have picked out John M. Ward and Ban Johnson for their prey. For years now John Montgomery and Big Ban have been warring against one another.

Last December, when Ward bought his way into the Boston National league club, it looked as if they would no longer have reason for keeping up their old feud. But that is where the fates played a trick on both.

In Baseball circles Ban Johnson is looked upon as the owner of the Boston American league franchise. The sale of the club recently to Jim McAleer and Rob McRoy made the knowing ones smile. McRoy was Johnson's secretary before he cut in on the Boston club.

Neither McAleer nor McRoy has been credited with being a wealthy man. It has never been given out just who are their backers, but those on the inside of baseball are confident that it was Johnson who put up the money.

With Johnson the owner of the Boston Americans and Ward president of the Boston Nationals, these old rivals will have a chance to fight it out once more. Johnson's break with Ward dates back to the war days when George Davis was hopping back and forth from one league to another. Ward was accused of drawing a contract for Davis that enabled the player to make the American league buckle down to his demands.

Two years ago, when Ward ran for president of the National league, Johnson evidently decided that the time had arrived to even up old scores and succeeded in blocking Ward's election. Johnson gave out, or was accused of giving out, statements that hurt Ward's candidacy. Incidentally John Montgomery thought the statements reflected upon his integrity and went into court. Here Ward won again, as he was given a verdict of $1,000.

If Ward makes good with the Boston Nationals he will not alone have accomplished a big thing for the National league, but he will at the same time be putting over another jolt on his old enemy. If the Boston Nationals prove a winner under Ward it means that the patronage of the Boston Americans will be injured, and that means that Johnson's pocketbook will suffer.

DREYFUSS MAY MAKE GEORGE CAPRON A PIRATE.

George Capron, the star quarterback of the University of Minnesota, has been offered a contract to play with the Pittsburgh Pirates next season. Barney Dreyfuss sent Capron a contract with the salary line blank and requested him to fill in the amount he thought he would be worth.

Capron has been an all around star at Minnesota for several years, his work on the baseball and football teams stamping him as one of the greatest athletes ever turned out in the middle west.

International Regatta.

The second of the international regattas of Europe will next season be sailed in German waters, at Kiel, June 26 and 27. Last summer the first of these international affairs was sailed in British waters.

WHAT THE SPORTS EDITOR HAS TO SAY

Jake Stahl is up against a handicap in the restoration of the fortunes of the Boston Americans in the disability of Duffy Lewis to report for spring training. While playing winter ball in California, Lewis tore several ligaments in his hip, an injury notorious for slow healing.

Dave Sullivan, acting for Jack (Twin) Sullivan, has posted a forfeit to back his claim of Jack being the real middleweight champion. If no middleweight wants any of Twin's game, he is willing to take on Flynn, Palzer or Morris, all aspirants for White Hope honors.

Newark will get at least sixteen Sunday games at home, according to the tentative schedule prepared by the executive committee of the International League, which will be presented at a meeting to be held in Providence in about two weeks. This is made possible on account of four teams in the league not playing Sunday ball. Long night jumps will be necessitated in some instances to fill the dates.

Rube Vicers, of the Baltimore pitching staff, has been devoting considerable time during the off season to perfecting a new curve ball. To be abreast of the times he has named it the "Turket-trot." He be-breathed of his find to Manager Jack Dunn Wednesday when talking baseball and salary with the big 'un.

Cy Seymour who with his halberd has struck terror to the hearts and fond hopes of slab artists, many times and in[illegible] wants to be an umpire. He will be somewhat less of a terror thus armed but his eccentrities, well remembered, in the opinions of many unfit him for the job of arbiter and rank him with Rube Waddell and Bugs Raymond.

The New York State League has abolished the rule prohibiting the carrying of more than six players who have seen service in the big leagues. Troy, Binghampton and Syracuse voted to have it continued while Wilkes-Barre, Syracuse, Utica, Albany and Elmira voted to rescind it. This will give the fans on the circuit a better class of ball and will allow the big leagues to farm and keep in fast company more eligible players.

Hats off to Cy Young, the grand old man of baseball. The affixing of his name to a contract with the Boston Nationals Wednesday marks the twenty-second consecutive year he has signed a vellum for a major league team. While the oldest pitcher in point of years and service in either of the big leagues, the stuff he puts on the ball makes him a terror to batsmen and a reigning favorite with the fans. His following in and out of the game revere him for his qualities of manhood and clean sportsmanship.

The fact that John McGraw tied Rube Marquard to the Giants with a three years' contract, looks as though the Bakeritis with which the Rube was afflicted during the world's series, has been forgotten and forgiven. Or is he expected to work out that $11,000 worth in the next three seasons?

Although overnor McDonald, of New Mexico, is reported to have banned the Johnson-Flynn bout in that State, $100,000 has been subscribed by LasVegas business men to land the fight. Jack Curley, manager of Flynn, and promoter of the match, is proceeding with his plans and don't appear to be taking the Governor's opposition seriously.

FOUR CORNERED LEAGUE IS PLANNED AT RAHWAY.

Plans for the four-cornered baseball league among amateur teams in Rahway are being discussed. The teams concerned are the El Cids, of Rahway; Marion A. C., of Perth Amboy; Garwood and Carteret nines. The games would be played Sunday afternoons during the summer, but one or two of the teams are hesitating over the plans because they feel that they could make more money by playing at home every Sunday, whereas if they were in the league it would necessitate several games away from home. The matter will probably be settled in a few days, so that the teams can arrange their schedules accordingly.

Fraternal Match Postponed.

The series to have been rolled last night on the Olympia alleys between the Red Men and Knights of Columbus quintts, was indefinitely postponed. Two of the Indian pinners and one of the Shamrocks did not put in an appearance.

Champion Trotting Gelding.

Charley Mitchell, the champion trotting gelding of last season, will campaign this year in the colors of C. K. G. Billings, who last night bought the rare trotter for $4,500. Charley Mitchell last year hung up a record of 2.04 1-4.

OLD BALL PLAYERS AND THEIR TIMES

McAleer Says Present Stars Are Pampered Too Much.

NOT SO IN OTHER DAYS

Took Little Care of Themselves, But Were Always on the Job—Eleven Players Were Enough, While 25 Today Are None Too Many.

Since Jimmy McAleer, the former manager of the Washingtons and now president of the Boston American league club, came out with the statement that the big league clubs of today carry too many ball players and that they are pampered too much the question has been much discussed.

McAleer in his statement tells of the time he was playing under Pat Tebeau in a Cleveland uniform. The team had only eleven men on its roster and was in the fight for the pennant every moment of the time. Today he says that a team has to have twenty players on its roll to be in the fight for a moment and then they have to use pitchers in the outfield or outfielders in the infield some of the time.

He lays this to the fact that the men are pampered too much; that they have ceased to be ball players—they are athletes. In the old days the players hardly took care of themselves. Today they keep themselves in the best of condition, have about half the work to do, but the manager is lucky if he can put his full playing strength in the field for a week's stretch.

This may be true, but baseball today has reached a far greater degree of perfection than in the days McAleer speaks of. They get more pay than the old timers, but the club owners make many times as much as the old owners did. So they can afford to pay.

As for taking care of themselves, the ball players of today make the game a life's profession or try to. The diamond stars of today include some men who have a college degree. They do not follow the profession they studied for because they can earn more in the diamond game. They want to stay in the game as long as possible. While they do not love the sport any less than the old timers, a business thought also enters into the game. The club owners make fortunes by their efforts, why should the players not get the good of it? And the managers are willing to pay.

So as long as both parties are satisfied the players will continue to take care of themselves and the owners to pamper them.

ALEXANDER SIGNED AT FAT SALARY FOR 3 YEARS.

Pitcher Grover Cleveland Alexander finally has signed a contract to play with the Phillies for the next three seasons. The terms of Alexander's contract were not made public, but it is announced by President Fogel of the Phillies that the young "phenom's" salary this year will be one of the largest ever received by a young pitcher in his second season with a major league club.

Before going to his home in Nebraska last October the young twirler declared that he would not sign up for 1912 unless he received a salary of $7,500.

KENNARD WILL TRY BOSTON LIGHT SWIM TEST.

Victor Kennard, the former Harvard university football player and athlete, has joined the New York Athletic club and announces that he will try for the all around Amateur Athletic union championship next summer and also take up long distance swimming.

Kennard, who kicked the field goal for Harvard that beat Yale at New Haven in 1908, thinks he can swim to the Boston light and will attempt the feat.

Walsh Greatest Pitcher, Says Schulte.

"I could always get a hit or two against Mathewson," remarked Frank ("Home Run") Schulte to a party of friends after the Sox had beaten the Cubs four straight, "but against that big fellow Walsh that pill looks like a pea. He is the best ever."

Hank O'Day's Wit Is Peculiar.

Manager O'Day of the Cincinnati Nationals is a peculiar man. It isn't often that he says anything which can be interpreted as funny. Last summer, however, he was discussing Griffith, and finally he said: "By golly, I'm getting tired. The next time he opens his face I'll grab him by the tongue and throw him over the grand stand."

German Swimmer Feared In Olympic.

The recent work of C. Bretting of Magdeburg, Germany's best all around swimmer, makes him a formidable contender for international honors at the water carnival to be held in connection with the Olympic games of next summer in Sweden.

Knicker—"Do you like the revolving door?" Bocker—"No; you can't slam it when you are mad."—Judge.

WANTS ANOTHER CHANCE AT CHAMPION HOPPE

CALVIN DEMAREST.

Calvin Demarest, the youthful Chicago billiardist and "double" of Champion Willie Hoppe, has announced that he will challenge the title holder for the 18.1 balk line supremacy.

Demarest is considered one of the best billiardists that ever handled a cue. Although he was defeated by Hoppe last season, experts declare he has improved to such an extent that the champion will have to be at his best to hold his title.

Matty Selling Real Estate Now.

Christy Mathewson, star pitcher of the New York Nationals, is now engaged in a new line of business, that of selling real estate on Long Island. It is said he is prospering greatly.

PASTIME A. C. CHANGES ADD TO PROGRAM OF MEET.

The Pastime A. C., of New York of which Johnny Fritz, fromer Y. M. C. A. champion, is a member, and who has shown such promise that a special trainer has been assigned him, has decided to substitute a half mile relay, scratch, in place of the mile relay, handicap and a five mile run, scratch, instead of the ten mile run, for the program of the meet to be held at the 22nd Regiment Armory Wednesday, February 21.

The half-mile relay, scratch, will bring together the crack furlongers of the district. At a recent meet in Buffalo a team representing the Irish-American A. C. made a new half-mile relay record. The men feel confident they can better the figures made at Buffalo, while several other teams around here think they can also beat the record.

NEW SCORING DEVICE TO INFORM ON GAME.

If present plans do not miscarry, a large electric scoreboard will be erected at Wiedenmayer's Park, Newark, in time for the opening of the International League season. It is intended to place the mechanical scoring device in centre field on top of the fence which now surrounds the park. The board will be operated from the grandstand, and will give the number of strikes and balls called, in addition to making known the batter. The scores of the other International League games will also be posted automatically. The board will be in plain sight from all parts of the grounds. It is intended to number the players, and when the athlete goes to bat or gets into the game the fact will be noted on the board.

ELIZABETH ELKS FOURTH IN RACE; DROPPED 2 GAMES.

The Elizabeth Elks slipped to fourth place in the league standing last night by dopping two games of the series to Hoboken at that place. Hoboken is now tied for second place with Rutherford.

Extraordinary pinning featured the meet. Hoboken totaled 925 in the first game winning it by 24 pins. Elizabeth rolled up 981 in the second game winning it by 137 pins. The Germans did the come-back in the third and returned 1,005 against 926 for the visitors.

After Ave Attell.

Determined efforts are being made to match Eddie O'Keefe of Philadelphia with Abe Attell for the featherweight championship of the world. O'Keefe, who is a Jew and whose real name is Edward Paley, has shown that he is one of the best boys of his pounds in the game.

DePalma Brings New Car.

Ralph de Palma, famous automobile driver, who has been in Europe for some time, will return to New York next Tuesday with a new foreign car, which he will drive in the 500-mile race on the Indianapolis Speedway on Memorial Day.

HOME RUN BAKER'S NORDER, ONE DOZEN BATS.

An even dozen of those "home run bats" is the order John Franklin Baker, of the Philadelphia Athletics, sent to a Louisville, Ky., turner yesterday. Accompanying the order was the bat with which he made his two famous four-base drives that won the championship for the Athletics over the New York Giants last fall. It was made in Louisville of Kentuck mountain wood that contains luck, or something equally potent, and he wants the twelve new ones made just like it. Also he wants the sacred relic of his prowess returned to him at his farm, Trappe, Md.

P. H. S. FACULTY VICTORIOUS OVER SENIOR CLASS FIVE.

The Plainfield High School faculty yesterday afternoon defeated the senior class five by the score of 27 to 10. The result at the end of the first half stood 11 to 2 in favor of the victors.

The line up: Faculty—Best and Daggett, forwards; Wilkinson, centre; Beers and Bostwick, guards. Seniors—Champlain and Fountain, forwards; Phillips, centre; Line and Doane, guards.

First Game For Ritz Cup.

The first game in the city basketball championship series for the Ritz cup will be played Lincoln's Birthday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, between the Y. M. C. A. Ajax and the Plainfield High School teams.

Hockey Game This Afternoon.

The Plainfield High School hockey team will play the Fanwood team this afternoon at Fanwood.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Many theatregoers imagined when they first heard "The Rosary" announced, that it was a dramatization of one of the books of that title now in the market. Well, it is, but Edward E. Rose wrote this "Rosary" and it is "The Rosary," which proved last season's big success. It comes to the Plainfield theatre tonight.

The tremendous vogue that has been attained by Geo. M. Cohan's comedy, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," is a distinct compliment to the genius of that prolific playwright whose pen has been successfully wielded many times in the past. "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" will be presented at the Plainfield theatre February 19. It comes here after having made a record run in New York and Chicago and will be given with a fine cast of principals direct from Cohan and Harris' principal New York playhouse, the Geo. M. Cohan theatre.

One of the most pretentious offerings of the season will be presented at the Plainfield theatre soon, when Harold MacGrath's popular novel, "The Goose Girl," dramatized by George D. Baker, will have its initial presentation. A good many people have read this popular novel and given their sympathies first to the little goose-girl and then to the unfortunate Hildegarde. The American consul and his war comrade, Hans Grumbach, the retired master-plumber, have our respects, the Grand Duke of Ehrenstein with his prime minister, and the mountaineer who assists Gretchen with her goose; the vintner who loves and is loved by our heroine, all make this the most interesting story that has ever been told in stagecraft.

MURRAY HILL MAN BUYS SOLOMON SAYLES ESTATE

John Fraser, of Murray Hill, has purchased the estate of the late Solomon Sayles, which lies in Chatham Township, just across the river from Berkeley Heights. It comprises about 300 acres, extending from the river to the crest of Long Hill, and contains beside the old farm house a large and costly mansion, which was erected by Mr. Sayles a number of years ago. Mr. Fraser, however, took possession of the place on Thursday last. Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Sayles, Jr., who spent much time in the house, are now in New York, and will go to Europe in the spring.

This large and valuable estate consist of two large farms, which were purchased by Mr. Sayles when at the height of his prosperity, and which he meant to improve into one of the great show places of the Passaic Valley. The easterly of the two farms where the old farm house still stands and the big new mansion was built by Mr. Sayles, was half a century ago the homestead of Luke Parsons, from whom it passed to the Enright family, who occupied it for many years. The westerly part of the estate was the old Crane family homestead, where fifty years ago dwelt Isaac Crane. The house, which long ago disappeared, stood on the north side of the road, a little west of the cross road to Berkeley Heights.

TAX BOARD CUTS DOWN BALTUSROL ASSESSMENT.

The Union County Tax Board has allowed a reduction of $22,300 on the assessment which had been levied upon the holdings of the Baltusrol Golf Club of Springfield. The members of the board made a trip to the club and inspected the grounds.

The original assessment was $86,000 on twenty-four and one-half acres of land and buildings at $66,000 and $20,000 on personal holdings. The board allowed a reduction of $7,200 on the land or $300 on each acre, reduced the assessment on the buildings to $50,000 and a reduction of $6,500 was made on the personal property.

The Baltusrol Golf Club ranks among the wealthiest organizations of its character in the State. It would make old Baltus Rahl stare with wonder, to come back to the world and see the present condition of his former home.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, will preach a sermon tomorrow morning appropriate to Lincoln's Birthday.

Miss Dora Bornman, of East Second street, has returned from a visit with friends at Mt. Horeb.

According to W. J. Rolfe, Litt. D., the PALAIS de JUSTICE at Brussells, Belgium, is the largest building in the World and the Daily Press European Contest winners will visit its 270,000 square feet where there is a mass of sculptured and polished marble, surmounted by a marble tower, 400 feet high. The structure cost $10,000,000 only as there was no American political grafters or grafting contractors concerned in its erection. Brussels is rich in interesting sites including St. Gudule Cathedral, whose erection was begun in the 13th century; The Bourse, a magnificent structure; he Hotel de Ville built in the 15th century; the Maison de Roi, built in the 16th century, and numerous famous art galleries. The Battlefield of Waterloo, where Wellington defeated Napoleon, is near Brussells and the Daily Press tourists will go there by coach.

OREGON IDEA IN CAMDEN CHARTER

DETAILS OF THE MEASURE

Twenty-five Per Cent. of the Entire Vote Cast Must Be on Petition to Put Elected Officeholder on Trial Before the Electorate.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

Trenton, Feb. 10.—The recall initiative and a limited form of the referendum are contained in the Camden City Charter bill, (Senate 161, introduced this week by Senator Read, of Camden county. The recall section provides that the holder of any elective office may be removed at any time after having been in office one year, by the electors qualified to vote for a successor, of the incumbent to be recalled.

Such recall is to be made effective by filing a petition with the City Clerk signed by at least 25 per cent. of the entire vote at the last preceding general election, which petition shall state the general grounds for which the removal is sought. If the petition shall be found to be sufficient, the City Council shall order the recall election to be held not less than thirty days nor more than forty days from the date on the clerk's certificate to the Council that a sufficient petition is filed.

Any person sought to be removed may be a candidate to succeed himself, and unless he requests otherwise in writing, the Clerk shall place his name on the official ballot without nomination. In any such recall election the candidate receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected, but if some other persons than the incumbent receives the highest number of votes the incumbent shall thereupon be deemed removed from the office upon qualification of his successor.

If the incumbent receives the highest number of votes, he shall continue in office. But one recall petition shall be filed against the same officer during his term of office, and no recall petition shall be filed against an officer not elected by the entire city.

It is provided in the initiative section that any proposed ordinance may be submitted to the City Council by petition signed by the required number of voters. If signed by fifteen per cent. of the votes cast at the last preceding general election and contains a request that the ordinance be submitted to a vote of the people if not passed by the City Council, then the Council shall either pass the ordinance without alteration within twenty days, or forthwith the Council shall call a special election unless a general election is fixed within ninety days thereafter, and at such special or general election the ordinance shall be submitted without alteration to the vote of the electors of the city.

But if the petition is signed by not less than ten or more than fifteen per cent. of the electors, the Council shall, within twenty days, pass the ordinances without change, or submit it at the next general city election. Any number of proposed ordinances may be voted upon at the same election, but there shall not be more than one special election in any period of six months for such purpose.

The bill provides in another section that the City Council may submit a proposition for the repeal of any such ordinance or for amendment thereto, to be voted upon at any succeeding general city election, and should such proposition so submitted receive a majority of the votes cast at such election, such ordinance shall thereby be repealed or amended accordingly.

The act is to take effect immediately, but its provisions will not apply to any city until adopted by a majority of the legal voters in the city. Although the measure is referred to as the Camden charter bill, it is a general measure applying to all cities of the State that may adopt its provisions at the referendum vote.

The general scheme of government provided by the bill is a Common Council composed of two members from each ward, a city clerk appointed by the Council for a term of three years, and the following officers to be elected by vote of the people: Mayor, recorder, city treasurer, city comptroller and collector of taxes.

that the PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS is being favorably talked about whenever three or four people are gathered together in this town. The answer, perhaps, should come from some one other than the publishers of the paper. Here it is:

One of the best known men in Plainfield, a man who is a leader in every big movement in the city, called us up on the 'phone. He said, "I want to congratulate the 'new' Daily Press,

This is only one of the hundreds of expressions of commendation that have been received since the rejuvenated Daily Press put in appearance. The statement is no vivid imagining of an adv. writer's brain. It is an actual quotation, which can be proven to be true for the benefit of any skeptical person.

The opening of the new Sixth floor will add additional space to our finer goods in almost every department of the store. That Macy's carries all qualities up to the very finest made, will be even more evident from now on. Our foreign offices in Paris, Berlin, Belfast, Constantinople and Yokohama are sending shipments of novelties by every steamer. On our other five floors and in the basement the fine goods will now have more room than ever before.

SENATOR J. A. REED.

Who Will Offer Resolution Declaring Against a Third Term.

FOR TWO TERM LIMIT.

Senator Reed of Missouri Aims Resolution at Roosevelt.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Senator Reed of Missouri will introduce a joint resolution next Monday providing for a constitutional amendment to bar any man from holding the office of president of the United States more than two terms of four years each, the filling of an unexpired term to be regarded as a full term.

JUDGE DRIVEN INSANE.

Raves of Camorrists Who Are on Trial at Viterbo.

Rome, Feb. 10.—Eucchesi Palli, the judge who abandoned the preliminary investigation of the charges against the Camorrists because he was convinced that they were innocent, went insane. He was taken to a private sanitarium, raving about the trial now being held at Viterbo, and declaring that there was a conspiracy to execute him because he believed the prisoners were not guilty.

His condition is believed to have been brought about by worry over the trial and the receipt of a number of threatening letters from supposed victims of the Camorra, who accused him of attempting to cause the crown's case to collapse.

The party will be provided with every comfort and convenience, and experienced guides will accompany them everywhere.

JERSEY FOLKS AS SEEN THROUGH TRENTON EYES

Trenton, Feb. 10.—This Legislature has the largest representation of the legal fraternity, perhaps in the history of the State. There are 27 lawyers among the lawmakers of 1912, 10 of them being in the Senate, and 27 in the Assembly. The Democratic party is better provided with lawyers than the Republicans, as in the two Houses there are 20 Democratic lawyers and 17 Republicans members of the fraternity. The Senate has 8 Democratic lawyers and 2 Republican lawyers, while the Assembly has 15 legal representatives, to 12 for the Democrats.

The House contains the following lawyers: Carlton Godfrey, Emerson Lewis Richards, Blanchard H. White, Albert De Unger, James M. E. Hildreth, Albert R. McAllister, William Messgrove Beard, Mortimer Lowy, Frank J. Murray, Fred Prout, Fred G. Stickel, Jr., Peter H. James, James C. Agner, Charles E. S. Simpson, Charles M. Egan, Thomas F. A. Griffin, Joseph M. Branegan, George F. Brensinger, August C. Streitwolf, John P. Kirkpatrick, Elmer Hendrickson Geran, Leon R. Taylor, Harry Ellsworth Newman, Thomas F. McCran, Leonard Pikaart, William W. Watson and William F. Groves.

State Prisonkeeper George O. Osborne will on March 18, next, turn from superintending convicts to the growing of oranges. Mr. Osborne's term as Keeper of the State Prison will expire on March 18, and on that day he will leave with his family for St. Petersburg, Fla. He owns 7½ acres of orange groves about a mile outside of St. Petersburg, and is building a home on the tract which will be ready for occupancy when he arrives there. Mr. Osborne will not entirely forsake New Jersey, as he will spend his summer in this State, and will then renew acquaintances made during his 30 years' residence in this State. Mr. Osborne was born in Elmira, New York, and has been State Prisonkeeper since 1902. The term is five years and the salary $3,500.

One of the veterans in the State service is Irvine E. Maguire, secretary of the State Board of Assessors. Mr. Maguire has been with the board as secretary and assistant secretary since its creation, August 1, 1884. During the 28 years he has been with the board Secretary Maguire has superintended assessments which have aggregated billions of dollars. He has seen a great growth in the tax income of the State from various sources. For instance, in 1884, the first year he took office, assessments were levied against 619 miscellaneous corporations, the tax aggregating $195,273, for 1911 this assessment was levied against 11,860 corporations, the tax they must pay the State being $3,171,576. Mr. Maguire resides in Mount Holly. He was elected Secretary of the Board June 18, 1895.

Assemblyman James C. Agnew, of West Hoboken, is a candidate for appointment by Governor Wilson to the Hoboken District Court Judge, a position soon to be vacated by Frederick Stuhr, of Jersey City. Assemblyman Agnew is an Attorney and counsellor-at-law both in New Jersey and New York. Mr. Agnew was admitted to the bar as an attorney in 1899, and as a counsellor in 1906.

The youngest member of the present Legislature is Assemblyman Fred G. Stickel, Jr., Republican, of Essex county. He is only twenty-four years old.

Civil Service Commissioner Joseph S. Hoff, is a volunteer fireman, being a member of Mercer Engine Company, of Princeton.

William L. Waldron, State Superintendent of Weights and Measures, who has succeeded in getting several thousand women to aid him in a crusade against short-weight butter, began life as an errand boy in a Trenton grocery store. By loyalty and strict attention to business he rose through a clerkship to the proprietorship of a grocery store which he operated successfully for twelve years and which he sold when appointed a few months ago to his present position by Governor Wilson.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

If anybody should ask you why Maude Adams wished, for more than anything else attainable in this world, to act the role of "Chantecler," let this be your answer. "The darkest hour of his life is when Chantecler realizes that, while he may not create the light, he can proclaim it to a sleeping world. He sees that there is an even greater faith than the faith one has in tomorrow—faith in many tomorrows. He will find new courage in work. If it is faithfully carried on, other workers who come after, assisting to the same task, will find that task easier to do. Still others that come after them will find it still easier—and in the end there will be no more night, no more failure or discouragement for the worker." Not for gain, nor for glory—though both have come in plenty—but to be the humble instrument for the widest possible spread of this message of hope to a nation of workers—that is the real reason Maude Adams chose to act "Chantecler."

"The Rose of Panama," an opera comique derived from the European opera "Kronolenblut," book by Ignatz Schnelzer and Emerich von Gerl, with English libretto by John B. Shine and Sidney Rosenfeld, will be given its New York premiere at Daly's Theatre tonight under the management of John Cort. The story of the opera has to do with a Central American Republic, whose President, Romy de Valmore, is anxious to surrender his job and hie him to that dear Paris. He has, however, become so popular that he is maintained in his office against his will. When a revolution breaks out he bails it with delight, for he sees a plan to escape the cares of his office by having the rebels victorious. To this end he tries to aid them, but is always frustrated by his loyal supporters. The lady in his life, however, is on the side of the revolutionists, and is a fiercely of the conventionally romantic type. The scenes are laid in the story of the principally in the courtship of Marcel Alvarado, once a soldier but now a cowboy, and Jacinta, the Senorita, who does not like the flirtation that Marcel carries on with the President's niece, Marcel, which, finally lands him in jail as a traitor. Everything ends happily, however, and Marcel and Jacinta are brought to an understanding that is pleasing to each.

SOME PEACH BUDS WERE DAMAGED BY COLD SNAP

New Brunswick, Feb. 10.—A bulletin issued by Max A. Kirk, horticulturist, connected with the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, shows that the peach buds in orchards throughout the State have suffered more or less injury according to locality.

An examination of the buds in the experiment orchard at Fitch Farm showed about 80% per cent. of the buds of Mountain Rose and Elberta to be alive, with a much larger proportion of the buds of such sorts as Greensboro, Carman and Hiley in good condition.

At the experiment orchard at Vineland, the only variety to show serious injury was Reeves's Favorite, with slight injury to such sorts as Early and Late Crawford, Fox Seedling, Stump and Mountain Rose.

"As an estimate of conditions throughout the State," says Mr. Blake, "it is probable that a considerable proportion of the buds of such tender varieties as Reeve's Favorite and Early Crawford have been destroyed, while considerable injury has undoubtedly occurred to such varieties as Elberta, Chairs and Belle of Georgia in the central and northern portions of the State. In the southern counties, where the temperature has not fallen below eight degrees, such varieties as Elberta, Belle of Georgia, Carman, Hiley and Greensboro are probably uninjured.

Varieties such as Greensboro, Waddell, Carman and Hiley should have a sufficient number of live buds to produce a crop in all portions of the State."

Many in Need at Westfield.

Westfield, Feb. 10. The long period of inactivity in building operations is working considerable hardship on many mechanics and unskilled laborers. Overseer of the Poor A. C. Fitch has had more applications for relief since the first of the year than at any time in the several years that he has been in office.

Clergyman Likes the Paper.

Grace Church Parish House.

Editors Plainfield Daily Press:

As one who is interested in your interesting paper, I am glad to see the "performance" in the Daily Press. It has been a decided uplift, sufficient evidence should be provided upon which to form an opinion. I now feel justified in offering me sincere congratulations upon the improvement and enlarged scope of your paper. The change is very marked.

Among other things, I am glad to see you are eliminating too frequent notice of the unimportant religious affairs in the community. The constant insertion of minor religious enterprises seems to fill space, but sadly weakens the authority with which a strong paper should speak when occasion welcomes an opinion.

Editorially may we hope that you will not be so comprehensive and independent in your judgment as to rob your excellent literary form of all point and purpose. Let us have a liberal judgment but an exact and definite expression.

Very truly yours,

E. VERNON STEVENSON.

FIND FAMILY STARVING IN SUSSEX BACKWOODS.

Sussex, Feb. 10.—The Vernon Township authorities have been appealed to for aid for Merriam Brooks and family, who were found in a starving condition on the Arthur Rutherford tract in the mountains. Brooks is more than seventy years old. When found by a clergyman and a friend of Warwick, N. Y., one child was sitting on the end of the old stove to keep warm. The man is reputedly ill of diabetes. The case is one of the most appalling features of squalor and destitution. A two-month-old child was in a crib with just enough to cover its body. The babe is the child of Brook's granddaughter. Three other children were poorly clad.

DIDN'T FIND COLORED BABE PICKLED IN SAUERKRAUT.

New Brunswick, Feb. 10.—A foreigner who keeps a grocery store in the Fifth ward, according to a report which gained ground here yesterday, was surprised upon opening a new barrel of sauerkraut to find the remains of a colored baby in it. The saurkraut, according to the report, had come from Scranton, Pa.

Coroner Harding said yesterday afternoon that he had investigated the story and had found it to be absolutely false.

Remember the Proposed New Children's Ward

Senator Everett Colby says: "Between 300,000 and 400,000 children die annually in this country before they are a year old. One half of them could be saved. Each of such deaths involves the life and happiness of our country in its effect on the future generation."

Dr. Charles A. Eaton says: "Every dollar wisely spent upon a child is worth hundreds spent upon a man. The child is the key to the future. Diseased childhood means mortgaged manhood. Help a child and you help all future generations. This campaign is a noble enterprise, but the best thing about it is what it will do for the Children; there is nothing too good for them."

"How God Saves All Men"

George B. Raymond, of the International Bible Students' Association, and Assistant Pastor of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, is to Speak in Building Trades Hall, 304 West Front St. Sunday, February 11 at 3 p. m.

'How God Saves All Men'

Pastor Raymond is a man of scholarly attainments and lofty ideals and is thoroughly devoted to the work of the society which he represents. A clear cut forceful yet pleasing speaker, his every sentence pulls with keen logic and convincing argument. No going to sleep for those so fortunate as to sit under the spell of his message he delivers.

He believes that the Bible gives an orderly, logical and reasonable account of "Whence we came? Why are we here? Whither we go, and what the future holds in store for us." Today when the Bible is being assailed as never before and is misrepresented by friends and foes alike, it is positively a tonic to our faith to hear a speaker like Pastor Raymond. Those who have listened to his rational scriptural applications in this lecture, "HOW GOD SAVES ALL MEN," are today rejoicing in the beautiful harmony of God's great attributes of justice, wisdom, love and power.

No matter whether you are Catholic or Jew, Protestant or skeptic, it is claimed this lecture will prove an energizing force to your faith. A magazine of priceless value to BIBLE STUDENTS given away at the close of the service. The lecture is absolutely free and no collection lifted.

IN THE SOMERVILLE STATION

Engine Driver He Is Called to Attend Gets Fractured Skull When His Head, Thrust From Cab, Hits Bridge at High Bridge.

Somerville, Feb. 12, (Special).—As he bent over the form of an injured engine driver, preparing to minister to the wounded man, Dr. J. P. Hecht, of this borough, widely known throughout this section, dropped dead early today in the Central Railroad station here.

Heart disease was the cause of death. Dr. Hecht was 65 years old, and had practiced in Somerville and Raritan for 35 years. The man he was called to attend is George Graves, of Mauch Chunk, Pa. He is in the Somerville Hospital with a fractured skull.

Graves was injured while driving the engine of an eastbound coal train on the Central railroad. At High Bridge he put his head out of the cab, and it struck against the pier of a bridge. His fireman ran the train to Somerville, where the unconscious engineer was carried into the station waiting room.

When Dr. Hecht responded to the call for attention to Graves he seemed in his usual health. He was bending over the injured engineman when he sank to the floor. He was dead almost immediately after.

Railroad men on the scene retained presence of mind enough during the excitement that followed to have Graves hurried to the hospital. County Physician Long was summoned on the telephone and gave permission without delay for the removal of Dr. Hecht's body to his home.

SAYS LIQUOR VOTES CAN TURN NATIONAL ELECTION

"One million voters of the United States are under the control of the liquor interests and can turn a Presidential election," declared S. S. Swackhamer in his talk on "Christian Citizenship," before the members of the Baraca and Philathea Bible classes of the Temple Baptist church, yesterday afternoon. During his address, Mr. Swackhamer referred to the new era of "peace on earth, good will to men," which is dawning and contrasted the rulers of the nations of today with the rulers of history. He made a strong plea on behalf of local option.

After the address, resolutions in favor of local option were adopted and copies will be forwarded to the county representatives at Trenton. Yesterday's meeting was along the line of "Social Christianity," a study which has just been taken up by the class under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Evans C. Concver.

The managers and workers were not discouraged however, and as an indication of the field yet unsolicited Campaign Secretary Bogen stated that there are still on hand more than 5,000 cards.

Thus far 450 in all have been taken out and of the number 413 have either made contributions or returned answers up to Saturday morning. The total amount now subscribed is $65,844.25.

BIG VOTE IN FIRST COUNT

Interest in Press Tours Proven to be Remarkable by Ballots Cast.

CONTEST FAIR TO EVERYONE

Rumors of Favoritism Absolutely Without Foundation, Every Young Woman Entered Has Equal Chance—Plenty of Opportunity Yet.

It is evident that the people of Plainfield are taking a more than ordinary interest in the European Tour Contest now being conducted by Plainfield's most progressive paper, the Daily Press, as is evidenced by the exceptionally large vote polled at the first count of the ballots Saturday night. The great number of ballots found in the ballot box surprised the highest expectations of the managers of the tour department and of the paper, and was encouraging and gratifying in the extreme. It showed that the representative young women who have been nominated are fully cognizant of the value of these trips and that they and their friends intend to make the most of the wonderful opportunity which is now before them. The ballots will now be allowed to accumulate until Wednesday night, when the second count will be made. The result of this count will be published in Thursday's paper, and thereafter the ballots will be counted every night and the results added to the standing of the contestants and published in the following day's issue. It is well to have a good showing of votes in next week's vote, for we cannot advise you too strongly of the necessity of obtaining a few of the easily secured subscription votes and depositing them in the ballot box, also the ad-

REV. MR. BROEK ON THINGS MODERN

As to Good and Bad Papers and the Evils of Godless Learning.

DRAMA MAY BE MADE MORAL

But Mr. Broek Has Yet to Hear of Anybody Going to the Theatre to Be Uplifted — Suggests Literary Bonfire.

Commenting on the modern-day newspaper in his sermon in Trinity Reformed church, last night, Rev. John Y. Broek said that newspaper should be heartily commended for publishing such a large amount of religious information, as it gives a moral tone to the community in which they circulate.

"Yet newspapers cannot always say what they would like to," said Mr. Broek, "because they represent people and must please them."

After defining what a newspaper is and its functions in reporting the common consciousness of people for the last twenty-four hours, he said that there are different classes of them. The better class maintains a high standard of morality while others are controlled by certain interests and must be amicable to advertising interests.

The subject of the sermon was "The Church and Modern Society." "There is such a thing as godless education, asserted Mr. Broek, and we can hurt ourselves with it. The preacher then decried the fact that there is less religion in the college and schools than formerly.

The theatre has a great chance for moral uplift, he thinks, but he has yet to hear of anyone going to a play house as a tonic for their morals.

The three places where the Bible is needed, Mr. Broek said, is in our homes, schools and church, and what society needs is its saving grace. It should be read in place of the many frivolous books now so widely in circulation and which richly deserve burning, the preacher declared.

WEST END SHOPKEEPER ASSAULTED AND ROBBED

Michael Weber's Skull Fractured by Footpad, Who Gets $215 of Store's Saturday Receipts—Colored Suspect Under Arrest.

Michael Weber, 65 years old, a butcher in business at 522 West Third street, while on the way to his home at 431 Spooner avenue, late Saturday night, was attacked by a highwayman and robbed of $215. His skull was fractured in the attack, and he is lying at his home in a critical condition.

The crime took place on West Fourth street, near John, three doors beyond Hope chapel. Several hours after the robbery the police arrested William Johnson, colored, 35 years old, as a suspect. He was remanded today by City Judge William G. DeMeza for a hearing next Wednesday morning.

The police say Johnson was in Weber's shop at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night, a short time before the butcher closed up and started for home, and that he has stubbornly refused to give an account of his whereabouts from that time to the time that he was taken into custody.

From a halting statement made by Weber in a brief period of consciousness yesterday, and other information gathered the police have pieced the story of the robbery together. While there is no certainty as to that point, it is believed that one man committed the crime.

Weber closed his shop a few minutes before midnight and set out for home. Before leaving he put the receipts of the store for the day, amounting to about $215, in his pockets. He tucked the roll of bills containing $200 and $15 in silver in a hip pocket and placed another roll, containing about $100, in a front trousers pocket.

Usually Weber placed all his money in his hip pocket, and the fact that the thief fled after cleaning that pocket out is regarded by the police as an indication that the footpad probably was one who had made himself familiar with the butcher's habits.

Weber said yesterday in his brief period of consciousness that as he approached John street, on his way along Fourth, he noticed a shadow across the sidewalk ahead of him. It was undoubtedly cast by the highwayman as he lurked behind a tree.

A few steps further on Weber heard the quick patter of feet behind him. The next instant a crushing blow descended on his head. He regained consciousness and cried out once. Another blow silenced him.

John Kilbride, before whose house the assault took place, was awakened by the cries. He put on some clothes in a hurry and ran into the street. Weber was lying unconscious on the sidewalk, bleeding from a long cut in his head. The hip pocket in which he had stowed the $215 was inside out. The other pocket with the rest of his money didn't seem disturbed. There was no sign of the assailant.

John Donelly, who lives next door to Kilbride, walking toward Fourth street along John street on his way home, heard Weber cry out. He came up running as Kilbride reached Weber's side. Another man came up a minute later, and the latter and Kilbride carried Weber to his home, while Donelly went for a doctor. He got Dr. Lufburrow, 441 West Front street, who worked over the unconscious man at the house.

Patrolman Moseler lives next door to Weber, and he notified police headquarters of the robbery. Roundsman Higgins and several patrolmen started combing the neighborhood for the assault for traces of the criminal, and a short time after the search began they got a hint to look up Johnson.

They were told he had a reputation as a "bad" man, and was seen in Weber's store at 11:30 o'clock. They got him in a house on West Third street. All efforts, the police say, to get a statement from the prisoner has failed. He had only a small sum on him when taken.

Dr. Lufburrow said today that he thought Weber had a chance for recovery, but that the full seriousness of the fracture could not be told for several days. It took fourteen stitches to close the wound in the injured man's head.

Chance saved Mrs. Weber from suffering in the assault with her husband. She was at the store Saturday night, according to her weekly custom, to accompany him home, but he sent her away ahead of him at 11 o'clock, because there were several undelivered orders which he knew would keep him later than usual. The police are pretty certain that her presence wouldn't have discouraged the highwayman. He would have felled her as well as her husband.

GLAD MAYOR WENT AFTER MORMONS

Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Parish Passes Resolutions of Thanks.

UPHOLDING THE AUTHORITIES

Another Resolution Urges Passage of Bill to Take Marrying Power from Hands of Justices of the Peace—Three Hundred Members Out.

The Holy Name Society of St. Mary's parish, with three hundred members present, passed a resolution at a meeting yesterday afternoon thanking Mayor Moy for "the prompt and effective action taken by him as Mayor of our city in suppressing the propaganda of the tenets of Mormonism." The resolution pledged cordial support to the authorities "in all things that make for moral cleanliness and the integrity of the Christian home." The resolution was signed by Paul H. Burns, president; Daniel J. Courain, J. J. Varley and Albert LaRock.

A second resolution endorsing the bill to take the marrying power away from Justices of the Peace was also passed. Copies of the resolution were sent to Senator Carlton B. Pierce and Assemblymen Babcock, Groves and Otto, the Union county representatives in the Legislature. That resolution was similar to ones being passed by all New Jersey Holy Name societies, following the lead set by the Newark Diocesan Federation of the Holy Name Society, which passed a resolution inspiring the introduction of the bill.

The Diocesan Federation resolution asserted that the marrying authority vested in the justices "has been so abused as to have been brought into disrepute, and the dignity of the marriage state and its incident duties and obligations made a matter of ridicule." The local society's resolution is signed by Paul H. Burns, the president, and John Gallagher, secretary.

Yesterday's meeting was the first since the installation of the society's officers.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF CHRISTIAN KELLER HELD

The funeral of Christian Keller was held at the late home on Hart avenue, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, including the members of the Gesang and Turn Verein, of which he was a charter member. The singing section of the society sang several selections.

Rev. George Krauser, formerly pastor of the German Reformed church, who officiated at Mrs. Keller's funeral the latter part of January, conducted the service yesterday. There was a large and beautiful display of floral tributes, including a pillow from the family and another one from the German societies. The burial was in the family plot in North Plainfield cemetery, members of the Gesang and Turn Verein acting as pallbearers.

MISS REMSEN'S LONG ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

Miss Letitia S. Remsen, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Remsen, and the late Abram G. Remsen, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 22 West Servelt avenue, following a long illness with pulmonary trouble. She was born and always lived in this city. She is survived by her mother.

The funeral will be held at the late residence on Westervelt avenue, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The burial will be in Cypress Hills cemetery, New York.

Entertained at "500."

Mrs. George O. Stevens, of West Sixth street, entertained at "500" at her home, Saturday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. William Latshaw, of Pittsburg, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Westcott, of this city. There were three tables in play. Mrs. B. Frank Boos won the first prize, Mrs. Samuel Clark the second, and Mrs. William Scott the third. The affair was in a nature of a Valentine party.

END COMES AT LAST TO DR. BRAKELEY

Dunellen's "First Citizen" Succumbs After Battle of Years With Disease.

PROMINENT IN POLITICS

Former Township Head, Mayor, Postmaster, President of the Board of Health and Education—Vice-Pres. Middlesex County Committee

After a fight for life covering a period of several years, and which reached a crisis at his home in Peter Winted Brakeley died at 4:30 o'clock this morning at his home in Dunellen. He was sixty-eight years old. Death was caused by a complication of disease.

At his bedside when the end came was his aged life's partner and four of their children. The other, the only daughter, was unable to complete the journey from her California home before the end came.

Dr. Brakeley was born in Belvidere and after attending the schools there was graduated from Princeton in the class of 1867. He then entered the University of Pennsylvania Medical School and secured his degree of M. D. from that institution in 1869. One year was spent in a Philadelphia hospital as interne and then he located in Dunellen, where he has since resided. Four years ago he retired from active practice on account of his ill health.

During his residence in Dunellen, Dr. Brakeley became one of the most prominent men in this section. Before Dunellen was incorporated as a borough, he was president of the governing body of this township and was elected Mayor when the municipality became a borough. Prior to this election he had served a term as Coroner of Middlesex county, the first political office he held.

After his term as mayor expired he served at various times as president of the Board of Health and Board of Education. During the term of President Roosevelt, Dr. Brakeley was appointed postmaster, succeeding Charles A. Corriell. Before his retirement he was for a number of years physician to the Dunellen Court of Foresters and William Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

At the time of his death, Dr. Brakeley was vice-chairman of the Middlesex County Republican Executive Committee, vice-president and director of the First National Bank of Dunellen, and a member of several medical societies in the State, although since his retirement he had not been active in any of them.

Surviving besides his widow are five children as follows: Mrs. Thomas F. McGuire, of Petaluma, Cal., Geo. A. and Paul Winter Brakeley, of Newark, Hugh Maxwell and Russell Davis Brakeley, at home; also one grandchild, Helen McGuire. He was an attendant of the Church of the Holy Cross in this city.

The funeral will be held at his late home Thursday afternoon.

DRIVER ABANDONS WAGON; SAID TO HAVE LEFT TOWN

Harry Smith, who was employed as a driver for Councilman W. W. Wilson, the grocer, abandoned his employer's horse and wagon at Watchung and Fourth street, on Saturday and disappeared from the city.

It is said that Smith was to be married on Wednesday to a woman residing in North Plainfield, and that the couple planned to live in a new house recently built here by Smith.

Mr. Wilson was notified by the police that his horse and wagon had been abandoned and he sent another man after the rig. Today Mr. Wilson heard indirectly that Smith was in Jersey City.

Mr. Wilson said today he would like to see his driver and talk some things over with him. One of the things he would like to slaughter, things he would like to straighten out, Mr. Wilson said, was the account of his collections.

CHARLES W. E. PRENTISS DEAD AT AGE OF TWENTY.

Charles W. E. Prentiss, twenty years old, died yesterday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. Carl Ebel, on East Second street, after a long illness. The funeral services will be held at his late home and St. Marys church Wednesday morning. Burial will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

CENTRAL PLANS SEVERAL WESTFIELD IMPROVEMENTS

Westfield, Feb. 10.—(Special.)—The Central Railroad has completed plans for a number of improvements at Westfield. These plans include the erection of a new station on the Westbound side, the structure to conform to the depot now on the eastbound side. A separate building will be erected on the north side of the tracks on the site of the present Union News stand for the use of the United States Express Company.

The freight house and tracks will be moved from the vicinity of the eastbound station to a new location on North avenue near the Garwood line. For this purpose the railway company has purchased a tract of 400 feet belonging to the Pierson estate, J. F. Irving and William Welsh. The price paid is said to have been $14,000.

DEATH STAYS SENTENCE OF ROOSEVELT, N. J., MAN.

New York, Feb. 12.—Louis Sabow, the former postmaster of Roosevelt, N. J., who was held in the Tombs awaiting sentence for obtaining money under false pretenses, died in Bellevue Hospital of pleuro-pneumonia. He was moved from the Tombs Tuesday.

Sabow was indicted in New Jersey for embezzling funds deposited with him by foreigners of Roosevelt and Perth Amboy, and it appeared that he had obtained $1,500 from Charles J. Canda, of New York, by a misrepresentation of his assets. While out on bail from the New Jersey courts he made a trip to this city and was arrested on the Canda charge.

DARBY'S FATHER ON HIS BAIL PIECE FOR $2,000.

Westfield, Feb. 10.—An autopsy was held Thursday afternoon at the Westfield Town Hall on the body of George Woolf, killed Wednesday afternoon by Harry Darby's automobile. Dr. F. W. Westcott, county physician, conducted the autopsy. It was found that the skull was fractured, causing death. Darby was arraigned at Elizabeth Thursday afternoon and released on $2,000 bail furnished by his father, L. Douglas Darby, of this place.

Branchberg Finances.

North Branch, Feb. 12.—(Special).—The annual report of the finances of Branchberg township has been made public, and indicates that the district is in prosperous condition. The report of John Ritchie, the collector of taxes, shows that the amount of the duplicate for the year 1911 was $11,860.48. The report of William V. D. Jeliffe, the treasurer, shows that the year was started with a balance in hand of $1,873.63; received on taxes, $2,562.50; received on notes, $1,500; received on licenses, $199, making a total of $6,135.13.

SLUMBERING BRAKEMAN MEETS WITH ODD ACCIDENT.

Elizabeth, Feb. 10.—George Masteron, of Phillipsburg, a brakeman in the employ of the Central Railroad, was the victim of a peculiar accident on train near here.

Masteron, who is a member of a crew in charge of a fast freight, having nothing else to do while the train was rolling toward its destination, entered the caboose to enjoy a little nap. As he slept, he dreamed. After awhile he started to swing his fist, and very promptly drove his left arm through the window of the caboose, severing an artery. The train was nearing Elizabeth at the time of the accident, and Masteron was brought to the Alexian Hospital, where his injuries were dressed.

HOOFPRINT HUNT FOR SLAYER

South Mountain Deer Has Killed Four of His Fellows.

South Orange, N. J., Feb. 12.—Employees of the Essex county park commission, who thought they had a vandal to deal with in the case of four slaughtered deer found in the South Mountain reservation, have learned through an autopsy performed by a veterinarian that the real offender has four instead of two legs and that he is armed not with a rifle but with horns that can do execution. The problem now is to find the owner of the horns and kill him. If they do not the chances are that he will dispatch all his fellows.

It would be easy enough to let the rampaging deer go on and uncover his guilt by a process of elimination, but the disadvantages of that course are twofold. In the first place, he would have to do for 100 deer before the elimination would be complete, and by the time the identity of the horned slayer was established in that way the need for his removal would have departed.

It is not revenge that actuates the park employees, but a desire to prevent further destruction. They are now working out a hoofprint method of determining the mysterious deer's identity in the hope that the culprit can be caught before he goes much further.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

No one can sit through a performance of "Over Night" without laughter, and it is laughter which springs spontaneously at the most unexpected moments. The story of the two bridal parties who get so sadly mixed on their honeymoon, that the bride of one, and the groom of the other are compelled to take it alone, while the other pair are in a similar situation, contains enough possibilities for humor to satisfy one, and the author, Philip H. Bartholomae, has certainly made the most of it. The honeymoons take place on the Hudson, and from the opening scene of the first act, clear to the finale, the fun is fast and uproarious. There will be just two performances at the Plainfield theatre next Saturday.

Geo. M. Cohan's play, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," is one of the most talked about comedies produced in the past decade and its performance in this city at the Plainfield theatre February 19, is one of the genuinely enjoyable anticipated events of the current season.

One of the most popular book dramatizations of recent years will be presented at the Plainfield theatre soon when Harold MacGrath's most popular novel, "The Goose Girl," will hold the boards. George D. Baker, a young dramatist, has made the adaption, and tells the story as clearly as when we read the printed pages.

Mrs. Isaac Wimmitt, of Oneida, N. Y., who has been critically ill in Muhlenberg Hospital since the death and burial of her son several weeks ago, is beginning to show signs of improvement and there is now some hope for recovery.

PEOPLE ON CAR AID INSANE MAN

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 12.—Samuel Walker, formerly one of the most prominent lawyers here, who has been an inmate of the State Asylum For the Insane for several months, was out walking with an attendant. Walker boarded a trolley car, the attendant following. Walker paid his own fare, but the attendant had no money and Walker would not pay for him.

When the attendant tried to explain to the conductor that he had an insane man in charge the conductor looked at the smiling Walker and concluded that if either was a lunatic it was the attendant.

"He's no more insane than you," taunted the fare collector. "So quit your kidding and pay or get off."

The attendant appealed to other passengers to lend him a nickel, but all shared the conductor's suspicions. The attendant had to get off. He ran at full speed back to the asylum and informed Warden Atchley, who got out his automobile and started in pursuit. Walker was at the railway station awaiting a train, with a ticket for Camden in his hand.

"Nearly beat you that time," was Walker's laughing greeting. He made no objection to going back to the asylum.

Plainfield, N. J., February 12, 1912

It is expected that the Congressional redistricting bills, as proposed by the Republicans and Democrats respectively, will make their appearance in the Legislature this week probably on Wednesday. As redistricting is by far the most serious matter viewed from a standpoint of practical politics and political expediency, there will be a heated and prolonged debate without any question. As the Republicans control both the House and the Senate, the politician is more interested in what will be the fate of that party's bill. It should be borne in mind, however, that the Governor is a Democrat and as he exercises the right of veto it is by no means certain that the Republican measure will become a law.

The First Second, Third and Fourth districts, the Republicans would have remain as they are. As for our own, the Fifth district, the aim is to cut out Warren leaving it to consist only of Union and Morris thereby assuring a Republican majority. If the Democrats have their way, the Fifth would be changed to consist of Union and Warren with that part of Morris which generally gives the larger vote to their party. Regarding the present Sixth district the Republican plan is to dismember it and to construct one of Bergen Sussex, Warren and a section of Passaic. They would make another new district of that part of Passaic where there is a population of over 208,000. The other five districts are to be formed of Essex and Huson counties; that is, provided, the Republican members succeed with their present plans.

William J. Gaynor, New York's peculiar mayor, has a profound knowledge of early history and of the Roman and Grecian poets and philosophers, but he has the habit of making a slip now and then when talking about the affairs of today. The other night he "roasted" New Jersey because of its corporation laws and denounced its governors for never having uttered their voices against them. He even went so far as to say that no governor has ever sent a message to the Legislature upon the subject. As a matter of fact the corporation laws have frequently been a subject for discussion in governors' messages and we only have to refer Mr. Gaynor to the first message of Governor Wilson, sent to the Legislature on January 17, 1911, wherein he said:

"I would urge, therefore, the imperative obligation of public policy and public honesty, we are under to effect such changes in the law of the State as will henceforth effectually prevent the abuse of the privilege of incorporation which has in recent years brought so much descredit upon our State. In order to do this it will be necessary to regulate and restrict the issue of securities, to enforce regulations with regard to bona-fide capitalization, and to prescribe methods by which the public shall be safeguarded against fraud, deception, extortion and every abuse of its confidence. And such scrutiny and regulation ought not to be confined to corporations seeking charters. They ought also to be extended to corporations already operating under the license and authority of the State."

It would not be an exaggeration to say that the program for the eleventh annual sessions of the New Jersey Conference of Charities and Corrections, to be held at East Orange on March 24, 25 and 26, is one of extraordinary interest. The general theme for the meeting, "The Relation of Our Schools to Pauperism, Delinquency and Crime," provides a wide range for discussions and that the officers of the Conference fully appreciate that fact is made evident by the diversity and appropriateness of the special topics as well as by the splendid selections as to speakers.

At the forthcoming sessions, we are told fewer papers are to be read and more time and attention is to be devoted to informal discussions from the floor. This of itself is a wise move on the part of the Conference's officers for at too many important gatherings of this sort, the best results are missed by running in one set speech after another and not giving the members generally any chance to ask questions or to express briefly their views as to some particular aspect of the subject of formal discussion.

Anyone who entertains the idea that Muhlenberg Hospital is going to be the sole beneficiary of the present campaign is missing the point. The people of this community are going to get something for themselves which they have never had before, and that is a direct interest in everything affecting the future activities of this great charitable institution. They are not going to make their gifts and promptly lose all interest. They are going to become shareholders in the enterprise for all time.

Therefore, it is the contribution and not its size, which is going to count. The subscribers are not to be grouped according to the amount given. There are only two classes in this campaign: Those who give and those who do not. As one of the speakers said at the opening banquet generosity is to be measured not by what you give, but by how much you have got left afterwards. Many ten dollar, five dollar and one dollar subscriptions spell out a greater sacrifice than the thousands and tens of thousands. Muhlenberg wants your interest, and not just your money. There will be thousands of names on the honor-roll when this campaign is over and the boy and the girl who has given ten cents or a penny will be in the same class with the millionaire, and a shareholder with him in the future work and honor of Muhlenberg hospital.

The London County Council, London, England, evidently believes in the adage for women that "the way to reach a man's heart is through his stomach." At least that governing body's rather novel idea to assist the young men of the working classes in winning competent young women when they are in seach of wives would give one that impression. The Council offers 500 junior domestic economy scholarships for the free education of girls of fourteen years or thereabouts at domestic economy schools. The girls will be taught dressmaking, needlework, cookery, laundrywork, needlework mending and general housework and moreover general management, home organization and hygiene by practical methods. The scheme was first tested by the London County Council eighteen years ago and the results have been so satisfactory that the scope of the undertaking is to be materially enlarged. The idea is one that will be closely watched by philanthropic workers in this country.

visability of being among the leaders in your district. This will show your friends that you are interested, and a personal interest is half the battle.

The system used in this competition is absolutely fair and above board, and we are willing at any and all times, to show to the contestants or anyone else who is interested that the methods used are fair and impartial to all alike. The assistance given to any one candidate is at the command of all the others. There are and will be no favorites. Every girl who wins will do so only on her merits as a vote-getter. This policy will be followed to the finish without the slightest deviation, and the interests of every candidate will be safeguarded in the same efficient manner which chafacterizes all the business transactions of the Daily Press.

In any affair of this magnitude there are bound to be rumors which have no foundation, but all that need be remembered is that the Press guarantee of fairness is behind the enterprise ,and the truth of any matter concerning the contest may be quickly learned by consulting this office.

Think of the pleasure, the health-giving and educational benefits to be derived from a two months' tour of Europe. Think of the honor and distinction of winning by your own efforts one of these delightful vacation trips. Think of the satisfaction to be derived in receiving such a splendid reward for a few short weeks of ambitious effort on your part. And think of the added honor and pleasure of being the high winner and selecting the chaperone, who may be your mother, your sister, or a friend who has helped you in the contest. And the fact that the tour will be conducted by the peerless Cook Tourist Company is ample evidence that the very best will be given to the Press party something which only the name of Cook guarantees.

If you are not yet clear in your own mind as to the rules and conditions of this contest, call on or write the Tour Department at once and you will cheerfully be given the full particulars.

Do not lose sight of the advantage to be gained by an early start. Let your friends know that you are interested. They will help you do the rest. The time is ripe for action. Opportunity knocks but once. Start now.

Accused of Strewing Glass.

Westfield, Feb. 10.—George Kirch, a lineman of the Public Service Corporation, was charged in the recorder's office with throwing broken glass insulators in the road. Fire Department Chief Fred C. Decker was complainant. The complaint was made last December, but for want of identification the prisoner was discharged. Later Kirch is said to have admitted knowing who threw the glass into the street and promised that it would not be done again.

Miss Sadie Holeman, of North Branch, has been spending the week with friends in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. David Flammer, of Somerset street, have been visiting Mrs. John Flammer, of Warrenville.

Woman's World

Mrs. T. P. O'Connor, American Wife of Irish Leader.

MRS. T. P. O'CONNOR.

Mrs. T. P. O'Connor, wife of the famous Irish member of parliament, is in this country for a short stay and has recently made a tour of the south gathering material for a book to be called "My Beloved South."

Mrs. O'Connor is herself a daughter of the southland and as Miss Pascal spent most of her young life in Texas, but for the past decade or so she has been a brilliant figure in the literary and social life of London.

The wife of the great Nationalist is the author of several interesting books, but as a playwright she has gained most distinction, her latest play, "The Stronger Sex," having met with great success both in America and in London.

Mrs. O'Connor is a woman of wonderful charm and has the fire, active brain, dark hair and eyes, olive skin and comely figure of the southern American lady. A fluent talker, she has a delightful fund of anecdote; a woman of great common sense and generous disposition, she has many times helped those striving journalists to whom her talented husband is also a friend and a benefactor. She is mistress of a delightful, rambling old house in Upper Cheyne row, Chelsea.

MACHINE HEMSTITCHING.

It Is Easy and Looks Almost as Well as Handwork.

Hemstitching can be very neatly done on the sewing machine in this way: Draw the number of threads desired and baste the edge of the hem in the center of the drawn threads.

Lengthen the stitch on the machine and stitch on the very edge of the hem.

Pull the bastings out and pull the edge of the hem to the bottom of the drawn threads.

Hemstitching done this way can scarcely be distinguished from that done by hand.

Another way to hemstitch when you wish to join two pieces of material is to fold several thicknesses of blotting paper together and lay one piece of material on one side and one piece on the other, with the folds of paper between. Keeping the edges perfectly even, stitch through the material and paper, having a very long stitch on the machine. When the seam is sewed pull out the paper, crease back the edges of the seam and stitch again on both edges, having the long threads of the former stitching pulled apart the full width.

The sewing machine can be employed in mending torn lace. Draw the edges of the tear together and baste it on a piece of thin paper.

Then stitch back and forth as many times as it is necessary and, when finished, carefully tear off the paper.

TOOLING LEATHER.

A New and Artistic Fad In Home Handicrafts.

Articles made of tooled leather are decidedly artistic. Sheet leather of a russet color is used. Select a quality which does not tear easily and yet is firm and flexible. Sheepskin, fine calfskin, goatskin, sealskin and pigskin are used.

The tools made of steel cost less, but those of brass, agate, ivory and horn are better to work the leather.

The leather must be soaked in water from one to ten minutes, according to its thickness. If you desire a deep impression, cover the entire surface of the back with molding wax. Tack the leather upon a board. This should be made in three layers to prevent warping.

Draw your design upon paper, carefully applying it to fit the space to be covered. Transfer the design by placing it over the leather and carefully follow the outline with a tracing wheel.

Go over the lines with a lead pencil before tooling it. Heat the irons by a small gas or alcohol lamp and tool the leather.

The design may be tinted or gilded, if desired. Book covers, chair backs, panels, cardcases and numerous other articles are effective made of tooled leather.

Flattered.

She—When it was given out that his cashier ran off with $50,000 he didn't seem to mind it at all. He—Is he so rich as not to miss it? She—Well, he was flattered. He never owned $50,000 in his life.—Fliegende Blatter.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WHEN BAKING APPLES.

ONE of the best investments the housewife can make in winter is a barrel of apples. This is, of course, if she has a good place to store them, for they must not be allowed to freeze, nor yet is it safe to keep them too warm.

The apples make delicious desserts, and if they are picked over every little while and the bruised ones removed it is surprising how long they will keep.

Baldwins or Greenings are good winter apples and the best varieties for baking.

A baked apple for breakfast is, so far as the health is concerned, worth its weight in gold.

Sugared and Spiced.

Plain baked apples are cooked in about the same way in almost every household.

Lemon Baked Apples.—Use cooking apples of equal size, pare and core. Fill the cavity with moist sugar, place in baking dish, sprinkle with powdered sugar, lemon juice and melted butter and bake as usual. Serve with sugar and cream.

Baked Apples With Cinnamon.—Select apples that are not too tart. Wipe them clean and remove the cores without paring the apples. Stand them on an earthen baking dish. Fill the empty space in the center of each apple with brown sugar, bits of butter and sprinkle with cinnamon. Allow to bake until tender. The butter and sugar will make a delicious jelly dressing. Serve plain or with sweet cream.

With Nuts.

Apples With Nuts. — Take large Greenings or Baldwins. Wash, core, but do not peel. Fill the apertures with jelly and chopped nuts and bake. Serve hot or cold with cream.

Baked Apples and Mixed Nuts.—Fill the apples with chopped hickory and English walnut meats. Sprinkle with white sugar. Put in the oven and bake slowly, basting all the while with sirup made of one cupful of sugar, one-third cupful of water, cooked until in threads. Bake until the apples are clear. Serve with whipped cream.

Apples en Casserole.—Take a half dozen apples, wash, pare, quarter and core the apples. Brush the casserole dish with butter. Put a layer of apples into casserole dish and sprinkle with one-third of a cupful of sugar. Then add another layer of apples and sugar and a third layer.

Cover the casserole and put into a moderate oven for two hours, or until they are cooked or baked through.

This makes a nice thick marmalade and is delicious.

Nose and Goggle Party.

A family of fun loving girls recently gave an amusing party. It was called a nose and goggle party and helped a number of young people to pass an evening very merrily without much expenditure of energy and thought in the matter of a disguise.

Each guest wore a false nose and goggles. The noses were purchased or made by clever fingers of heavy cardboard covered with chamois and were not removed until after refreshments were served.

As the guests arrived each was given a card perforated with ribbon run through in order to wear the card around the neck, so that every one could see it.

The cards had on one side a number by which each guest was known, on the other side a list of figures—1, 2, 3, etc. (as many figures as there were guests)—with a space opposite each figure for a name.

In the social conversation which followed each guest guessed who his or her entertainer was. Of course, with intimate friends the familiar voice revealed the personality, but in many cases this was not easily done, if they attempted to disguise the voice, and much amusement and many absurd guesses were made.

As each guess was made the name was placed opposite the number on the card of the guesser corresponding to the number of the person with whom he or she was talking. For instance, if some one thought he knew No. 4 he turned his card and wrote the name opposite No. 4, etc. It was voted by all the gay people who were present as no end of fun and a most original way of spending a jolly evening.

When Cutting Striped Material.

One of the most difficult things for the home dressmaker to accomplish is the proper cutting of striped materials.

To be able to cut a striped dress well is a proof that you are by no means a novice at the art of dressmaking.

Skirts are always cut first. Lay the material out flat on the cutting table, and if there is no "up and down" to the material you will be able to fit the gores into each other, cutting the material in an economical way.

Remember to have the line of small perforations found in the center of each gore of the pattern run straight with a stripe. This will cause each cut edge to be slightly bias and when joined will look far better than if a bias edge was joined to the straight.

The center of the front gore must, of course, be on a stripe. Double your material before cutting in order to have both sides exactly alike. When cutting sleeves be sure the material is doubled and save yourself the trouble of having one sleeve different from the other, thus ruining the garment.

Stripes should run straight from the shoulder to the waist in sleeves. Have the stripes run straight down the center of the front and straight down the center of the back when cutting the bodice. Always allow plenty of material for seams when striped material is used and be sure that the stripes match in the joining of seams.

WARDROBE HINTS.

Corsage Bouquets of Orchids and Lilies on Evening Frocks.

Corsage bouquets of orchids, lilies of the valley and violets, wonderfully natural even to the perfume, are being worn to lend a finishing touch of color to the evening gowns.

Gorgeous new evening slippers are shown this season to match the most exquisite toilets. Those of black brocade, with emerald and gold, are most distingue with a black gown, and many of the evening slippers have reverted to the fashion of a former time and have ribbons attached that are wound around the instep and ankles like the sandals of a ballet girl.

The empire nightgown illustrated will appeal to the woman who makes

Two Novel Recipes.

Sweet Potato Pudding.—Here is a recipe that is generally liked. Take cold baked potatoes. Cut them into thin slices. Lay them in a baking dish, sprinkle with a little sugar and spread with butter. Then put in a layer of cracker crumbs. Run in another layer of potatoes and butter, then more cracker crumbs and so on until the dish is full, making the last layer one of the crumbs. Bake until they brown.

Sponge Cake Fritters.—Take six or eight sponge cakes, one cup of cream, boiling hot, with a pinch of soda stirred in; four eggs, whipped light; one tablespoonful cornstarch, wet in cold milk; one-quarter pound of currants, washed and dried. Pound the cakes fine and pour the cream over them. Stir in the cornstarch. Cover for half an hour, then beat until cold. All the yolks, light and strained, the whipped whites, should be added to the batter, then the currants thickly dredged with flour. Beat all hard together. Drop in spoonfuls into the boiling lard. Fry quickly. Drain upon a warmed sieve and send to table hot.

THE FEMININE PHILOSOPHER.

Being married does not destroy a man's love of being flattered or a woman's dislike of sarcasm.

A wise woman does not worry about how to manage a husband. She keeps him busy managing her.

Marriage cannot be a failure as a whole or you would not find so many people anxious to try again.

Before a man's married he doesn't know whether he prefers a stiff neck from looking up to a superior or a stiff back from holding up a clinging vine. Afterward he prefers the other.

The following were named as a committee to solicit funds: G. H. P. Ganaway, chairman; Miss M. B. Cobbs, secretary; W. G. Wright, treasurer; Dr. J. C. Anderson, W. J. Douglass, N. Pollard, W. Valentine Sociable.

Under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, a valentine social will be held in the parish house, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. A sale of valentines and other articles, combined with music, dancing and refreshments will contribute towards an enjoyable evening.

MOTOR CARS MUST HAVE LIGHTS WHEN STANDING.

Dr. F. W. French, of Mercer avenue, has taken an appeal from the $5 fine imposed this morning by Recorder Gano in the North Plainfield court. Dr. French was arraigned last week on a charge of leaving his automobile standing in front of his home after dark without lights. Not being familiar with the automobile law, Recorder Gano wrote to Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Smith for a ruling. Commissioner Smith replied that the law required two lights on the front of a car and one on the rear whether the machine was moving or not.

THIS BURGLAR REALLY COOL: HE TURNED ON THE FURNACE.

Another burglary was reported to police headquarters today. The victim was John Thornton, 1225 North avenue, who found a cellar window open, and two watches missing when he got up at 5:30 o'clock this morning.

He also found the drafts of his furnace turned on full, and the police said he was sound in his deduction that the burglar turned them on.

MISS GRAVES BREAKS LEG IN FALL ON STREET.

Miss Mary Graves, of West Fifth street, a music teacher with a wide circle of friends, slipped and fell on East Fifth street Saturday afternoon and broke her leg. She was taken home in the ambulance and Dr. Endicott set the fracture at the house.

At Children's Concert.

Miss Grace Powell Karr took a party of seven piano pupils to New York Saturday afternoon to hear a symphony concert for young people, conducted by Walter Damrosch at Carnegie Hall. The subject for the afternoon was French and Russian composers, and the selections from each were greatly enjoyed. The solo rendered by Zimbalist, the famous violinist, were encored time and again. The following children made up the party: Misses Clara Hadley, Sarah Schuck, Genvieve Letson, Lois Lord, Grace Gillahan, Beatrice DeCamp and Grace Gedney.

He Got a Birthday Surprise.

Samuel B. Bogart, son of Joseph Bogart, of East Sixth street, was given a birthday surprise party at his home Saturday night. The affair was arranged by his sisters, the Misses Helen and Elizabeth Bogart. The company comprised twelve young men, personal friends of Mr. Bogart. The evening was spent playing whist, favors being given the winners. After the play supper was served.

is easy. If you have the money you can find plenty of people who are ready to help you BUY.

SELLING is a different matter. In this transaction you need to take advantage of every material aid.

A GUARANTY OF TITLE is often an assistance in selling real estate. It at least removes any objection growing out of a possible defect in title.

When you buy secure a Guaranty of Title. Then it will follow the property when you sell.

LOCAL CHAMPS AT SPORTMAN'S SHOW

Neaf Apgar and John Doughty Among Trap-Shooting and Casting Contestants.

THESE SPORTS FEATURED

Special Effort by Management to Secure Best Material for Tournaments and to Keep Them Free From Criticism.

Two local men, prominent the country over for their past performances, will be featured at the eighteenth annual Sportsmen's show in Madison Square Garden, which opens March 1 and continues to March 9. They are Neaf Apgar, the professional trap-shooting champion of last year, and John Doughty, former champion caster. Mr. Doughty is a member of the committee that will conduct the casting tournament for both fly and bait casting.

Mr. Apgar, who last year under artificial lighting arrangements none too favorable, broke 240 out of 250 targets, will again step to the shooting-platform. His strongest competitor will be F. B. Stephenson, of the Crescent Club of Brooklyn, who won the international indoor champion ship last March against a field of 265 competitors, the flower of America's army of shot gun experts.

Among the women contestants will appear Miss Annie Rieker, of Lancaster, Pa., and Annie Oakley, who has given nearly 400 exhibitions since last year's show. A number of colleges and universities will send the pick of their gun club teams to win fame at smashing the blue rocks made of clay.

Most of the criticism of the casting tournaments of the past has arisen from lack of good management. In the 1912 indoor tournament the committee aims to make a record in this respect. The rules will be the tournament rules of the National Anglers' Association, with modifications adopted for the occasion. The judges will be appointed by the committee upon their assurance that they will serve.

The opening event will be at 8:30 Friday evening, March 1—trout dy-casting for distance, five-ounce rods, 70-foot class, open to all except those who have cast 70 feet or more in any open or club tournament with a five-ounce rod. The complete program for the following seven days of the tournament will be announced later. It contains some accuracy-casting, under-obstacle events that will be spectacular and designed to be especially attractive.

THREE LOCAL BOYS AFTER RUTGERS TEAM POSITIONS

Harold Schenck, of West Front street, H. B. Smith and H. B. Jackson, of the borough, and Lester E. Nelson, of New Market, are four candidates for the baseball team at Rutgers. They reported for the first practice last Thursday with forty other aspirants for the nine.

Schenck was a member of the Plainfield High School team and his experience here will stand him in good stead. Both Smith and Jackson were members of the champion North Plainfield High School nine last year and have splendid chances of being put on. They are outfielders as is also Schenck. Nelson is after an infield position.

Walter Bowen, a veteran of three years 'standing at the college, has been elected to captain the squad and will probably occupy his old position behind the bat. The pitching department is well supplied with good material, Clifford Dennis, of Hamburg being the mainstay. There are two other candidates for box positions and in fact all in and outfield places will be hotly contested for from present indications.

NEW BRUNSWICK H. S. FIVE LOST TO N. P. H. S. BOYS.

The N. P. H. S. boys' basketball team defeated the New Brunswick High School quintet in Debele's auditorium Saturday afternoon 41 to 19. The game was loosely played for the most part as the visitors were badly outclassed.

D. and W. Taylor put up star games at forward and Dunning at centre played his usual brilliant game. Townley and Burner were terrors for the New Brunswick forwards and effectually crabbed many a perfect toss.

Bathing to Music.

When George III. used a bathing machine at Weymouth a supplementary machine filled with fiddlers was sent into the sea to play the national anthem. This was at a time when bathing machines were still a new idea, so that majesty patronizing them was an occasion demanding extraordinary emphasis.—Christian Science Monitor.

WHAT THE SPORTS EDITOR HAS TO SAY

The sporting fraternity sot up and took notice, a few days ago when Catcher Ed Sweeney filed a formal application for a State charter to open a basball school in East Liverpool, O. Now that the shock has worn off they are wondering how much recognition the magnates will give diploma supplied aspirants and if the scouts will be fired.

George Solomon, McGinnity's partner, has announced that only five of the last year's team are sure of their jobs at Newark. These are McGinnity and Lee, pitchers; Eddie Zimmerman, last season with Brooklyn, third base; Bob Fisher, shortstop, and Jack Kelley, outfield.

Managers of boxing clubs in New York are afraid to take a chance in putting on Jack Johnson, arguing that his appearance in a New York ring would probably result in the repeal of the Frawley law. Rather than risk crabbing the whole game they will very likely pass up the big fellow, however much of a drawing card he would be.

Hank O'Day, the Reds manager, says he intends to enforce the rules against kicking by his players and will require them to devote their entire attention to ball playing. "The umpiring will take care of itself," he says, and he ought to know.

"Will you depend this year upon the same team that won the world's championship last fall?" a fan asked Connie Mack the other day. "Why shouldn't I?" asked the famous manager. "Wouldn't it be foolish to try experimenting when you know you have the best team in the game?" Sure!

The services of an Italian interpreter will be used tonight in the Raicevich-Zbyszko wrestling bout at Madison Square Garden to tell the italian champion the referee's instructions. This will obviate another misunderstanding, it is thought, and will furnish a means of letting Raicevich know what the Pole says, if he says anything in English, to amplify what he intends doing to the sunny clime grappler.

Jim Delehanty, former Detroit infielder, doesn't let the little irritations of life worry him. he sees the bright side. One day after his recovery Del and some teammates went to Windsor for the races. Del placed a bet in the third race and his horse was last in a big field. Oscar Stanage the catcher, asked him: "How are things going, Del?" "Fair," replied Delahanty. "I had a bet on a brancho in the third, but I don't know whether he was last in that event or first in the fourth."

A New York sport writer asked the veteran George Schlei if he thought he could make good with the Chicago Cubs this year, and George to show how nimble his wits are responded with this letter: "No, my knee joints do not creak, nor do my muscles loudly squeak. I still can throw and still can bat, and have no need for anti-fat. My arm is stronger than it was and I throw to second with a buzz. I don't propose they'll count me out so long as I am fit to clout. With these few words I'll say goodby and wish you well. Yours, George B. Schlei."

Lamp these scores ye Plainfield pinners made by Allentown women bowlers Saturday night in that city:

White Eagles — Mrs. Schubert, 266; Mrs. Harmony, 261; Mrs. Keck, 192; Mrs. Kincaid, 260; Mrs. George, 224. Total, 1203.

American Eagles—Mrs. McLean, 253; Mrs. Schultz, 249; Mrs. Rice, 196; Mrs. Frank, 228; Miss White, 217. Total, 1142.

Scout Dick Kinsella offers his first 1912 contribution to St. Louis Cardinal fans with an apology. He doesn't claim that Elmer Johnson is a Tyrus Cobb, but he guarantees that he can catch 100 games a year and whale the ball to the fence.

Bud Fowler, a negro player famous in the professional ranks before the color line was drawn, and for several years an invalid at his home in Frankfort, N. Y., has written a play said to be the first by a negro author and having negro characters. Its title is "The Retired Black Planter" and several theatrical managers have made offers to produce it.

MONTCLAIR H. S. GIRLS OWNED P. H. S. GIRLS' TEAM.

The P. H. S. girls' basketball team went down in defeat before the fast five from the Montclair High School in the local gym Saturday afternoon. The score was 16 to 12 at the finish. At the end of the first half it was a tie.

The lineup: P. H. S.—Stewart and Mehl, forwards; Douglass, centre; Phillips and Moy, guards. Montclair—Hutchinson and Roosevelt, forwards; McChesney, centre; Rose and Fentslaff, guards.

GOLFER HILTON EXPECTED IN THIS COUNTRY SOON

Intimation has been received to the effect that H. H. Hilton, amateur golf champion of Great Britain and the United States, is planning to return to this country in the near future. While it has generally been understood that the doughty Briton fully intended to get back here in time to defend his title next summer, no earlier return than that had been anticipated.

Word has been received to the effect that Hilton may reach America in Copyright by American Press Association.

H. H. HILTON.

March in time to take part in the north and south championship tournament at Pinehurst the latter part of that month.

If Hilton should come back so soon it would mean that he has mapped out an extensive preliminary program for himself, possibly covering a tour south as well as north.

The fact that Hilton is surely coming over again, possibly in the early spring, also that a number of other British amateurs will arrive in season to take part in the amateur championship tournament at Wheaton in July, seems to guarantee another extremely active season with a decided international flavor.

A team match at Wheaton about the time of the national tournament would, of course, be in order. Americans have not been treated to a team match between this country and Great Britain since 1903, when the Oxford-Cambridge combination was here.

NEW YORKERS NOW PLAYING TENNIS ON FROZEN COURTS

One ordinarily associates tennis with warm spring and summer days, green sward or baked clay, flannel clad and sunburned players. But now tennis bids fair to become as much of a winter pastime as it is a summer sport.

Several of the tennis clubs in New York have flooded the courts where in summer the players volley under a glaring sun and marked out the regular court lines on the frozen surface. The sport on the ice has gained considerable popularity. The nets are stretched across the center of the ice covered court, and the players use skates to get over the ice.

At first it took the players of the new game some time to get accustomed to getting around on the gliders. They made many awkward moves and many more awkward shots. In time, however, they became more adept in getting around the ice clad courts, and once they became proficient they grew enthusiastic over the sport.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS' TEAM OUTCLASSED BY N. Y. N. S.

The N. P. H. S. girls' basketball team was defeated by the New York Normal School five Saturday afternoon by a 14-3 score. The first half was played with lines and ended in a score in the visitor's favor 4 to 2. The one goal was shot by Helen Hummel. Boy's rules prevailed in the second half and and only one point from the foul line was made by the local tossers.

The lineup follows: N. P. H. S.—Hummel and Mair, forwards; Carson, centre; Smith and Debele, guards. N. Y. N. S.—Dewson and Pasamore, forwards; Millington, centre; French and Winnans, guards.

FEW REAL VETS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Just Three Players Who Shone in 1901 Now in Game.

EACH ONE IS STILL STAR

Lajoie, Plank and Sullivan, Men in Question, Are Yet Rated With Greatest—A Number of Those Who Joined in 1902 Playing Yet.

Of the 200 players who were in the American league in the season of 1901, when the younger organization made its real bid for equal honors with the National league, only three are fixtures for the next campaign. Each one of these players is a bright and particular star in his department and is expected to shine as brilliantly this season as heretofore. These three are Nap Lajoie of Cleveland, Eddie Plank, the southpaw of the Philadelphia Athletics, and Billy Sullivan, the catcher of the Chicago White Sox. In 1901 Lajoie was with the Athletics, but the following spring joined the Naps, of which team he has been a member ever since. Plank has played steadily with the Athletics, while Sullivan has been the mainstay of the White Sox behind the plate and a manager one year.

If Norman Elberfeld is retained by Washington he will make the fourth member of the American league who was with the organization at the beginning of its existence, but Elberfeld is slated for the minors. Several other players now in fast company deserted the National league for the American league in 1902.

These include Sam Crawford of Detroit, Bobby Wallace and Powell of the St. Louis Browns, Doc White of the White Sox, Bill Donovan of the Tigers, Tom Hughes of the Browns and Topsy Hartsel of the Athletics. Cy Young came over in 1902, but is now in the National league. Jimmy Callahan, Matty McIntyre and Charley Hemphill all came near getting into the honor roll as well. Hemphill and Hartsel have now become minor league managers. Callahan, McIntyre and Hughes have not played continuously.

The National league can point to six players who have served since 1901. They are Wagner, Clarke and Leach of the Pirates, Mathewson of the Giants, Kling of the Boston Braves and Chance of the Cubs. Mike Donlin and Roger Bresnahan are two other National league veterans who started playing in 1901, but have shifted their attentions from one league to the other or dropped out for a season or two.

FRENCH TREATY OPENS NEW FIELD

State Department Has Eye on Morocco Trade.

BEGIN NEGOTIATIONS SOON

Agreement Between France and Germany and Establishment of French Protectorate Opens Way to Develop Rich Export Business From the United States.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Officials of the state department are of the opinion that ratification of the Franco-German treaty by the French senate will eventually result in a new trade agreement between the United States and Morocco.

France has already announced her intention of establishing a protectorate over Morocco, and her statesmen are reported at work drawing up plans for the framework of the new order of things. The establishment of a protectorate will make many changes in Morocco, necessitating a general readjustment all around.

While this government is is no way a party to a Moroccan agreement between France and Germany, it will insist that the way be left clear for the advancement of American trade interests in Morocco. The United States will demand the continuation of the policy of equal opportunities to all nations in regard to trade in Morocco.

France by virtue of the protectorate is to act as the representative of Morocco in all her foreign intercourse. Though the treaty which the United States will negotiate will be with Morocco, the negotiations will be carried on with diplomatic representatives of France.

Morocco is regarded here as a rich field, the development of which will in all probability be hastened by the advent of the French protectorate. Americans will gain a large share, it is hoped, of the industrial and commercial development expected in Morocco, and it is to secure the equal rights of Americans in competing with their European rival that a treaty revision is deemed necessary under the new status of Morocco.

American trade in Morocco now consists chiefly in the sale of petroleum and a few manufactured articles. Complaint is made by American consuls in Morocco that American exporters deprived themselves of their full share of Moroccan trade by continuing to do business in that country through European middlemen. Not until American exporters resort to direct dealing with Moroccon buyers, say the consuls, will they secure a good hold upon the Moroccan markets.

BADEN-POWELL T. R.'S GUEST

New York, Feb. 12.—Lions and elephants were the chief topics of conversation in Oyster Bay, where Colonel Roosevelt entertained at luncheon Lieutenant General Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, who came to this country to attend the conference of the Boy Scout organizers and who leaves for Albany today to oversee scouting activities upstate.

Next to hunting the chief topic of conversation at the luncheon was the Boy Scout movement in this country, in which the colonel, as well as General Baden-Powell, is much interested. There was talk of publishing a magazine that should be devoted wholly to the interests of the Boy Scouts.

VICTIMS OF POISON PLOT.

Man and Child Dead and Another Ill In Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 12.—Victims of a poisoned candy plot—three-year-old Bennie Reedy and Simon O'Malley, fifty years old, a hackman—are dead from eating arsenic in sweets placed at the door at the O'Malley home. Louis Spencer, who also ate of the candy, is at death's door at the City hospital, while Clara Grates, who also tasted the sweets, is unharmed.

On the memory of a girl clerk in a drug store, who is believed to be the only person in Minneapolis who sold candy of the brand that was used in the murder, depends the chance of the police to capture the poisoners.

Zbysco and Raicevich Wrestle In New York Tonight.

New York, Feb. 12.—Followers of the wrestling game are interested in the much talked of match between Zbysco, the Pole, and Raicevich, the Italian, which takes place in Madison Square Garden tonight.

It is said that the winner may be matched with Frank Gotch, the world's champion, and that Salt Lake City promoters are ready to offer a $30,000 purse for the bout. Tom Jenkins, with the aid of an Italian interpreter, has been agreed upon as referee. The conditions call for the winner to score two falls out of three.

Washington, Feb. 12.—A change in the itinerary of Secretary of State Knox on his tour of the Caribbean and Central American republics is announced.

After visiting the isthmus he will board the cruiser Maryland at Panama and go up the west coast, visiting the capitals of the five Central American republics. He will then cross to the Atlantic coast, board the Washington again and proceed to the north coast of South America, stopping at Colombian and Venezuelan cities, and on to Porto Rico, to Santo Domingo City, Port au Prince and Havana.

ROOSEVELT WILL REPLY TO CALL OF GOVERNORS

Ex-President Considers Seriously Demand to Run.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Feb. 12.—Colonel Roosevelt will not act hastily in replying to the letter drafted as a result of the conference of eight western governors and other progressives held on Saturday at Chicago and which was at once dispatched to him.

It is understood that he regards it as no ordinary thing and that it is a matter which will require serious consideration.

The fact that the letter was signed by eight governors, among them Governor Vesey of South Dakota, who heretofore had not openly proclaimed his partiality for Roosevelt, it is said, has forced the colonel to give much thought to the document.

CAN'T AGREE ON CAPITAL.

Chinese Premier and Republicans Still Negotiating.

Shanghai, Feb. 12.—Negotiations between Yuan Shih Kai and the republican leaders for a definite settlement of the troubles in China are still hanging fire. The main difficulty seems to be as to the capital of the new government.

Yuan Shih Kai insists that Peking shall be accepted, but the republicans will not agree to this. They prefer Shanghai or Nanking, but may offer to compromise on Tientsin temporarily and leave the question of the location of the permanent capital to the decision of the national convention which is to be called to frame a permanent form of government for China.

"UNCLE LON" IS DEAD.

Defeat For Re-election Cause of Livingston's Illness.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Representative Leonidas Livingston of Georgia, "Uncle Lon" as he was known in Washington, is dead at his home here in his eightieth year. Mr. Livingston had hardly had a sick day up to Nov. 19, 1910, when he was defeated for election to the Sixty-second congress. This hurt him, and he was frank to admit it.

"Had my constituents left me in the harness I might have lived to be a hundred," he often said in the last few months. "I had become accustomed to the congressional routine, and I was an efficient if old machine."

Hymn Writer Dies at Eighty-two.

Delaware, O., Feb. 12.—Professor T. C. Okane, eighty-two years old, author of many hymns, is dead here following a stroke of apoplexy. Among his best known hymns are "The Home Over There," "Waiting at the Door" and "On Jordan's Stormy Banks."

URGE MEXICANS TO LAY DOWN ARMS

Gonzales Holds Up Specter of Intervention.

TO FORM VOLUNTEER ARMY

While Acting Governor of Chihuahua Fears Invasion From the North, Vice President Suarez Declares That the United States Will Never Interfere In Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 12.—Aurelius Gonzales, acting governor of Chihuahua, issued a proclamation to the people of the revolting state and also had it telegraphed to the most remote sections. His proclamation recalls to the citizens the recent Madero revolution, in which so much blood was shed and which he gives the name "our late fratricidal war." He urges the people in the name of the fatherland that they love to lay down their arms and not revolt again.

Referring to intervention, he says:

"The United States of America has declared that we are an inferior race, incapable of self government and unworthy to figure in the concert of free people and are preparing a formidable army to invade and profane the sacred ground of our beloved country.

"If the voice of reason and patriotism does not assert itself we will not only lose our ideals, but will be enslaved by a foreign invader and history will announce a tremendous fall that will burn upon the foreheads of our sons and inflict the infamous stigma of treason."

While this proclamation was being made public in the north, Pino Suarez, the vice president, in the City of Mexico was making a statement that intervention was most remote in order to stem the tide of anti-Americanism that has been rapidly rising all over Mexico and which the proclamation of Chihuahua officials will only fan to greater fury. Vice President Suarez gave out the following statement at the capital:

"There was a long time during which I looked with distrust on the American people, but after my last residence in the United States, in which time I came in contact with thinkers and writers of that nation, I have become thoroughly convinced that the United States will never intervene in Mexico and that in regard to us the American people are animated by only good wishes and a desire to strengthen the commercial and financial relations which are of mutual benefit."

The rebels have stopped the work of repairing the Mexican National railroad south of Chihuahua, on which it is expected to bring federal troops from Jiminez to fight them.

If the rebels do not lay down their arms the government is planning to form a volunteer army if possible to help fight them into submission.

TAFT IN NEWARK TODAY.

President Is Guest of Former Governor Franklin Murphy.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 12.—President Taft is making his formal visit to Newark today. The president is the guest of ex-Governor Franklin Murphy at the latter's home, 1027 Broad street.

The president arrived in Newark at 12:43 this afternoon. He held a reception at the Market street station, then went to the Murphy residence, where luncheon was served, followed by a reception.

The president this afternoon is taking part in the dedication of a Lincoln monument at North parkway, East Orange. He then was driven to the Essex County Country club, where he held a reception until 5:35, when he left for New York.

The president will speak at the Lincoln dinner of the Republican club at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York tomorrow night.

VALET TO A COW.

College Student From Iowa Looks After Bovine's Comfort.

North Easton, Mass., Feb. 12.—A new field is opened for college men, that of acting as valet to a cow.

F. Lothrop Ames of North Easton, well known in Boston and Newport society, decided that a personal attendant was needful for the comfort of his $2,500 prize winner, Dolly Dimple. He made known his wish to the faculty of the Ames college at Webster City, Ia.

Alonzo Hathaway, a junior, was given a year's leave of absence to look after the bovine's comfort. Hathaway has to see that the temperature for Dolly's bath is just right, that her hoofs and horns are manicured and that her hide is shined to a nicety.

19th Anniversary Celebration

WHEN THE SUBJECT OF A BIRTHDAY PARTY CAME UP FOR DISCUSSION IT WAS DECIDED THAT OUR 19TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION MUST TRANSCEND ANYTHING HITHERTO ATTEMPTED IN NEWARK. WE MADE UP OUR MINDS THAT OUR LAST ANNIVERSARY SALE IN THE OLD STORE MUST BE SO COMPLETELY OUT OF THE ORDINARY; SO SENSATIONAL IN ITS FEATURES AND SO FAR-REACHING IN ITS BENEFITS THAT IT WOULD STAND AS A WAY MARK IN STORE HISTORY.

One of Our Buyers Suggested a Half Price Sale

SOME RIDICULED THE IDEA—OTHERS FAVORED IT. EVERYONE WAS WILLING, HOWEVER, TO TRY TO PROCURE MERCHANDISE AT HALF PRICE AND SO THE QUESTION WAS SETTLED. THIS WAS ABOUT SIX WEEKS AGO. SINCE THEN OUR ENTIRE BUYING STAFF HAS DEVOTED PRACTICALLY EVERY MINUTE OF ITS TIME TO COLLECTING MATERIAL FOR THIS SALE, AND WITH SPLENDID SUCCESS, TOO. WHEN WE CAME TO SCRUTINIZE THE MERCHANDISE

We Were Literally Taken Off Our Feet in Surprise

WE WENT TO THE MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS WITH WHOM WE DO BUSINESS AND TOLD THEM THAT WE WERE GOING TO HOLD A RECORD BREAKING ANNIVERSARY SALE. WE ALSO TOLD THEM THAT WE EXPECTED THEM TO GIVE US SO MANY DOZENS OF THIS OR SO MANY YARDS OF THAT AT ACTUAL COST TO THEMSELVES. IN NINE CASES OUT OF TEN THEY COMPLIED WITH OUR REQUEST PROMPTLY AND LIBERALLY. THE MERCHANDISE THUS SECURED IS NOW BEING OFFERED IN THE MAJORITY OF CASES-

Without a Penny of Profit to Ourselves

THUS BRINGING THE SELLING PRICE DOWN TO HALF—A LITTLE ABOVE HALF AND IN SOME CASES QUITE A LITTLE BELOW HALF. THIS IS ONE OF THE MOST UNIQUE AND DARING MOVEMENTS EVER PLANNED BY AN AMERICAN STORE. IT WILL PROBABLY ATTRACT ATTENTION THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY. YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO ATTEND.

VIEWS ON THE SHERMAN LAW

Result of Inquiries by National Civic Federation.

FEW DESIRE ITS REPEAL.

Replies to Series of Questions Sent to Workers, Lawyers, Editors, Merchants, Bankers and Economists Demand Some Changes, However.

The National Civic federation made public an analysis of 15,000 answers received by it to a series of questions concerning the Sherman law.

The replies indicate little sentiment in favor of the repeal of the Sherman law. On the other hand, there is shown practically no desire to abolish large combinations. The public apparently has no desire for government ownership on one side or unrestricted and unregulated private or corporate control on the other, but will accept large combinations adequately regulated.

The questions were sent to editors, political economists, lawyers, publicists, statisticians, manufacturers, merchants, bankers and the officers of commercial, labor and other organizations.

It was pointed out that "the Sherman anti-trust act has now been interpreted by the supreme court to mean as to interstate commerce that any combination in restraint of trade with the purpose of controlling prices and stifling competition is unlawful."

Of the answers 84 per cent pronounce the Sherman law neither clear nor workable or workable without being clear, but only some 20 per cent declare in favor of its repeal.

The usual phraseology of suggestions for amending the Sherman law is "Make it so that business men can understand it" or "Bring it into line with modern business conditions."

For Regulation of Capital.

Of the replies 80 per cent favor federal license or incorporation for companies engaged in interstate commerce, 75 per cent are opposed to holding companies, and nearly all of the remainder want holding companies bound by restriction that would prevent abuses.

Government regulation of capitalization is approved by 90 per cent, a few of the minority who disapprove suggesting that overcapitalization is not always an evil, but sometimes brings capital into action that otherwise would remain idle.

Three important advantages claimed for those doing business on a large scale—economies in production, economies in distribution and greater use of byproducts—are admitted without dissent.

The propositions for steadier employment of labor and at better wages and better protection against industrial accidents were opposed by 35 per cent.

About 80 per cent favor an interstate industrial commission, some qualifying with the condition that it should be composed of business men only. Two labor representatives proposed that the commission should consist of one member from each state—a sort of interstate business senate. Few are in favor of control of prices by an industrial commission.

Uncertainty In Business World.

"The answers," the federation says in its statement, "leave no doubt that the public is thoroughly aroused to the vital importance of the problems dealt with by the Sherman act. A large majority assert that business conditions are unsatisfactory. Enforcement of the Sherman law is most frequently mentioned by business men as a disturbing cause, on the ground that they do not understand the law and that the uncertainty as to its meaning retards enterprise, makes capital hesitate to enter upon new investments and prompts those in charge of business undertakings to restrict expenditures to the absolute demands of trade.

"Leaders of organized labor are practically unanimous in demanding that the Sherman anti-trust act should be either repealed or amended to exempt from its operations organizations of labor and organizations of farmers. Many of them argue for its amendment from the standpoint of the business interests.

"The manufacturers, bankers, wholesale and retail merchants and also the commercial organizations that took a membership vote are strongly opposed to the repeal of the Sherman act, but just as strongly want it amended along lines that will permit regulation through an interstate industrial commission of some kind."

CHINAMAN RUNS FOR OFFICE.

First of All He Acquires a Silk Hat and an American Manager.

Lee Gow, a Chinaman, announced his candidacy for councilman at Georgetown, Colo., filed papers to secure a place on the ballot and started his campaign with an American as manager. The first step of Gow and his manager was to purchase silk hats to complete their otherwise stylish attire, after which they started a house to house canvass for votes.

Gow is said to be the first foreign born Chinaman to run for office in America. He came to this country when he was four years old.

THE PLAINFIELD TRUST COMPANY

BUTTER WEIGHT ORDER MAKING SOME HEADWAY.

Trenton, Feb. 12.—By his investigations in various cities in the State, William L. Waldron, State sealer of weights and measures, is convinced that dealers are at least making an effort to comply with the recent order promulgated by him in reference to the weight of butter sold consumers. The order directed that the exact weight be printed upon the wrapper of every package of butter sold.

Mr. Waldron made an inspection of forty stores in Atlantic City Thursday. In thirty-six of these places he found the law had been complied with in every detail. In four establishments he found that the packages contained the full weight, but the weight had not been printed on the wrapper. The owners claimed that they did not so understand the order. They were warned by Mr. Waldron that another offense would mean prosecution.

Miss Florence Weston, of Essex street, is convalescing from a serious attack of neuralgia.

GIVES UP THRONE TO MARRY.

Archduchess Marie Renounces Rights in Austria-Hungary.

Vienna, Feb. 12.—Prince George of Bavaria, the grandson of the prince regent of Bavaria and of the Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, was married to the Archduchess Isabella Marie of Austria, daughter of the Archduke Frederick, at the palace of Schoenbrunn in the presence of the emperor and members of the royal family.

Archduchess Isabella Marie renounced all her rights of succession to the thrones of Austria and Hungary, an act imposed on all princesses of the Austrian imperial family when they marry outside of the reigning family.

Attorney General Says State Has Conflicting Legislation.

New York, Feb. 12.—About 2,000 persons listened to an address which George Wickersham, attorney general, delivered under the auspices of the New Rochelle People's Forum, during which he told of the prosecutions of illegal combinations.

His subject was the "Administration of Federal Justice."

Mr. Wickersham said that during 1911 his department had completed 14,702 criminal prosecutions, and in carrying on the different prosecutions he said that justice should tread with a leaden heel, but strike with an iron hand. He said in part:

"If all men felt that a violation of the law would be followed by speedy, certain and appropriate punishment crime would greatly decrease in volume.

"Unfortunately we have such a mass of conflicting legislation on our statute books that much of it is unknown to many citizens, or if known is not understood, and in addition our procedure for the enforcement of law has become so technical and cumbersome that it affords many opportunities for the escape from justice of those most deserving of punishment. The federal procedure is freer from this reproach than that of most states. In the first place, the judges, being appointed for life, are more independent and less apt to be swayed in their decisions by any consideration than a conscientious study of the law and the evidence than the state judges, who are generally elected for short terms and are dependent for their continuance in office upon popular favor."

UP WITH TEMPERATURES.

Weather Bureau Bulletin Predicts Warmer Weather.

Washington, Feb. 12. The weather bureau issued the following weekly bulletin:

"The weather map of the northern hemisphere of this date shows a general change from the intense winter conditions that have prevailed almost continuously since the first of the year, and it is probable that moderate temperatures will prevail the coming week throughout the United States.

"There are no indications at the present time of a general storm to cross the country, and the indications are that the precipitation for the week will be generally light except in the north Pacific states, where more than the normal rainfall will occur."

Our exports for 1911 passed the billion-dollar mark. Some of these fine days our infant industries will be able to walk alone.—Rochester Herald.

UNIONISTS FROWN ON DAN KEIDERLING

Trades Council Disapproves of Permanent City Employes Engaging in Outside Business.

COMPLAINT TO MAYOR MOY

Communication Says the Council's Attention Has Been Called to the Livery Business Which Chief Doane's Driver Is Conducting.

The Building Trades' Council, through its recording secretary, Frederick D. Wilbee, has notified Mayor Moy that its official attention has been called to the livery business on East Second street conducted by D. Keiderling & Co., and that it is strongly opposed to any permanent salaried employe in any city department engaging in any business other than that for which he is employed.

Daniel Keiderling, the driver for Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, the D. Keiderling of D. Keiderling & Co., is the employe referred to. The question of Keiderling's dual activities was recently taken up by the Councilmanic Fire and Building committee, but so far as known no action has been taken by that body.

At the time the question was raised, a member of the committee said that in case Keiderling should be injured while engaged in other than department work it would seem unfair for him to become a beneficiary of the pension fund of the department.

There were others who were of the opinion that Keiderling could not be prevented from being identified with some other business, provided it did not interfere in any way with his work for the city. The ordinance provides that an employe of Keiderling's class shall give his whole time to the city. Mayor Moy will refer the communication from the Trades' Council to the fire committee of the Common Council.

MANY MOURNERS ATTEND MISS NUGENT'S FUNERAL.

The funeral services for Miss Nora L. Nugent were held this morning from her late home on West Third street and from St. Mary's church, where a requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. B. M. Bogan. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery. Both the residence and church were filled by mourners. A mass of floral tributes atested the estem in which the young woman was held.

Miss Nugent was a member of the Children of Mary Society of St. Mary's church and the following members acted as honorary pall bearers: The Misses Marion Green, Teresa Mahoney, Helen and Julia Regan, Mary Connolly and Ellen Mattox. The bearers were John McCarthy, John Shirley, William Doyle, Louis Dixson, Joseph Sullivan and James McClinton.

GRANT PIERSON ARRESTED ON WIFE'S COMPLAINT.

U. Grant Pierson, who conducted a butcher shop on Watchung avenue, near Fourth street, up to seven weeks ago, when he disappeared from town, is in the Tombs prison, New York, charged with desertion by his wife. He was arrested in New York yesterday, by a Central office detective on a warrant taken to New York by Chief of Police Kiely. Chief Kiely is still out of town and at headquarters it was said today that nothing definite was known as to the probable disposition of Pierson by the New York authorities. It was supposed that the accused butcher would be extradited and brought to Elizabeth for a preliminary hearing.

Mrs. Pierson has been conducting the meat business on Watchung avenue since her husband's departure.

Frank C. Krewson Suprised.

Former Councilman Frank C. Krewson, of Summit avenue, the borough, was given a surprise party at his home last night. Euchre was the feature of the evening. After the play, Mrs. Peter C. Saums and Mrs. Frank C. Krewson were announced as the winners of the first and second prizes for women, and Charles B. Pope and Walter C. Walker the winners of the first and second prizes for the men.

Driver Jaeger Fined $10.

The Councilmanic fire committee has decided to impose a penalty of $10 on William Jaeger, driver at No. 1 house on West Second street, who was charged with an infraction of the fire department rules by Captain George Feiring of the same house. The latter charged that Jaeger had threatened to punch his head and used indecent language.

The close of the fifth day of the special campaign inaugurated for the purpose of raising $90,000 for Muhlenberg Hospital brought with it, more than renewed hope and encouragement to the workers. It removed all doubt as to the possibility of raising $90,000 in twelve days.

Through the various committees it was reported at the daily dinner at the Y. M. C. A. last night that at the close of the fifth day the total contributions stood at $74,692.95. Yesterday's contributions were $8,853.70. The announcement brought forth great applause.

The Citizens' committe reported the day's collections to be $5,921.70, while the Young Men's Business committee reported $2,932 as the result of its efforts. Co. K, of the Citizens' committee, of which E. H. Ladd, Jr., is the chairman, is the banner company thus far, with total contributions of $9,080 reported, while J. Hartley Mellick's team, No. 8, tops those of the Young Men's Business committee with a total of $2,058. The contributions for yesterday, $1,014, included in which was one for $1,000 from T. J. Mumford, materially helped to swell the day's receipts for Mr. Mellick's coworkers.

Morris Harrison.
Hospital's Business Manager.

Captain John P. Stevens, of Co. G, announced that of the $379.20 collected by his team during the day, there were contributions by two domestics and others from two children, who gave their savings. Another interesting announcement was made by Judge William Newcorn, captain of Co. D. Among the contributors secured by his company were eight persons, who had never before given one penny to the hospital. Their combined subscription amounted to $140.

An idea of what the workers are doing each day can be gained from the fact that the total number of contributors yesterday was 397, meaning that that many persons were seen individually. Beginning Thursday and continuing every week day during the rest of the campaign, the committee of one hundred women will meet at headquarters at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and report the subscriptions received by them during the day. This will tend to arouse further interest during the closing days of the campaign and there are many who believe that far more than $90,000 will be the total amount collected by February 21.

There was the usual large number

JOHN KELLEY JOINS HYMENEAL RANKS

Weds Mrs. Alice Callahan Today at St. Mary's Church.

NUPTIALS ARE VERY SIMPLE

Only Few Friends and Relatives Witness the Ceremony—Luncheon Follows, After Which Bride and Bridegroom Leave on Honeymoon.

Mrs. Alice Callahan Doyle, of Woodland avenue, and John J. Kelley, the tallest member of the Plainfield police force, were married this morning in St. Mary's church by Rev. B. M. Bogan. Mrs. William H. Callahan attended the bride as matron of honor and William H. Callahan, a brother of the bride was best man. Only a few friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony.

A wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride for the members of her family and that of the groom before the newly married couple departed for Atlantic City, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside temporarily at 1048 Woodland avenue.

The bride was gowned in purple messaline with black net embroidered overdress and hat to match. Her bouquet was of bridal roses and lillies of the valley. The wedding was a quiet affair owing to the recent death of one of the bride's relatives.

Mr. Kelley has been a member of the Plainfield police force for several years and has the distinction of being the loftiest man in the department. In the regulation uniform he is of striking appearance and is a familiar figure in the business section where he is usually on post. His record in the department is a perfect one. He has made several important and daring captures.

Reception and Dance a Success.

The reception and dance given by the Nonpareil Social Club at its clubhouse on St. Mary's avenue, last night, was a success financially and socially. The affair was largely attended. Supper was served at midnight. Erastus Thames was chairman of the committee in charge. Tomorrow night the club will hold its annual banquet at the home of the president, C. J. MacKoy, on West Fourth street.

Sure Cure for Sick Dogs.

Mrs. William Bastedo, of Graceland, an officer of the New York Anti-Vivisection Society, while walking along West Front street, near the postoffice, this afternoon, was attracted to a sick dog of the mongrel type. She cared for the canine, while someone summoned Patrolman William Messler. Upon the latter's arrival, at the request of Mrs. Bastedo, the officer shot the animal.

TOURISTS WILL SEE ST. PAUL'S

Cathedral in London Will Interest Press European Trip Contestants.

COUNT VOTE AGAIN TOMORROW

Young Women Who Want to Go Abroad Are Taking a Livelier Interest Every Day, and Thos. Cook & Sons as Guides Appeal to Them.

There are so many interesting points in connection with a visit to London that it is almost impossible to select those which afford the greatest amount of pleasure to the torist, but one plan which always stands out pre-eminently in the minds of those who have seen London is St. Paul's cathedral, an historical edifice which contains the tombs of many characters of world-wide reputation. Here the great Wellington, who defeated Napoleon at Waterloo, was buried, and here rests Lord Nelson.

The great galleries, the library, courts, etc., are a revelation to the ones who appreciate beauty, and, all in all, St. Paul's Cathedral ranks among the most interesting sight to be found in all London.

According to promise the Press published last night the result of the first count of votes in the European Tour Contest, which this paper is now running, and it is obvious by the large increase in the votes of some of the contestants that they have already entered the race in earnest. Of course, this is no indication of the real strength of all the contestants, as there are a number of candidates, especially in the out-of-town districts, who have not as yet turned in the votes which they have received. These will be heard from later, and it will be found that there are many who are active in these sections, and have not been noted in the voting. The many friends of the contestants are bringing or sending in their votes, and with a little work on the part of the candidate it will be easy to bring in an avalanche of votes by the time the next count is made. As stated in last night's Press, the votes will be allowed to accumulate in the ballot box until Wednesday, when they will be counted again and published in Thursday's paper. Every night thereafter the count will be made

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR RECTOR AND HIS DAUGHTER

Rev. C. H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and his daughter, Miss Alice Mallery, the anniversary of whose birthdays fell yesterday, were given a joint surprise party at their home last night by members of the parish. The guests brought with them many presents suitable for furnishing the new rectory which will be occupied in a couple of weeks, and personal gifts for both the rector and his daughter. The Women's Guild gave Mr. Mallery a large rug for the rectory.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Juan A. Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. William Ochiltree, Miss Nettie Davis, Miss Ida Davis, Miss Margaret Long, Miss Marjorie Atkinson, Miss Minnie Harford, of this city, and Mrs. W. M. Mitcham and Miss Edith Mitcham, of New York, mother and sister of Mrs. Mallery.

FOR WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE AND DIRECT LEGISLATION

Trenton, Feb. 13.—Concurrent resolutions providing for amendments to the State Constitution inserting the initiative and referendum principles and giving women the right to vote were introduced in the Senate today by Senator Gebhardt, Democrat, of Hunterdon county. They must be passed by this and the next Legislature and then be adopted by the people at the polls before they become effective. The initiative on legislation is to be exercised after filing a petition signed by eight per cent. of the voters and the referendum provides that the people may vote for or against any proposed law upon the filing of a petition signed by five per cent. of the voters.

COASTER BADLY HURT IN CRASH; NINE IMPERILLED

Loaded Bob, Speeding More Than 70 Miles an Hour, Runs Into Wagon on Scotch Plains Hill--Steersman Suffers.

Frank Hengler, one of a party of coasters on Spencer's Hill, at Scotch Plains yesterday afternoon, was seriously injured when the bob which he was steering collided with a wagon going in the same direction. Hengler was rendered unconscious and was hurried to the office of Dr. Westcott bleeding from his mouth and ears.

Upon examination it was found that he was suffering with probable internal injuries, besides having one ear almost torn off, his scalp and face badly lacerated and his body and limbs covered with minor bruises. No bones were broken.

There were eight passengers besides Hengler on the bob, which was shooting down the grade at a speed estimated at more than 70 miles an hour when the smash occurred. All of the other riders were considerably shaken up, but escaped with slight contusions and bruises.

The accident happened at a turn near the fur mill. Owing to the holiday the hill was crowded with coasters enjoying the sport. The hill was in perfect shape for long swift rides. Hengler and Charles Elliot, who owned the bob, and their party started the disastrous coast from a beech tree at the top of the grade. The sled gathered speed at every foot and all hands were sitting tight for the turn which Hengler had negotiated successfully on the former trip.

The wagon was first seen as the bob swung around the curve. Before Hengler, sitting in front, could pull to one side, the front runners slid under the rear axle, the steel bar and tail board sweeping all the occupants off the sled.

The force of the compact tore the axle loose from its fastenings and jammed the rear wheels against the front ones allowing the wagon box to droop and rest on the unconscious form of Hengler.

Hengler was removed to his home by Dr. Westcott. He was still in a grave condition today. This is the most serious accident occurring on Spencer's Hill this season.

The driver of the wagon refused to give his name, but took the names of several of the coasters. The latter got the idea that he intended seeking compensation from them for the damage done his conveyance.

Spencer's Hill is the favorite coasting place in Scotch Plains. It is dangerous in several places, but the perils it offers have seemed to increase its popularity rather than otherwise.

LARGE AUDIENCE ENJOYS OPERETTA

TO PERFORM AGAIN TONIGHT

An appreciative and interested audience comfortably filled the Hartridge Auditorium, last night, for the first performance of "The Egyptian Princess," with a number of the young women who form the Cup Bearers' Circle of King's Daughters forming the cast. The operetta, which was splendidly staged, showed that the weeks of hard preliminary work had developed a finely balanced performance, and the young women were showered with congratulations after the final curtain. There were also great bouquets of flowers for many of those who took part. The second and final performance will take place tonight.

The scene of the story is laid in Egypt, and tells of the finding of a husband for the Princess Aida, daughter of the Queen, and the reuniting of two sisters, princesses in another land, one of whom Alva, was stolen as a child and sold into slavery, becoming the favorite slave of the Princess Aida. Later the other sister, Queen Grania, is taken captive by the King of Egypt, and the two are reunited before the throne of the Queen. In the part of Alva, the royal slave girl, Miss Mary Runkle pleased the audience by the careful portrayal which she presented. A well modulated soprano voice, showing careful training, coupled with familiarity with her lines and stage presence seldom shown by amateurs, soon won hearty applause. In "My Dearest Wish," in part a recitation with musical accompaniment, she read her lines splendidly, and this in spite of the fact that the orchestra was over industrious, thus making it difficult for the voice to carry well into the audience. The acoustic properties of the hall were such that throughout the entire performance the impression was given that the choruses and songs had not enough volume.

The principal comedy part, if it could be called such, fell upon the shoulders of Miss Elizabeth McGee. The part, that of Princess Tabubu, sister to the Queen, was one which in less capable hands would have fallen flat, but Miss McGee was able to get everything possible out of it, much to the amusement of the audience.

Miss Frances Zelie handled the difficult part of the Queen capably, and the Princess Aida, her daughter, was taken by Miss Susanne Wharton. Mrs. M. J. Dumont and Miss Alice Titus pleased as Nyssa and Phila, companions to Princess Aida. Miss Hope Miller made a graceful and dignified captive, Queen Grania, and Mrs. H. S. Farlee filled the smaller part of Horub, daughter of the Wizard, in a pleasing manner.

In the first act an interpolated Irish dance by Mrs. Jac. VanDeventer was gracefully performed, and received a merited encore from the audience, while in the second act Miss Margaret Curtis, who trained the young women in their dances, presented an Egyptian dance which was encored until the performer was exhausted, and had to refuse to respond further. It is doubtful whether a more graceful and attractive performance has ever been seen in Plainfield.

The music of the operetta is catchy, and the principals and chorus made the most of every opportunity given. Nearly all of the many selections were liberally encored. The orchestra, while well balanced, and keeping excellent time interfered somewhat with the pleasure of the audience by the volume of music, at times when such volume was not called for. The play was well mounted, and the costumes carefully executed, showing much attention to detail. But one scene was used for the two acts, the courtyard of the Egyptian Princess. Too much credit for the success of the whole affair cannot be given to S. Frederick Smith, who trained the young women throughout.

Besides the principals, those who took part were the following:

DENTISTS WARRING OVER STATE ASSOCIATION BOOKS

Dentists in this city are interested in the quo warranto proceedings which have been started by which it is to be put up to the State of New Jersey to decide which of the two sets of officers is entitled to the books, records and other properties, and to official control of the New Jersey State Dental Society. There has been a bitter controversy for more than a year between two elements in the dental profession of this State for control of the society.

The dispute culminated last July in the election of two sets of officers, one by the element variously designated as "the old guard," and the other as the "insurgents." This was done in Asbury Park during a State convention, which resulted in serious conflict between the followers of the two camps. Each side declared its particular election was the only legal one, and that its officers constituted the only official body of the State society.

All the books and working records of the society are in the hands of the "old guard," and they have persistently refused to surrender them to the "insurgents." The latter began the proceedings to compel the "old guard" to make an accounting of money and to hand over the books.

SUBSCRIPTION DANCE TO BE SOCIETY EVENT.

The first of a series of two subscription dances will be given at the Hartridge Auditorium on Friday night under the patronage of Mrs. R. Story Rowland, Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Mrs. William B. Tyler and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring. A large number of persons have subscribed to the two dances. It is expected that fully 200 will attend the first one. Austen's orchestra will furnish the music and Maresi will be the caterer.

The second dance will be given on Wednesday night, April 10 at the same place, and arrangements have been made whereby both affairs will be among the most notable of the society events of the winter and spring season.

SEEKS PARDON FOR NAVAL DESERTER

Mayor Gets Senator Martine to Lay Hannig's Case Before Sec'y. Meyer.

WIFE AND CHILD IN WANT

Bluejacket Who Fled Ship to Go to Family's Assistance Said to Have Been Misled Into Enlisting—Prisoner at Newport.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy, who interested himself in the case of William Hannig, of New street, who was arrested here after desrting the U. S. Navy, leaving his wife and child in want, received a letter regarding the case today from United States Senator James E. Martine. The Senator wrote that he had taken the subject up with George von L. Meyer, Secretary of the Navy, with a view to securing the husband's release, so that he can return to his family.

Hannig was arrested at his home about three weeks ago, and taken to Newport, R. I., where he is still a prisoner. His wife and a sick child are in dire need of his support and for that reason Mr. Moy has undertaken to bring about his release.

Hannig, who is about twenty-two years of age, was misled, his friends believe, into enlisting in the navy. When word came to him that his wife was destitute and the child was ill, he deserted his ship and returned to Plainfield. Soon afterward he was located here by the navy authorities.

Senator Martine in his letter to Mayor Moy says that the matter will be given prompt attention and that he will inform the Mayor at the earliest possible moment of any decision. The Senator promises his full support.

LE ROY A. GIBBY OUT FOR SURROGATESHIP

Although the spring campaign for delegates to the National convention already promises to monopolize the political limelight for the next few months, leaders and voters in general alike are looking beyond the immediate future, and speculating upon the probable candidates for county offices when the November elections are held. That Leroy A. Gibby, of Summit, will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for surrogate this year is now certain.

Mr. Gibby was the Democratic aspirant for surrogate five years ago, when he was defeated together with the other Democratic nominees. However, he made a creditable run, and is considered by many Democrats as the logical candidate for the place.

Mr. Gibby is well known throughout the county. Despite this and, however, the popularity of Surrogate George T. Parrot early determined the result of the 1907 election. Mr. Gibby's friends realize that he would have just as strenuous a time this year trying to overturn the normal Republican majority.

The term of the surrogate is for five years. None of the other county offices become vacant this fall. The sheriff was elected in 1911 for three years, and the county clerk and register were both chosen in 1909 for five years each.

Bullfrog Rang the Doorbell.

New Brunswick, Feb. 13.—Captain John Logenabine, of 223 Handy street, raises bullfrogs for bait for local fishermen. He keeps them in the cellar at his home. The other night the Longenabines heard the doorbell ring, but found no one at the door. Upon the ring being repeated they investigated and found that one of the bullfrogs had gotten from the cellar into the hallway and become entangled in the electric wire running from the battery to the door. In trying to escape he rang the bell by tugging at the wire.

Judging from the general trend of events it looks a good deal as if Senator Cummins were running for the Republican Presidential nomination just for exercise. — Indianapolis News.

HIS MUSTACHE FROZE TO SIDEWALK WHILE HE SLEPT

Newark, Feb. 13 (Special).—His mustache having frozen to the ground after he had lain down to sleep near the Market Street depot early yesterday, Matthew Quinn, of 179 Lafayette street, presented an odd problem to Patrolman Flood, of the First Precinct. Flood's dilemma was to get Quinn free without harming either the mustache or the sidewalk. The policeman felt certain that Quinn's vote would be to save the mustache and never mind the sidewalk. In fact, Flood knew he could safely assume that Quinn would prefer to see the paving dug up rather than leave his whiskers violently on the sidewalk. On the theory that a good mustache is too valuable an asset to be wilfully wasted, Flood acted with circumspection. He studied the whiskers, the contour of the landscape and the weather conditions. There were plenty to give advice, such as "shave him" and other engineering suggestions, but Flood came to a decision of his own. Perhaps a little muscular power would solve the situation was Flood's thought and he took action. Quinn yielded a good grip and Flood is strong. The policeman's muscles bent to action, but—

"Wow, wow!" came a yell from Quinn.

Flood decided that after all the mustache must be sacrificed. Flood produced a penknife and with much skill sawed whisker from whisker until Quinn was free. But, alas, a large part of that fine mustache remained embedded in the icy sidewalk. Quinn was taken to St. Barnaba's hospital to have the doctor look him over. They were kind hearted, however, and refrained from holding a mirror in front of him. After treatment Quinn was taken home. Perhaps gentle spring will compel winter to yield up his mustache.

SIXTEEN HORSES DIE IN AN INCENDIARY FIRE.

Elizabeth, Feb. 13, (Special)—Sixteen horses were suffocated by smoke from a fire which partly destroyed the stable of Nicola LaCorte in Christine street, below Third avenue, at an early hour yesterday morning. The fire was of incendiary origin and is believed to have been started by persons whose demands for money from LaCorte were refused.

For the past several months, LaCorte had been receiving letters signed "Black Hand," which threatened his life and property if he did not meet the demands of the communications.

Paint that Stays Painted

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

FUNCTIONS OF A NEWSPAPER.

Out in St. Louis, the other day, a speaker at a luncheon of prominent residents deprecated the "spirit of modern commercialism," permeating the newspapers and he suggested as a remedy the endowment of such publications. Anyone at all familiar with the business would say right off hand and say very rightly that an endowed newspaper would be as big a fizzle as the recent attempt in New York to run an endowed theatre. H. J. Haskell, a noted western editorial writer takes that view. It is his opinion that such an institution in the first place would not keep in touch with the average man.

"The people could look for no help from such a paper," says Mr. Haskell in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Newspapers educate the nations. National and world matters are discussed in every part of the United States the next morning after they happen. In China it has taken months and even years for news to become disseminated.

"We should learn not to look upon the newspaper as a commercial institution, like a candy factory. A newspaper is what the name implies, first of all a news-gathering institution. It has not changed from its original function. A newspaper is anxious to get accurate news, and it is its business to report it or otherwise it will be necessary for it to go out of business. It must deliver the goods and generally does so.

"Newspapers bind the country by the proper discussion of one or more overtowering topics. The people read of conditions elsewhere, from murders to railroad wrecks, and they are started to thinking of preventive means for such occurrences and to guard against their recurrence.

"The newspapers of the future must be independent. Because it takes a great amount of capital to run a newspaper, it is sometimes easy for it to becontrolled by special interests, but as soon as the people learn it is thus controlled they have no use for its news and refuse to buy it. There is a danger of newspapers being content to let well enough alone and being content to remain in an anti-social position. In many instances newspapers have acquiesced in really rotten conditions in certain cities for this reason.

"The newspapers of the future that will have the largest circulation will make appeals in accord with the progress of public sentiment. In the long run the public will gradually demand a more adequate treatment of news. Murders will be treated more as social phenomena than personal crime. News will be reported from a socialized standpoint. The newspaper will help to present instructive policies. We are finding everywhere that the small man is able to remain in competition with the larger business man, and this is so with newspapers. Smaller papers will take the place of papers that do not respond to the spirit of the time."

In all the professions and trades in New York City, the Hebrew is probably the most important factor. In many vocations, the Jew predominates. He has not confined himself to the mercantile business there as he generally does in smaller cities, but has become a shining light in medicine, law, banking and pedagogy and what not. The marvellous strength of the race, increasing rapidly year by year, has prompted many to refer to the city seriously as "The New Jerusalem," and not without reason.

Yesterday, a bill was introduced in the New York Legislature which shows that the Gotham Hebrew realizes his opportunities. The measure referred to provides for the incorporation of the Jewish Community of New York. Its purposes as defined in the bill, include the instruction of the Jews in New York City in the tenets of their religion and in the history, language, literature, and translation of their race. The bill permits the corporation to supervise the slaughtering of animals in accordance with the Jewish ritual and to sell the meat of animals so slaughtered."

Among the objects of the Community will be the erection of suitable Talmud Torahs, or schools of Jewish education for the Jewish youth in all parts of the metropolis. Included among the distinguished men behind the movement are Jacob Schiff and Adolph Lewisohn, a guarante in itself that the Community and its interests will be a success.

Yale's senior statistics have been announced and they furnish a fairly good defense to the charge made in some quarters that college life has not a high moral tone. There are, according to the figures published, 299 members and answers to the pertinent questions submitted were furnished by 277 of these. One hundred and ninety-six seniors are church members, while 75 admit that they are not. There is a slight decrease from last year. The Episcopalians have the largest representation; the Congregationalists the next and then come the Presbyterians, Roman Catholics, Hebrews, Methodists and Baptists, in the order named. Two-hundred and twenty-two voted for compulsory daily chapel. The number of seniors using intoxicants has somewhat decreased, though 157 confessed that they "indulged." One hundred and twenty are total abstainers. There are more men using tobacco, however, there being 180 this year, while there are but 97 abstainers. Politically, the Republicans have a large majority, there being 155 espousing that party's principles. The Independent voters number 40 while the Democrats only number 33. The average yearly expenditure of a senior this year is $1,169.

As it progresses, the poll being made by the Kansas City Star, one of the leading Independent papers of the west, proves more and more interesting. It gives conclusive evidence that that section of the country is firmly gripped by the Progressive Republicans and by the Progressive Democrats, if Speaker Clark is to be placed in that category. Of the 150,754 replies received by that paper 77,690 have been favorable to the renomination of Theodore Roosevelt. Only 8,801 are partial to Mr. Taft. Senator LaFollette leads the President by a small margin. As for the Democrats, Speaker Clark is first with 15,380 votes, and William Jennings Bryan second with 14,779. Woodrow Wilson is given only 7,852. It should be borne in mind that these figures only reflect the sentiment of the middle west, a Progressive hotbed. It would be highly interesting should a New York paper canvass the East.

PHYSICIANS KEEN TO SEE HOSPITAL PLANS REALIZED

Every physician in this city and vicinity is enthusiastically in accord with the spirit of the campaign under way to raise $90,000 for the improvement of Muhlenberg Hospital. The following excerpts from letters sent to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg are indicative of the keen interest the doctors take in the success of the campaign:

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan—"I trust that the response to the campaign will be free and ample—it is a worthy cause, and no one, from the poorest to the wealthiest should fail to add his share. Under the present efficient management every dollar will be wisely used."

Dr. Norman W. Currie—"The need of a separate ward for children is very necessary as are the other improvements mentioned."

Dr. Arthur H. Dundon—"Knowing the burden which our hospital is laboring under, due to the fact that Plainfield and its surroundings are becoming more largely populated, I feel deeply impressed when I think of what this great effort on the part of the committee and those assisting means to the health and comfort of the community."

Dr. C. B. Lufburrow—"The vastness of the blessings that are daily bestowed to individuals and to the community by a well equipped, well managed hospital, can be measured by no man."

Dr. John H. Carman—"Permit me to express my appreciation of the 'Whirlwind Campaign' that is now being waged in this city for the benefit of Muhlenberg hospital. To paraphrase an old adage, 'tis a whirlwind that will blow every one good.'"

Dr. F. C. Ard—"No individual or family can tell when the need of hospital service may arise, hence it seems proper to ask every one to join in bringing the institution up to modern requirements."

Dr. Harold D. Corbusier—"I am very glad, indeed, to know that the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg hospital has decided to make a systematic effort to raise sufficient funds for the purpose of putting the hospital on a more substantial financial basis and to erect a children's ward. The latter is needed, I think, more than the general public has any idea of."

Dr. Thomas S. Davis—"In securing money for your children's ward and the additional private patient' pavilion, you are doing a good work for the citizens as well as the physicians of Plainfield."

Dr. F. E. DuBois—"Allow me to express my hearty approval of the plan adopted by the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg hospital for the purpose of raising funds for the hospital."

Dr. George W. Endicott—"I am very delighted to see such a general public interest in this splendid effort to make Muhlenberg hospital of more far-reaching benefit to our entire citizenship. A children's ward is particularly needed."

Dr. B. vanD. Hedges—"There are two needs at the present time that are most urgent—a children's ward—and an increase in the accommodations for private patients. It is impossible and impracticable to care for children in either of the two wards under existing conditions * * * and the need for more private rooms is also imperative."

Dr. E. W. Hedges—"The proposed additions and alterations are imperative and when we get them, as we will, Muhlenberg will be second to no other institution of its size in its ability to cope with the ills and accidents of life."

Dr. Frederic J. Hughes—"I learn with pleasure of your desire to erect a building for the care and treatment of sick children. Such a department is greatly needed at the hospital and by this community."

Dr. G. T. Longbothum—"The crying need of a children's ward and an obstetric pavilion has long been felt, while the present laboratory is very inefficient to keep abreast of recent advance."

Dr. William H. Murray—"Will you permit me as a member of the Medical Board of Muhlenberg hospital as well as a trustee of the Charity Organization Society, to express to you my great satisfaction that the Board of Governors has undertaken the project of raising money, part of which will be used for an increase in the private room service and for a children's ward."

Dr. Norman H. Frobasco—"I am looking forward with much pleasure to the day when we shall have the new private patient's pavilion and the children's ward."

Dr. T. H. Tomlinson—"As a charter member of the medical staff of Muhlenberg hospital, it has been my privilege to watch its development from an unpretentious beginning to its present magnificent proportions. I can testify to the good work this institution has accomplished in relieving suffering humanity."

Dr. Alfred F. VanHorn—"I am especially pleased that at last our hope for a children's ward at the hospital is to be realized."

Dr. P. J. Zeglio—"The hospital has long felt the need of the improvements and enlargements planned by the Board of Governors, particularly a place for sick and helpless little ones."

Dr. R. Munger, of Fanwood—"I trust that the people of Fanwood, Scotch Plains and other surrounding communities benefited by this splendid institution, will respond as liberally in proportion as the people of Plainfield to this call for funds in such a worthy cause."

Dr. F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood—"I feel that every resident of Plainfield, Fanwood and the surrounding communities which the hospital so splendidly serves should consider it a privilege to contribute to this great fund, since by so doing we enable the institution to be of still greater benefit to our entire citizenship."

The Young People's Society of the First Baptist church will give a "country supper" at the church Thursday night.

"Social Service and the Personal Life," will be the subject of the mid-week meeting at the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow night.

Danish Lutheran services will be held tomorrow night in the Swedish Pilgrim church, West Sixth and New streets, with preaching by Rev. N. H. Syrap, of Brooklyn.

Adjutant Nellie Downey, of New York Corps No. 1, of the Salvation Army, will conduct the service at the local corps Thursday night. She is a capable leader and a good singer and has always attracted large audiences in this city.

The topic of the mid-week meeting at the First Baptist church tomorrow night will be "Please." A service of special interest is confidently expected. The ministry of music will be an important and inspiring part of the meeting.

Rev. F. L. Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, Sunday night preached a sermon in which he compared Abraham Lincoln with Moses. Each of them, he said, had been leaders and after conducting their people through a crisis had been permitted to view the promised land only from a distance. His sermon was an eloquent tribute to the great emancipator.

Flood in Candy Shop.

The bursting of a water pipe in the Ritz store on West Front street, Saturday night, seriously interfered with business and compelled the management to close earlier than usual. A bucket brigade organized among the clerks saved a portion of the store from being flooded. The damage was slight.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

With the presentation on February 20, "The Chocolate Soldier," the musical masterpiece of Oscar Straus built around George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man," audiences at the Plainfield theatre, where the delightful comic opera will be heard, will have a feast of music and comedy. In its opening here, "The Chocolate Soldier" will be played by a most capable cast, many of the parts being taken by their creators in the original Casino production in New York.

Some comedies live but for a night, and others, particularly of the farce French kind like "The Girl From Rector's" and "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge," depend for their success purely upon suggestiveness and horseplay. Of an entirely different order is "Over Night," the laugh-compelling comedy which makes its first appearance at the Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and evening. It should be said, this is the same play and the same original company which ran for nine months at the Hacket theatre and The New Playhouse, New York, as well as for two months at the Shubert theatre, Boston.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

After paying a visit to Westminster Abbey, where are the costly effigies and tombs of England's greatest men of all ages, the Daily Press tourists will see St. Paul's Cathedral. The cathedral is in the vicinity of the Royal Exchange and the Mansion House. The tombs of the Duke of Wellington, Lord Nelon and other famous generals and admirals are in the cathedral. The Tower of London, the British Museum, the Houses of Parliament, the great art galleries and parks will also be visited. Side trips will be taken while the tourists are in London, to Hampton Court, Canterbury and Windsor Castle.

Now is the time to enter the contest. It costs you nothing but a little effort.

HOW TERRITORY WILL BE DIVIDED:

First Contest District—City of Plainfield, west of Park avenue, including west side of the avenue.

Second Contest District—City of Plainfield, east of Park avenue, including east side of the avenue.

Third Contest District—North Plainfield Borough.

Fourth Contest District—Watchung, Fanwood, Scotch Plains, Westfield, South Plainfield.

Fifth Contest District—Dunellen, Lincoln, New Market, Bound Brook and Somerville.

One coupon will be found in every issue of the Daily Press until the contest closes, and additional votes can be secured for cash payments on subscriptions to the Press in the following proportion:

		Votes on old subs.	Votes on new subs.
Ten weeks	$1.00	150	300
Six months	2.50	400	800
One year	5.00	1000	2000
Two years	10.00	2500	5000
Three years	15.00	4500	9000

and published in the following day's issue.

The advantage of getting an early start cannot be overestimated. Be sure and have a good showing of votes before the end of the week, thus letting your friends know that you are in the race. You will find that this will aid materially in facilitating the gathernig of more votes. The race is an open one, and nominations are still in order in all districts. Under the division of the territory into five districts, it is so arranged that the competition is fair and even, every girl having an equal chance so that no undue advantage can be had by one or a few.

A two months' vacation in Europe, under the guidance of Thomas Cook and Sons, with all expenses paid, is indeed a worthy prize to strive for, and that it's value is appreciated, is shown by the large number of inquiries and calls pertaining to the contestt. The many places of interest which will be seen by the Press party on their personally conducted tour are an education in themselves, and the opportunity now before those entered in the contest is one that occurs but once in a lifetime. Nominations are still in order. It is not too late to start, as the race is not yet fully under way.

The office will be open every evening this week from 7:30 until 9, during which time the manager of the tour department is prepared to receive subscriptions and issue the official vote coupons which count so heavily in the score, and also to answer any and all questions and give information that may be desired concerning the contest.

WANTS PATENT ON NEW ROAD BUILDING MATERIAL

Trenton, Feb. 13.—Thomas J. Barrett, president of the Barrett Construction Company has applied to the United States Government for a patent on a road material that promises to be of great value to road building. The material is of bituminous concrete and can be laid at about half the cost that is now being paid for similar articles.

In the material there is a composition of a secret substance which can be mixed with the road gravel, river gravel or trap rock. Mr. Barrett figures that his invention can be used in road construction at a cost of 65 or 70 cents per square yard. The materials now being used cost in the neighborhood of $1.25 to $1.50 per square yard.

A decided advantage Mr. Barrett's idea will have over road materials is that it can be laid either hot or cold. The present high grade materials must either be laid one way or the other, and cannot be put upon a road both ways. Patent Attorney Joshua R. H. Potts, of Philadelphia, is looking after Mr. Barrett's interests.

OBJECT TO GONZALES' NOTE.

Ambassador Wilson Will Complain to Mexican President.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Ambassador Wilson, at the City of Mexico, is instructed to inform the Madero government that this country is much displeased with the inflammatory anti-American proclamation issued by the governor of Chihuahua and telegraphed to every town in that state.

The proclamation brought the greatest amazement to officials at the state department here. It is believed the intention of Gonzales was merely to unite the people of his state and prevent them breaking up into revolutionary bands which would start an insurrection against the home government. If this was his intention it is thought it will be successful, but the ultimate effect may be worse than the evil sought to be avoided.

BOY JUMPS FROM FAST MOVING TRAIN

Reform School Attendant Outwitted by Runaway.

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Feb. 13.—While being taken back to the Rochester Industrial school, from which institution he escaped a few weeks ago, Harry Orr, a sixteen-year-old boy, eluded Joseph Ewing, an attendant, aboard a fast West Shore train and, running to the platform, jumped from the train while it was traveling at the rate of fifty miles an hour between Esopus and West Park.

It was not thought the boy could have landed alive, and so the train was not stopped until it reached West Park. The officer and several men started back along the tracks, thinking they would find the boy's dead body, but when they reached the point could find no trace of him. Tracks in the snow indicated that he had cut across a field to the highway and made good his escape.
